A MARRIAGE THAT FAILED.

ITS STORY TOLD IN THE DEACON TRAGEDY AT GAY CANNES.

Other Causes of Marital Discord Than Wifely Infidelity-The Chances for Leniency in the French Courts-Mrs, Deacon Once Guarded Her Reputation.

CANNES, FRANCE, Feb. 19 .- Mr. Deacon's action in shooting M. Abeille meets with general commendation. Mr. Deacon, who surrendered to the police immediately after the shooting, was to-day examined by the magistrate in charge of the cases. Mr. Deacon said he arrived at the Hotel Splendide shortly after midnight vesterday. As he entered the corridor he saw a light shining through the space under the door of his wife's room.

Mr. Dencon's suspicions regarding his wife had been aroused some months prior to result of many stormy meetings of the | that by her conduct, but he had no tangible inci, and that Mr. Balfour was more proof. Wifely Extravagance Began It. Mr. Deacon further stated that his wife had the most extravagant tastes, and that lately she had spent fabulous sums on her toilet. This extravagance had led to quarrels between him and his wife. His conjugal life, he said, had been unhappy for a long time. He was very soory for what he had done, but the thing had gone on too long and could only end Badly.

A special telegram to THE DISPATCH from New York says: The French law governing such crimes as the killing of M. Abeille is not very different from ours in its result. The old timers who remember hill, there is no chance of an appeal to the killing of James Barton Key in Broad way by a wronged husband, and the acquit tal of the latter after a long trial, know that even in this city justice at times takes a lenient view of such offenses.

The French Law on the Subject. Viscombe d'Albac, the French Consul General here, quoted the French code when asked what the law of France said in such cases. In article 324appears this paragraph In the case of adultery, murder of the

The Story of the Deacon Marriage, An evening paper has the following: The affair at Cannes vesterday, which involves the reputation of Mrs. Florence Deacon, is a terrible and nuexpected blow to her friends and family in this city.

Florence Baldwin, the daughter of the wather is the coldiest experienced in 39 late Admiral Baldwin and the cousin of Eugene Higgins, the young millionaire, was married to Edward Parker Deacon, the son of Commodore Deacon, about 12 years ago, Mrs. Deacon was then very young, and for cannel in the endangers the position some time and for various reasons connected not alone with the wouth of his daughter, Admiral Baldwin hesitated constorms of unusual violence are sent to the marriage, but he presently in fredand to-night, and railway yielded, and it was brilliantly celebrated. Mrs. Deacon was then a beautiful woman, a blonde, with slight willowy figure, fine complexion and large expressive eyes. Mrs. Deacon attracted some attention a few years since by declining to be presented to the Prince of Wales out of regard for her reputation. The style of living of these young people swallowed up fortune after fortune.

POLITICS OF THE POPE.

He Advises Frenchmen Not to Change Their Form of Government.

PARIS, Feb. 19.-The Catholic newspapers here publish an encyclical letter from the Pope addressed to the clergy. The Pope declares any form of Government is good, provided it tends to further the public welfare, and that it is, therefore, the duty of all to accept the legally established governant and not attempt to change its form.

Minister Smith has presented to M. de declares any form of Government is good, all to accept the legally established govern-ment and not attempt to change its form. But it is necessary, he says, to distinguish between established powers and legislation. The former must be obeyed, but legislation hostile to the religion of God cannot be approved. The Pope concludes by expressing himself in favor of the maintenance of the concordat, and urging the union of all Frenchmen for the development of the greatness of France.

of Pontry Three Months Ago. PARIS, Feb. 19 .- The trial of Charles Vanbourg commenced before the Seine Assizes to-day. Though the murder for which he was placed on trial this morning was committed over three months, the authorities have not yet been able to wring from Vaubourg the motive. The prosecuting attorney said that November 4 last a hor rible discovery was made in a cellar beneath a building in this city, a large fivestory house occupied by a number of workmen's tamilies, and also the place where workshops of M. Vacheress, a furniture manufacturer, were located in the basement. The two workmen, at about noon, went down into the cellar to fetch a pack-ing case, and one of them went by himself into a further cellar to look for the necessary box. There he found the body of a man, completely naked, with the head cut off at the shoulders.

