In the approaching contest for United States Senator, Pennsylvania will offer as one of the candidates for the exalted place, Pittsburgh's favorite son, Hon. John Dalzell.

Mr. Dalzell's candidacy has been indorsed by the people. His worthy ambitions and aspirations have been applauded by his fellow-citizens, and the rank and file of the Republican voters of the State are clamoring for his promotion. Bankers and business men, whose interests are the interests of the Commonwealth, testify in no uncertain way to their confidence in, and marked regard for, Mr. Dalzell. The manufacturers, whose affairs extend over the entire nation, tell in eloquent and emphatic language their appreciation of Mr. Dalzell's efforts in behalf of wise legislation, and professional men, who have been in closest touch with the distinguished Congressman since, as a mere boy, he assumed the responsibilities of a lawyer at the Allegheny county bar, revere their personal knowledge of his sterling worth as a man, as a lawyer, as a Representative in Congress and as a statesman.

Exalted by His Own Efforts. Pennsylvania has many distinguished sons, but none of them has constructed by his own hands a wider or brighter reputation than that enjoyed by Mr. Dalzell. By his own untiring efforts he has forged his way to a position in the law that has marked him as one of the foremost attorneys in the nation. By his unswerving integrity, and by his unflinching devotion to his people and their interests, he is recognized as a useful, faithful citizen whom his constituents delight to honor, satisfied in the belief that in honoring him they honor themselves and the nation. By his courage, his rare legal training and his almost unbounded ability, he is admitted even by his opponents as one of the foremost statesmen of his day, and he stands to-day accepted without a peer in either branch of our national Congress. He has proven himself familiar with the demands and the needs of the nation, and all interests of his party and his country, and he has never hesitated to have never hesitated nor faltered when the right required an advocate. Mr. Dalzell's voice has been ever raised for the principles of the Republican party, and he has never had sympathy with or countenance for machine methods. Dignified and honorable, John Dalzell in his public and private life has always stood a magnificent figure above and beyond political tripping and the conspicuous place he to-day holds in the affairs of the nation has been won, not by political intrigue, but by his own merits and through his own worth to his country and to himself.

Always Faithful to His Trust. Mr. Dalzell's public career, like his efforts in private life, is familiar to every student of this country's history. Those who know him best are ready to do him honor, but many who probably have never seen him are familiar with his clear, careful yet wonderfully brilliant work in Congress, and they have joined with his intimates in a united desire for his promotion to the United States Senate. His office has been to him a trust which he has guarded jealously and to useful purpose, and he has made the concerns of his people and his country his own concerns. He has been twice elected to Congress, and he has made the duties of Congress his duties. When his constituents needed him they went to Congress to find him, and when his efforts and his force were required he was always in Congress demanding equal and exact justice for his people and from the people of his opponents.

An Orator as Well as a Statesman. As an advocate, Mr. Dalzell is admitted to have no equal in Congress, and as an orator he is the peer of his associates in either party. He is always ready in debate and his ringing eloquence and his picturesque arrangements of thought and words have never failed to delight his hearers or to instruct or convince his audience. He has honored his State on State occasions. His glowing brilliancy at the famous New England dinner, when he delighted the great men of the country, and the recent Pittsburgh Press Club banquet, marked him firmly and positively as an orator second to none in the land.

Mr. Dalzell's work in Congress forms an interesting page in the nation's history.

His achievements in the courts of the country are cited as legal precedents in county, State and national courts, and the esteem in which he is held by the people who know him best is evidenced by the frank and hearty expressions of esteem, regard and admiration of his neighbors, his associates in business and among his professional brethren.

WHY THEY WANT DALZELL.

Pittsburg's Best Business Men Indorse His Candidacy for United States Senator—He Will Guard the Interests of His Constituents—He is Honorable, Capable, and Firm—Why the Leaders in the Community Are Proud of Him.

John W. Chalfant, of the iron firm of Spang, Chalfant & Co., tells his admiration for Hon. John Dalzell in the following forcible and eloquent way: "I am for John Dalzell for our next United States Senator.

"First—For the reason that he is from the county of Allegheny; understands the wants of our people; has been tried and never found wanting; is able to represent the best interests of the whole State.

