Preparing to Hold an Important Convention to Secure the

ABROGATION OF THE TREATY OF '17 And Reach Out For Contracts to Build

Lake War Vessels. CANADA PREPARED FOR EMERGENCIES

DETROIT, Jan. 29.-A movement is or foot to gather in convention all the shipbuilders and iron and steel men of the Northwest at some one of the great lake ports in order to urge upon Congress the complete abrogation of the 1817 treaty with Great Britain. Mr. W. McVitie, Secretary of the Detroit Dry Dock Company of Detroit, Mich., has placed himself in communication with representative men of every port on the great lakes lying between Buffalo on the east and Duluth on the west, and arrangements are now so far completed that every shipbuilding plant on the lakes will send representatives to the convention. In addition, iron and steel men all through the Northwest whose interests touch those of the shipbuilding plants will be in attendance, with the result, it is calculated, of the entire Northwest interest being represented. The place and date of the convention has been left to the Detroit Dry Dock Company. Mr. McVitie states that without exception every shipbuilder and iron and steel man with whom he has been in communication is not only anxious for the convention, but is enthusiastic over the idea.

Want a Share of the Naval Pork. A correspondent who recently made a visit to the majority of the principal shipbuilding plants along the great lakes, everywhere observed a marked unity of action among the men of the Northwest. Unquestionably the success of the shipbuild-ing interests along the lakes is due to this cohesiveness in action. The shipbuilding plants along the lakes of the Northwest exceed in combined capabilities, in magnitude and in capital, the interests of all other shipbuilding plants in the United States combined. The lake men are determined to share in the building of the new navy of this country. In the opinion of the lake shipbuilders the treaty of 1817 has heretofore served to enhance the interests of a few shipbuilders along the Atlantic and Pacific scaboards, and has discrimi-nated against the real shipbuilding interests of the country engaging in Government Work.

The Solicitor of the Treasury has ruled within a few days that the treaty of 1817 with Great Britain, limiting the naval armaments to be maintained on the lakes, does not exist. The Solicitor declares that, according to the Revised Statutes of the United States, the treaty of 1817 was abrogated by Congress on February 9, 1865, and that the statutes do not show that the treaty was again enforced by set of Congress, and this despite the agreement made by Secre-tary of State Seward with the British For-

Will Question Our Statesmanship,

The lake men in the convention soon to be held will devise means whereby they can learn definitely if a Secretary of State has the right to declare in force a treaty which has been abrogated by a formal act of which has been acrogated by a formal act of Congress, and has not by that same body been again declared in force. Once the lake men learn that the treaty is not in force, as has been ruled by the Solicitor of the Treasury, they will then take steps to bid on all warship work that may hereafter be advertised by the Navy Department.

Secretary Tracy is heartily in sympathy with the men of the Northwest. He real-izes that the great lakes represent in their shipbuilding plants the really great ship-building interests of the United States. Secretary Tracy is anxious that the lake plants shall engage in war-ship work, and plants shall engage in war-ship work, and with this knowledge in the possession of the lake men, the coming convention will endeavor to solve in short order the exact status of the treaty of 1817. If the treaty exists despite the ruling of the Solicitor of the Treasury, the lake men will demand of Congress that the treaty be at once abrogated. They will base their demand on the ground of the defenseless condition of the wealthy cities along the shores of the lakes, cities like Chicago, Milwaukee, Detroit, Bay City, Toledo, Cleveland, Erie, Buffalo, Oswego, Ogdensburg, Duluth, South Chicago and others, all of which are exposed to the attack of hostile British gunboats. The lake men will demand that their homes and cities be afforded some adequate and tangible means of defense, defense which they assert cannot be afforded by garrisoned cannot pitched in the vicinity of the various

Canada Prepared for War.

It is known that the British have a fleet of over 100 war vessels able to enter the great lakes through the canals. To oppose this lorce the United States possesses in the old and worn-out Michigan the only war vessel on the Northwest lakes. Furthermore, it is known that five Canadian steamers, each one having a speed of not less than 13 knots an hour, and all fitted with gun tracks covered over with light flooring, are at present practically ready for active service. These vessels are now engaged in the passenger trade on Lake Ontario. Their guns, all modern breech-loading pieces, are conveniently stored at a point near the mouth of the Welland Canal. Inside of 36 hours after orders were issued these five vessels would not only be fitted out as war ships, but have passed through the Welland Canal into Lake Erie. Once in Lake Erie these ships alone would be sufficient to destroy every city along the great lakes, and the United States would have no means to

To fit out merchant steamers as war vessels requires time. To fit out the majority of the present type of lake steamers as vessels of war will require precious time. The mischief would be done before the British gunbouts could be encountered and an invasion of Canada would not suffice to distract the attention of the latter craft.