Dr. Descants, a police surgeon, concluded that the man had been strangled before his head had been cut off, and a short cord was found in an outer cellar, where it was evident the deed was done. The decapitation, he added, appeared to have been done by very skillful hands. M. Goron, chief of the detective service, established the identity of the headless corpse, and the arrest of Charles Vaubourg followed. When he was ought before the magistrate for examination he was informed that the headless body had been proved to be that of his friend, Boutry, also known as Boutroille, and Vaubourg was advised to confess that he had murdered the man. Vaubourg claimed that the police were mistaken, and

Railway Tickets of the Starving. ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 19.-The comnittee appointed to inquire into the adulteration of flour purchased by the St. Petersburg committee for the relief of famine sufferers have made a report as to the facts ascertained by them. The investigating committee demands that MM. Yallonsky and Niemann, two members of the Relief Committee, be prose-cuted for the part they took in the pur-chase of the adulterated flour. They also urge that other members of the Relief Committee be reprimanded for culpable negli-gence in not preventing the consummation of the swindle

An interesting fact in connection with the efforts of the Government to aid the suf-ferers by means of free tickets on the railways is that even this charity has been abused. Many complaints have been made by the railway authorities, especially on the Nicholas line, that the free ticket system, intended exclusively destitute persons coming from the famine stricken districts to the capital in search of relief and employment, has been taken advantage of by well-to-do persons, especially of the merchant class. It has been found that large numbers of these free tickets have been sold for small sums to persons who could well afford to pay their fares. It is stated that numbers of these travelers are discovered every day, and that when they are detected they are compelled to pay the regular fares.

The tug started with a steamer which had been lying at Bear Hayen, a part of Bantry Bay, but before they had proceeded far a heavy gale sprang up. The steamship plunged heavily, and finally the hawser parted, leaving the steamer helpless. The wind and sea were rapidly increasing, and it was finally decided that the tug must seek shelter, so she stood away for Crook Haven. To the Divorce Suit Filed by Her Husband Some Time Since.

MANY SENSATIONAL ALLEGATIONS

As to a Number of Wives in Various Sections of the Country.

Mrs. Lelah Lewis, the attractive young woman who made such a sensation last November by frequent attempts at suicide just because her husband charged her with unfaithfulness, has given up the desire to emigrate to the spirit land and as a diversion charges her husband with having wives in almost all the corners of the globe, Mr. Lewis is a traveling salesman whose business takes him to the leading cities of the country. His wife thinks she is no worse than he, even if she were as bad as he and his hired detectives claimed, and yesterday filed an answer to his suit for di-

Attorney Manon filed the paper. It starts off with an assertion that Mr. Lewis had for over a year been what a good husband should not be. His first particular friend mentioned was Susie Egler, a domestic living in Allegheny, whom he was charged with visiting more frequently than even friendship required. Another young lady with the poetic name of Bessie McKnight was put in the same role with Susie. Down in tropical New Orleans, it was asserted that Mr. Lewis considered that distance severs marriage vows and had therefore taken unto himself a wife whose name when she wasn't Mrs. Lewis was Katie Vail, or "Kit," as Lewis is alleged to have called her in telling his friends about his Louisiana home.

It is also asserted that Mr. Lewis can write, and that he has a large and varied correspondence. As he is a traveling man it is claimed that he frequently addressed letters to his many wives and finally grew so careless that his Pittsburg partner learned the story. One of the women to whom his tender missives was directed is said to have been called Rena Lewis. Her home is among the cowboys at San Antonio, Tex., and Rena, it is claimed, is as wild as the country and as romantic as a Texas

Ella M. Lewis is the name given of a Moundsville, Ind., woman who, it is claimed, shared the love and money of Lewis with his many other wives. Her Lewis with his many other wives. Her home is within a day's ride of Pittsburg and is alleged to have been arranged as a stopping off place for the plaintiff on his frequent Southern trips. When he journeyed Northward, it is asserted, a Detroit wife cared for 'his wants and brushed the dust from his traveling clothes. The name of this woman is not known. In addition the real Mrs. Lawis claims her addition the real Mrs. Lewis claims her husband was acquainted with other women on the line of his travels. She asks in conclusion that he be required to give proof of the criminal charges against her. She demands a jury trial.

