The Sun Dial of Ahaz Fu. nishes Rev. Dr. Talmage with a Theme.

SUNRISE FAR BETTER THAN SUNSET

SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH: BROOKLYN, N. Y., Jan. 10.—Dr. Talmage's text this morning was in Kings 22:11, "And Isaiah, the prophet, cried unto the Lord: and he brought the shadow ten degrees backward by which it had gone down in the dial of Ahaz."

Here is the first clock or watch or chronometer or time-piece of which the world has any knowledge. But it was a watch that did not tick and a clock that did not strike. It was a sun-dial, Ahaz, the King, invented it. This sun-dial may have been a great column, and when the shadow of that column reached out to the dial of Ahaz, it was 3 o'clock P. M., and all the hours and half-hours were so measured. Or it may have been a dial of stars such as may now be found in Hindustan and other old countries, and when the shadow reached one step it was 11 o'clock A. M., or another step it was 4 o'clock P. M., and the whole hours may have been indicated.

The clepsydra or water-clock followed the sun-dial, and the sand-glass followed the clepsydra. Then came the candle-clock of Alfred the Great and the candle was marked into three parts, and while the first part was burning he gave himself to religion and while the second part was burning he gave himself to politics and while the third part was burning he gave himself to rest.

Further Inventions of Timekeepers. After while came the wheel and weight clock and Pope Sylvester the Second was its most important inventor. The skill and contrivance of exquisite mechanism tolled at the timespieces until the world had the Viek's clock of the fourteenth century and Huygens, the inventor, gave the first pendulum, and Dr. Hooke contrived the recoil escapement. And the "endless chain" followed, and the "ratchet and pinion lever" took its place; and the competition of the new and the old followed, and now we have the buzz and clang of the great clock and watch factories of England and America turning out what seems to be the perfection of timepieces.

It took the world 6,000 years to make the present chronometer. So with the measurement of longer spaces than minutes and hours. Time was calculated from new moon to new moon then from harvest to harvest. Then the year was pronounced to be 354 days and 790 days, and not until a long time after, 355 days.

Then events were calculated from the foundation of Rome, afterward from the Olympic games. Then the Babylonians had their measurement of the year and the Romans their and the Arabian their and the Hindus theirs. Chronology was busy for centuries studying monuments, inscriptions, coins, numismatics and astrology, trying to lay a plan by which all questions of dates might be settled and events put in their right places in the procession of the ages.

The Christian Era Is Founded.

But the chronologists only headed up a mountain of confusion and bewilderment until in the sixth century Dionysius Exiguus, a Roman abbot, said: "Let every date date from the birth at Bethlehem of our Lord Jesus Christ, Jesus, Savior of the world." The abbot proposed to have things dated backward and forward from that great event.

What a splendid thought for the world! What a mighty thing for Christianity! It would have been the most natural thing to do everything from the creation of the world. But I am glad the chronologists could not see this, and that they would invent the order to get the nations in the habit of dating from that occurrence in its documents and histories. Forever fixed it that all history is to be dated with reference to that great event.
