HOLMAN CATCHES THE ALLIANCE VOTE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14-In anticipation of the first political debate of the session, the attendance of members in the House this morning was unusually large, and the inclemency of the weather did not prevent the galleries from containing a goodly number of spectators.

The resolution relative to the appointment of committee clerks was postponed until to-morrow.

The following bills were introduced and referred: By Mr. Snodgrass, of Tennessee-For the repeal of the sugar bounty clause of the tariff bill. By Mr. Martin, of Indiana-Looking to the adjustment of international dispute without resort to war. The Holman anti-subsidy resolutions were then taken up for discussion. Mr. Raines, of New York, said the reso-

Intions contained two propositions. The second was a business proposition; the first was a stump speech. He inquired whether there could not be a separate vote on each proposition. The Speaker pro tem replied that he would look into the matter. Holman Cites Two Precedents.

Mr. Holman, of Indiana, said that in view

A substantially identical reso-lution had here agreed to in the Forty-fourth Congress, with but few dissenting votes. In the Forty-fifth Congress a resolu-tion congregations, subsidies, had here adopt-tion congregations, subsidies, had here adopttion condemning subsidies had been adopt ed on motion of Mr. Eaker, of Indiana. He ed that the ob ection now made posed that the objection now made was acted against the first resolution, and for he was glad that his issue wa hai that his issue was fairly made. In speaking of the passage of similar reso Hispanian by two former Congresses, Mr. Johnan said: "I find upon the yea and ney one that upon the other side of this House, reb men as John A. At Least a Few of Them Left.

"Yes, sir, that is true," assented Mr. Holman, "but the resolution was adopted by a vote of 223 yeas to 33 navs. And it affords me satisfaction to say that not a single solitary member upon your side who voted against the resolution occupies a sent upon his floor now [langhter on the Democratic ide], while of those who voted for it-well, there are several of us here yet." [Renewed laughter]. It was fortunate for the country, said Mr. Relman, that the question was fairly pre-sented to the American people as to the atti-tude of gentlemon representing the two great political purtles in reference to the granting of subsidies. When the resolutions had been adopted in the Forty-fournit and Forty-fifth Congresses the revenues and ex-penditures of the Government were sub-stantially balanced; but now the expendi-tures were in excess of the revenues, and the necessity of this second resolution was manifest. As to the question of subsidies; Subsidies meant legislation for the benefit of favored classes, and were a teature of government belowing to monarchies. Was it possible that this policy which existed among the caste-ridden and downtroiden people of despotisms should be followed copie of despotisms should be followed a this free country? When the Secretary adopted that plan he readopten the plan pursued by President Cleverand, changing it. The gen-tlemm ind stated that the receipts for the first hulf of the present fiscal year fell short of the expenditures $273 000. Mr. Henderson had asked for information on the point from the Treasury Department and had been in-formed that the revenues for that period amounted to $174 183,000, and the expendi-tures to $167,043 000. That showed an excess of receipts over expenditures of $7,100,060, instead of a shortage of $273,000. The pres-et administration had paid over $259,000,600 of the interest-bearing debt. Not a bond-holder had wanted his money, but the ad-ministration had made he m step up to the casnier's office and take it. The Fifty-first Congress had revised the tariff, but in doing so it had increased the price of the product of the American farmer, made it sure that labor could get a fair and just compensation, and it immossible for starva-tion to enter the Republic and remain under the folds of the American flag. In answering Mr. Henderson, Mr. Dock-ery, of Missouri, said that the agrregate ap-propriation of last Congress (accurately known as the Billion Congress) was without a parallel or precedent in the history of the country. Public attention to the stupen-dons appropriations of that Congress had been so trequently challenged that the peo-pic had come to connect the term "buildon" Congress with the Fifty-first Congress. He hoped that no such stigma would attach itself to the present Congress. liself to the present Congress.

Big Increase of Appropriations, The record, said Mr. Dockery, showed that, deducting the sinking fund and the interest on the public debt and the extraordinary charge for pensions, there remained more than $100,000,000 of increase of appropriations nade by the Fifty-first Congress over that made by the Fiftieth Cougress. The avermade by the Fritain Coords. The aver-are increase from the Forty-fourth to the Fiftieth Concress had been about $20,600,000, On July 1, 1890, there had been in the Tress-ury a surplus of $45,000,000. What had be-come of it? To-day the cash in the Tressury was $35,000,000 and this included sub-dary was $35,000,000 and this included sub-dary was $35,000,000, and this included sub-idiary coin. Referring to the refunding of bonds by the Treasury Denartment, Mr. Hooker, of Mississippi, inquired if the money was in the Treasury to may the bonds why did the Sec-retary of the Treasury ask holders to extend the bonds at 2 per cent? Mr. Dockery thanked Mr. Hooker for the suggestion. demonstrate the extraordinary soundness of the Government by showing that it could float a 2 per cent bond. But the controlling reason for the extraordinary notion of the Scoretary, aside from the condition of the Treasury, was the fact that it would ac-commodate the National banks and prevent the expense on their part of extending the bonds and inving the 4s at a premium. And this by an administration whose most disthis by an administration whose most dis-tinguished official had in 1888 in Maine decounced Mr. Cleveland because he had de-osited money in National banks. Under besided money in National banks, inder the Harrison scheministration $15,000 000 re-main in National banks. In the estimates not one dollar was estimated for rivers and harbors, because with them there was a deficit of $55,000,000.

Holman's Former's Alliance Friend.

Mr. Livingston, of Georgia, the Farmers' Alliance member, said that from one end of the hand to the other there existed to-day ore destitution and distress than had ever more destitution and distress than had ever before been known in the history of the country. It was time for Congress to call a hait in the making of unnecessary and reck-less appropriations. The cause of this dis-tress was the large increase in taxation, which to-day was five times as muca as it was in 1830. How could the producers of the country live under such a system of tax-ation? While the rate of maximum was in-creasing the price of products had been decreasing the price of products had been de-creasing. CHICAGO, Jan. 14 - [Special.] - Flint, the fa-mous catcher of the Chicago League team, died at his home in this city at 6:30 o'clock. after a three months' struggle with consumption. "Old Silver," as he was familiar-ly known to professional ball players in the United States, made a gallant fight for life. One week ago it was not thought he could live a day, but his indomitable will and the best of nursing kept the strong athlete alive when the doctors had almost abandoned stars of the billiard world, Jacob Schaefer and George Slosson, will meet once more on the green cloth. The Casket Will Be Placed in City Ball-Arrangements for the Funeral To-Morrow-Immediate Need of a Man to Fill His Place-McCallin Mentioned.

No death has occurred in this city for years which caused more general or sincere regret than that of Police Superintendent Gamble Weir. On every hand yesterday were heard expressions of protound sorrow both from those who personally knew him and those who only knew him by his devoted public service. Employes and officials of the city with whom he has been in touch for years were particularly saddened by the news of his death, while those who enjoyed his intimate social friendship were pain-fully shocked. Chief Brown gave expression to this general opinion as to the public service of Mr. Weir when he said, "The whole city will feel the loss of one of the best officials she ever had in the death of Gamble Weir." At City Hall the grief was general. The dead Chief's office, desk and chair were draped with crape and a basket of beautiful flowers stood upon the desk. On the outer door at police headquarters and at all the police stations in the city were hung the emblems of mourning. At 8 o'clock to-morrow morning the cas. ket containing the remains will be removed