The Court required Lewis to pay his wife $7 a week and with this money she claims she is living quietly with a private family. The frial will hardly be reached

A SUIT ON HASTINGS' BOND.

An Effort Made to Recover the Allegheny Market House Shortage.

City Solicitor Elphinstone, of Allegheny, yesterday entered two suits in behalf of the city against ex-Market Clerk David Hastings and his bondsmen, G. W. Day and W. B. More. The suits are to recover a portion of the money Hastings is alleged to have embezzled under his bond. The first suit is brought to recover $741 11, the amount Hastings is alleged to have appropriated to his own use during 1889 from rents received from garden stands. His term at that time was from the first Monday in April, 1888, to the first Monday of April, 1890, and his bond was in the sum of $5,000, with Day and More as sureties. The suit is brought to recover judgment on that bond to be released on payment of $741 11 with interest. Hastings was re-elected by Councils, his next term of two years beginning the first Monday of April, 1890. A second bond of $5,000, with the same sureties, was given. In that term, it is charged, he embezzled $1,573 23, and the second suit is to recover that amount. He was retired from office September 15, 1891.

Seven Children Contest a Will.

The will of the late Jefferson Lane, of Springdale township, was filed yesterday for probate and a contest of it was commenced at the same time. In his will the festator bequeaths to seven of his children $10 each. They are Thomas J. Lane, Andrew J. Lane, G. S. Lane, George W. Lane, Sarah J. Hartley, Alice Leslie and Margaret Shaner. To his other child, Mary Ann E. Shannon, he bequeathed his farm in Springdale township and the residue of his estate. The seven children who each received $10, through their attorneys, Moore & McGarr, filed a caveat against the will protesting against its admission to probate. The reasons for the contest have not yet been filed.

Arguing Against a Damage Verdict. In Common Pleas No. 2 yesterday the case of Seamon vs the city of Pittsburg was argued. There is a motion for a new trial to avoid the payment of $740 damages, a verdict having been secured by the plaintiff for that amount. Sistersville Has a Foom and Land Commands Good Bonuses.

WEST ELIZABETH GAS TERRITORY The great majority of men now engaged in the oil business can recollect when the tallow candle was the illuminant of the masses. They can also remember when people, who could afford to burn lard oil, a dirty, disagreeable compound, were considered pretty well to do. Crude lamps that would not now tolerated in a cabin were in use in the homes of the then elite, and in the larger cities a poor quality of manufactured gas could be had at a price which placed it among the luxuries of the earth.

among the luxuries of the earth.

Not over 30 years has clapsed, but in that time the petroleum producer has given to mankind a cheap, clean light, as superior to what his forefathers ever dreamt of as electricity is to refined oil. It can be carried and transported where electricity cannot be generated and will therefore always be valuable.

There are few who know when crude oil was first refined. In 1859 several barrels of petroleum, or Seneca oil as it was them called, were shipped to Pittsburg on a raft from Colonel Drake's well near Titusville. S. M. Kier, of Pittsburg, who was then, engaged in refining an illuminant from shale oil received the petroleum sent by Colonel Drake. In a few weeks he had reduced it to a refined state, and re-shipped it up the Allegheny river by boat to Titusville.

High Price for Refined Oil. It was then placed in the hands of R. D. Fletcher, now a resident of Titusville, who sold the first gallon of oil refined from petroleum, on December 30, 1859, to Jona-than Watson, for $1.25.

Not many months elapsed before it came into general use among the residents of Titusville, but on account of the imperfect lamps then in vogue it took years to introduce it to the country at large. The lamps were made of tin and burned a round wick, similar to those used in burning the raw crude. Glass lamps were finally invented, and sold at $1 and $1 25 each. Glass chimneys were 25 cents and wicks 4 cents each.

Since then refined oil has been shipped to almost every port in the world and is used by all nations, under all climes and by all classes of people. The tallow candle has been placed in the same category as the snuff box, the spinning wheel, the old oaken bucket, and the horse car. In a large section of the United States natural gas is now in general use. Pennsylvanians were not the first to use natural gas as might be erroneously believed, for centuries ago the wily Chinee noticed it escaping from crevices in the earth and soon made use of it. They stored it in silken tanks, and piped it long distances through bamboo poles, using it both as an illuminant and for heating purposes.

