the capital last evening. They met at the Union depot. General Pearson said he wasn't afraid that the Democratic House would cut down any of the appropriations. About $2,000,000 are needed annually to run all the homes in the country. There are seven national homes and 18 State and are seven national homes and 18 State and Territorial institutions. The Government gives the latter $100 yearly for every sol-dier. The number of old and decrepit soldiers in all the homes is about 26,000, and they must be provided for. It takes nearly $600,000 of the appropriations for the State institutions. For several years the number of veterans in the homes has varied ware little but the old hows are varied very little, but the old boys are dying off very rapidly. General Steele used to be Governor of Oklahoma. He retired as soon as the Okianoma. He retired as soon as the President could get a man to take his place. He says the country is rich, and after law and order were restored it be-came a really desirable place in which to live. The people love excitement, but they are hustlers. The General was guarded it was Grandi Nato and Cella!" There was

As he walked into the house all heads were uncovered and each made a solemn bow to the gray-haired wizard of the wand. Gio-vinni walked to a little table in the center of the room and opened his satchel, taking out a small plenchette. He placed his steel detective on the table, and then for the first detective on the table, and then for the first time addressed his audience. He briefly told them that if the offenders were of the Italian race the tripod would point them out. Muttering an incantation he drew a

Giovinni arranged his machine ou a table. He placed it so it could talk easily and put his hand on the top. The court then opened. Question after question was asked the little steel affair, but it said not. Finally, in a clear, loud voice, Giovinni said: "My little friend, did not Pasquale Grandi Nato and Luigi Cella steal the watches?" One of the slender legs of the tripod was seen to move, and immediately that gentleman having snubbed it on sev-eral occasions. It was finally agreed not to withdraw but to send the delegates in-structed to vote for J. B. Johnston, cditor of the Exchange, for the secretaryship. Say-nard wants to be re-elected, and also wants the Presidency next year. The Pittsburg members think they can defeat him, as they have the largest representation. Mr. John-ston would fill the office creditably.

people intend to act?"

With regard to the number of fines he had collected, Mr. Rohe stated he had discovered 10 or 12 instead of five or six, as he thought on Saturday. He has not taken the money to Mr. Frazer, and the latter hasn't made any demand. He stated yesterday that he would write a letter some day this week in case a settlement is not made before.

The fact that only between $4,000 and $5,000 tus been turned over to the State as fines collected from Law and Order victims in the last five years is still a matter of general and sometimes severe comment. When Mayor Gourley was asked if he didn't think the sum was very low, he studied a moment, looked up inquisitively and finally answered:

Opinions of City Officials on the League.

"Well, I don't know very much about the Law and Order Society or its workings, but if it was the city instead of the State that was getting the fines, I can assure you there would be a thorough investigation." He would say no more. Assistant Superintendent of Police O'Mara thought the society had passed its days of usefulness. "It was organized for a good purpose," he continued, "but since the police have taken hold of illegal liquor sell-The Colonel Goes Back to Washington to ing and gambling there is no necessity for the Law and Order League. I am opposed to the society because about all they do is to arrest women, cripples and blund people who happen to sell something on Sunday." At the Law and Order Society headquarters in the Excelsior building, vesterday, a solitary detective held the fort to answer questions for reporters. He was indignant because Agent McClure and the detectives were held partly responsible for objection-able work of the society. "We only do what we are paid for and would just as soon do any other kind of detective work. Mc-Clure isn't a member of the League and is working for money. We are not responsi-ble and I don't believe any of the people in the office inderse the work." When Mr. Houston was asked when Sunday newspaper workers would be arrested, he made the indirect reply that he was in the grocery business, and that Mr. Yost would answer all questions. The latter said: "I know of no cases that are to be brought up now, and, in fact, know no more about what will be done than what I have read in the newspapers."

Suppressing Oakdale Speak-Fasles,

"Dr." H. W. Sav, James Williams, Will-iam Slattery and Miller, alias Mart O'Day, were given a hearing yesterday afternoon before Alderman King, of the Southside, on the charge of selling liquor without a license. They were arrested on the infor mation of citizens of Oakdale. They were all held for court and committed to iail in default of $500. Agent McClure, of the Law and Order Society, stated yesterday that the arrests were made by him as a detective, but not as agent for the Law and Order League. Citizens of Oakdale, he said, had employed him. tects are given a fair show.

A Flattering Library Report.

The Allegheny Library Committee met last night and heard the reports for the period since the library was opened. The report shows that a total of 78,113 volumes have been read, or five readers for every book in the library. The number of card holders is now over 5,000, but in many cases families use the same card, so that it is fair to estimate the total number of regular users of the library at 10,000.
