FOSTER COMES IN FOR SOME ATTENTION

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 11.-The fifth week of the session of the Senate opened tamely and without the pendency of any question to excite interest. There was a fair attendance of Senators when the chaplain offered prayer. After Thursday's journal had been read the Vice President laid before the Senate several official and other documents, including a communication from the Treasury Department as to the sale of the United States Custom House and postoffice site and building at Milwankee, and one from the Interior Department asking an appropriation of $150,000 as a deficiency to supply subsistence to the Siour Indians. Mr. Aldrich presented the remonstrance of the woolen manufacturers of New Eng-land sgainst any agitation of the question of the duties on wool. It was ordered printed as a document and referred to the Finance Committee. Mr. Perkins presented a communication from Mr. Ryan, the American Minister to Mexico, suggesting that it would be a gen-erous and neighborly act to return to Mexico the trophies of war captured by United States troops in the Mexican war of 1847. Mr. Perkins did not know, he said, that he indorsed the expression. The letter was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

Another Baft of New Bills.

A large number of bills were then reported from committees and placed on the calendar. Among them were the following: To aid the States of Colorado and South Dakota to sustain schools of mines. For the erection of postoffice buildings in towns where the postoffice receipts exceed

$3,000 a year. For a public building at Mammoth Hot Springs in the Yellowstone National Park. Appropriating $60,000 for a public build-Ing at Bradford, Pa. Mr. Teller introduced a joint resolution providing for an international bi-metallic agreement.

Teller's Bi-Metallic Resolution.

The joint resolution was read. It declares it to be the determined policy United States Government to use both gold and silver as full legal tender money, either under the rates now existing in the United States or under one that may hereafter be established by the United States alone, or in accord with other nations. It directs the President to invite the Governments of the countries comprising the Latin Union (so called), and of such other nations as he may deem advisable, to join the United States in a conference and to adopt a common ratio between gold and silver for the purpose of establishing internationally the use of bi-metallic money and of securing fixity of relative values between those metals

The conference is to be held at such place as may be mutually agreed upon by the executives of the various governments. Whenever these governments, or any three of them, shall have agreed to unite upon, and whenever, in the judgment of the Pres-ident, a sufficient number of nations shall have entered into such international a ment, the President is to declare the so fixed to be the existing ratio in United States, and all coinage thereaft to be at such ratio until changed by lav

Five Commissioners to Be Named.

The President is to appoint-subject the approval of the Senate-not less three nor more than five commission who shall report to him (whose report s be transmitted to Congress), and who s each receive $5,000 a year and reason expenses. Mr. Teller said that he had Resolved, That the Secretary of the Treas-ury be requested to inform the House of the aggregate amount of unexpended appropri-ations on account of the fiscal year 1893, at the end of that fiscal year, also the amount of expenditures made during the first six months of the fiscal year 1892, giving the in-formation for both periods in detail.

Mr. Henderson, of Iowa, objected, and the resolution was referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

Jere Simpson Throws & Bombshell, Mr. Simpson, of Kansas, asked unanimous consent for the immediate consideration of consent for the immediate consideration of a resolution reciting ailegations that the Department of Agriculture is made the harbor of political employes, and that crop reports are made to boards of trade and market wrockers and operators before they are conveyed to the knowledge of the toil-ing husbandmen; and providing for a special committee of five members to inquire into the workings of the department and into the workings of the department and into the workings of the department and into the truth of these allegations. Mr. Hopkins, of Illinois, objected, and suggested that the resolution be referred to the Committee on Ways and Means; but, on motion of Mr. Springer, it found a resting place in the Committee on Rules. Adjourned.

Adonis Dixey Slips Into a New Line of Work in The Solicitor.

OLD FAVORITES IN NEW AND OLD PLAYS

The Kendals entered upon their farewell ngagement here at the Duquesne Theater last night and received a hearty welcome of course. They repaid the andience by giving a very artistic rendering to a strong, intensely interesting play. The play "Katherine Kayanagh" is new here, and the authors, Mrs. Oscar Beringer and Clo Graves, are new names to us, but their work is worthy of veterans. In construction it is the best seen here this season; the story is a dramatic one and it is told well; the prologue and three acts hang together, and the suspense is sustained till the humor such as there is is deeply and dolefully English, but the people talk naturally and seldom retard the action of the play with their talk, which is an important advantage.

A Bather Lurid Prologue.

