From people who are watching the strug-gle these facts are learned—and it can be stated on good authority that the Carnegies

United States for the sake of the small can ital invested in fishboats. To-morrow' number of the Speaker will indicate the attitude of the Liberals in arguing that the reasons that induced Lord Salisbury to ngree to the modus vivendi in 1891 apply with equal force in favor of a renewal in 1892; that if the English Government is confident of the strength of its case there is all the greater cause to be content to await the decision of the arbitration tribunal, and to be ready meanwhile to meet the Washington Executive on a provisional arrangement. The difficulty causes no excitement among the Ministerialists, who rely upon Lord Salisbury's prudence; nor is a serious rupt ure with the United States thought possible on either side of the house. Lord Salisbury's final acceptance of the modus vivendi is held to be inevitable. What stirs up the opposition is the needless discussion of a comparatively trivial matter tending to excite irritation in America.

Warships on the Great Lakes,

With reference to that other trouble Canada's supposed infraction of the treaty of 1817, forbidding warships on the lake beyond a limited reservation, Colonial Office advices divest the action of the Do minion Government of the importance which cable dispatches attribute to the matter. According to these advices only one Canadian vessel has been built de signed for the lighthouse service, but now destined to watch for smugglers on the lower

St. Lawrence. A potent factor guiding Lord Salisbury's policy to harmony with the Washington Government is the fact that on the eve of the general election it is impossible to risk incurring popular anger by allowing the arbitration to collapse at a moment when it appears to be on the verge of success.

Since Mr. Cremer's motion in favor of a permanent treaty of arbitration with the United States was indefinitely postponed under the pressure of government business, a report has circulated in the lobbies of the House of Commons that Lord Salisbury has received private assurance of the readiness of the American Government to negotiate such a treaty.

The Proposal Bound to Carry

The Liberals accept the report as true, and f the session lasts beyond Easter Mr. Cremer will renew the motion, which will be seconded by Sir John Lubbock and supported by the bulk of the Liberals and number of Conservatives, including Messrs. Jennings and Howorth, and is certain to be carried

In the event of earlier dissolution, the resolution will be brought up as early as possible after the assembling of the new Parliament. Memorials in favor of such a treaty have been already signed by 1,250,-000 workingmen, proving that the temper of the country will not stand Lord Salisbury's worrying policy towards a kindred
