OF ELEGANCE,

Which Caught Many of England's to-day. Shrewdest Men of Business,

Offered as a Bait to Get Investments in an African Scheme.

AN IMPERIAL SUBSIDY NOW WANTED

(BY CABLE TO THE DISPATCH.) LONDON, March & .- [Copyright.]-The British East Africa Company was formed about six years ago by William Mackinnon, George Mackenzie and some other hardheaded Scotchmen of business who believed they could establish in Africa an empire as great as that which the famous East India Company carved out of Hindoostan, and as price for coal as would warrant the mine profitable to the founders. Other men of owners in making no reduction in wages, profitable to the founders. Other men of business soon joined, among them W. Burdett Coutts, M. P., the young man who Hutton, a great Manchester merchant.

Then it was trumpeted forth to the world that the company intended to smash up the slave trade, and that bait tempted several philanthropists to put money into the business. Sir Thomas Fowell Buxton, for instance, took £10,000 worth of stock and Lord Kinnsiro £5,000 worth.

How the Stock Was Taken.

Finally a list of 39 "founders" was made, and they subscribed between them about half of the capital, which at present amounts to £526,140, in shares of £20, with £12 paid up. The other half was subscribed by 550 of the general public, in whose behalf no claim to disinterested philanthropy has ever been put forward.

The Mackinnon family, it should be stated, hold between them over £50,000 worth of "founders" shares, which, if the company should succeed as a commercial speculation, would be worth millions, and among the other leading and influential stockholders are the Marquis of Lorne, the Queen's son-in-law, Lord Brassey, Sir Charles Tennant, General Sir Donald Stewart, Major General Sir Francis Dewinton and Sir John Kirk, formerly British Consul General at Zangibar Consul General at Zanzibar.

The company from the first enjoyed Gov-ernment favor, thanks to which it obtained a royal charter and negotiated a treaty with the Sultan of Zanzibar, who, in considera-tion of an annual subsidy of $80,000, surrendered his sovereign rights on the main-

A Master Scheme Conceived.

Money was next spent in harbor works and piers at the coast stations, after which the company persuaded some philanthro-pists to subscribe money for a steamer to trade on Lake Victoria, of course on the ostensible ground that it was necessary in or-der to fight the slave traders. But some time previously Mackinnon, who has since been made a Baronet, conceived the master scheme of sending Stanley to "rescue Emin Pasha.

It is not now denied by any responsible or disinterested person that Stanley's expedition was a commercial speculation in the interest of the British East African Company. Emin's ivory was to have paid ex-penses and yielded a large profit in addipenses and yielded a large profit in addition, and Emin's province was to have been handed over to the company. Stanley has admitted that he carried to Emin a tempting offer to enter the company's service. The expedition turned out a failure, commercially and in other respects, but it gave Mackinson a reputation for philanthropy and the baronetcy before mentioned, and he is now trading upon both. He succeeded is now trading upon both. He succeeded in persuading the Government that a railway from the coast to Victoria Nvanza was necessary to suppress the slave trade and to support the Protestant missions in Uganda.

An Imperial Subsidy Demanded. They demanded an imperial subsidy for the railway on pain of withdrawing from Uganda, in which savage country, by the way, the agent, Captain Lugard, has for two years past been fighting and killing the natives for the love of God and the "protection of the missionaries."

The Government promised the subsidy should the construction of the railway be shown to be practicable, and last session asked Parliament to vote money for a pre-liminary survey. The demand was with-drawn in face of the vehement opposition of the Liberals, but on Thursday the ernment formally asked the House of Com mons to vote £20,000, and the Ministers timated that they meant to stand or fall by the proposal. The Liberals, headed by Mr. Gladstone, endeavored to compel the Gov-ernment to give further information, and the debate, which occupied two sittings of the House, was the liveliest that has taken place this session. Mr. Gladstone, Sir William Harcourt and other Liberals urged with great force that the British Government would be made partner of a private commercial corporation and would commit itself to all sorts of serious responsibilities by granting the money, while the Tories re-lied upon the slave trade argument, and upon obligations assumed therewith at the late Brussels conference by England and

Peculiar Voting on the Bill.

The money was finally voted by the biggest majority (98) that the Government has had for several years, but the division was not strictly a party one. Mr. Gladstone and Sir William Harcourt, to everybody's surprise, abstained from voting, after having place on record their disavowal of the respon bility, which may prove useful some day A large number of Liberals, afraid of mis sionary influence which is very strong in many constituencies, took no part in the division, and some voted in tavor of the

The effect of all this bother is that the British Government stands committed to the policy in Africa which will almost cer-tainly end in the annexation of vast territories. The railway from Mombasa to the Victoria Nyanza, which will cost over £2, 000,000, will have to be built at England's cost, or by means of a British Governmen guarantee. It will pass through countries admittedly fiercely hostile to the English. and consequently working parties will have to be protected. For many years, too, a mobile force will have to be maintained to guard most of the line and prevent the natives from pulling it up.