In the prologue we are introduced to tw depraved women of Brussels who have lured depraved women of Brussels who have lured a man to their rooms, where they rob him at cards, then drug him and rob him some more. In the final fleecing Mrs. Dudleigh, Mrs. Kendal, takes part, and with her share of the £6,000, which she finds in her victim's pocketbook, naively announces her intention of rehabilitating her virtue. After she has fied to respectability, the vic-tim Breadd Union M. Wardel combes from tim, Reginald Hawley, Mr. Kendal, swakes from his drugged dreams, and before his friends swears he'll hunt his despoiler down. The stolen money is all his fortune made in Australia. His only clew a hazy remem-brance of the syrens who lured him and a locket miniature of Mrs. Dudleigh, which that virtuous creature had dropped in her flight.

Ingent. The play proper begins with a revelation of Mrs. Dudleigh, grown a dozen years older, and now the possessor of Coionel Kavanagh's name, exalted station in so-ciety, family jowels, a stepdaughter and a spotless reputation. A very slim account is given of how this transformation has been effected and the brolution has been effected, and the evolution of such a heavenly being as Mrs. Kavanagh from an improper female who drugs men and picks their pockets, is rather a large mouthful of improbability. Still it is swal-lowed, with a gulp, because the authors pile dramatic situation upon situation so switch dramatic situation upon situation so swiftly that the audience has not time to think of the probabilities. Mrs. Kavanagh has an admirer besides her husbaud, a crippled artist whom she has befriended greatly. Her regard for him is sisterly or maternal, but his is a fierier passion. She rebukes him when he seizes passion. She rebukes him when he seizes her hand and spouts molten love, but ac-cepts his apology and offers to be her friend Resimud in need. The need is close at hand. Reginald Handey reappears; recognizes the woman he has been hunting for years, as she does him, and bids her prepare for his vengeance. The Cripple to the Rescue. The crippled artist Brinnilow also recog-

The crippled artist Brinnicow also recog-izes Hawley as the bully who at hool caused by a cruel deed is deformity. Brinnilow offers Hawley is hand in token of forgiveness and riendship, but Hawley refuses to believe a such Christian behavior, and declines to e forgiven. Hawley adds he will accept rinnilow's hand and forgiveness, when he, (we've, can make some corresponding sacrinizes school nvley, can make some corresponding socri-e. Brinnilow withdraws, but remains near ugh to overhear Mrs. Karanaugh confes and for pity, while Have and set of the set of the money, offer restitution and ead for pity, while Have jers d threatens her. It is New ear's eve and Mrs. Kavanagh's guests emble after dinner to while away a last moments of the year with games

Of the supporting company, Miss Joseph-ine Plows-Day, a charming girl as Mrs. Brandon, wile of "The Solicitor," was easily the best performer in a company of fair actors. None of the other female-parts had much to do, but, in that little they gave satisfaction. Mr. Fred Owen Baxter as Peter Flagum, a burglar, gave the best performance of char-noter acting. The others read their lines perhaps as well as their parts admitted. "The Solicitor" was preceded by an amusing one act piece called "The Tangled Skein." The plot is made up of a little escapade of a rather lively little wife and the mystery and confusion caused by four pieces of millinery similarly constructed. A large audience enjoyed both plays im-

THE QUEEN'S MATE.

Very Good Singing and Acting Bring the Duff Company Success.

"The Queen's Mate" is an amusing and uneful comic opera, and the Duff Company interpreted it with very large success at th Grand Opera House last night. For a wonder the plot is not a positive handicap to the opera; the story is funny and ingeniously complicated. But the strength of Mr. the last possible moment. There is noth. ing very sparkling about the dialogue, and merits of the piece. Miss Helen Bertram is one of the few comic opera singers who are artists, and her voice and her methods seem to keep on improving. She sang with all the spirit imaginable last night, and was rewarded by the audience's complete surrender to her. Her interpolated ballad, "Dear Heart," her duets with Miss Gerard "Dear Heart," her duets with Miss Gerard in act IL, and the bull fight song were her chief triumphs, and in the last-named she received an ovation. Miss Gerard's sweet mezzo-soprano was also heard to great advantage, while the veteran W. H. Clark bronght his deep bass voice into good use, particularly in the midnight music. The singing, as a whole, was a good bit shove light oner average. John J. Baffael above light opera average. John J. Raffael was very good as Pedrilla. As a relief from the raw buffoonery which is usually found in such pieces, Richard Carroll's refined and quiet comedy methods were simply delightful. He kept the audience roaring without turn-ing flip-flaps or twisting his mouth around his ears, and his song "You Can Guess What's the Moral," was encored till he was exhausted. The course is well enough exhausted. The opera is well enough staged, and the Amazonian March makes a very pretty finale.