"Second—He is honest and capable; his election would reflect honor and credit on the whole State of Pennsylvania.

A Remarkable Young Man. George A. Berry, President of the Citizens' National Bank and the Pittsburgh Bank for Savings, said: "I am gratified to be able to say something in support of Hon. John Dalzell. He is a young man of a remarkable young man; his unending efforts for his constituents and his recognized ability have always excited my admiration and respect. He certainly cannot have too many friends in the State. He is fearless and above all he is true to himself and his country. Surely he has honored us in Congress and for my part I would be glad to support him by endorsing him to the United States Senate.

All Interests Safe in His Keeping. Joseph T. Colvin, President of the National Bank of Commerce, believes that the best interests of the whole country, and especially the Republican party, can be served by the election of John Dalzell to the United States Senate, the ablest and the best man in the party.

Existing political conditions will, I believe, guide the Republican party right in the approaching Senatorial contest. With the National majority in one branch of the National Legislature, and the other branch decidedly close, our party can ill afford to make any sacrifices to satisfy any one man or any one class of men. The party should select a man who represents the best interests of the people in the place of men who enjoy universal respect and admiration. Such a man is Hon. John Dalzell. All interests are safe in his keeping.

Mr. Dalzell is a man of a high character, and he has no equals. In the United States Senate he has no superiors. He is as big and bright as any man in the United States.

He is Familiar With Our Industries. Teuben Miller, of the firm of Miller, Metcalf & Parkin, manufacturers, earnestly advocates the election of Hon. John Dalzell to the United States Senate. Mr. Miller is a positive gentleman and he gives his reasons for favoring Mr. Dalzell's election in emphatic words.

"Pennsylvania is one of the greatest States in the Union," Mr. Miller began, "but unfortunately we are not properly represented in the United States Senate. I have always been an ardent admirer of Mr. Dalzell. I have carefully watched his career in Congress and I say frankly he is, in my opinion, the peer of any man now in either branch of our national Congress.

Mr. Dalzell's recognized ability, his familiarity with the industries and the interests of our State, and the representation that Mr. Dalzell can give, I am for Dalzell before the people of Pennsylvania, Allegheny county, and second, because he is as big as the place he is seeking.

Will Do Honor to Pennsylvania. Calvin Wells, President and Treasurer of the Pittsburgh Forge and Iron Company, and owner of the Philadelphia Forge, one of the leading Republican papers of the State, is an ardent admirer of Hon. John Dalzell. Personally and through his paper, the elevation of Mr. Dalzell to the United States Senate is advocated by Mr. Wells.

"I have known and admired John Dalzell for 25 years," Mr. Wells said while discussing the all-prevailing Senatorial campaign. "He has always admired him on account of his high character and his high character as a citizen and a statesman. Twenty-five years ago," Mr. Wells went on, "I told John Dalzell he was the greatest little man I had ever known. I am biggest fan of Dalzell's in Allegheny county, and I am biggest fan of Dalzell to the United States Senate. His rare training especially fits him for that place and his forensic ability is badly needed in the Senate. Mr. Dalzell is familiar with the various interests of the State of Pennsylvania, and he would in the Senate represent Pennsylvania as our State should be represented."

Also Defends the Right. John McCallum, Esq., one of the leading attorneys of the Pittsburgh bar, believes in Hon. John Dalzell for a seat in the United States Senate. "I am for Mr. Dalzell," he said, "because he is a man of sufficient ability and prominence to do credit to our great State. We hear people speak of party pride in Dalzell. It is a national disgrace that the State should have a man such as John Dalzell. He is the best man we have in public life from Pennsylvania."

Mr. Jenkins, the wholesale grocer, said: "I took little interest in politics until I met John Dalzell. His familiarity with national affairs and his rare ability to defend the rights of his people, especially his ability for the United States Senate, are all means John Dalzell should be elected United States Senator from Pennsylvania."

