DEDICATED IN STYLE. Bishop Foss Officiates at the Opening of an Allentown Church.

SUTHERLAND TALKS ON SOCIETY.

People Who Are Continually Crying Reform ! of Very Agreeable.

A SERMON ON THE SIGNS OF THE STARS

The new Methodist Episcopal Church in Allentown was dedicated yesterday moraing. Bishop Foss officiated in the morning and Presiding Elder Miles conducted the afternoon services. The new church is a neat structure, and a model of comfort. It is built of brick and is so constructed that additions may be built without marring the appearance. A large andience was present at the opening service and the Bishop was listened to with attention.

The afternoon service was the most successiul. It was known as a platform meeting and the majority of the Methodist Episconal ministers in this vicinity were presen). The musical programme was very five and was rendered in excellent style by the choir. Subscriptions were taken at both services to the amount of $2,200 to help pay for the church: $500 was subscribed in the morning, and $1,700 at the afternoon meeting

WOMAN IN SOCIETY.

Rev. Dr. Sutherland Tatks of Her Particuiar Domain-Social Reformers Not the Most Agreeable People In the World-Proper Limitations.

Dr. Sutherland, of the Second Presbyterian Church, preached the second of a sories of sermons to young women last night. His special theme was: "Woman in Society or the Society Woman, Which?" He said: "In discussing the theme of the hour, I shall use the term 'society' in its broadest, its most natural, and most legitimare sense, as meaning the intercourse hotween any community of persons united together by a common bond of nearwoman, by virtue of her position and nature, woman, by virtue of her position and nature, is firted and destined to exercise a tremend-ons influence. It is an admitted fact that seniety to day is largely what woman has made it. In social matters man can never be a dictator or a leader. Man may recognize the faile of certain social habits and customs and in a mild and consciously helpless way protost against them, but he has neither the barreneignty is all but a boolute, and it should be excercised intelligently and wisely and with the view of making the social state as purfect as possible.

cloud be exercised intelligently and wisely and with the view of making the social state as perfect as possible. And just here left me guard you against a possible misapprehension. I do not want the yourg women here to-alght to so away from this service with the impression that I would have them turn social reformers' in the current and popular meaning of that phrase-in other words have them turn cranks. Great social reforms can only come as the conscience and the tastes of individuals are awakened and cultivated. And even then 1 apprehend that the chaines will not be such as are very often and very persistently advocated by some of our so-called social reformers. Nor will they be brongit abent suddenly. A professional reformer, whether man or woman, is in my opinion neither a very useful nor agreeable member of society, and I would be sorve to see any of you set out to assume that role. "And yet every one of you may in the truns and most effective scape help to re-form society-to basish out of it and from it that which is mean, sorid and debasing. You may by your character and behavior help to hift society to a higher plane, and thus make it serve its God-ordined purpose in this world. In speaking to you of Woman in Society,' I have not in mind the person who is at this day and by way of distinction spoken of as a society woman - a term which generally nears a approved fashing and to give and attend around of claborate and cosity proding a few months at some fashionable coside resort, with scarcely a thought, it are triffes. We must go past them and value the man. We must especially value the children, for they hold the inture. Pastors fear the rich and cannot go to them as to the poor; yet the rich should be valued as well, for they must be granded against themselves." He then spoke of the work among fallen women and said there was a great fleid where a hirady many have been reclaimed and placed in happy homes. He said his congregation should not draw back from such work as an immortal soul was precious no matter what its covering might be.

TALKED TO THE MYSTIC CHAIN.

Secrecy Not Necessarily an Objection to

Fraternal Organization. Rev. William Thompson, at St. James' Protestant Episcopal Church, Sixteenth street and Penn avenue, yesterday ad-dressed a sermon to the Ancient Order Knights of the Mystic Chain. Over 200 members of the order were present, including Select Commander Richard Muse and Recorder J. J. Davis, of the Supreme lodge. The sermon was prepared for the occasion, and was of interest. The minister upheld select organiza-tions, especially those founded on the principles of Christianity. The motto of the Mystic Chain, "Friendship, Truth and Benevolence," commended it to all fair-minded men. The mystery surrounding such an organization was only in harmony with mature. corder J. J. Davis, of the Supreme lodge.

such an organization was only in narmony with nature. Everything in nature was shronded in mystery. As the nativity of Christ was mys-terious, so was the growth of the ivy which casts its branches around the massive onk and no one knows why one branch should grow to the right and another to the left. Because an organization was secret in its methods was no argument against its use-fuiness. Many of them were doing a great work for the betterment of mankind.

THE BIBLE PRAISED.

Rev. Mr. Izer Instructs a Large Audience

at the Duquesne Theater. Rev. G. W. Izer, of Christ's Methodist Episcopal Church, commenced a series of sermonslast night in the Duquesne Theater. The theme of his sermon was "The Bible and the Nineteenth Century: the Bible in Literature," Mr. Izer, in the course of his Literature." Mr. Izer, in the course of his remarks, said: "The Bible is the temple of the world— the only structure which has stood through these ages. It has been heaped in piles and fired with faggots; it has been scorned and trampled upon by all ages, but it still comes down to us the only history of the centuries. Wesley has so rightly said, the Bible was the brightest offapring of God." "The speaker then commenced a tirade against the Liftiputian intellects of the world, who criticise the Bible in an unknow-ing way. From this he branched off onto literature as found in the Bible. He held the Book of Jub as the greatest literary work ever given to the world.

Ingersoll and Astrology Alike Scored by

Rev. E. R. Donchon. Post F. P. Doneboo, of the Eighth Presby, tering Church, West End, took for his subject last evening: "Lessons From the Stars," The text was from Genesis, cnapter 1, xvi verse, "He made the stars also," He said: Mr. Ingersoll has waxed very merry over the statement in this text. He claims enly too little space is given the account of the creation of vietit heavenly bodies and particularly to this parenthetic statement which he ridi-cules with sharpest irony. Had he read his links more carefully be could not have made such a criticism honestly. Not a single commentator of the present day in-terports this text to imply the creation of the sun, moon and stars, but only the setting apair of them for giving light to the new made careft, as the vapors which enveloped is cleared away. They were simply constituted light bearers and not created on the fourth day. What the text really teaches is that the starry world was just made ready for the enveloped to the fourth day of creation. The to this parenthetic statement which he ridirry world was just made ready for the in on the fourth day of creation. The it statement that I desire to make is that lunde the stars as He made all worlds systems. When we look heavenward behold His hundiwork in every sun and that lights up the vast expanse. These as in the brow of night that filled us with and wonder in our childbood, which in more manure years appall us with an inducer and immensity, worlds in operison with which this earth seems as over speek, one and all of them are the K of His hand who made us and all i His hand who made us and all visible and invisible. a seals the attention shown to the

Roy, J. T. Satchell Speaks on Peculiar Phases of Society.

Last night Rev. J. T. Satchell preached at the North Avenue M. E. Church, on the subject, "A Social Study." He spoke at length on how the world judges men, and anid: "A man who lives in a brownstone trent and drives a team with records of 2.1s, is looked upon as the cream of the world, and no matter what of the world, and no matter what he may be morally, the world takes off its hat to him and he has friends by the score. Yet what is wealth and how minity men have buried their identity in the amount of money they have accumulated? We little think of the sarcasm when we say a man abled worth $100.00 As soon as the money is divided the nam is forgotten. His wealth was everything. He was nothing wen the valued by case, and the world is Men are valued by ease, and the world is out of joint to make such a standard. In some countries standing is graded by wealth, in others by cultivation, and in oth-ers by purity of blood. In God's sight these
