AFTER GREENAWALT.

Suspicion Aroused by Returning More Money Than Usual.

ALLEGHENY AUDITORS' NEXT MOVE

They Will Investigate the Books of the Bark Measurer.

TO BATTLE WITH APPROPRIATIONS

The Allegheny Auditing Committe's next moves will be to investigate the accounts of the bark measurer and to see whether the electric companies in the city have been making correct returns of the number of poles they use. The present bark measurer is William Greenawalt. He is appointed by City Councils and measures all bark that is received by the tanneries in the city. The money turned in usually amounts to from $1,600 to $1,800 a year. During the last eight months, however, it has reached about $2,600. The accounts of Mr. Greenawalt will be carefully examined by the auditors and an attempt made to find out why there has been such an increase in receipts in the last few months.

Revenues Increased by the Audit.

A member of the Auditing Committee stated yesterday it would seem the present audit had stirred up all the city officials. Receipts from nearly all departments, he said, had been increased and have been paid more promptly than before. It had not been intended to audit the bark measurer's books, but on account of the sudden increase of money turned in it was concluded to do so.

The tax on poles has not in the past
One dollar is amounted to very much. One dollar is charged for each pole in the city, but the telegraph, telephone and electric light com-panies have always returned a ridiculously small number as being all the poles they have. The auditors expect to make a thorough investigation, and in case there is no other method to learn the truth, they will themselves go through the city and count the poles. The fight with the street railways is still going merrily on. When telephone, telegraph and electric light companies are also put on the defense there will be only the gas companies left out. Reformers Out for Estimates,

The reform members of Councils are pre paring for a lively war when the appropri-ation ordinances come up for approval. The reformers have always looked with surpicion on the members of Finance Commit-tee, and they think that the appropriations asked for are too large. It is believed Finance Committee will recommend the granting of almost everything asked for, but will probably run up against as bitter resistance as they did a year ago when seven members of Select Council with written memoranda of everything they wanted to do carried every point they raised. Mr. Henricks engineered the movement, and will probably be given the same honor this year.

In the investigation of Chief Murphy by the Common Council Committee appointed for that purpose, Chairman Lewis is doing the principal part of the work. An effort is being made now to ascertain what witnesses, who claim they have evidence, will appear when called upon.

WANTS THE B. & O. ROAD BUILT.

Major Workman Urging the Completion of the Line From Zediker to Coal Center. Major William Workman, of Washington, was in the city yesterday attending the annual meeting of one of the Baltimore and Ohio branches. He is one of the wealthiest men in Washington county, and has done more to develop the railroads in that section than any other man living there. The Major is interested in the O. & B. short line, and he is urging the Baltimore and Ohio people to complete the road. The line was projected to run from Zediker, a station on the Wheeling divi-sion, about five miles from Washington, to the coke regions. About $1,500,000 were spent on it in grading, etc., when the Baltimore and Ohio built the branch from Glenwood to Findleyville and made a through line to Wheeling. The O. & B. was then abandoned. The Major says that the road can be wilt from Zediker to Coal Center, on the Monongahela river, at no great expense, as most of the grading has been done. The original line, if it had been constructed, would have been only 57 miles long be tween Connellsville and Wheeling. Al the coke shipments going west over the Baltimore and Ohio that now pass through Pittsburg would have been taken over the O. & B. The Major thinks the road will set be found.

FLINN'S BRICKYARDS BURNED.

The Famous Street Paving Firm Loses $12,000 by Fire.

The large brick manufacturing plant of Booth & Flinn, at Forbes and Jumonville streets, was partially destroyed by fire vesterday. It was the largest brick works in the city, and the damage done will reach $12,000, not to mention the loss that will be entailed by two months idleness while the plant is being rebuilt. The fire loss is covered by insurance.

The origin of the fire is 'not known as it broke out while the employes were at dinner and none were about the portion of the building where it started. The boiler room, machine shop, containing the brick making machinery, and the drying kilns were en-tirely destroyed. All were frame buildings and the loss will result principally from the machinery. The supposition is that natural gas caused the fire, as a gas flame at one corner of the builning gave the firemen considerable trouble before it was shut off. The Duquesne Traction patrons were in-convenienced during the three hours' progress of the fire, but a transfer was arranged that enabled passengers to reach their destina-

TRIED TO SAVE HIS MASTER.

A Faithful Dog's Attempts to Attract Attention to a Fatal Accident.

SCRANTON, PA., Jan. 11 - [Special.]-Charles Dorne, an employe at Boland's livery, dropped 40 feet down an elevator this afternoon and sustained fatal injuries. Assistance was directed to the mangled body of Dorne at the bottom of the shaft by his dog, which ran whining about the great stable trying to attract the attention of the employes. First the dog would rush up to one of the men, then it would start toward the elevator shaft, whining pit-

After the dog had howled about for fully half an hour, one of the men followed it to the shaft and saw the body of Dorne at the bottom. There were indications that the faithful animal had tried to drag its master from the pit, teeth marks being found on his arm, and the lapel of his coat and the bosom of his shirt having been torn to shreds.

ONE-Cent-a-Word will secure a situation in THE DISPATCH'S want columns.