The Man for the Occasion. "Hon. John Dalzell is peculiarly and eminently the man for the United States Senate," A. E. W. Painter, Vice President of the People's National Bank, and head of the manufacturing firm of Jacob Painter & Co., said. "Dalzell's experience in public affairs, his recognized ability as a lawyer, his clean record while in public life make him the man for the occasion. He is familiar with the affairs of the State, and he is the only man in the country, and the individual would be perfectly fitted to keep him in the United States Senate; first, because he has been tried and not found wanting, and second, because he is able to do the country some service."

C. F. Wells, President of the Third National Bank, said: "It would be a mere waste of time to recite Mr. Dalzell's virtues. He is a man of a high character, and he would make a much better representative in the United States Senate than either of those who now attempt to represent Pennsylvania. Mr. Dalzell is a man of a high character, and he would make a much better representative in the United States Senate than either of those who now attempt to represent Pennsylvania."

Will Be Useful to His Country. Marcus A. Woodward, Esq., said: "I am in favor of Hon. John Dalzell for United States Senator, because he is incomparably the best man in the country for the position to any man who occupies or has occupied the position of United States Senator since the State was represented by the Hon. John Scott, the father of William Scott, Esq., law partner of Mr. Dalzell. I am in favor of him because I personally know that he entered politics with the best possible training and equipment for political life in the highest sense; and with the determined ambition that if encouraged therein, he would to the extent of his powers study politics, home and abroad, in its highest and broadest sense. His indomitable will, his high character and high character stamp him as a man Pennsylvanians could be proud of."

is refreshing to me to see one such man, or even one at all fitted and creditable, come to the front in the politics of our State, it is a pleasure to me to see Mr. Dalzell, who Simon Cameron became the great political manipulator of this State, one great purpose of the political machine represented all parties has been to discourage and kill off any attempt of high ability and honorable purpose to obtain public recognition in political life in the State of Pennsylvania."

Qualified Intellectually and Morally. Dr. George T. Purves, of the Third Presbyterian Church, said: "I would rejoice, as a citizen of Allegheny county, in the election of Mr. Dalzell to the United States Senate. I admire his abilities and have confidence in his character. I know of no one in Western Pennsylvania better qualified, intellectually and morally, to represent the State, and it should be the determination of our people to secure a representative in the State capable of conducting in a statesmanlike way the government of our country."

One of the Nation's Interesting Figures. Thomas D. Keller, the general fire insurance agent, is a close observer of public men. He watches with interest State and national politics, and he has a high opinion of Hon. John Dalzell as one of the strongest men in either branch of Congress. "It has been my privilege and pleasure to watch Mr. Dalzell through all his public life, and I look upon him as one of the nation's most interesting figures," Mr. Keller said. "At a great financial sacrifice he accepted a seat in Congress, and ever since accepting that seat he has been constant and industrious in filling his duties as a Senator. He has not been kept in the background long, and I predict that the Republican party will see the wisdom of sending him to the United States Senate."

His Courage Has Been Tested. John Huston, of the firm of John Huston & Co., is confident Mr. Dalzell will be chosen to represent Pennsylvania in the United States Senate. "I am a friend of John Dalzell's just because he is a plucky, energetic man," Mr. Huston said. "He has been chosen to represent Pennsylvania in the United States Senate, and I believe he will do it well. He is a man of a high character, and he has no equals. In the United States Senate he has no superiors. He is as big and bright as any man in the United States."

One of the Nation's Interesting Figures. Thomas D. Keller, the general fire insurance agent, is a close observer of public men. He watches with interest State and national politics, and he has a high opinion of Hon. John Dalzell as one of the strongest men in either branch of Congress. "It has been my privilege and pleasure to watch Mr. Dalzell through all his public life, and I look upon him as one of the nation's most interesting figures," Mr. Keller said. "At a great financial sacrifice he accepted a seat in Congress, and ever since accepting that seat he has been constant and industrious in filling his duties as a Senator. He has not been kept in the background long, and I predict that the Republican party will see the wisdom of sending him to the United States Senate."

His Courage Has Been Tested. John Huston, of the firm of John Huston & Co., is confident Mr. Dalzell will be chosen to represent Pennsylvania in the United States Senate. "I am a friend of John Dalzell's just because he is a plucky, energetic man," Mr. Huston said. "He has been chosen to represent Pennsylvania in the United States Senate, and I believe he will do it well. He is a man of a high character, and he has no equals. In the United States Senate he has no superiors. He is as big and bright as any man in the United States."