A Good Academy Show.

The comedy and vaudeville company of Irwin Bros. at the Academy of Music this week is just one of the best there has been at that establishment for a very long time. To run down the list almost every artist no run down the list almost every artist must be labeled "good" and it is hardly necessary to further particularize. Paul and Hattie Mills have not been here before and they do well in their "German Professor" sketch. The "National Trio," Nellie Forester and Messrs. Bryan and Moulton are capital. Frank La Mondue, Tauner and Dowley, Miss Lottie Gilson, the three Judges and the Sheridan and Flynn, of McGinty fame, are all first-class performers in their re-spective lines. Altogether the Academy has a really excellent performance this

A bright and innocent entertainment is "Casper, the Yodler" in which once more Charles T. Ellis made his bow before a large audience at the Bijou last night. The merits of the piece are chiefly Mr. Ellis' own. He is a picturesque figure, and sings with a good deal of taste and with a fresh with a good deal of taste and with a fresh sweet voice. The company supporting him is very fair, and the scenery is very pretty indeed, showing views of Blarney Castle, and a glimpse of the Hudson River

ADVICE TO DOCTORS.

Why a Chicago Judge Was Easy on Would-Be Murderer.

CHICAGO, Jan. 11 .- Judge Anthony sentenced James D. Fancher to serve one day in the county jail yesterday. Fancher tried to kill Dr. Sawyer, his family physician, because the doctor had taken advantage of his protessional relations with Mrs. Fancher to ruin Fancher's home. In sentencing Fancher Judge Anthony said:

The party who acts as a family physician should be a man in whom we expect honor, rectitude and virtue. He should not take ad-vantage of his position and the confidence bestowed on him to betray the families of those upon whom he attends. I do not be-lieve that it is a part of the duty of a family physician to be eternally calling upon the wives of his patients when the husbands are absent from the city, whether they are sick or well, or constantly sending flowers with the injunction that every petal contains a kiss.

As a private citizen hearing the evidence a this case I might he led to pity the defendant was such a poor sho some States the fact that cri In some states the lack that original inti-macy existed between the doctor and the wife of the defendant would have been a complete justification; but the law is differ ent here, and I sentence the defendant to one day in jail.

TO HONOR A HORSE.

A Bronze Effigy of the Great Sire of Trotters to Be Erected.

CHESTER, N. Y., Jan. 11 .- Old Hamble tonian, the founder of the great race of American trotters, has been dead nearly 16 years. Ever since his death periodical movements have been made to erect a monument to the "old horse," but none ever succeeded. Joseph Howland and Guy Miller, the well-known Chester horsemen, recently took hold of the matter, and the long-deferred monument is now an assured thing. The design is to be an heroic bronze statue of old Hambletonian, which will cost $3,000. The sum of $2,000 has already been subscribed, Senator Le-land Stanford contributing $500 of the amount. Subscriptions are being received daily from horsemen from all over the country by Messrs. Howland and Miller. The statue will be erected in Chester.

$33,000,000 within the past 12 months, and the amount of personal property unearthed by the assessors aggregates more than $200,-000,000. Of course this is nowhere near the

000,000. Of course this is nowhere near the actual worth of Boston's personal estate, but the assessors couldn't find any more than that for the purposes of taxation. The taxpayer that outs the greatest figure on the assessor's books is, as usual, the Boston and Albany Railroad Company, which contributes $114,400 toward the sup-port of the city and State governments. The only other bill that runs into the hundreds of thousands is addressed to Charles N. Cot-ting et al., trustees, and it amounts to $100. 954. The largest individual taxpayer this year is Frederick L. Ames, who pays $74,-984, as against $64,027 last year. This high 984, as against $64,027 last year. This high distinction of being the largest individual taxpayer in Boston was held for years, and until two years ago, by Mr. Joshua Mont-gomery Sears, who this year pays $54,123. About a dozen years ago Mr. Nathan Mat-thews, Sr., the father of Boston's Mayor, headed the list, Mr. J. M. Sears being sec-ond and Mr. F. L. Ames third. There are ond and Mr. F. L. Ames third. There are only two others whose taxes exceed $50,000, the Boston Gaslight Company, which pays this year $56,161, and William S. Dexter, et at trustees who pay $67,479. The Boston at., trustees, who pay $67,479. The Boston and Maine Railroad this year pays $40,673 against $110,286 last year, but the Eastern Railroad, which last year paid $27,770 this year does not appear at all by that name. There are 22 corporations and indi-viduals whose tax bills are between $20,000 nd $50,000, and 46 who pay between $10,000 and $20,000.