Bearing in mind the history of the philan thropic East Africa Company, one may confidently predict that long before the railway shall have been completed it will be found necessary "in the interest of civilization to send British troops to East Africa.

THE CAPTAIN GOES MAD.

He Imagines the Crew Are Firing Bis

Ship, and Attempts Salcide. LONDON, March 5 .- A strange story comes from the island of St. Helena. The British ship Regent, Captain Treadwell, which sailed from Calcutta November 30 for New York, arrived at St. Helena February 7 and reported to the anthorities that some time before Captain Treadwell had locked himself in his cabin and had discharged several shots from a revolver. It does not appear that an entrance was forced into the cabin, or that any particular effort was made to discover the reason for the shooting.

The mate took charge of the ship and ran for St. Helena. Upon arrival there, he gave the report above mentioned. The port officials who boarded the ship broke in the door of the captain's cabin and found him lying insensible. An examination revealed the fact that he had tour wounds in his head and body. After regaining consciousness, he stated that the crew of the Regent, headed by the chief mate, had mutnied and threatened to kill him. He believed it was their intention to fire the ship and then abandon her, leaving him on board to perish. The captain's improbable shooting.

TEMPTING SNARE story was not believed. The physicians decided that he was insane. He and his medical attendant sailed on the British

MINERS WEAKENING.

A SMASH-UP OF THE SLAVE TRADE | The Big Two Weeks' Strike in the British Isles May Not Happen, After All-Son Localities That Will Not Take Part in LONDON, March 5 .- The outlook in the

coal trade and among consumers is somewhat brighter to-day than it has been for several days past, and it appears now as if the Miners' Federation might recede somewhat from its determination not to accept a penny reduction in wages paid to miners. It also appears probable that the gigantic "strike" which it was proposed to begin on March 12, or rather the two weeks' cessation from work which was to begin on that day in order to restrict the output and thus compel consumers to pay such an advanced will not take place.

It would not be sate, however, to make a dett Coutts, M. P., the young man who married the old Baroness; Edward Daws, a big ship owner in Indian and African trades; Sir John Puleston, M. The Durham miners have held a meeting, at which a disposition was plainly shown to accept the master's offer of a 5 per cent reduction in wages, instead of the larger reduction, as the master first proposed. If the Durham miners decide finally to accept this 5 per cent reduction, it is probable that the miners in several other counties will do likewise.

It was at first thought that all the colliers in Great Britain would join in restricting the output, but it is now known that the South Wales men, who have had a crisis of their own recently, will continue work. So with the Kinross men, who also had a flutter a few weeks ago on their own account, and many collieries in Stafford and Warwick will also continue work.

GONE BEFORE IN THE ADORN-MENT OF PAPA! LOVELY WO-MAN'S TOWER OF GLORY.

OTH in buying and selling, the last four weeks has been a busy time with us. Thousands of you are aware how exceedingly busy we've been at this end of the line, and we'll make it still busier than ever before. The last of our corps of buyers has just returned from the Eastern markets, and they all got what they went for. That is: First-class merchandise, in many cases at prices that'll enable us to sell you new, stylish, seasonable, fashionable goods, at less than fifty cents on the dolar. And we didn't buy from hardup, needy manufacturers either. Not a bit of it. Some makers and importers were retiring from business-made lots of filthy lucre-then sold out stocks for what they'd fetch. Others (and they, the big majority,) had made too many goods for the season. (The old, old story, still ever new.) They also had to sell for what they could get, and so it was, and ever will be, all along the line. CALL IN, PLEASE, ANY DAY WHEN PASSING, AND SEE FOR YOURSELVES: YOU'LL BE AGREEABLY SAT-ISFIED, EDIFIED, INSTRUCTED, BESIDES VERY MUCH PROFITED BY YOUR VISIT.

STILL ANOTHER FRESH DEPARTURE, AND THIS TIME IT'S ADDING WOMEN'S TAILOR-MADE COSTUMES WE ARE, TO OUR EXCEEDINGLY POPULAR CLOAK DEPARTMENT. In introducing this Costume Department. to our lady patrons, have simply to say, that all the garments are made from the best material of the kind, fashioned and gotten up in the most artistic, nobby and stylish manner possible, and, as always, at prices far below what you've been accustomed to paying for such costumes.

To start in with, there's an elegant lot of Tailor-Made Habit Cloth Costumes, Norfolk Waist and Bell Skirt, and they come in Navy, Tan and Black. A ten dollar bill wouldn't be too much for them, but, see, we'll At $4.49 Each Then there's another very excellent lot, much finer goods, tight fitting
