The Divergence of Saints and Sin-

Pulpits To-Morrow. GLEANINGS FROM CHURCH FIELDS

A noted preacher was recently commended in one of our leading periodicals for never failing to address a few words to sinners in his pulpit ministrations. In the view of this writer it is in bad taste to classify congregations into saints and sinners. A great preacher once spoke of himself as the chief of sinners. We all have our ways of sinning, and it savors of spiritual pride to address a part of the congregation as sinners. An ardent young Christian once went to a deacon of the church to urge that a fellow member should be disciplined on account of a grievous fault. Said the venerable deacon: "Yes, I think the brother has done himself and the church a great wrong, and, as his way of sinning is so different from mine, I feel as you do that he should be arraigned."

Mr. Joseph Ney Babson has awarded the prize of a set of gold and silver chess men, offered by the Canada Plating Company, for the best analysis of the five problems pub-lished on December 28, 1891, to Mr. George E. Carpenter, of Tarrytown, N. Y., whose score is so far above all other contestants as to is so far above all other contestants as to leave no bone of contention. Mr. Carpenter is the only person who has found all four of the solutions to No. 3. Problem No. 4 proved a great stumbling block, and only about half a dozen succeeded in hitting the correct solution, nearly all solving it in less moves, overlooking Black's best defense to prolong the mate. Solutions were received from nearly all parts of Europe and America.

Black to play and white to win. CORRESPONDENCE AND CRITICISM.

To the Checker Editor of The Dispaten:
In game No. 699, in Derry News, betwee
Mr. W. H. H. Stuart and Mr. Robert Gibson of Washington. Pa., at thirty-fourth movwe have the following position: Black-6, 8, 9, 11, 12, 13. White-18, 20, 21, 22, 25, 27. White to move and win. 27-24 was played. The game was drawn. Try the following for a white win:

18—15 | 9—14 | 23—19 | 17—22 | 16—11 | 27—21 11—18 | 27—23 | 6—9 | 25—18 | 23—27 | 15—10 22—15 | 13—17 | 23—16 | 14—23 | 11—4 | w.win BLATHSDALE, PA.

The Life comes to the front with a severe criticism of J. P. Reed's correction of the play of Wyllie versus Dover, the North of England expert, and of the weakly journal in general. It is rather unfortunate that it should turn out that the play given in the Life wins for the opposite side. The position as left for a white win is as follows:

Black-5 6 8 10 13 14 18 20 21

Black-5, 6, 9, 10, 13, 14, 18, 20, 21. White-8, 19, 22, 23, 24, 28, 27, 30.) When Mr. Reed was shown the position or the board at headquarters, as quick as a dish he says it wibs for black, and moved 14-15. Criticism we consider the life of the game, but when the critic leaves a position, with the statement white wins, and he who is criticised takes the position, as left, and by one move demonstrates a win for the blacks, it places the correspondent of the Life in a very unenviable position.—Checker Editor.

CHARLES F. BARKER'S POSITION.

In a letter to Mr. Joseph Brown, of Woonsocket, R. I., the American champion states "that it was not his place to challenge Mr. Wyllie." Mr. Brown and some others interpret the above sentence: "That Mr. Barker is the champion of the world, and as such it is not his place to challenge anyone. If Mr. Wyllie wants the title he must address himself to Mr. Barker." We do not believe that Mr. Barker's position can be so defined. In February of 1888 Mr. Barker addressed a letter from Boston to Robert McCall, of Giasgow, a reply to a challenge from Mr. Smith, the late English champion. In putting his signature to that communication he added "Champion Checker Player of Great Britain and America." We have yet to see an instance where Mr. Barker assumes the title which belongs in justice to another. What meaning could he give to his statement in conversation to the Disparon representative at the match in Chicago, in September, 1891? When asked if he would challenge Mr. Wyllie he (Mr. Barker) said: "I will not challenge the old man. I will let him wear his well-samed laurels to the grave," etc. We interpreted that sentence, not as assuming the title of world's champion, but of allowing Mr. Wyllie to hold the honor of the title while he lived. If Joseph Brown & Co.'s definition of Mr. Barker's position is correct, we have our opinion of the kind of spirit that would make such an assumption, based on such injustice as the Wyllie forfeiture. The true American spirit was that which prompted our fellow citizen to make good the loss of the $100 to the aged veteran, James Wyllie, who is, we are proud to acknowledge, the draughts champion of ple world.—Checker Editor. CHARLES F. BARKER'S POSITION.

ALLEGHENY VERSUS WASHINGTON. ALLEGHENY VERSUS WASHINGTON.

Arrangements have been completed for the team match between these two rival clubs. It will take place at Washington, Pa., on Tuesday, March 22, 1892, at the rooms of the Y. M. C. A. There will be five players on each side. Messrs, Benny, Barr, Johnstone, Gray and Pakton will represent Allegheny, and Messrs. Staart, Sowash, Hull, Leslie and Gibson will do battle for Washington. The match will be very interesting, and as there has been a little excitement worked up, we may expect to see a very close score. Our desire will be to see the best players win.

JOHN T. DENVIR'S CRITICISM. JOHN T. DENVIR'S CRITICISM.

There is nothing that so manifests the character of a man as his attempt at criticism. He would like to pose as the great authority of the game, since A. J. Duniap has joined the majority. We have shown conclusively and furnished data to prove that he is not capable of that high position. Feeling very uncomfortable in being brought before the public in his true character he seeks to belittle us with the poorest attempt at criticism that any man who had respect for himself would stoop to. As to our acceptance of Mr. Johnstone's challenge we have this to state to the great champion of the Northwest: That Mr. Johnstone was not the author of what appeared over his name. Denvir used his name, and Jackson in turn throws it on another triend. Very few have much confidence in any statement coming from such a source.

The championship match for the city of Glasgow commences to day in the hall of the old "Mitchell Library" buildings. There the Ferrie-Bryden match took place between Messrs McKelvic and Searight. The Disparch has made arrangements with a leading representative of the game to give a faithful account of the match. Our readers can rely on The Disparch to give them the earliest news of this contest that is creating the greatest excitement in draught circles at the present time.
