Judge Harry White, of Indiana, was indorsed as the Republican nominee for Su-preme Judge. The resolution was opposed by several members of the committee be-cause the indorsement would set a bad precedent. The committee decided that the primary elections be held Saturday, April 16, and the county convention on the Mon-day following. It was hinted this morning that a resolution indorsing Dalzell for United States Senator would be sprung on the convention this afternoon, but when the authors of the resolution learned that it would be set down upon with a vengeance, they decided it was best not to offer it. SATURDAY'S INJURED.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 6 - Although it had been expected that the Overman court martial would meet this morning only to adjourn until Monday, such proved to be not the case. A surprise was created when Colonel Gardiner for the accused waived the absence of Mr. Carkin, of the firm of Carkin, Stickney & Cram, of Saginaw, Mich., who was to produce a letter written by Major Overman, and admitted that Major Overman had received $234 50 from the firm as an edgineering officer and failed to account to the Sovernment for it.

It was also admitted by Colonel Gardiner that the Major had received the sums said to have been received by him in three specifications of the first charge, and that he had wholly failed to account therefor; but the fact that such retention of funds was unlawful, or that the money was intended for the military service, was denied. The items of these specifications were $25 paid the S. B. Hartzman Manufacturing Company for replacing piles in Sandusky har-bor, $94 18 paid by Captain Mack for repairs to the Cleveland breakwater, and $25 55 paid by Mitchell & Co.

The witnesses were ordered to retire from the courtroom, and Captain Myrick called Nathan C. Martin, chief of section in the Third Auditor's department, to give evidence in regard to specification 1 of the second charge-that of Overman buying for his own use a lot of pearl-handled knives from the George Worthington Company and charging them to the Government as lag screws. Mr. Nathan produced the voucher for 360 screws at 5 cents each, and nine pounds of washers at 3 cents, a total of $18 27.

Colonel Gardiner then made a formal demand upon the Judge Advocate for the original vouchers, signed by the Worthing-ton Company and Lamson Brothers. "They were unlawfully seized without the knowl-edge and consent of the accused from his private papers," said Colonel Gardiner, "and as they are now in the custody of the Judge Advocate we ask the Cours to order them to be turned over the read them to be turned over to us."

ernment. It may be well to explain that an officer of the Government takes a receipt in dupli-cate for all disbursements made by him. One voucher is forwarded to the Treasury Department and the other is retained by him. It is claimed by Major Overman that the duplicate vouchers, which were really his private papers, were seized by order of the War Department. The court retired, and after due deliberation ordered the vouchers turned over to Major Overman, which was done.

CROOKED NEW YORK CUSTOM OFFICERS WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 6.-A. J. Sawyer, of Minneapolis, who was before the House Committee on Agriculture, two days ago, in opposition to the anti-options bill, to-day continued his statement to the committee, respecting the system of business practiced by the large wheat buyers of the Northwest, and delending the custom of buying options on the exchanges to cover the possibility of loss on the wheat in elevators. He said the speculator carried the surplus for the actual wheat buyers under the option system, and enabled them to sell their wheat from time to time, as fast as it could be absorbed. If the wheat in store were shoved forward the market would be gutted and cash wheat would fall to a very low price. By buying futures against the wheat he had in elevators the elevator owner insured himself against loss.

Mr. Moses said that cotton brokers some-times lost money through spot cotton going down while leatures were going up, and nsked Mr. Sawyer if he was not liable to loss in this way

Mr. Sawyer admitted that he was, and said that he had to take that risk in the business. He lost $40,000 at one clip in this way, and another time a rival company had lost $100,000 by consigning wheat to Lon-don and buying options against it here. The tariff was the premium on gold wheat ad-vancing 1 cent with each advance of a cent on the premium of gold. The cost of labor. owever, did not advance for some time, so that the farmer was getting cheap labor and high prices. Since the resumption of specific payments the price of labor has not seded, while the price of products had declined. H. H. Aldrich, of the Chicago Board of Trade, was then given an opportunity to finish the statement he had heretofore made. He said that yesterday the statement had been made that any other explanation of the decline in prices of cereals than "short selling" was childish. It was perhaps orth coming to Washington to hear that Edward Atkinson, David A. Wells and the expert of the Department of Agriculture were children, and he read from articles by these men to the effect that prices in/years past had been regulated strictly by the law supply and demand throughout the rld. "Short" selling, to his personal world knowledge, was very common 10 to 20 years

A Statement Not Disputed.