AMERICA'S DESTINY.

Sir Edwin Arnolds Says Uncle Sam and John Bull Are Winners.

CHICAGO, Jan. 11.-Speaking of the destiny of the American Republic Sir Edwin Arnold said:

"The United States will govern the entire continent of South America. I have never been below the equator, despite my some what extensive traveling, yet I believe that to be the land of the future. Bates, of the Amazon, told me that the great races of the world would eventually live below the equator. The people of the North have been the people of mighty intellect. That will change. Some day they will leave the cold and snow and blizzards. England will not grudge it, because it is rightfully yours, "England," he continued, "has all she wishes. India always will be ours. Two men will always oppose a war over that country-the Czar of Russia and the Prime Minister of England, whoever he may be. Still, just such a war is inevitable, although it may not come for many, many years. "When, from unavoidable causes, tho countries come in conflict, the Romanoff dynasty will be wiped away forever. Every Russian throat east of the Caspian will be cut and the Khanates will reign once more in Asia. The remains of the retreating Russian army will face at home a revolu-tion which will overthrow the reigning house. There is no truth in the talk of our small army. We can place more than 200,000,000 men in the field."

When in the shade, or at night, the flower is white as a lily, but carried into the sun it becomes first a delicate pink, which gradu-ally deeneng into a brickt and ally deepens into a bright red. It had slumbered in that committee until the close of the session; and he was not over confident that the present resolution would receive any more attention. He believed in an international agreement, if it could be secured, but he did not intend to rest the case entirely on an international agreement. He was not prepared to surrender the ef-fort to secure free coinage and a full recog-

He wished no one to misunderstand him or suppose that because he was in favor of a bi-metallic agreement he believed that the people of the United States should sit down and fold their hands until such an agree ment was made-for he did not so believe.

Mr. Stewart replied that it certainly did not. It only repealed a specific portion of the act of 1878-that referring to the pur-chase of from 2,000,000 to 4,000,000 ounces of silver per month-leaving the rest of the act in force.

There were few spectators, however, when Speaker pro tem McMillin, who, in the continued absence of Speaker Crisp, presides over the deliberations, called the assemblage to order, just as the bells of the city proclaimed the hour of noon. This, it will be seen, is a very handsome profit for a man to make who is content to rate his personal services at $9 per week. Until the introduction of the plate service such an enterprise as the one described would not have been possible. Now, there are at least 500 daily papers in the United States costing less than $100 each per week to manufacture.

A TEST OF GOOD BREEDING.

The Style of a Person's Note Paper an Index of Character.

Harper's Bazar.] If there is any one thing in the world that may be said to denote the breeding of a person, it is in the taste displayed in the use of note paper. Fashions change but slightly in that "line, and artistic simplicity is the form to be sought after. There is nothing so offensive as eccentricity in styles of paper, for it is one of the little things that seem so trivial and count for so much in the ves of the world.

The height of bad form is in the use of anything startling or pronounced. Paper that rivals the sunset in gorgeousness of hne, odd-shaped sheets and envelopes, or gilt-edged paper, stamp the user as one who is not familiar with the precepts of fashion. And not fashion alone, by any means; it is refinement that is shown in the use of proper stationery, and refinement and fashion may not always mean the same. hue, odd-shaped sheets and envelopes, or

A BOON FOR THE BAPTISTS.

The Ministers Need No Longer Stand in

Water During the Ceremony. Missouri Christian evangelist, Rev. Frank M. Kibbey, has perfected a device intended to obviate the necessity of a minister entering the water when performing the rite of baptism, says Rev. F. R. Stutzman in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. His invention consists of a zinc or galvanized iron passage way 20 inches wide and closed on all sides except the top. This is extended out to the middle of the baptistry, and the preacher stands inside, perfectly dry, while the candidate stands in the water, just on the outside of the metal wall.

