Evidence of George W.'s Million Dollar Debt Admission Stands. NEWSY NOTES FROM NEARBY TOWNS

MEADVILLE, Feb. 15 .-- The Delamater trial was resumed this morning by placing Assignce Huskinson the stand to prove an admission to him by G. W. Delamater of the indebtedness of the firm of Delamater & Co., and also to trace the assets of the bank which had been hypothecated for loans. The evidence relating to some of the hypothecations was objected to by the defense, but overruled by the court.

Mr. Huskins testified that some $10,000 of the redecimated notes had been returned to the assignces, and that the oreditors would be able to realize about $3,300 therefrom. The balance would be consumed by offsets. The defense here moved to strike out all evidence as to the liabilities of G. B. and T. A. Delamater founded upon admissions T. A. Delamater founded upon admissions of G. W. Delamater, on the ground that such evidence should be by writing. The Court sustained the motion of the defense— an important victory for the Delamaters. A number of winesses were now called by the prosecution to prove that the property of the Delamaters was appraised for all it was worth, to which the defense in a few in-stances offered but little objection. The great field of the day, however, was of the Delamaters was appraised 101 mit to was worth, to which the delense in a few in-stances offered but little objection. The great fight of the day, however, was over the reputed admission of G. W. Dela-mater at a meeting of creditors of the in-debtedness of the bank and of the individ-mal members of the firm, which have been stated to be $60,000 for the bank and $200,000 for the members of the partnership outside of the bank, making a total of $1,650,000. W. P. Porter, one of the creditors, was relied upon for the evidence. He was severely handled by the defense, but his evidence was apparently unshaken. He produced a book given him, so he stated, by G. W. Delamater, which bore out the foregoing figures. The detense fought without avail to rule out the evidence, claiming it was given with a view of reaching a set-tlement, and that the statements were made in parlance. The Court, however, decided, after considerable wrangling, to admit Mr. Forter's evidence, which was second blood for the Commonwealth. for the Common wealth.

The court then adjourned until morning. Predictions are made that the case will last the week out, and perhaps longer, for every point will be hotly contested.

CLOUSTEN TELLS A STRANGE TALE.

He Says Spies of the resecution Dogged Him and fried to Steal His Papers.

PAREERSBURG, Feb. 15. - [Special] - The trial of the Ward Clousten embezzlement cases was resumed to-day and a decided sensation was sprung at the outset. Last Wednesday the trial was postponed until today upon affidavit of Clousten that W. H. Dye, a former attorney of this city, was a material witness for him, and that he was then in Kentucky. When the case was called to-day Hon. John A. Hutchinson, counsel for the defense, presented a motion connsei for the defense, presented a motion for a continuance and in support of it filed three affidavits, alleging sickness in Dye's family and business affairs. One deposition related that an official high in State authority in West Virginia had visited him and intimated that he would be nearwhich busefield if he would star away visited him and intimated that he would be pecuniarly benefited if he would stay away from Parkersburg. In the affidavit of Clousten it was stated that he had visited cincinnati for the purpose of getting Dye to come to his trial and could not get him; that he was followed by a spy to Cincinnati, who dogged his steps and returned on the same train with him after night. While Clousten was sleeping on the train he felt someone trying to get some papers from his pockets, and when he awoke he found it was the same man who had followed him. A tassle collowed in the aisle of the car, in which same man who had followed him. A tussle followed in the alsie of the car, in which Clousten worsted his opponent until a drummer interfered. The prosecution says that this tale is a cock and bull story, but the affidavits and statements of counsel are part of the records. The Court refused to grant the motion for continuance, and to morrow morning the trial must begin.

Entr. Feb. 15.-[Special.]-A meeting of manufacturers and shippers was held at the Board of Trade rooms this evening to take steps toward organizing for protection and for securing some remedy to the disadvan tages to which they are subjected by the railroads. Recent changes in the yards from Erie to Westfield have removed the locomotive power, so that shippers cannot receive or discharge goods for several days and sometimes weeks. The Erie shippers are also so badly discriminated against that they are often obliged to ship goods to New York to got a rate to San Francisco. A committee was appointed to join with the Commercial Exchange of Philadelphia in their efforts to have the discrimination against grain subject the they can got the same rate, which sends over 90 per ceat of the grain from Buffalo to Baltimore, to the great injury of the two Pennsylvania ports. ## Illinois and lowa League.

CHICAGO, Feb. 15 .- President McKee, of the Plinois-Iowa League, has been doing mis-sionary work in Peoria, Springfield and Jacksonville, and is confident that those cities will enter the League. The towns now considered certain are Rockford, Quincy and Joliet and the three named above. Strong pressure is being brought to bear on Burlington and Aurora, and it is expected that they will fall into hune, thus forming an ideal minor league circuit. The cities named are close together, and the circuit will be small and compact. The Rockford team to date comprises Hugh Nicol, right field and manager: Cassibola, center field: Joinson, George Nicol and Underwood, pitchers: Gil-len, short stop, and Sherbocker, catcher. Manager Nicol is now after a fielder, a base-man and a change catcher. The Quincy club expects to win the championship again this year. The team, which is nearly made up, will contain some strange faces. The new park at Springfield will be located in Wash-ington Park, which is say of access. Dave Corcoran will, it is said, manage the club at Aurora. and Joliet and the three named above.
