NATIONAL BREEDERS IN SESSION.

NEWSY NOTES FROM NEARBY TOWNS

ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. STEUBENVILLE, Jan. 27 .- The session proper of the seventeenth annual meeting of the United States Merino Sheep-Breeders' Association opened here to-day, with representatives present from half a dozen States. The usually dry routine was enlivened this morning by the report of W. B. Pollock, of Canonsburg, Pa, who was a delegate of the National Delaine Association, to a joint meeting of sheep-breeders with the World's Fair Directors.

Mr. Pollock reported that American breeders were discriminated against, as there would be considerable red tape connected with exhibiting. Exhibitions of Americans would have to be done as individuals, as against English, Australian and Canadian sheep-breeders, who could exhibit by States or counties. He said there were larger premiums offered tor dogs than for sheep.

Regarding the exhibits at the Columbian Exposition, he said the $25 initiation fee asked went toward paying fat-salaried officials, and as the members of the organi-zation were Alliance men almost to a man, his statement created a stir, they being unalterably opposed to fat salaries. A Pennsylvanian here arose and said that in the committee of 30, appointed to look after Pennsylvania's interests at the Fair, the farmer was not given half a show, as the only granger on the committee came from the East and that he hired his farm workers. They, as an association, had asked that a practical sheep-breeder be appointed, but their request was ignored. He also thought they should exhibit as an association, so that a good showing could be made.

A committee of five was then appointed to look after their interests at the Fair. A resolution was also passed asking that the Fair be closed on the Sabbath, and that no liquor be sold on the grounds.

Arrangements were made for the publica-tion of volume 3 of the Register, and it was decided that all sheep to be registered must be presented by July 1, 1892, and '92 lambs be presented by July 1, 1892, and '92 lambs by October 1, 1892. The following officers were then elected for the eusuing year: President, T. G. Donaldson, Scroggsfield, O.; Vice Presi-dents, W. L. Archer, Burgettstown, Pa, and Robert Perrine, of Patterson's Mills, Pa.; Secretary and Treasurer, J. A. B. Walker, of Enon Valley, Pa.; member of Executive Board, James Beall, of Indepen-dence, Pa.; of Auditing Board, W. H. Buchanan, of West Middleton, O.; George J. Graham, of Smithfield, O., and O. Wat-kins, of Mavnard, O.; Examiner of Sheep, kins, of Mavnard, O.; Examiner of Sheep, James Glass, of Burgettstown. Pa. The session then adjourned to meet in Steuben-ville January, 1893.

League that I deem it advisable to state I have positively not the slightest intention of signing with any club but that in Louisville, if I engage at ball playing at all. My reason for coming to this conclusion is that I have opened a place of business in this, my old home, and have met with such generous encouragement and support that I shall settle down here for good. I would like to play ball in Louisville, because I can do so without any detriment to my business interests. To that end I have made overtures to the managers of the Louisville club, and they are willing to sign, provided I can obtain my release from Chicago the club. I think that club will not decline me this release, as under no circumstances will I sign or agree to play ball in any other city. I have already refused to listen to various liberal offers made me, and will entertain no others. If the Chicagos refuse to release me, I shall permanently retire from active baseball life. The warring attorneys are Colonel Rogers, of Philadelphia, for years attorney of the National League, and Zach Phelps, who up to the time of its de-mise at Indianapolis, filled the same office for the American Association. When the amalgamation occurred, Phelps, much to the disgust of Rogers, was appointed counsel to the new organization. Rogers wanted the job himself. The two lawyers and Nick Young were appointed a committee to for-mulate a new national agreement. The Colonel, determined upon revenge, drafted, a national agreement, submitted it to him-self and incidentally to Nick Young, and then rushed it into print. Thus Phelps became acquainted with the Linus Phelps became acquainted with the plans of the new agreement, for it's charged that Rogers not only neglected to submit the agreement to his colleague, but without placing the matter before the League, he arbitrarily assumed the power of naming the time when it should go into effect, set-ting February 1 as the date. NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 27 .- The international feather-weight contest to-night at the Olympic Club between Tommy Callaghan, of England, and Cal McCarthy, of New Jersey, was witnessed by about 3,000 people. Great interest was felt in the match from the fact that the winner was promised a go with George Dixon for the world's championship. Callaghan trained at Bay St. Louis in care of Jim Robinson, while McCarthy got in trim at Carrollton under the care of Willie Kenney, Callaghan's first American victim. The men fought for a purse of $2,000, of which $1,500 went to the winner and $500 to the loser. Both weighed in a 6 o'clock and were two pounds each overweight. periods of the war, and who were com-manded by regular officers, and yet who were not mustered regularly into the ser-vices of the Government. They risked their lives in defense of the Union the same as those who had been mustered into the regu-har army, and Mr. Atkinson thinks that they should be pensioned, at least when disabled while fighting for the country. The Ohio militia was tendered to the Gov-erument in the same way, but before they were discharged the officials of that State took means to see that they were mustered regularly into the service of the Govpri-ment, hence they receive pensions the same as other veterans, but the Pennsylvania militia, while doing the same service as that of Ohio, are not at present entitled to pen-sions when disabled. This injustice Mr. Atkinson seeks to remedy by his bill.

Nellie Wilkes Sold. LEXINGTON, Ky., Jan. 27.-W. C. France

& Son, of this county, have sold to Mr. Edward Decernes, of New York City, the bay mare Nellie Wilkes, 2:1834, by Red Wilkes, dam Nellie, by Justice Morgan, for

$8,000. She is six years old. The Local Shooters. John Ward has bet John Bennett $25 that titled to the player. We are not loving any sleep over the matter, and if Pittsburg takes serious action we shall be ready to de-fend our rights. In regard to Moran, we signed him last September and paid advance money to him. I fail to see any good rea-son why he should not come here. The only move made in reference to Pfeffer has been correspondence between Manager Powers and President Hart. In response to inquiries regarding Pfeffer, Hart replied that Chicago did not intend to release him until some other good second baseman was secured. There would, of course, be no use in negotiating with the player until Chicago's consent was obtained. In a recent communication Buck Ewing states that he will be able to catch, if required. The probabilities are that he will play steadily on first base. LOOKS A LITTLE BRIGHTER.

The Three Big College Ball Teams May

Play Together This Year. NEW YORK, Jan. 27. - [Special.]-The question of arranging baseball games be tween Yale, Harvard, and Princeton has peen practically settled, and the teams of the three great colleges will meet on the diamond next season. A short time ago an effort was made to hold a joint conference in this city of representatives of the three colleges, but through some misunderstand-ing it failed. The Harvard delegates arrived, but Yale and Princeton did not appear. It was then announced that another meet-ing would be held two weeks later. Subsequently it was decided not to attempt to hold another meeting, but endeavor to arrange matters through the medium of cor-respondence and private conference. The result is, that Yale and Princeton have already agreed on dates, and to-morrow rep-resentatives of Harvard and Princeton will meet in Worcester and try to come to an understanding. It is generally believed that there will be no difficulty in fixing

AN IMPORTANT MEETING.

Local Raseball Magnates Have a Secret Corfab About the Lyons Care.

The officials of the local ball club had an important conference yesterday, but it was a secret one. The Lyons case was about the only question under discussion. Sev. eral telegrams were received advising the club not to go into court. It is not unlikely that a deal will be made with the New York club whereby Pittsburg will get a player instead of Lyons. It is thought the latter is now inclined to go to New York.

Secretary Scandrett will this year devote his entire time to the business of the club. He will travel, with it and will look after the turnstiles, etc.
