

POWDERLY PREPARED

To Go Before the Attorney General, Thursday, and Tell Him What HE THINKS OF THE READING DEAL.

If the General Master Workman's Paches Are Anarchistic.

HE SAYS MONOPOLISTS ARE MORE SO

SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. SCRANTON, Feb. 29.—General Master Workman Powderly declared to a Dispatch reporter this afternoon that he would go to Harrisburg on Thursday to attend the hearing to be given the Reading matter by Attorney General Hensel. Mr. Powderly expresses surprise that the deal should meet the approval of business men in this region, as he declares it to be the most disastrous blow ever struck at this section of country.

Mr. Powderly's idea is that the Reading, as soon as it assumes control of the new lines, will pursue a high-handed policy and will dictate to the individual operators the terms upon which it will handle their coal and the amount which they will be allowed to mine.

When asked what he had to say regarding the claim of the Reading management to the effect that the Reading, Lehigh Valley and Jersey Central roads were not competing lines in a legal sense, inasmuch as the terminals of their lines were located at different points, Mr. Powderly replied:

"That question is readily answered by the turning of a switch. He then continued: 'Two lines of railroad run parallel with each other from Easton to Wilkesbarre, a distance of 100 miles. Every bend and turn of the Lehigh river, from Easton to White Haven, a distance of 70 miles, is in view of the gleaming rails of each of these two railroads as they turn and bend with the river. These certainly are parallel and competing lines, within the full intent and meaning of the Constitution. No other two railroads in Pennsylvania can possibly approach nearer to each other in construction and similarity than the Lehigh Valley and the Central Railroad of New Jersey, the two roads in question.'

"Under the recent combination effected to freeze out competition and consumers of coal as well, the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Company has absorbed the Lehigh Valley and the Central Railroad of New Jersey, and so far as these corporations are concerned they are no longer competing lines."

Where the Law Is Violated. "Every letter and line of section 4 of section XV of the Constitution of Pennsylvania has been violated in the deal by which the Reading gained control of these two roads, and from now until the interests of the law-protection, shall require that the combination be broken, the people will pay such tribute as may be delivered to those who control the whole anthracite coal supply of Pennsylvania."

Mr. Powderly's utterance was called to newspaper attention by a recently published utterance which ends abruptly with a dash, the sentence reading: "Let us ascertain whether or not the lawfully redress our wrongs before resorting to the law."

"Let them find out if they can. I see some are calling it anarchy. Baker and the dash is anarchistic, what do you think of placing the sale of every pound of coal in the hands of two or three men? But let me say I detest anarchism, and I also detest the methods of those who make the working people anarchists."

IGNORANT LACKAWANNA OFFICERS. They Deny Any Knowledge Whatever of the Recent Reading Deal.

NEW YORK, Feb. 29.—The special committee appointed by the Senate to inquire into the Reading coal deal met today at the first witness was President Samuel Sloane of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western. He said he knew absolutely nothing between the four great railroads. He admitted that last week he had been elected a director of the New Jersey Central, and that on the same time Messrs. Baker and Maxwell, of this road, were elected into the directorate of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western. S. R. Holden, the Second Vice President of the road, was the next witness. He had no knowledge of the deal.

W. S. Sloane, Third Vice President of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, swore he had seen no contract between the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western and any of the others, or between the others and themselves. He knew of no such contract. W. D. Smith, General Eastern Passenger Agent of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, also swore he had seen no contract between the Lehigh and other railroads in regard to a combination in the transportation of coal. The committee then adjourned until next Saturday.

VISIT OF THE GREAT DIVA. Sale of Seats for the Patti Concert Opens This Morning.

At 9 o'clock this morning the sale of seats for the Patti concert on Friday evening will begin at S. Hamilton's music store. Yesterday there were scores of inquiries about the coming of La Diva, and the indications are that her engagement here, this time will be the most successful she has ever had. The surrounding country towns are enthused, and to several of them parties ranging from 25 to 50 people each. The New Castle folks have arranged for a special train and a number of the other towns expect to do the same.

Patti has not been heard here for seven years. At the concert to be given here on Friday at the Auditorium the great diva and her company of splendid artists will appear in an elaborate concert program together with selections from the first and second acts of "Sunshine." This, of course, will give Patti an opportunity to sing just those songs for which she is famous. She will sing Eschard's "Echo Song," a piece concerning which all critics and musical writers declare that the great diva creates a standard for all vocalists to follow. Her powerful, limpid, clear and resonant voice, with her marvellous clarity of execution and perfect control, is heard to the greatest advantage. Students may learn what it is to glide from a forte to a perfect piano tone without making an apparent effort. Mine. Patti generally sings for an entire act, "The Last Rose of Summer" and the inevitable "Home, Sweet Home." In the opera, which is given in costume, Mme. Patti appears as Semiramis, the Queen of the East, and sings the famous "Bel raga"; also the duet with the contralto—two numbers that have become famous beyond any of Rossini's beautiful and fluid music. The assisting artists are Mrs. Fabbrì, prima donna, contralto; M. Guille, tenor; Signor Del Puente, baritone; Signor Novara, basso; Signor Ardit, conductor, and the company orchestra. The members of the orchestra travel with the organization, which is truly a great one. Prices for reserved seats have been fixed at $2, $3, $4 and $5.

Chairman Blanchard Intimates That Iron Rates Won't Be Reduced This Year—He Thinks That Business Depends on the Crops.

George R. Blanchard, Chairman of the Central Traffic Association, was a passenger on the limited last evening going to Chicago. The freight agents will meet in the Windy City next Tuesday to discuss the iron classification. Mr. Blanchard declined to say what would be done, though he knows about what the railroads will do. He said he had heard that the iron men complained of poor business, and on this ground they would ask for a reduction in rates. To this he replied that every business must bear its own losses. If he was losing money, that would be no reason why his tailor should make his clothes cheaper or a rule they don't. It is no reason why that the present classification of fourth class in less than carloads and fifth in carloads on manufactured articles of iron and steel will be retained for the coming year.

Speaking of the outlook, Mr. Blanchard remarked that everything depends on the crops and it is too early to prognosticate. If they are fairly good this season, there is prospect of a better year. He is very much interested in the anti-optical bill, and pronounced it a most mischievous piece of work. He thinks Congress can't enact a law making away with the constitutional right to make a contract, and that is what opticon in grain mean. If a buyer should make a contract with a dealer to-day to deliver a certain quantity of wheat, and when the time comes around preferred to receive the difference in the market price, nobody would have any ground for complaint. This is how Mr. Blanchard views the anti-optical bill. He is against it, and hopes the measure won't pass. The Western people are more interested than Pittsburgers or New Yorkers. He claims the majority of the Chicago grain men want the bill stifled.

DEATHS HERE AND ELSEWHERE. General George W. Cullum. Major General George W. Cullum, retired, died in New York Sunday. He was born in this city February 2, 1829, and graduated from West Point in 1852. He began his military career in the engineering corps, in which capacity he organized ponton trains during the Mexican war. He was a member of the staff of the Chief of Engineers, and was in command of the subject of military bridges. After the Mexican War he was an instructor in practical engineering at the Military Academy. At the outbreak of the Civil War he was appointed aid de camp to the Commander in Chief. He became successively Major of Engineers, Colonel and Major General. At Chief of General Hall's staff he directed engineering operations in the Mississippi river. He was a member of the Sanitary Board, projected fortifications and was in command of the harbor defenses of New York. The remainder of his life he devoted to geographical baselines and military authorship.
