

HENSEL GOES SLOW.

No State Interference With the Reading Deal Will Take Place Till PUBLIC DANGER IS CLEAR.

A Conservative Policy Not Influenced by the Stock Boards. PATTISON DENIES RECENT TALKS.

The Lackwanna Company to Double Its Capital. It is Now Said. NO POSITIVE DENIAL IS OBTAINED.

HARRISBURG, Feb. 17.—Governor Pattison, having had his attention directed to various newspaper reports purporting to represent his attitude toward the railroad consolidation of last week and the contemplated action or non-action of the Law Department, said:

"The first information, direct or indirect, I had of the leases or consolidation of the coal carrying companies, was the newspaper reports of the same. Since their publication upon the transaction and its effect upon the public interest and the welfare of the Commonwealth, have been the subjects of attention.

I have conferred with the Attorney General, and he with me. The subject is one that relates to his department exclusively, and I have entire confidence that he will dispose of it with due regard to the requirements of the law and the public interests involved. The published reports I have seen, purporting to give his views or mine, have been unauthorized and untrue."

Hensel Denies Newspaper Stories. Attorney General Hensel, upon having the above statement of Governor Pattison shown to him, and upon being asked what truth there was in the published report that he had considered the railroad deal before it was announced, and had determined never since to take any action in the premises, said: "With regard to the particular statement printed, I believe, first in the Record and amplified elsewhere, that I had information of the lease ten days ago, and had decided the State would not interfere. I have just sent a dispatch to the Record saying its statement is utterly incorrect, and that I never had any information of the arrangements between these railroads other than such as was conveyed to the public through the newspapers, nor before those publications. I have neither come upon any determination nor decided upon any course of action further than I have made known to the public, and any statement heretofore made to the contrary is untrue.

Not Responsible for Recent Fakes. "This department is not responsible in any way for the somewhat misleading reports sent out from day to day, purporting to represent conclusions reached and action determined upon with regard to the Commonwealth's interference in the lease of certain railway lines by certain others alleged to be parallel or competing. It is true that from the first announcement of the contemplated arrangements between them, whatever it is—the alleged violation of the Constitution involved has had consideration by the Executive. It does not raise the issue which was determined in the case of the South Penn and coal conspiracy case—neither of which, by the way, was ever finally determined in the Supreme Court.

You may be assured, nothing done or omitted by this department in the course of consideration for the pending interests of rival corporations, nor will any action be taken or neglected with an eye upon the stock boards.

No Action Till Necessity is Shown. "No hearing is ever denied complaining debtors, but in no case, except such as I have just referred to, is litigation instituted until the danger of the general public interest is demonstrated. In extending to such orderly methods will be made, because in this particular case it is alleged the infringement complained of is to the detriment of one private corporation and to the advantage of another, or because it is maintained on the one hand, that the immediate effects upon the business interests of the State are beneficial, and, on the other hand, it is held that ultimately the public will suffer from a monopoly of one of the great necessities of life and of manufacturing industry.

The questions of constitutional law and of public policy involved will be met when they are properly presented. It is shown, it is made to appear, after such hearing, that the Constitution has been violated, that public interests are prejudicially affected and that the proper remedy is the intervention of the Commonwealth, the necessary and proper measures will be taken with public notice to all concerned. Nothing will be done in a hurry and nothing will be done in a corner, but the public interest will be protected against every danger that threatens, so far as lies in my power and within the scope of my duty. Meanwhile, no private interest or individual that is affected is without remedy, or needs to wait upon the Commonwealth.

HEALTH OFFICIALS ON A DETERMINED HUNT FOR TYPHUS CASES.

THE HEALTH OFFICIALS ON A DETERMINED HUNT FOR TYPHUS CASES. ACTION OF THE STATE BOARD. No Change in the Condition of the One Patient Discovered.

IT IS PECULIARLY A DISEASE OF DIRT. Angelo Amatore, the Italian who is confined to a dingy little room on the third floor of No. 1135 Penn avenue, suffering with typhus fever, is not yet out of danger, and City Physician and the Bureau of Health yesterday renewed their orders that no one be allowed to see the sick man, and that all possible precautions be taken to prevent a spread of the dreaded disease. The ailment is considered malignant and contagious, and is a malady deemed practically extinct so far as civilized cities are concerned. The disease once devastated Europe, and was known as "The Black Plague." It is most prevalent in winter and early spring. Its attacks are most frequent and most fatal made on the ill-fed and uncleanly occupants of overcrowded and ill-ventilated tenements.

The disease is also infectious, and exposure to an atmosphere contaminated by its poisonous germs will induce an attack as well as contact with any of the effects of a typhus patient, and even physicians attending the sick, it is said, may convey the infection in their clothing. It requires, it is said, from 15 to 20 days for the disease to show itself.