It had been stated that offerings were un limited. It was hardly necessary to attempt to disprove that statement, because if it were, true prices would fall to almost nothing. It was not the short seller who caused the great and sudden declines in prices, but nearly always it was the man who was ong" of the market. He became tired of carrying, and depressed prices in his efforts to get out. It was not the interest of the short seller to depress prices except for the time being, and he did not endeavor to force them down below a point at which he could of their disappointment that Garza is still at large in American territory and that his operations cannot be confined exclusively to Mexican territory. Garza and his followers are known to have received aid and sympathy from the Mexican residents in the vicinity of the Rio Grande, and the fact that United States troops are unable to capture the revolutionists is in a large measure attributed to the deceptions practiced on them by these people. General Grant, Acting Secretary of War, and General Schofield had a conference with the President on this subject, to-day, and it is understood that it was decided to take vigorous action to capture Garza and his immediate followers and drive them out of this country. Senor Romero, the Mexican Minister, also had a talk with Secretary Blaine on the same subject to-day, and was assured that this Government would do its utmost to preserve the neutrality laws. The President of Mexico has withdrawn the suggestion recently made by him that Mexican troops in close pursuit of the rev-olutionists be allowed to cross the Rio Grande at points where the exact line of division of the two countries is as yet un-defined, a like privilege to be conceded to the United States troops under similar con-ditions. The opposition hold that this estimate is not sufficient ly large. The Conservatives have almost ng to close out his contract. Mr. Moses asked it spot wheat-which was the wheat the farmer sold-would not be higher if "futures" were done away Mr. Aldrich said that if too much wheat was not sold the price now might be better, but in May it would be lower, and the speculator, owing to the lower rates of interest he paid, could carry the wheat cheaper than the tarmer.

Millers Can't Guess Too Far.

Mr. Hatch asked if there would not be a healthy demand all the year round it the Surveyor of Customs at New York recomavatem of huving futures were abolished. Mr. Aldrich replied that' possibly that might be so, but the miller who made his European flour contracts six months ahead could not, without the future system, agree to deliver flour abroad, because he did not know the price of wheat six months hence. The time given Mr. Aldrich having exnired, he filed the article he onoted from.

Mr. Hatch said that members of the com-mittee who knew that the expert of the agricultural department who had been quoted was Statistician Dodge would know what ight was to be given to his statements Every tobacco dealer remembered that his report several years again upon the tobacco crop (which report he republished in advance of the crop) had cost the growers of Kentucky, Virginia, North Car olina and other States 25 per cent of the value of their crop, and Mr. Dodge was compelled two or three months afterward "to take back the report, after the farmers had been robbed of a large part of their crop." Mr. Funston, of Kansas-If you want to impeach Mr. Dodge you had better give him a hearing. Mr. Hatch-I will be very glad to do so; the gentleman from Kansas is familiar with the facts, and they are as I have stated

Mr. Funston-I would prefer to try Mr. Dodge before we hang him.

An Attack From Indianapolis E. Mattullath, of Indianapolis, next at-tacked the dealings in futures as "wind selling," that injured the producers. The greater part of the trading in wheat was done between October and April, and dur ing that time the farmer had to accept the depressed prices caused by the short seller. Along in the spring there might be a "bulge" in prices, but that did not benefit the farmer, because he had previously been compelled to sell his crop. The owner of wheat, he explained, saw the unlimited quantities of wheat, the "seller of wind," offered on the markel, became fearful that consumption would never catch up under such circum-stance, ios heart and dropped his contracts. Nobody could tell which was actual and which was "wind selling," and as a conse-quence of there being 100,000,000 bushels of whent sold where only 50,000,000 of wheat existed, prices were kept down. Usually there was a period of about four months be tween the selling and buying of "wind," and as May come around the speculator made another turn by selling "July delivwhich to a considerable extent regulated the price of "May" wheat.

Still Another Bill Submitted.

He compared "short" selling to the issue of stock in excess of the capitalization of a railroad company. No one, he said, bet on races on the belief as to which horse was the tanest; what the better wanted to know was how the jockey had been manipulated. The wheat speculator did not concern himself half so much about the crop and higher lower cable prices, but asked what Pardridge and other large traders would do People had become tired of losing money a this way, and consequently the volum of business had become smaller. The speaker then criticised the old Buttersorth anti-options bill, and laid before the committee a tmeasure he had framed It was in its main features similar to the anti-options bills now before the committee It requires that sellers of farm product farm products buy back at a profit. The most active and tions. The two governments will continue persistent buyer was the short seller seek- to co-operate, however, in the strict enforcement of the neutrality laws.

The State Will Investigate

posures.

The State Treasury is now quietly investigating into the disposition of cases brought during the past five years by the Law and Order detectives with a view to seeing what the fines were and what was done with them. Where imposed for violation of the act of 1794, they should have been paid into the treasury, as they belonged to the Commonwealth, but notwithstanding the activity of the prosecutions it is stated that, with the exception of the money paid in by Robert S. Frazier, Esq., agent for the State, there has been $36 returned in fines from Allegheny county inside of a year. The number of cases brought by the Law and Order detectives between 1888 and the present is estimated at several thousand, as udgment was generally given against the lefendants and as the fines ranged from $50 to $25 a very considerable sum remains to be accounted for to the State by someone.
