Since in this season there must always be a fine reason for doing anything that has the slightest social flavor about it, the Princeton alumni dinner naturally is accepted as a most delightful excuse. The preparations for this dinner are nearly completed, and no doubt next Thursday evening will find the Duquesne Club the setting for a scene of much enjoyment. The list of speakers completed up to the present time includes Dr.

Perhaps after searching long and diligently one may see a silver lining to the black cloud overwhelming one who loses his house by fire. At least this has been the experience of the two ladies whom a blaze in Sewickley deprived of house and home last week. Miss Macrum savs it is almost worth having a fire to discover one's friends. A cheaper way might be recommended, but still if friends are raised out of a fire that must be, then it is a great compensation. The problem then to solve is: Whether it is better to have a house and friends incognito, or burn a home and have friends en evidence?

Some of the people who went out to California in the Press Club trip met at the Duquesne Hotel at dinner the other evening. It is said that each man's toast was one of personal eulogy of himself and congratulation of the little party on the poses-sion of the particular concomitant atom represented in himself. These unassuming men naturally spent a really enjoyable re-union, in view of the individual realization of each man of the pleasure his company was conferring upon his neighbors. have heard of young ladies who got married for the sole end and aim of the anniversaries that followed.

From a certain point of view, at least that of comfort to the stomach, the most important happening of the week, socially, morally and intellectually, is the gossip about an English chophouse to be established in Pittsburg for the sole purpose of furnishing meals for people whose appe-tites keep all-night hours. It is true that a large part of our population retires to a seasonable bed. Nevertheless, in justice to the powerful minority, it is only fair to add that there are some extremely reputable people who wander about in the streets of Pittsburg after midnight "seeking whom they may devour." There are all sorts of inducements held out for the encouragement of good habits nowadays. Whether late hours is a good habit is, of course, a matter of individual opinion, but as bad treatment in the matter of food has had no reclaiming effects, perhaps a few good sup-pers or so would be more successful. EDUCATING THE YOUNG.

Effort to Organize a Citizens' League Send Children to School-A Big Institute -New Buildings - Honoring Wickersham's Memory-Schoolroom Gossip. Mrs. H. E. Monroe, former President of a Kansas female college, and now one of the officers of the Citizens' League of New Jersey, was in the city yesterday and held a consultation with Prof. H. W. Fisher, of the Executive Committee of the State Teachers' Association, regarding the establishing of a Citizens' League in Pennsylvania. She wants the matter brought up at the coming meeting of the association to be held at Beaver Falls in July, and this will be done. Beaver Falls in July, and this will be done.

The League, as established in New Jersey, and which it is proposed to establish in Pennsylvania, is conducted on the following plan: The object of the league is to develop citizens. Its members band together to see that all children in the State go to school at least four months in the year. Children who are attending school are asked by the teachers how many and who of the children living near them do not come to school. The teachers as committees investigate, and of course in a majority of cases find that it is the lack of money to obtain clothes, etc., or else the carnings of the child are either needful to the parents or sufficiently large to keep him from school. The league after investigation earnings of the child are either needful to the parents or sufficiently large to keep him from school. The league after investigation says to the parent: "Let your child attend school for four months and we will give him clothes so that he can go to school and we will also see that you get sufficient provisions that will repay you for the amount that you would lose while your child attends school for four months." The teachers then suggest to the pupils that each bring some sort of a contribution which may be of money, of edibles, or of clothing. These contributions are then devoted to the families of the children given a chance to go to school. guests. The young couple were the recipients of many valuable and useful presents. After a sumptuous dinner was served, they left for a tour of the principal cities of the East, after which they will return to set up their lares and penates in Homestead.

The "West End Club" held its monthly party at the residence of Mr. Frank Graham. Those present were the Misses Elida Jones, May V. been having what one might call a forced vacation for the last month. Her friend, Miss McElhener, with whom she remains, has a siege of scarlet fever, which, being a contagious disease, prevents Miss De Armitt from attending school. THE Pittsburg Teachers' Library is in a fair way to obtain a valuable and antique addition to its shelves, which already con tain many instructive volumes. An old resident of the East End, who contemplates giving up housekeeping, has offered Harper's complete volumes, since 1859, for a small consideration. NEXT Friday afternoon the Washington schools, three in number, will have a very fine exhibit of drawing, which will be sent to the State Teachers' Association at Bedford in July. Drawings, paper cuttings and moldings will comprise the exhibit. A Wickersham memorial exercise will be another feature of the afternoon. THE Teachers' Permanent Certificate Com littee will meet next Saturday at the Cen tral Board of Education at 10 A. M. to receive the report of the members as to the stand-fing of the candidates at the inte examina-tion, and as the latter are all on the anxious seat, it is proper to suppose that a goodly number of them will be there in person to see if they triumphantly passed the test. see if they triumphantly passed the test.

FOST 545, of Bennett, has been enjoying very good meetings for some weeks, and it is hoped these may always continue. Although 545's numbers are small, there is a fraternal feeling existing among the comrades that fills up any void that might exist. Post 545's members would be pleased to have comrades from other posts visit them occasionally. Go and see them, comrades. You will find them at their post room every Monday night ready to give you a cordial welcome. MRS. EMMA GRACIE, nee Cordell, has gone to her long home. Union soldiers remember her with the sincerest love, because, while all the active males of her family were at all the active males of her family were at the front she remained at home for the purpose of providing every, patriotic comfort. And she did. The record is not alone in Old City Hall, but it is right across from the old Union depot. She gave the held, when needed. Her brothers who fought live; and her momory shall survive. Post 41, G. A. R., called Colonel O. H. Rippey, and the Laddes' Circle of Post 41, G. A. R., as well as all patriots, will revere her memory for the good she has done.