The Patient's Condition Unchanged. Dr. Moyer, who is attending the sick Italian, said last night that the condition of his patient was unchanged, and that the case which was developing was certainly typhus fever. He also said that the sick man had been fumigated and that strong disinfectants were being used about the place. He believed that there would be no spread of the disease from the sick man since his discovery, but he is fearful that other cases will result from contact with the victim before he was confined to bed.

The Bureau of Health yesterday received a positive letter from Dr. Benjamin Lee, Secretary of the State Board of Health, in which he inquired as to the progress of the infected sick Italian destined for Pittsburgh and other points in Pennsylvania. The letter also said: "If any case of typhus develops, at once quarantine the house and isolate or remove the patient to a pesthouse."

The names of the Italians who are supposed to have come to Pittsburgh are given by Dr. Lee as follows: Angela Matera, Mario Carone, Giovanni Carone, Pietro Rose, Maria Agostinelli (one child), Antonio Pizzaro, Lucretia Pizzaro, Giuseppe Esposito, Antonio Agostinelli, Marie Giallo, Pasquale Lanna, Gustav Passino, Giovanni Stella, Pasquale Giallo and Pietro Tozio.

It was decided not to remove Amatore to the pesthouse yesterday. The attending physician believes he can be treated here, but he is fearful that if he is light, but it is positively the much-dreaded disease.

The Health Officials Alert. The Bureau of Health is greatly concerned over the earliest letter from the State Board of Health and the list of the supposed infected persons in the cities of Pittsburgh and neighboring towns. The Italian quarters in the city have been thoroughly searched for other victims of the disease. No others have yet been found. It was reported at police headquarters that three men, who were seen on the upper Southside. One of them seemed to be sick and was being almost carried by his companions. They had just arrived in Pittsburgh from the Italian family which they had lived in Brownstown. They are unable to talk English, and in order to gain information they showed a paper bearing a New York City Dispatch clipping which carries the way to Brownstown, Pittsburgh.

The paper was unsigned and was written in a foreign hand. Amatore, the sick Italian, still insists that he was the one who brought the ill-fated Massilia who came to Pittsburgh. The sanitary inspectors, however, refuse to believe this, and are satisfied that all the passengers who came West from New York were instructed to leave the ship at the time of the disease for fear they would be returned to their foreign homes. Officers have been industriously looking for the three Italians who were seen on the Southside and other quarters where the foreigners congregate. Those best acquainted with the city have been instructed to report the arrival of any new comers and to notify the authorities promptly in case any of the foreigners are taken sick.

Recently a Dirty Disease. While discussing typhus fever yesterday Dr. Moyer said: "It is exclusively a dirt disease and there is no real cause for it to spread in Pittsburgh. Occasionally a single case appears in a civilized city, but it is quickly isolated and the patient is promptly destroyed. As a rule, the danger is stamped out at its very beginning. In the case of the Penn avenue victim all such precautions were taken.

It is believed that the disease has been landed in New York and were allowed to scatter through the entire country. The first intimation of danger did not come to us until the disease had developed and one unfortunate was prostrated with it.

INDIAN APPROPRIATIONS.

PRESIDENT HARRISON SENDS A MESSAGE TO CONGRESS ABOUT THEM—HE THINKS THE WHOLE SUBJECT SHOULD BE DISPOSED OF BY THE PRESIDENT. WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 17.—The President sent to Congress a message calling attention to the Cheyenne and Chickasaw claims for the payment of which Congress appropriated $2,991,450 in the Indian appropriation bill passed by the last Congress. This amount was to be paid these Indians for their interest in lands lying south of the Canadian river in the Indian Territory and now occupied by the Cheyenne and Arapaho Indians. Three-fourths of the appropriation was to be paid to such person or persons as should be authorized by the laws of the Cheyenne Indians to receive it and one-fourth to the Chickasaws, the appropriation to become operative upon the execution of releases and conveyances satisfactory in manner and form to the President.

The President then says it came to his knowledge that the Cheyenne and Chickasaw had agreed to pay three of that 25 per cent of any appropriations obtained from Congress, and that the Chickasaws agreed to pay 10 per cent of their interest to their agent, Charles C. Johnson, and that the knowledge of the President that the action of the Cheyenne council was corruptly influenced in the matter.

The President does not think that Congress should be asked to appropriate such a sum for the Cheyenne and Chickasaw and he is of the opinion that if this appropriation is to stand, provisions should be made for protecting these tribes against extortion.

The President does not approve of dealing with the question by piecemeal. He would have been better, he says, if a remnant of title remains in the Cheyenne and Chickasaw to the lands in the leased districts which he has asked Congress to purchase. The calculations made in arriving at the basis of the appropriations made, no account being taken of the $800,000 paid by treaty stipulation to the leased district, and the President is of the opinion that the United States. In conclusion, the President commends the matter to the attention of Congress for such action as may be thought advisable.