One Cause of Gray Hair.

Many young men become gray in front and on the side of their heads without knowand on the side of their needs without know-ing exactly what causes the change. Pull-ing out the hair makes it gray. It often happens that clerks, bookkeepers and per-sons of sedentary occupation pluck at their hair or beard while at work. They need not be surprised if in a few months they find themselves turning gray, for the plucked out hairs are almost certain to be followed by white ones.

How to Drink Milk.

If a glass of milk is swallowed hastily it enters the stomach and then forms in one solid, curdled mass difficult of digestion. At least four minutes should be occupied in drinking a glass of milk, so that in reaching the stomach it will be so distributed that when coagulated, as it must be by the gas-tric juice, instead of being in one hard, con-densed mass, it will be more in the form of a sponge. RENT your rooms by advertising in THE DISPATCH'S cent-a-word columns.

Hawley proposes the game of story-telling; one of the guests to start a story and the thread to be carried along to completion by the others in turn. Colonel Kacanagh begins the pastime with his favorite recital of his encounter with a Bangal timer Hawley these encounter with a Bengal tiger, Hawley takes up the tale and converting the heroine into human tigress proceeds to tell the story of Mrs. Kavanagh, who is present. She is forced by the rules of the game to contribute a chapter when called upon, and she tells how undeserved misfortunes and she tells how undeserved misfortunes drove her to crime. Then as Hawley is evi-dently on the verge of denouncing the wretched woman, the cripple Brinnilow interposes with a reminder to Hawley of the promise to make atonement for his boy-hood's crime by an act of self-sacrifice. Hawley relents; the chimes ring in the new year, with Mrs. Kaumagh free from the headow of how milts next last hadow of her guilty past at last.

Some Brilliant Acting. This brief sketch may serve to show that the play has an absorbing story of a novel character. Mrs. Kendal played the virtuous Mrs. Kavanagh of the play a great deal better than the unpleasant female of the prologue. Both were artistic creations, of ourse, but virtue sets more naturally upor the actress. The scenes with Hawley in act II and III revealed Mrs. Kendal at her best, and very potent and polished her art is. It seems to us that her agony of fear would be be more touching if subdued a little. But it is a great piece of acting, and worthy as a contrast was the performance of Mr. Kendal contrast was the performance of sir, Rendan as the cold, revengeful Hawley. The character of Hawley is not altogether in balance, for surely such a hard-hearted brute would not be touched by the purely moral and philosophical appeal to which he succumba he succumb

The whole performance was smooth The whole performance was smooth and nicely accentuated, and the company though not a brilliant body contains several capable actors. Mr. J. E. Dodson, hawever, should be credited with a very elever rendering of the cripple—a part which has some serious de-fects and is encumbered with crutches, but which Mr. Dodeson media encumbered. which Mr. Dodson made very pathetic at times. Miss Nellie Campbell as a young times. Aliss Nellie Campbell as a young English girl, step-daughter of Mrs. Kaya-nagh, made a pretty picture, and the soli-tary humorous line of the piece that raised a laugh, an allusion to Eve's escape from the ordeal of bothering about her trousseau, came quaintly from her mouth. The play was picely starged a handcome nor so the Mrs. nicely staged, a handsome new set by Mr. Bender being among the scenes. To-night "Still Waters Run Deep" is on the bills.

DIXEY IN THE SOLICITOR.

A Departure From the Adonis Field Relished at the Alvin.

"The Solicitor," the comedy which come to us with a tremendous New York and London reputation, is burdened with two great faults. First, the humor and the sitnations are forced; in the second place it is the height of impropriety for the actor to take the audience into his confidence. The player is not to blame for this, but is compelled to address his confidence to the auditors or allow the so-called plot to go by default. The playwright-whoever he may be-not supplying other listeners at times. However, it serves the purpose intended. It causes a laugh. The audience was in one continuous roar from the time the cur-tain went up on the first act until the con-

Henry E. Dixey, of "Adonis" fame, who plays "The Solicitor," takes a wide depart-ure from his old line of business. He does fairly well in the new field, in fact, adapts himself to it much better than was to be ex-pected. But it is not suited to his peculiar islents. In such parts and opportunities himself to it much outsit and suited to his peculiar pected. But it is not suited to his peculiar talents. In such parts and opportunities as Adomis afforded he assumed in a measure a unique position on the stage. In "The Solicitor" and parts of like character he is