The Wheeling Gas Company has the bailer out of its No. 3 on the W. B. Moorhead farm, southwest of McDonald, and are drilling past the tools in No. 3. Patterson & Jones are starting to build a rig on the Stonecipher farm. They did not drill in the McGarr well yesterday. Mellon & Co. were due to reach the sand last evening in their No. 2 on the Isaac Ewing farm.

New Wells Expected Soon. Gardnier, Fitzgibbons & Co. expect to get the filth to-day in their No. 6 on the Mertz farm in southwest McCurdy. The Devonian Oil Company's No. 3 on the Boyce farm, in the same locality, was only a few feet from the fifth yesterday, and should be in the top of it some time this afternoon. Their No. 4 is drilling in the foot sand. 100-foot sand.

Millison & Co. are starting to drill at their No. 2 on the Henry Shaffer farm.

Jennings, Guffey & Co.'s No. 3, on the Matthews heirs' property, is down 2,000 feet and should be finished up next week. They have started to drill No. 4, on the Matthews heirs, and are fishing at No. 5 on the Bell farm. The gas well on the Hess farm, three miles back of Hulton in Plum Creek town- and m ship, Allegheny county, was drilled into the third sand and started off at the rate of nearly 400 pounds a minute. It is owned by James A. Deeds & Co. and is said to be the first gasser struck in the Gordon sand north of Pittsburg. Greenlee & Forst have struck another big gasser in the northwestern part of Butler county. It is their No. 4 on the Elliott farm and is located 1,500 feet northeast of No. 3, and within a short distance of Elliott's mills. The gas from these wells will be piped to New Castle to be used in the mills of that city.

Sistersville Is Booming. SISTERSVILLE-Shav & Smith's well or the Stocking property just above Sisters-ville is showing for a well in a most en-couraging manner. Yesterday afternoon the tools entered a softer streak in the sand than they had been drilling in and the owners were hopeful that it would prove to be

West Elizabeth Gas Field, WEST ELIZABETH-Suce & Owens' Wylie No. 2 has been drilled deeper into Production Still Keeping Up.

The most noticeable feature of the McDonald field vesterday was the fact that its production remained at 29,000 barrels.

A number of the old wells were agitated and three fiew ones were placed on the list of those making more than 20 barrels an hour. These were the Forest Oil Company's No. 3 on the E. Wright farm, which is a new well, and the others were Guffey, Murphy & Galey's Nos. 1 and 2 on the Sam Sturgeon farm, which were stirred up and had a combined output of 25 barrels an hour. The Forest's No. 3 on the E. Wright had been put down as good for not more than 300 barrels a day, but deeper drilling yesterday brought it up to almost 23 barrels an hour.

Integration was received in Pitteburg.

The observing specialist notices at this season a predominance of neuralize pains in conjunction with catarrial troubles. These conjunction with catarrial troubles. These neuraigic pains are generally located directly above each eye and through the temples—supra-orbital neuralgia they are known to physicians—and they are so severe at times as to cause the most excruciating agony. These pains are also frequently observed in the chest and more particularly the left chest, shooting through to the shoulder blade, and when accompanied by cough cause considerable anxiety on the part of the patient.

FRANKLIN, PA., Feb. 1, 1892.

DRAW SIRS—I desire to give you a history of my case. I have suffered from catarrh for a number of years, just how many I don's know, but for the last five years I have been troubled a great deal. I have tried other doctors and got no relief. I had become a nuisance to myself as well as to my family. I used to go around coughing, hawking, and spitting until they would beg me to leave the house.

saltring until they would beg me to leave the house.

At last I determined to do something. I saw Mayor R. W. Dunn's letter in the paper and called on him. He snoke so highly of your method of treatment that I concluded to try a course. This was two months ago. I have used your treatment according to directions, and am a great deal better, and am satisfied you will cure me. I am fully satisfied your treatment is the right kind for chronic catarth, and can freely recommend its use to any person suffering with that terrible disease.

I remain yours truly,