ANOTHER ALICE MITCHELL.

CINCINNATI Has a Girl Who Proposes to Another—She Threatens to Kill the Recipient of Her Letter if She Won't Accept the Offer. CINCINNATI, Feb. 17.—[Special.]—Cincinnati can duplicate almost anything in the way of a sensation. She has just come to the front with an Alice Mitchell-Freda Ward case, although, fortunately, bloodshed has been averted. The woman who takes the part of Miss Mitchell in the case is Annie Bryant, of 417 Eastern avenue, and the Freda Ward is Florence Megre, a pretty blonde saleslady for Oskamp, Nolting & Co., residing on Columbia avenue, near Tusculum avenue.

The principal features of the case are almost identical with the Memphis tragedy. About two weeks ago Annie Bryant had occasion to visit the store of Oskamp, Nolting & Co., and while there she met Miss Megre, who is a fascinating little lady. Bryant got into the store to buy a little hair brush and showed her liking in a most striking manner.

Nothing was thought of this, however, until several days ago, when in Miss Megre's mail there came a letter which caused her to tremble with fear and excitement. The letter was from the Bryant woman and was couched in the most endearing language. RUBBED WITH RELICS.

THEY EFFECT A MARVELOUS CURE WHICH ASTOUNDS THE DOCTORS. A PATIENT'S NERVES SHATTERED. But He Was Made Whole by a Suspended Catholic Priest.

A MIRACLE THAT PUZZLES SCIENTISTS. SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—What is probably one of the most remarkable cures on record has just been effected by Rev. Father Tom Adams, a suspended Catholic priest of Brooklyn. The subject of this cure is Michael B. McCarthy, proprietor of the West End Hotel, this city. For nearly three years McCarthy has suffered excruciating torture from a peculiar ailment that was the result of a fall from an electric car in Boston. He was treated and examined by leading physicians in Boston, New York and cities in the South, including Baltimore, Washington and Richmond, without getting relief. His case was pronounced both unprecedented and incurable.

The doctors said his trouble was due to an injury to the medulla oblongata caused by his fall from the car in Boston. The nerves which controlled the respiratory organs had been shattered and had lost all control of the lungs. While an apparently robust, healthy man, McCarthy's respiration was at the rate of 162 a minute, instead of the normal rate of 18 a minute.

Walking About as Well as Ever. To-day this man, whom scores of the most skillful physicians in North and South pronounced incurable, walked into a local newspaper office, and with a countenance glowing with delight, declared himself a cured man. McCarthy told how he had been treated by Father Tom Adams, of Brooklyn.

"He told me to kneel down before a little altar and pray, and he prayed also. I then bared my body, and he rubbed me with articles which he called relics of our Saviour and the saints. I was sick when I went to him and I was sick when I left, and was feeling badly all the way home—so bad that when I was on the ferryboat I was wishing that I had all my ailments in one place, so that I might have heard me breathing moved away from me in apparent disgust, while others crowded around me for a moment or two, and thought I was crazy. About 5 o'clock the list was as follows: Particles of the flesh of St. Francis, of Assisi; particles of the garments of St. Julia, the virgin martyr; earth and coffin wood from the grave of St. Teresa Alva, Spain; particles from the tomb of St. Joseph, a part of the coffin of the Sacred Heart of Jesus; particles from the urn of St. Aloysius Gonzaga; particles from the grave of the Virgin Mary, a small statuette of St. Teresa, made from the earth of her grave; piece of stone from the tomb of Christ; portion of the crib in which Christ was placed in the stable at Bethlehem; part of the garments worn by St. Alfonso Siger.

Father Adams has what appear to be proofs of the authenticity of these relics in documents yellow with age, signed by an August of 1709 and containing the name of Father Adams, who was the Holy Writ, and he quoted freely from the Bible in support of his statements.

The Testament Cited as Authority. The New Testament, he said, contains narratives of faith cures, and so do common history and tradition. The suspended priest has effected, if common report is true, many wonderful cures. He has no fixed charges, it is said, but accepts for his services any offer made to him.

Some of the physicians at Bellevue Hospital who had knowledge of McCarthy's case were astonished to-day when a reporter inquired of them of the case of the hotel-keeper. The doctors were incredulous, and a delegation of them headed by Doctors Cooper and Black hurried down town on an elevated train to see down on the case. The physicians consulted by McCarthy on his recovery, and asked him to appear before the students of Bellevue Medical College.

The reporter Dr. Cooper said McCarthy's recovery was in all probability due to the fact that his public was not organic, but functional. They said that if he had exercised as much will power at any time before during his trouble as he did when he went to see the suspended priest he would in all probability have recovered.
