The triends of the ex-President were dis-couraged and ill-humored, and the cause of their ill-temper was the seeming success of the machinations of a triumvirate composed of Hill, Gorman and Brice. In the mean-time, this combination was in a mild degree bosstful, and the reaction having set in, the boastini, and the reaction having set in, the shrewdest of observers agree that the swing for Senator Hill for President, and that the power, as Hill, in possession of the machinery of the State Committee, would have been able at any time, between now and next June, to have controlled an anti-Cleveland delegation from the State of New Vork to the Democratic National Convention. It convinced Democrats all over the country that the policy of the triumvirate is rule or ruin, and that the success of Hill meant, to a large extent, the degradation of distinguished party leaders. This was especially true in regard to the Democrats from the South, and both Hill and Gorman have suffered in the reaction.

of the pendulum is now in favor of Cleveland.

There is a distinct line of division between the leaders in the Democratic party. It can be expressed no better than to call them Cleveland and anti-Cleveland supporters.

Mills' Friends Making Crisp Sick.

In the House the anti-Cleveland men are found close to Speaker Crisp, while the admirers of Cleveland affiliate with Mills and McMillin. There is little attempt made to conceal their differences, and the followers of Mills are making it extremely unpleasant for the Speaker. He has been halted in a dozen different enterprises by the word coming to him that to proceed meant an open fight.

Those who observed the progress of the Speakership fight will recall the fact that all the anti-Cleveland forces were rallied to elect Crisp. Hill, Gorman and Brice lent their influence to secure his elevation to the Speaker's chair, and it was the votes from Onio, Maryland and New York that secured his election. It was given out at the time that the fight was to kill both Mills and Cleveland at the same time, and in the first flush of victory for the Crisp men it looked as though it might have been accomplished.

A Different Aspect of Affairs.

Weeks have now passed and affairs wear a different aspect. Crisp has proved a disappointment. He was expected to use his influence in changing the sentiment of the South from Cleveland to either Hill or Gorman. In this respect he has accomplished nothing. There is now a stronger Cleveland sentiment among the public men of the South than there was at the time of Crisp's election as Speaker. The Speaker is an obstinate sort of an individual, who gives his Democratic opponents a good show of resistance but he lacks the qualifications of an organizer, and has been tound to be utterly useless by the combination which so substantially aided in securing his election. If the whole thing had to be done over again, the triumvirate would throw their weight for McMillin for Speaker as he has shown himself capable of accomplishing things for which Crisp is utterly useless.

Cleveland Holding the Solid South.

The failure to create an anti-Cleveland sentiment in the South has weakened the efforts of the combination. Mills, Breckenridge and Wilson have asserted that the South is prepared to nominate Cleveland whether he enters the convention with or without the delegation from his own State. Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan and Nebraska have practically settled upon Cleveland and this represents the prevailing sentiment in the Northwest.

With the South almost solid and the Northwest practically so, it has become an nteresting issue with the enemies of the ex-President as to how they are to secure the votes to defeat his renomination. Hill's friends have learned something in the past

These gentlemen have all promised to be present, and from local leaders who are in a position to know it is learned that there will undoubtedly take place the final conference on the question of Cleveland remaining in the field for the Presidental nomination. The presence of Campbell discloses the

Establish an account in the Bank of Mon-treal from the proceeds of my store, in the combined names of my store, in the combined names of my store. Supply my beloved wife, Lucy Rebecca Fitzsim-mons, with any requests she may make for aid annually until the time her liberty occurs. Provide for the support and education of my darling daughter, Lucy Frederick Fitzsimmons, until her mother secures her freedom and can take charge of her property and daughter. In case of the decease of my wife, give my danghter the dvantages of a good musical and classical education until she becomes of age, and especially provide for her being under good moral training during the years of her minority. Discourage any extravagances of dress, provide sensible, healthy and plain clothing. Protection for the rheostat-the contri-vance for the regulation of the strength of electrical currents-was badly needed. These have been placed beneath the car where exposure to rain, snow and slusis has proven most disastrons. In the vestibule trains this danger is obviated. A BURGLAR CAUSES A DIVORCE.

He Got Into Some Love Letters a Doctor Was Hiding From His Wife.

BOSTON, Feb. 6.-[Special.]-The Bemis divorce case in Dedham is attracting a great deal of attention on account of the prominence of the libelant, Dr. Charles A. Bemis, who is a medical examiner for a large district in Norfolk county. The wife's accusation is based on the contents of 30 letters which Dr. Bemis - had received from a young lady. The manner in which the wife got possession of the letters is perhaps without precedent. One night a burglar entered their dwell-ing and ransacked the lower part of the house breaking onen a dask is which the ing and ransacked the lower part of the house, breaking open a desk in which the doctor kept his private and professional papers. On the morning after the burglary was discovered the doctor went out to notify the police. During his absence Mrs. Bemis looked into the desk and found the love letters.
