In commenting upon the passage of the new commercial treaties, the Conservative admits that political considerations were largely instrumental in determining escence of a section of that party in the adoption of the new tariff measures enthusinsm of the members of the Freissinnige party over the reductions in the tariffs under the new treaties cools as it is perceived that the measures have not the free trade scope which the Liberals at-tributed to them.

The debates in the Reichstag have disclosed the weakness of the supporters of hi-metallism. Count Merbach and Baron Kardorff alluded to the question of the re-monetization of silver as intimately con-nected with the grain tariffs, but the House mentred in the opinion expressed by Chancellor you Caprivi, who said it was superfluous to discuss the topic. The atti-tude of the Government upon the question of bi-metallism continues one of waiting.

Depending on America's Action.

When William Seligman, who was sent to Europe as a representative of the United States Trensury Department, to arrange for the holding of an international conference to sure the establishment of a common ratio of value between gold and silver, was here, sounding the Government, Chanceller vor. Caprivi stated that the action of Germany and England would depend upon the cur-rency developments in Washington.

Herr Miquel, the Imperial Minister of Finance, is a strong gold partisan. Secre-tary von Marshall, although a strong bi-metallist, will only act conjointly with England for the discussion of the subject. As no movement has been taken by England in the meautime, it is probable that the Government is disposed to consider the silver question as one of little immediate interest. Setting Up a Rival Court.

The highest aristocratic circles of Berlin are deeply interested in watching the feud going on between the Princess of Thurn and Taxis and the Munich court. The Princess, as the Austrian Archduchess Clementine, ranked among the members of the reigning dynastics, and upon marrying in 1859 the wealthy and handsome Prince of Thurn and Taxis, went to Munich, support ing that she would continue to rank as a oyal archduchess, though her husband was "His Serene Highness." ## No French Menus for William.

During his visit to Stettin this week En eror William gave the army officers stationed there a practical lesson in economy. In the course of his stay His Majesty was entertained at luncheon by the officers of the garrison. Upon receiving the invitation the Emperor requested to be shown the menu card, and upon its being produced he struck out a number of dishes and expensive wines, reducing the bill of fare to soup, nutton and beet.

form. There are other good men who would be unobjectionable as candidates, but there is no question about the fact that the people are for James G. Blaine. With him as the are for James G. Blaine. With him as the candidate success is already assured. His nomination on a good platform will wonder-fully entiuse the party and bring large ac-cessions from other parties. Blaine and pro-tection, with reciprocity, will win in '92. With Harrison we may win, but why disap-point the people when they want Blaine? I belleve a majority of the farmers favor a fair protective policy, but they are all in favor of reciprocity. They wish to exchange products with all countries where such ex-change will be to eur interest. Of course these are my personal opinions. I do not pretend to speak for our order on political questions. Yours truly, J. H. BRIGHAM. Dr. Robert S. Murphy, of Johnstown, a son of Francis Murphy, was at the Duquesne
