being the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America by Columbus. It would be a great pity if the work were not then far enough along to reveal all its grandeur and magnificence. It is then the work as a whole will be turned over to the United States. The reception of ex-hibits will begin the following month. When this once sets in there will be no room for workmen. The les-son of New Orleans ought to be emembered and the ready and expeditious handling and placing of exhibits should be provided for. There will be four or five times as many exhibits here, and the proper care of these involves one of the icate and important problems of the great Fair.

The want-of-cash snag is an ugly and The want-of-east sung is the mana-dangerous one. It demoralizes the mana-gerial heads, and in place of harmony you shirt to chief in the Rand & McNally building and hear little but bickering and scandal. I would not dare reveal all I heard-and if I did it would take a page of nonpareil. The antagonism be-tween the national and the local company is bitter and deep-seated. To be sure, they declare in public that everything is lovely; but to me they cut into each other righ and left.

A Confidence Beautiful to Behold.

There will be a combined effort to squeeze sident W. T. Baker, of the company, out of his seat at the coming corporate election. He knows this, and being a rather sensitive centleman and desirous of finishing up what the has begun, he naturally feels somewhat he has begun, he naturally feels somewhat there appear to entertain any serious doubts but what Congress will step up and help Chicago complete the job they have thus begun. This confidence is beautiful to below. to behold. They expect the visiting Con-gressional delegation to go back to Wash-ington with a full realization of the magni-tude of the work and the neces-sity of immediate Treasury coin to insure its proper completion. If they insist upon this it is rather difficult to see how Congress, having gone into the fair business, can get away from the full share of the responsi bility it has itself created and assumed Under that clause of the Constitution called "the general welfare" Congress has assumed a good many prerogatives not consistent with strict construction and with these pre-cedents it will be easy enough to reconcile its Constitutional conscience to the loan of some millions of the public money on the security of the gate receipts of a butter-and-egg show. The chief drawback is that the Federal Treasury is in almost as had a con-dition just now as the treasury of the World's Columbian Exposition Company, of Chicago.

Be Beats Bis Rescuer.

Mike Grahansky, a Pole who lives on Greenfield avenue, Twenty-third ward, attempted snicide last night at his boarding house by drawing the sharp point of a steel nnil across his throat. John Lonahisky, a fellow boarder, canght him in the act and stopped him. This angered Grahansky so that he turned on Lonabisky and beat him in a terrible manner. Officer Welsh of the affair and arrested both and locked them up in the Hazelwood station. Gra-hansky's throat was only slightly injured.

Alden Wilson Missing From Home.

Last Thursday morning Alden Wilson, son of Henry Wilson, 13 years old, left the home of his parents, on Center avenue, Tenth ward, Allegheny, and went to school on Observatory Hill. After remaining there a short time he told his teacher, Miss Porter, that he was not feeling well, and was excased. He did not return home, and has not been seen by his friends since. The parents are greatly troubled, fearing some thing has happened him.

END OF A CHRISTENING.

Two Italian Grave Diggers Murderously Attacked by One of Their Countrymen-He Did Not Receive an Invitation to the Celebration.

Two Italians employed as grave diggers at the Homewood Cemetery were murderously assaulted by one of their countrymen at their home in the old log house at the end of Forbes street last night. The house is occupied by Nick Torka and his young wife. Frank Russa boards with him and both are grave diggers. Across the street eight or ten other Italians board with an "Oh, I've been here several days," came

Italian woman, among them Antonio Rocca. Torka's wife has a baby two weeks old and it was christened yesterday, Torka celebrat-ing the event with a half barrel, of older which was set up liberally to all callers. In some way Rocca was slighted in the invitations, and to get even he imbibed freely of some whisky he had in the boarding house. Toward evening he got drunk and wanted more revenge. Without knocking at the door or announcing his coming in any way he walked into Torka's house. Torka was stooping over his baby, which lay in its mother's lap, when Rocca jumped forward with a big knife. Mrs. Torka saw the knife and screamed, and her husband jumped aside just in time to miss a blow in the back with the knife, which caught him back of the right ear, nearly severing it.

Russa came to the rescue at this juncture and grabbed with Bocca, but was cut severely on both hands and was nearly scalped in the encounter. Several other men came running in then and Rocca fied. The in-jured men, covered with blood, went to the Fourteenth ward station and told their story. Inspector Whitehouse and Detec-tive Sterck and Fitzgerald subsequently captured Rocca and locked him up. Dr. Moyer attended the injured men. . He found five large cuts on Russa's head, which nearly severed the scalp.

First Timber Fleet This Spring.

The ice gorge at Parker delayed the lumber shipments for several weeks, but as soon as the river was clear the men commenced getting out their rafts. The first fleet of timber this spring from the Clarion river reached the city yesterday. It was piloted by W. A. Simpson and seven men. They registered at the St. James. The party returned last evening, and expect to bring down another fleet next week if the water is high enough. The men say the run of lumber this spring will be a good, one. There was plenty of snow during the winter, and it was an easy matter to haul the trees to the streams. Last spring the timber run to the Pittsburg market was light owing to the screenity of more. The light, owing to the scarcity of snow. The forests in the upper counties have been cut away from the rivers, and it costs consider-ably more than in former years to ship the lumber to market.