The lake men know all these facts. They will demand that the lakes be furnished not only a fleet for protection of the cities on the Northern frontier, but show at the same time how national benefits will result by the development of the lake shipyards as Represent Immense Interests.

As before stated, the lake ship builders represent the greatest combined interests in the United States. Cleveland and the country about contains, perhaps, no less than 5,000 men engaged directly or indirectly in the commercial interests on the lakes; Detroit, no less than 10,000; Toledo, 5,000; Buffalo, 25,000; Erie 8,000; Bay City, Mich., 1000; Sarinay, 8,000; Milwankes, 15,000; Buffalo, 25,000; Erie 8,000; Bay City, Mich., 9,000; Saginaw, 8,000; Milwaukee, 15,000; Chicago, 50,000; South Chicago, 10,000; Wyandotte, 8,000, Duluth, 15,000, and other lake sections combined, 100,000. These numbers can be supplemented, perhaps, by at least 250,000 men in the Ohio and Mississippi Valleys directly in touch with the immense iron and steel and ship plants on the lakes. The great iron ore mines of Lake Superior, the mines of Michigan, the coal mines, the iron and steel works of the extreme western part of Pennsylvania: the extreme western part of Pennsylvania; the great tool making establishments in Ohio, the suip building and iron plants along the Ohio and Mississippi rivers, all touch and connect with the interests of the Northand and all are practically Northwest, and all are practically under the control of the lake ports. It is this great section of the United States which is now waking up at the word of the men of the Northwest, and it is this immense in-fluence which will go in solid support of the Northwest interests. Railroad men are all affected by the demands of the lake ports, and the commerce of the lakes, represent-ing nearly $100,000,000, is controlled by the lake shipbuilders.

LITIGATION OVER A DOLLAR. A Weighty Question of Law That Shipper Want Decided.

An interesting suit is pending before Alderman P. B. Reilly, for, though the amount directly involved is but $1, the matter is one that has been the subject of deliberation in all the grain and produce exchanges in the country, and the principle involved reaches to every avenue of trade.
George M. Cote, an East End lumberman, had a carload of lumber consigned to him and was notified, by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company to have it unloaded within 48 hours after arrival, according to the regulation in such cases, or pay demurrage. It is stated that the car arrived at 7 o'clock A. M. Mr. Cote says he got a postal card at 3 P. M. of the same day and had the car unloaded within 48 hours of the time he got the notification, and so it was his tren to demur.

and so it was his turn to demur.

The company was inflexible and insisted on the payment of a dollar, but Mr. Cote, inibued with the spirit of that American statesman who was willing to contribute millions for defense, but nary a cent for tribute, paid the dollar under protest and then sought Attorney J. A. Wakefield and engaged him to bring suit to reclaim it. The attorney holds that unless the obligations of carrier and consignee are reciprocal, demurrage can only be collected in cases where consignees are negligent. He contends that there is just as much law for holding a carrying company responsible for a delay of a few hours in the transmission of freight as there is to hold a consignee for a similar delay. Mr. Cote says he proposes to have the law on the subject tested, even if it becomes necessary to go to the Supreme Court. The Court will announce its decision on Monday.

A DON JUAN OF TO-DAY,

He Elopes With Two Married Women From the Same Boarding Rouse. BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Jan. 29 .- [Special.]

-Three weeks ago E. D. Lown, who had been in business in Halstead, Pa., for several years, absconded, after ruining his partner. He came to this city and lived at a well-known boarding house. He became acquainted there with Mrs. Hattie Gibson and Mrs. Aden Diefendorfer, two young married women.

The women became infatuated with him. He made Mrs. Gibson believe that he had a great deal of money in Susquehanna county, and on Saturday borrowed $200 of her and started from the boarding house with her on the pretense of eloping. He then drugged her and left her in a stupor. He then hunted up Mrs. Diefen-dorfer and she abandoned her husband and two children and ran away with Lown. The husband of the woman followed them as far as Owego, where he lost trace of them.

EIGHT THOUSAND PEOPLE ATTEND

The Great Fire Sale of the P. C. C. C. Yesterday was an exciting day at ou store. All the goods which were slightly damaged by fire, smoke or water are placed in our big basement, and all day long a surging mass of men, women and children struggled in their eagerness to be waited on. To-day we are better prepared, and the eign Minister, mutually ruling the treaty people, no matter in what big crowds they come, will be quickly served. This great fire sale gives the public the benefit of the lowest prices for good clothing ever thought of. Men's suits, men's ulsters and over-coata, boys' suits, pants, and also a big line of underwear at fire-sale prices. P. C. C. C., Pittsburg Combination Cloth-ing Company, corner Grant and Diamond streets. The fire sale begins at 9 o'clock sharp. Store open until 10 o'clock to-
