Speaker Crisp Able to Meet a Committee and Talk About House Rules.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 16.-The popular movement for the election of United States Senators by a vote of the people is destined to be one of the most important subjects discussed by the Fitty-second Congress. It seems likely to be the one real subject of national interest upon which party lines are not to be drawn, and from this fact the advocates of the proposed reform derive great encouragement of ultimate

While it is probably true that of the dozed joint resolutions on the subject introduced in the two Houses, or in course of preparation, most of the authors are Democrats, yet several of the most emphatic advocates of the constitutional amendment are prominent Republicans. Senator Palmer, of Illinois, who has long stood as the exponent of this popular principle in the West, and who ascribes his election solely to the favor with which the people of Illinois received the new theory, will take charge of the reform movement in the Senate, while Representative Johnson, the Re-publican Representative from North Dakots, will be the most aggressive advocate of the constitutional amendment in the

In Representatives Bryan, of Nebraska, Enloe, of Tennessee, Springer, of Illinois, and Miller, of Wisconsin, he will have warm co-operation, but to Representative endership of the new movement, because of his oft-repeated assertions that to a viola-tion of that principle was solely due his detent in the memorable Senatorial contest in the State of North Dakota. Agitation in the Committee Room.

The House Committee on Election of President, Vice President and Representaves in Congress, at a meeting to-day, gave special attention to the various propositions r a constitutional amendment providing for the election of United States Senators by direct vote of the people of the respec-tive States. The committee was addressed by Representatives Miller, of Wisconsin; Bryam, of Nebraska; Enloe, of Tennessee, and Johnson, of North Dakota, all of whom have propositions of this kind pending before the committee. The oist resolution which Mr. Miller urged opposes a constitutional amendment givone United States Senator to each ling one United States Seintor to each State, primarily, and an additional Senator for rach 1,000,000 of inhabitants, all to be elected directly by the people. Of course, this would work a very radical change indeed in the composition of the United States Senate, but Mr. Miller contended that the smaller States had a disproportionately largely representation in the Senate, and that his scheme would secure a more equitable representation. quitable representation.

The other three speakers directed their arguments generally to the broad question of the advisability of election of Senators by the direct vote of the people rather than by the present methods, and then more specifically to the points in favor of the means proposed by them to bring this about. They said the present method enabled men to be elected to the Scuate who could not be elected by a popular vote, and who did not represent the sentiment of their people. Corruption Far Too Prevalent.

Corporate influences, it was urged, were too potent a factor in the election of Senacalled to the freemeney of uption and bribery made during and subsequent to elections of United States Sens-

Mr. Enloe, of Tennessee, said that while those investigations which had been made into charges of corruption in the election of Senators had generally been fruitless, yet there was no doubt in the minds of thinking and reading men that there was a substantial foundation for the charges in many in-Mr. Powers, of Vermont, asked Mr. Enloe it popular elections might not result in sending less able men to the Senate, and if the present method did not secure the services of men of ability, who perhaps could not be induced to take part in a political contest such as was incident to elections. Mr. Euloe said it might possibly occur occasionally, as it sometimes did in all public elections, that men of inferior capaty might be chosen to the Senate, but that the country would suffer less to have a col in the Senate for six years than to have a corrupt scoundrel.

Differences of Proposed Legislation. The three constitutional amendments offered by Messrs, Bryan, of Nebraska; Enloe, of Tennessee, and Johnson, of North Dakota, differ in this, that Mr. Bryan's amendment proposes that Senators shall be elected by direct vote only in such States through their proper legislative machinery decide to elect Senstors in this man-ner, while Messrs. Enloe and Johnson propose that the ness method shall be compulproposed amendment.