The yris-oners were locked up in Central station under assumed names and will have a hearing before Magistrate McKenna to-day. The large majority of the crowd were on-lookers, about 20 being engaged in the game.

It is expected this will be done during the present week, as it is desired to get the millage fixed so that the tax books can be placed in the City Treasurer's hands as early as possible in or-der to secure those who wish an oppor-tunity to give the five per cent. discount allowed when the first and second install-ments of taxes are paid during the month of March night. Superintendent Morris Mead, of that bureau, was in Buflalo last week, attending a convention of the National Electric Light Association. On Saturday evening the telephone in the fire alarm office rang and Henry Augloch answered, and was surprised to hear Superintendent Mead's voice, so clear and plain that it appeared he was only a few squares away. ALL MARKED REFUSED.

Practically No Change Made in the Property Valuations in the Third Ward-The Difference Between the Figures of Owners and Assessors.

"Oh, I've been here several days," came the reply. "Why, where are you?" queried Augloch. "At Buffalo, N. Y.," came the answer, "and I leave here for New York to-night." The conversation was kept up for half an hour and Superintendent Mead was given a full report of the affairs of his bureau as satisfactorily as if he had been at his own office. A glimpse was secured yesterday of the appeals from Third ward property holders against the Board of Assessors' valuations. Nearly every one was marked "refused," except in a few cases where reductions were Jerry Baxter, of Tennessee, passed asked on building valuations. Except in a hrough the city last evening bound for few peculiar cases, no reductions have been Washington. He was the Democratic canallowed on ground assessments in the entire lidate for Governor in the last election, but ward as far as could be ascertained from the was swamped by the Alliance wave. In appeal papers. Not one reduction was algiving his political views, he said: "Hill, lowed on the ground valuations of Fifth by his extreme selfishness and snap judg-ment, has endangered the prospects of the party. He has turned down the Cleveland people in New York without giving them a hearing, and now it is apparent to every-body that neither Hill nor Cleveland can be avenue property between Grant and Market streets, and as the assessors say they are under the actual cash values instead of are under the actual cash values instead of being 40 per cent above as claimed by many of the appellants there is not likely to be any changes made. A number of the property holders were seen yesterday, but they declined to talk for publication, say-ing they had stated their objections to the nominated. Tennessee and Georgia are for Cleveland, and I believe the solid South will support him. There is some talk of the Southern States uniting on Carlisle, but so far nothing has been done." ing they had stated their objections to the increased valuations when they filed their appeals, and were not prepared to say whether they would carry the matter into court or not. The assessed valuation of Fifth avenue lots thus decided by the Board, and the value ions fixed by the owners when B. & O. Engineers Said to be Dissatisfied. Second Vice President, Thomas M. King,

As the names of all the candidates have been before the public for some time and almost a whole week elapses yet before the primaries, the public will have time to choose. The primaries for national and State delegates occur next Saturday and the Election Boards can act as well for the Major's nomination, thus saving the cost of another election. The friends of Major Kennedy who are conducting his canvass would have been satisfied with any other date if chosen and there was no disagreement and dissatis-faction over the one selected."

ONLY BAD BOOKKEEPING

Heating Company.

No Defalcation Discovered in the Allegheny A rumor has been circulated to the effect that an employe of the Allegheny Heating Company was short in his accounts. President McGinley stated last night that the company is having some trouble straightening out the books, but that there is no shortage. The trouble, he stated, is caused by the fact that some payments were not properly credited, and when bills are sent to customers the latter produce receipts to show that payments have already been made. The inference of the patrons then is that some one has stolen the money, when in fact it is provided for by a fund that had accumulated in envelopes marked "over payments." The system of keeping the books has been entirely changed.

Firebugs in Duquesne.

MCKEESPORT, Feb. 28.-[Special.]-An attempt was made last night to burn the Charles Downey brick block, in Duquesne, opposite the Downey hotel. A hole was bored in the door, through which oil was poured. The oil was fired, but the blaze was extinguished in time by the watchman. The firebugs are unknown.

Lear year etiquette in this case was carried to its full extent. It is now claimed by fashionable people outside of Pittsburg' upper 40.000 that the girl who has enough upper 40.000 that the girl who has enough courage to propose should get the marriage license, pay for it, settle with the preacher and buy the beer for the serenade. Expenses later on are to be borne, of course, by the victim. The first girl to start the custom in America's most enterprising city was a lady of debatable age, who at one time in a Pitts-burg school room taught young ideas how to shoot. Her name is familiar to many. It is not known just how the leap year proposal came about, but that the ex-school teacher was the first to grapple the subject was made evident by the fact that she came after the marriage license, got it and paid for it. years, determine to row the boat themselves, but none with more strategy than a bright young miss of just 21, who last week secured a license to marry her lover of just 22. She was as pretty as a novelist's dream and as modest as a violet. Of course she blushed when she asked for the license and it is just as easily guessed that she couldn't find her pocket-book when the time came to pay for the legal document. At length, however, the ordeal was over, the big white envelope was laid away carefully in the pocket that never was, or will be found by any but feminine hands. It took the clerk ten minutes after the girl had left to study out the problem, and then the thought suddenly dawned on his bewildered brain that her leap year proposal would be the marriage license.
