FIFTH AVENUE FIXED.

The Board of Assessors Has Decided Not to Change the Figures.

CAUSE FOR THIS POLICY.

A Number of Reductions Announced in the Other Wards.

THE LAST OF THE APPEALS FILED.

An Estimate of the Valuation to Be Presented to Conneils

WHEN THAT BODY MEETS TO-MORROW

The Board of Assessors have completed their revision of all the wards in the city, except the Third, Fifth, Fourteenth, Nineteenth, Twentieth and Twenty-second, and they expect to get through with all but one or two of those during the next week. They are now preparing an estimate of the total taxable valuations of the city and will present it to Conneils to-morrow, so that there need be no further delay by the finance committee in preparing the appropriation ordinance. A member of the board was asked vesterday what the total would be, but he refused to say until the matter had been reported to Councils. It was learned vesterday that the Assessors will not make any reduction from their original assessment on Fifth avenue properry, between Market and Smithfield streets. It will be remembered, a meeting was held and a resolution adopted by a number of Fitth avenue holders of property requesting the assessors to cut their valuations on ground between the streets named about 20 per cent. The resolution was published in the newspapers and when the appeals came in nearly every one, whether the appellant had attended the meeting or not, called at-tention to the resolution and asked for the 20 per cent reduction, but with a few exceptions none of the appellants swore their property was valued at less than the asses-

The Figures Will Stand.

At that time the assessors remarked that they had been careful in their estimates in the light of recent sales, and saw no reason why they should pay any attention to the resolution, particularly as they had not been officially notified of the meeting and were not tavored with a copy of the resolution. From what could be learned yesterday they have not receded from that position on the question and the original figures will stand.

The reductions made by the assessors in the revision of the Twelfth ward assessments are very general. As there were comparatively few appeals from that ward this was rather unexpected. The reduction raises the figures to $14,000; on four acres on Penn avenue, all through the ward is 10 and 110 perches assessed at $28,140 he asks a per cent off the original assessment. On Liberty, Smallman and Railroad streets and on all cross streets and alleys between Lib-erty street and the river, 15 per cent off. No change is made between Liberty and Arch

The Last Big Batch of Appeals.

Nearly 500 appeals from the assessments in the Fourteenth ward came in yesterday, being the last day for filing. This ward has brobably produced more appeals than any other in the city and nearly half the appellants have either suggested, asked for, or demanded rural or agricultural classifica-tion. It is not likely from the present attitude of the Board that any but full value classification will be allowed in that vard, though the matter will not be difficilty settled for several days.

The agent for the Ursuline Young Ladies' academy, relative to which the Assessor addressed a communication to the Subject of exemption from taxes, submitted an appeal with a copy of portions of the charter of the institution. The Assessor's valuation of the ground is $197,917 and of the ard, though the matter will not be inuitely settled for several days. The agent for the Ursuline Young La-

The act incorporating the academy was passed March 21, 1872, and gave the incorporators perpetual succession, the right to sue and be sued, implead and be impleaded, and to acquire, take and hold property, real, personal or mixed, by purchase, gift, devise or boquest, with full power to alien or convey at pleasure, and all other rights belonging to similar corporations, provided the net annual income from the property shall not exceed $5,000. Section 2 of the charter states that the object and purpose of the corporation shall be the promotion of Chris-tian and liberal education and the cultiva-tion of the various branches of science, art and literature. Section 8 locates the insti-tution in Pittsburg and exempts the buildng and not exceeding five acres of land

The agent protests against an assessment on the portion exempted by the State from taxation, and claims further that the As-sessors' valuation is excessive. He saxs: "A well-informed dealer stated that the property would not realize over $75,000 at a public sale. Part of the ground is at an angle of 45 degrees and a large part is taken by a winding road, which, owing to the elevation of buildings, is necessary." He claims further that the lots are estimated at an excessive figure, as some of them are simply steep cliffs, while others are in a ravine and would cost $15,000 to put them in condition for sale. The attention of a member of the Board of Assessors was called to the above appeal, and after reading; it he said he could see no reason why the institution should not be exempted as the act provided, but he thought it strange the matter had not been resented before. No objection had ever een made to assessing the property until

A Big Difference in Figures. The 1014-acre tract occupied by Moorhead, McCleane & Ca.'s mill on Second avenue is assessed at $307,875, and the improvements and machinery at $503,000. Their 254-acre tract on Burlington street is agured at $82,500. The firm's valuation is $205,250 on the 10 scres, $55,000 on the 234 acres and $500,000 on the mill and machinery. They are also assessed $20,690 on dwellings, stable, coke ovens, etc., but ask for a reduction of $1,399 on buildings torn

R. S. Warring's assessment foots up $161,494, but he makes no appeal. He is assessed $78,594 on 3 acres and 23 perches at Forbes and Halket streets, $12,000 on brick mansion thereon; $8,100 each on two lots of 50x12734 feet each, on Fifth avenue, near Halket street, and $8,600 on residence and other buildings on each; $8,100 on lot 50x 1271/2 feet on Forbes, near Halket street, and $8,600 on buildings thereon; $4,100 on 29.8 perches of land on Halket street. A LAW ON FULL DRESS.

Text of a Statute Which is Said to Exist, But Which Cannot Be Found on the Books-A Suggestion for Bold Agent

A correspondent who has been unfavorably impressed by the Law and Order raids, suggests a new field for official activity in the protection of public morality as follows: "I find in my scrap book a newspaper elipping, where, under the heading of 'Old Pennsylvania Laws,' appears the following: 'If any white female of 10 years or upward shall appear in any public street, lane, highway, church, court house, tavern, ballroom, theater, or any other place of public resort, with naked shoulders, (i. e., lownecked dresses), being able to purchase necessary clothing, she shall forfeit and pay a fine of not less than one nor more than

"If this be really Pennsylvania law, still in force, it seems to me that police officials are often derelict in their duty as conserva-tors of the public morals in not sending for officers and patrol wagons when fashionable ters."

A number of Allegheny county lawyers who were shown the above communication yesterday were rather inclined to the belief vesterday were rather inclined to the belief that if such a law ever existed it has been wiped off the statute books for a century or more. The law library could supply no in-formation on the subject. The law books there were examined away back into 1600, but while there are laws upon laws bearing on all manner of alleged offenses, there appears no law covering the grave crime of exposing well-formed shoulders.

"That law, if it really exists, should be dragged from its musty hiding place and enforced to its strictest letter." C. F. McKenna said yesterday, "It must be shocking for our reform organizations to see a women appear in full and fashionable dress. The very thought should untie every Law and Order reformer in the State, and if no law for action now exists, a special session of our legislature should be called at once, to provide the ways and means to wipe out of society the shocking custom of appearing in fashionable attire.

THE WOUNDS COULD NOT HAVE KILLED

John Pulpus will have to answer for the murder of Sarah Joyce. Coroner McDowell held his last hearing in the case yesterday, at the conclusion of which the jury decided against the colored man and he was committed to jail to await trial in court. The Coroner and police have been hard at work endeavoring to get at the facts in the case ever since the body of the young woman was found a week ago. As a first result of the research it has been pretty clearly proven that death resulted from the woman being smothered. Her wounds were not serious enough to kill her. As to the connection of Pulpus with the affair, the evidence is entirely circumstantial, and not very strong at that. The Coroner, however, considered it good patch Publishing Company, Judge White enough to hold the man on.