Mr. Bryan said that the argument in layer of the adoption of his amendment was that the prospects of its adoption were preater than if it made a change compul-sory. States which did not care themselves to change their method of election of United States Senators might be willing to agree to an amendment which would give to such States as preferred that method the right to elect Senators by direct popular vote. The friends of the amendment believed that the result of the election of Senators by direct vote would be such as to popularize the new method even in those States which were not now willing to make the change, and that in time the change would commend itself to all the States, and gain all that could be gained by a compulsory amendment, while not arousing the antagonism that might be felt to an amendment requiring each State to change its present method. One of the Arguments Sensational. Mr. Enloe argued that if it were a good thing to elect Senators by direct vote in one State, it was certainly a good thing to elect them in this manner in all the States. The necessity was great wherever corporate influences became strong. The argument of Mr. Johnson was almost ins present experience. He stated that he was the Republican caucus nominee for inited States Senator at the last Senatorial election in his State, but that he was deseted by a corrupt combination. It might be only a limited view to take of the question before the committee, but his experience would illustrate the argument. He had secured the party nomination fairly, and as his party was in a majority in the State Legislature he felt confident of election. He was approached, he said, by the attorney of a railroad corporation, and told that to make his election certain it was necessary that he give an assurance that he guide sary that he give an assurance that he would tayor a certain man as Judge for that dis-trict. The attorney said that the railroad had secured the election of seven or eight members of the Legislature and controlled their votes. If he would give the assurance desired he would be elected without a doubt.

Beaten Because He Was Honest. Mr. Johnson said that he did not consider PARTIES OR PEOPLE, it honorable to enter into a bargain of that sort, declined to give the assurance asked, and the result was that he was deteated. Yet at that time he was the acknowledged Determined Movement to Have the Letter Select the United States Senator, as well as the choice of his State for United States Senator, as well as the choice of his party, and would have been elected but for the people's will being thwarted by corrupt corporate influences.

The committee adjourned until next week, when Mr. Springer, of Illinois, will make an argument in favor of the same proposition. It is the belief of the authors of the SUCCESS LOOKED FORWARD TO various resolutions that a majority of the committee is in favor of reporting one of the propositions back to the House with the recommendation that it be adopted by the House.

PRINTERS HAVE A CHAMPION

Congressman Scott Wants the Stamped Envelope Business Restricte

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 16.-Reprentative Scott, of Illinois, has introduced a bill prohibiting the Postoffice Department from selling stamped envelopes bearing the usual printed request for return to the owner after a limited period. "Under the present law," says Mr. Scott, "the Government is a direct competitor with every printing house in the country. It is not only a competitor, but it gives itself a -The Government fur-envelopes stamped and printed for the same price as they are furnished without the return card. This is an unwarranted trespass by the Government upon the private business of every printer in the United States. If this is fair and legitimate, why should not the government go into the business of printing deeds and mortgages? Why not make cotton goods at cost and furnish them to consumers? Why not go into any other branch of private business? It cannot be seen why the printer should be thus discriminated against.

"This bill does not ask protection or favors for the great printing industry of the country. It simply asks the Governthe country. It simply asks the Govern-ment to take its strong arm off and give it a fair chance. Many millions of dollars annually are by this act taken from the print-ing business. This does not seem fair or just. It is asserted that this law secures a better return of letters. The class of persons who use these envelopes are bankers and others who are not sus-pected of inability to keep their cor-respondence in good shape. The government refuses to let 'Sam Jones, government refuses to let 'Sam Jones, Hardware Merchant, Podunk, Ind.,' ap-pear, because it advertises his business. If he can see through a barbed wire fence— and he usually can—he simply says, 'Re-turn after ten days to the Sam Jones Hard-ware Company, 'Podunk, Ind.' This is legitimate, and goes. The Government should take its hands off and not oppress one of the greatest and most important industries of

GENERAL WHEELER INSULTED.

