able to earn their salaries, and who would joyonsly welcome an onportunity to do so, and there are Southerners who are anxious, to show their loyalty to their country; but fit comes to a question of national honor, our constituents will find that we represen-tatives in Congress are Americans, first, last and all the time and all the time. Senator Stewart said:

It is a strong presentation of the case, and It is a strong presentation of the case, and although every American eithen must de-precate war it seems impossible to avoid it unless Chile will recrede from her hostile po-sition and give such satisfaction as the honor of our Government and the justice of the case will make it possible for us to ne-cent. cept.

It Is Strong but Not a Firebrand.

Senator Squire thought the message was conservative-characterized by sufficient spirit and a good presentation of the con-troversy. He thought the details suftroversy. He thought the details suf-ficiently elaborate for Congress and the people to thoroughly comprehend the situ-ation. It is just right, and a plain, fair statement of the case, and there is nothing in it of the character of a firebrand. Con-gress had received it in the right spirit. Sepator Carey said:

It is like all messages of President Har-rison. It is terse and to the point. It sig-nifies that he doesn't want war, but that it is his duty to maintain the honor and dig bity of our country, even if it requires war to secure this. His views will be heartily in-forsed by the American people.

Senator Gibson, of Maryland, thought it a non-political question, and said he would stand by the President in the matter. Senator Platt said:

The President's message presents a case in which, unleds the correspondence sub-mitted will allow some other construction of the conduct of Chile (and I have no idea that it will), the United States must main-tain its dignity and rights, and must stand for the protection of its sailors. I think the sentiment of the whole country ought to sustain the President in adhering to his ul-timatum and give him power to enforce it.

Many Senators Are Non-Committal

Senators Aldrich, Davis, Cockrell, Berry, Faulkner, Palmer, Gorman, Gordon and Proctor were also asked to give their views on the message, but declined principally for the reason that they desired to peruse the document thoroughly before advancing any expression of opinion on it. Nearly all Senators interviewed, however, regardless of politics, agreed that the message is an able document. Mr. Blount, Chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said:

I prefer not to make any comments at present. I think it important that the Com-mittee on Foreign Affairs should express no opinion on a question which has been re-terred to them and which they have had no chance to examine.

Mr. Blouut said he is thinking of calling a special meeting of the committee to speedily consider the case. Asked what were the precedents for Congressional action, Mr. Blount said:

There is very liftle usage on the subject. In 1812 Mr. Calhoun made a report from the Committee on Foreign Affairs reciting the grievances to which we had been subjected by Great Britain. A resolution making a decleviting of ways was provided as the subject of claration of war was reported and pass the House, and then there was another bill passed relating to privateering. In the Mexican war there was no formal declaramexican war torre was no formal declara-tion. Provision was made for troops, etc., to resist the invasion, the assumption being that war had been inaugurated by the Mexi-can Government in invading our territory, and that this was simply to meet the invas-ion.

Congressional Applause Means Much.

Representative McCreary, of Kentucky, second member of the Foreign Affairs Committee, said:

I think the President's message was a very Think the Pressure snessing was very full and a very strong presentation of the troubles between the United States and Calle. The applause of Democrats and Re-publicans after the message was read indi-cated very strongly that both parties in the Honse will be ready to support the Presi-dent.

Mr. Andrew, of Massachusetts, of the same committee, said: "The message is a very able argument and summary from that side of the case." Whether or not a thor-edgh examination of the correspondence would bear out the statements made he could not say.

Mr. Hooker, of Mississippi, also a member of the Foreign Aflairs Committee, said many things in the message met with his Margaret A. Cuff. hearty approval, but he would express no opinion on the situation until he had thoroughly examined the evidence. Mr. Rayner, of Maryland, a member of the Committee on Foreign Affairs, said the situation was far more serious than had been anticipated. It certainly required that something should be done. The United fully invited to attend. A Lawyer's, Not a Statesman's, Paper I think the President's message is an able and acute document--an excellent presentation by an admirable lawyer of a case he is prosecuting against an adversary. I hardly think it is a statesmanlike message to a great and free people about a question to a great and free people about a question of war with a very small country in the throes of a civil war, attempting to throw off the yoke of a dictator and re-establish constitutional liberty, especially where the cause of offense grew out of the belief, whether just or not, that our Minister and navy had sided against them in their strag-gle for liberty. I don't believe we ought to have war, but this opinion is provisional, and my judgment will depend upon a care-ful examination of the papers as soon as they are printed.

Speculating on War Probabilities.

States could not let the matter rest.

Whether it would result in a declaration of war and reprisal on Chilean commerce and vessels, or in a simple withdrawal of diplomatic relations with Chile, remained to be seen. One thing is sure-we can't afford to let the controversy remain in its present condition.

Mr. Hitt, of Illinois, the leader of the Republican minority on the Foreign Affairs Committee said:

I hope the House will stand by every part of the messarz. The House should express its concurrence by resolution, or, if other action were necessary, to supplement the military or naval force that should be taken. I think the trouble will be settled without war, but patience can be exhausted.

He called attention to the lateness of the request for Egan's recall as showing the spirit of delay which Chile had manifested. No additional facts existed since October on which to base the request. The exchange of Ministers would take a long time, and it looked to him as if the only object was delay. Mr. O'Donnell, of Michigan, a member of the Foreign Affairs Committee, said: "The message is very patriotic. Its positions are well taken.

A Pennsylvanian's Views.

"I am in favor," said Representative Harmer, of Pennsylvania, another member of the Foreign Affairs Committee, "of re-quiring under every condition due respect for the flag and the rights of American citireparation without the awful consequences of war I would avoid it, but not at the sacrifice of the flag and the rights of our citizens."

A great number of members of the House not on the Foreign Affairs Committee were seen. Mr. McMillan, of Tennessee, thinks we shall be able without dishonor to settle the matter without war. Delegate Caine, of Unh, thought that the message was a statesmanlike document. Our sailors should be protected everywhere. He did not believe war would result.

Mr. Simpson, of Kansas, was opposed to war unless this country were invaded by a foreign foe. He thought it ridiculous and a disgrate for this country to go to war on the pretext given in the evidence, as he understood it. All the trouble could be settled by arbitration. The message sounded like a special plea to get the Irish vote. He thought the President was desirons of get-ting up a hurrah in order to secure a re-nomination, if he could not get it by other means. derstood it. means.

Jerry Simpson Proposes a Commission.

A great nation like the United States abould be slow to go to war. It was a na-tion of Christians enrolled under the banner of the Prince of Peace. The proper course to numeric to the send a superior of three to pursue is to send a commission of three persons to investigate the whole subject. After the commission had reported it would be time enough to declare war, if it were necessary.

Mr. Springer, of Illinois, said:

Mr. Springer, of fillinois, said: The President's message seems to be en-tirely ex parte in its statements, and does not disclose the case presented by the Chilean Government. I presume the case of Chile will appear in the correspondence, and after all the facts are known the proba-holities are the case will be presented in a and arter all the facts are known the proba-bilities are the case will be presented in a different light. In any event, the facts are disputed, and while they are in dispute we would not be justified in going to war with-out further investigation. If the facts canfit be agreed upon a case for arbitration will be presented and the interest of foreign powers should be invoked. There should be no resort to war till all efforts had been ex-hausted to secure a peaceful solution of the hausted to secure a peaceful solution of the
