Mob Crash Into Street Cars.

The Company Makes a Strong but Vain

Effort to Resume Traffic. NO PURTHER ATTEMPT TILL MONDAY

INDIANAPOLIS. Feb. 27-To-day has seen some rather riotous demonstrations in connection with the street railroad strike, but the casualties have been limited to a few cracked heads and a slightly larger pumber of black eyes. To-night both sides of the controversy appear as determined as ever, and express and baggage wagons, hastily filled with rough seats, are furnishing the popular means of rapid transit at 10 cents a

The victory of to-day's battle seems rest with the strikers, for they have succeeded in preventing the running of cars and demonstrated that there are no deserters from their ranks. They have also convinced nearly everybody that the company's claim to having sufficient men to run its cars was false.

The first attempt to move cars was made at the New Jersey street barns, in the outskirts of the city. Mayor Sullivan, with Chief of Police Colbert and 36 patrolmen, appeared there shortly before 7 o'clock this

The Mayor's Warning Unheeded.

The Mayor addressed the assembled strikers, telling them them that they must do no violence. Soon the doors of the barn were opened and seven cars driven out. They quickly moved down Massachusetts avenue to Pennsylvania-avenue, and at the Grand Opera House 100 strikers met it with a shout.

They seized the bridles of the mules and brought the car to a standstill. The police climbed down from the car, jerked out their clubs, and, after fastening the traces that the strikers had unbooked, the car was escorted around the circle. When the car reached Washington street a howling mob of 100 persons was after it. Not far behind was No. 82, with Joseph Cochran and A. F. Rork as driver and conductor. In front of the surgical institute more help from the Louisiana street barn reached the cars. The cars stopped and police reinforcements arrived. A surging ass blocksded the street. A third car coming down Georgia street was held up. The policemen were too few to look after the mules, and each car was lifted from the track and turned crosswise of the rails. The Police in Battle Array.

The crowd was wild. The strikers pushed against the police, trying to unhitch the mules and shouting "scab" at the extras. Each policeman had his club in his hand but did not use it. Turned crossways of the tracks, the cars stood there for at least half an hour. The crowd-thickened every Finally Captain Dawson, forming his men in long rows on each side of a car, gave the word. The mules were whipped, the crowd yelled and struggled and the car started. And it went. Every effort was made to break through the lines of police without success, and the car was run to the Louisian street stables, where the crowd deserted it.

Another was started the same way, but some man slipped in and unhooked the traces. Then the strikers seized the car and ran it down to the stables by hand, amid the plaudits of the spectators. A car with four policemen and a driver left the New Jersey street stables at about 8:30 and proceeded south on Alabama to Market street, where it was met by a growd of strikers and others. The car turned west on Market street and then around the circle. One Car After Another Attacked. The crowd grew larger as the car continued on its journey, and by the time it nois. Pennsylvania street reached, a stand was made by the strikers. In vain did Superintendent Colbert shout and try to beat the crowd back. In vain did his men try to follow his example. They flattened them up against the car, and in a trice had it crosswise of the track, where it stood for 15 or 20 minutes. The crowd became nois-

A CHANCE FOR MRS. OSBORNE. Her Lawyers Mean to Try to Fit a New Law to Her Case.

[BY CABLE TO THE DISPATCH.]
LONDON, Feb. 27.—It is stated that by Sir Henry James' advice Mrs. Osborne. whose trial will probably take place next Monday week at Old Bailey, will throw herself upon the merey of the Court, and that Sir Charles Russell will then make an appeal that she be treated under the statute passed by this Parliament and known as "the first offenders' act."

By this act the Judge, if satisfied that the first offender is truly penitent and not likely to offend again, may admonish and discharge the prisoner. The act was not designed to help a criminal like Mrs. Osborne, but the lawyers believe it is capable of being made to fit this particular case.

SCROFULOUS HUMOR

Years' Intense Itching. Sev-

When about seven years old, my son was afflicted with a skin disease which was very distressing. The first appearance was of little pimples accompanied by intense itching soon spreading into sorce covered with scabs, except when scratched off. The entire body, except head, was covered. He almost lost the use of his limbs, and was so light I could carry him about like an infant. Used all remedies I could find recommended in medical works for itching without benefit. Applied to different physicians, receiving temporary relief, but the disease was sure to return. I sent for your pamphilst, read it, purchased a set of CUTICURA REMEDIES. I amointed him with the CUTICURA, bashing with the CUTICURA SASOLVENT. Oh, the soothing effect of that CUTICURA! After two years' search for something to allay that terrible itching, what a relief to see him sleep sweetly without any inclination to scratch. Less than two boxes of CUTICURA, one cake CUTICURA SOAP, and one bottle of the CUTICURA. Is now a strong, healthy boy of thirteen, we consider it a remarkable cure, as he had inherited scrotulous humor.

Free coinage and free silver are the common but misleading terms for a mere proposal to restore the coinage system of the United States founded under Washington, as advised by Alexander Hamilton and recommended by Thomas Jefferson and ratified by Andrew Jackson subsequently. That old system of equally unrestricted coinage for gold and silver which it is now proposed to refinstate, was maintained continuously for 81 years, until overthrown unnoticeably in 1873; and yet yet no objections now are too paradoxical to hall from one and the same antagonist of silver coinage. The same man will denounce it as a scheme of mine owners to enhance the value of silver, and yet a swindle of pensioners by reducing the value of the legal tender silver dollar; and then a futile endeavor to reduce the value of money by enlarging its volume, futile because the enactment will banish gold, but nevertheless a practical repudiation of 30 cents on the dollar of all debts to benefit the debtor class.