He Wants It Distinctly Understood That He Is No Monkey.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 16 .- [Special.] -General Joe Wheeler, of Alabama, the great cavalry general of the late Confederacy, is determined to force an apology from Congressman Boutelle, of Maine, who referred to the General on the floor of the House yesterday as a monkey. Mr. Boutelle must have realized when he held the General up to ridicule that there would be trouble, for three times General Wheeler has challenged men for slighter offenses General Wheeler was not on the floor at the time, but as soon as he was informed of what Mr. Boutelle had said about him, he told Judge Culbertson, of Texas, that he would not let the matter pass unnoticed. Since then General Wheeler has kept in concealment from newspaper men.

Conservative Southern Congressmen say that while General Wheeler is impetuous, they don't believe he would be so indiscreet as to issue a challenge, although he is a firm believer in the code. They think he will content himself by waiting until Monday, and, rising to a question of persona privilege, a insult the gentleman from Maine in return. This will place Mr. Bouteile on the defensive, and if he should send the challenge, General Wheeler would not be the man to refuse to accept it.

NEW RULES FOR THE HOUSE

Considered Yesterday, at a Conference Held With Speaker Crisp. SHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 16,-The peratic members of the Appropriation Committee and the Speaker had a confe ence on the subject of a code of rules for the Fifty-second Congress, this afternoon, in the rooms of Speaker Crisp. One change i the rules under consideration having in view the checking of filibustering tacties, seeks the abolition of the practice of defeating measures on "suspension Mondays," as the days on which bills may be passed by a two-thirds vote is known, by introducing long bills and calling for their reading in full, the purpose being, of course, to con-sume the day with introductions of bills. Another proposed modification is the adoption of the Reed rule constituting 100 a quorum of the committee of the whole, but it is an open question whether or not this change will be recommended. There will be some definition of what motions shall be considered dilatory motions. The practice of counting a quorum will, of course, find no place in the new rules. Later in the

ON THE GROUND OF IMMORALITY. Protest Presented but the People Will Not Be Ruled Out.

MINISTERS TO PREACH ABOUT IT

PERCIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. KINGSTON, Jan. 16.-Much indignation was aroused here to-day in fashionable social circles over the presentation of a pro-test against the holding of a Kirmess. A movement to build a public hospital was started here about a year ago. To raise funds by subscription and otherwise the ladies organized a Hospital Aid Society, and have been doing good work. A few weeks ago steps were taken to hold a grand Kirmess with a view of largely swelling the hospital fund. The services of Miss Margaret McLeager, of Newburg, who so successfully conducted such enter tainments throughout the country was obtained, and a mass meeting of ladies gentlemen was called for this afternoon in the Common Council chamber to make preliminary arrangements. It had been rumored throughout the week that a petition was being circulated by the clergy in opposition to the entertainment, but many were loath to believe that the pastors would agitate the question when they became convinced that the leading members of their churches favored the Kirmess.

favored the Kirmess.

The meeting this afternoon was largely attended by the leaders of Kingston society who were willing to do what they could to who were willing to do what they could to make the affair a success. The Rev. William Shaw was present and read a protest denouncing in harsh terms the holding of the Kirmess, on the grounds that it would be immoral, dangerous to health and injurious to the community. Half a dozen Protestant clergy signed the petition, among the number being the Rev. J. B. Van Styke. D. D., nastor of the First Dutch ber being the Rev. J. B. Van Styke.
D. D., pastor of the First Dutch Church, and the Rev. C. Stanton Stowits, of the Rondout Presbyterian Church, one of the finest of that denomination along the Hudson. Prof. Callahan, Principal of the Kingston Academy, and Prof. Henry D. Darrow, a local educator of many years' standing, were also on the list.

Several of the gentlemen in attendance strongly condemned the course taken by the elergy and severely criticised the imputaclergy and severely criticised the imputa-tion of immorality. Pastor Shaw, finding that the meeting was unanimously in favor of the Kirmess, hastily took his departure. An executive committee of 14 of the most prominent ladies and gentlemen were appointed to proceed with the preparations. In the meantime the pastors will try to arouse the feelings of the people through the pulpit, and a war between fashionable society and the clergy is looked for.
