So far all indications point to the theory that he was forced alive into a coke oven, bruises on his face and hands indicating a terrible struggle. Falling in their attempt to destroy the body, the murderers proba-bly carried him to the nairroad track, hoping a train would destroy the ghastly evidence of violence. Several miners and citizens say they saw the man last night and early this morning in company with two cripples, the whole party being on a tramn, judging from their clothes and actions. The man's companions have disappeared.