He is Familiar With Our Industries. Teuben Miller, of the firm of Miller, Metcalf & Parkin, manufacturers, earnestly advocates the election of Hon. John Dalzell to the United States Senate. Mr. Miller is a positive gentleman and he gives his reasons for favoring Mr. Dalzell's election in emphatic words.

"Pennsylvania is one of the greatest States in the Union," Mr. Miller began, "but unfortunately we are not properly represented in the United States Senate. I have always been an ardent admirer of Mr. Dalzell. I have carefully watched his career in Congress and I say frankly he is, in my opinion, the peer of any man now in either branch of our national Congress.

Mr. Dalzell's recognized ability, his familiarity with the industries and the interests of our State, and the representation that Mr. Dalzell can give, I am for Dalzell before the people of Pennsylvania, Allegheny county, and second, because he is as big as the place he is seeking.

Will Do Honor to Pennsylvania. Calvin Wells, President and Treasurer of the Pittsburgh Forge and Iron Company, and owner of the Philadelphia Forge, one of the leading Republican papers of the State, is an ardent admirer of Hon. John Dalzell. Personally and through his paper, the elevation of Mr. Dalzell to the United States Senate is advocated by Mr. Wells.

"I have known and admired John Dalzell for 25 years," Mr. Wells said while discussing the all-prevailing Senatorial campaign. "He has always admired him on account of his high character and his high character as a citizen and a statesman. Twenty-five years ago," Mr. Wells went on, "I told John Dalzell he was the greatest little man I had ever known. I am biggest fan of Dalzell's in Allegheny county, and I am biggest fan of Dalzell to the United States Senate. His rare training especially fits him for that place and his forensic ability is badly needed in the Senate. Mr. Dalzell is familiar with the various interests of the State of Pennsylvania, and he would in the Senate represent Pennsylvania as our State should be represented."

Also Defends the Right. John McCallum, Esq., one of the leading attorneys of the Pittsburgh bar, believes in Hon. John Dalzell for a seat in the United States Senate. "I am for Mr. Dalzell," he said, "because he is a man of sufficient ability and prominence to do credit to our great State. We hear people speak of party pride in Dalzell. It is a national disgrace that the State should have a man such as John Dalzell. He is the best man we have in public life from Pennsylvania."

Mr. Jenkins, the wholesale grocer, said: "I took little interest in politics until I met John Dalzell. His familiarity with national affairs and his rare ability to defend the rights of his people, especially his ability for the United States Senate, are all means John Dalzell should be elected United States Senator from Pennsylvania."

The Man for the Occasion. "Hon. John Dalzell is peculiarly and eminently the man for the United States Senate," A. E. W. Painter, Vice President of the People's National Bank, and head of the manufacturing firm of Jacob Painter & Co., said. "Dalzell's experience in public affairs, his recognized ability as a lawyer, his clean record while in public life make him the man for the occasion. He is familiar with the affairs of the State, and he is the only man in the country, and the individual would be perfectly fitted to keep him in the United States Senate; first, because he has been tried and not found wanting, and second, because he is able to do the country some service."

C. F. Wells, President of the Third National Bank, said: "It would be a mere waste of time to recite Mr. Dalzell's virtues. He is a man of a high character, and he would make a much better representative in the United States Senate than either of those who now attempt to represent Pennsylvania. Mr. Dalzell is a man of a high character, and he would make a much better representative in the United States Senate than either of those who now attempt to represent Pennsylvania."

Will Be Useful to His Country. Marcus A. Woodward, Esq., said: "I am in favor of Hon. John Dalzell for United States Senator, because he is incomparably the best man in the country for the position to any man who occupies or has occupied the position of United States Senator since the State was represented by the Hon. John Scott, the father of William Scott, Esq., law partner of Mr. Dalzell. I am in favor of him because I personally know that he entered politics with the best possible training and equipment for political life in the highest sense; and with the determined ambition that if encouraged therein, he would to the extent of his powers study politics, home and abroad, in its highest and broadest sense. His indomitable will, his high character and high character stamp him as a man Pennsylvanians could be proud of."
