The Pottery and Glassware Reporter this week says the flint and green glass bottle trade is in a depressed condition, even worse than it has been for years. This is greatly due to the holding off of the brew-ers and bottlers, owing to the uncertainty of their licenses. As the license question is not decided until May, and after that month there is only one of the fires left, the factories will not be able to make up for their losses.

A Question on an Appointment.

In this connection a question was raised yesterday over the appointment by City At-torney Moreland of ex-Judge Charles Fetterman to the vacancy in the city attorney's office made vacant by the resignation as sassistant city attorney of the present Dis-trict Attorney Burleigh. The appointment was approved by the Finance Committee, but has not been confirmed by Councils, and the question raised is that Mr. Fetter-man is not and never has been a resident of the city, being at present a resident of Allegheny, and therefore not eligible.

The Mayor was the first to think of the matter, and he called on Major Moreland matter, and he called on Major Moreland about it. The Major, however, produced the ordinance creating the position of As-sistant District Attorney and showed that it did not require residence in the city, only that the appointee should be a member of the county bar in good standing. This sat-isfied the Mayor and he is pleased with Index Feitcement's expositement. The head Judge Fetterman's appointment. The legal advisors of the city, including Mr. Fetter-man, who is an assistant, are City Attorney Moreland and assistants, Thomas Carnaban and W. H. House.
