Burleigh Scores a Victory in the Bowmaster Murder Case.

HUSER AND GROFT SENTENCED.

Murderer Patrick Fitzpatrick Has - His Death Warrant Read.

CONTROLLER GRIER'S ANSWER FILED

The jury in the Taylor murder case returned a verdict yesterday of voluntary manslaughter. The result was considered quite a victory for District Attorney Burwho was thought to have a very meager chance to make out when he commenced. It was conceded, however, that he won the case on his presentation of it to the jury. He expressed himself as very well satisfied with the result, but Mr. McQuaide, consel for the defense, thought the jury had taken an extreme view of the case, and was inclined to regard the verdict as a freeman's castle. Judge Porter sentenced Henry Huser and W. J. Greft yesterday, who were convicted earlier in the week of the killing of William J. Kelly in Lang's saloon at Webster. Groft was sentenced four years and three months to the penitentiary.

It is the use of Baptiste Celeste and Michael Sheiler, Edward Le Grand and Amaut Deliss, who have been indicted for the killing of Le Grande, a brother of one of the defendants. The murder occurred at a party at Tom's Run, some months ago, and consisted in Le Grande being hit over the end with a beer glass.

The Controller Tells Why He Refused to Pay Goehring's Salary. County Controller Grier yesterday filed his answer to the mandamus proceedings estituted by Deputy District Attorney Goehring to compel the Controller to pay him his salary for November. In his answer the Controller states that the salaries of flicers of Allegheny county are governed he fee bill set of March 31, 1878. The earnings of the office or the year 1891 were $10,747. When the alaries of the District Attorney and Asere paid there remained $64 84. There is no sinking or other fund for the purpose, and therefore there is no moneys from which Goehring's salary can be drawn. The act of Assembly or authority in law to create the office of Deputy District Attorney and the Selary Board had no authority to organize such an office. It is further stated that the present Assistant District Attorney, John Haymaker, is ready and willing to dis-barge any duties that Goehring could perform, and as the grand jury is in session but a part of the time, there is nothing to prevent him trying causes in court or performing other duties devolving on him.

Military Electric Lighting Wagon. As showing the perfection to which electrical machinery has been brought at the present day, it is interesting to make note of the production of a complete electric lighting wagon for military service. This arrangement is a small electric light station on wheels. The car can be used for lighting up any such military engineering operations as bridge building, throwing up earthworks at night, assisting the wounded on the battlefield, etc. In appearance it greatly resembles an ordinary fire engine. The total weight, with a proper supply of coal, is three and a half tons. The car carries 12 are lamps, with lanterns and poles complete and a search light.
