A VOTE IS, PROPOSED

To Test the Popularity of Reopening the Fifth Avenue Market.

IT MAY BE A POLITICAL ISSUE.

if the Desires of the People Interested Are Not Respected.

A HEALTHY PATRONAGE A CERTAINTY.

R. S. Myers, a carpenter living on Forbes street near the Fifth avenue market house, has hit upon a plan of letting the city officials know that the citizens in that vicinity want the market house opened again for the purpose for which it was built. He believes that the people in the neighborhood would patronize markets, if they were near at hand, and in order to prove or disprove what he believes he stated yesterday that he thought it would be a good idea to have books at the polls at the next February election, in which every voter could write his name "for" or "against" pening the market house. In explaining his plan he said: "The city could prepare blank books at very small expense and have them on a table near the election stand. The newspapers would explain beforehand what they were there for, so that it would not be necessary to have a man to take care of each one.

My idea would be to have two columns on each page, one to be for and the other against opening the market house. Voters could then write their ket house. Voters could then write their names in whichever column they desired, and if a sufficient number should be in favor of having markets, the city would be justified in refusing to make the proposed lease with the militia. It would certainly be fair member when it was open before, and I am free to confess that neither myself nor any of my family patronized it. Why, I would not have allowed my wife to go in such a hole as Chief Bigelow crowded the stalls in after 1884. It looked more like a sheep pen than a market house, and was just about as inviting. It was a shame to take a public building need for public surposes and use it for a concert hall, but ere was no use protesting because the people that had the May Festival and similar entertainments belonged to that ill-edged class that are in the ring and run

The trouble with Chief Bigelow is that he is all theory and no practice. He wants things to look pretty and make a big show, regardless of whether they are useful or not f he would give a little of his attention to hings outside of Schenley Park, it might e better for the people of Pittsburg, I ave no fault to find with the park, but I think it is an ourrage for an official to do nothing but think up things he can buy for it. the biggest disgrace of all, however, was taking a stable out of the market house for a lot of animals that he calls a menagerie. The next thing we know he will want to give us a garbage furnace right in the center

The Eighteenth Regiment and Battery B are all right, but it is a ridiculous idea to give them a lease on the property for 50 ears and only require a $40,000 building to be put up. Their agreement is that the ments, but that wouldn't amount to enough make a present of the ground to the militia as give them the proposed lease. It is nothing but a scheme to get a site in the city's name, so that there will not be any taxes to pay. If Pittsburg would sell that ground they would get more than $40,000 in return for taxes in the next 50 years.

The most important argument against making the lease, however, is that the peo-ple in the Eleventh and adjoining wards want their market house opened and they want it done right away. If it isn't done, it will be because some people are afraid their street car lines would miss a few fares, if the people outside of the center of the city were accommodated.

May Become a Political Issue. off the Fifth Avenue Market House is not opened, the voters between Oakland and Old City will join hands with their brethren across the Monongahela in firing the obstructionists out."

Other citizens indorsed heartily Mr. Mvers' scheme. They claim there is scarcely a family in the neighborhood that would not patronize the market house it it was opened and that every stall would be taken. There are enough huckwould be taken. There are enough huck-sters driving over the streets now to run a market house without any others and the majority of them, it is said, would willingly 462. W. H. DUFFELL, Treasur majority of them, it is said, would willingly pay the small rent to get a stall.

The argument is also made that the people who cannot get stalls in the downtown market house would move out Pifth avenue. It is a well-known fact that many people would like to get stands if they could get them, but that there is not enough room for

P Duff & Sous, on Penn avenue, were the recipients of some 8900 from G. R. Hill, of Alexandria, Va., in payment of an outlawed debt of 25 years' standing. In making acknowledgment of this honorable transaction, a receipt, embodying some friendly sentiment, has been engrossed at the pen art department of Duff's College, for Mr. Hill. The work is done in India ink and Chinese white, on a dark drab shade of ivory bristol. In design it is very effective and highly artistic.
