The field of practice for catarra specialists is a large one, as the inhabitants of this great country are nearly all afflicted with catarra, in one form or another.

The mild and painless form of treatment, the latest scientific methods, the high professional skill and ability and the intelligent and careful handling of patients that are the basis of the system of operation of Drs, Copeland, Hall and Byers, are just what sufferers from catarrh have wanted and are the best recommendation that can be presented to them.

Method of Trestment.

Asthma is rarely a disease of itself. It arises from numerous causes—diseases of the kidneys, stomach, heart, nerves, lungs, blood and nose. If these several causes were well understood and treated accordingly, there would be fewer irascible asthmatics. Catarrh of the nose, moist, dry, atrophic, hypertrophic, is now regarded the most frequent cause of asthma—reflected asthma it is called. The cause, of course, indicates the treatment—cure the catarrh, correct the deformity in the nostrils, if there be any, and the asthma will disappear.

The following case of reflected asthma, cured by Drs. Copeland, Hall and Byers, practically illustrates the efficacy of this treatment:

SPRING-1892.

We kindly advise our many patrons to bring their straw hats and bonnets now to be renovated into the new spring shapes. All the leading styles are ready for inspection. Our old establishment will turn out only the very best work, and will show only the choicest imported patrens. Our new French process of dyeing and curling plumes and tips will be a delight to the ladies. The work is superb; quite a change from the old method. Our fur department is still filled with orders for renovating seal acques. All repairing done to satisfaction. We also store and insure against moths and fire valuable fur garments at lowest rate.

Good news to the ladies that make their own dresses; we have engaged one of the best pattern cutters; he will by accurate measurement cut a pattern that will fit like a glove, the pattern can always be used again. Price per pattern $100.

Day by day the stream of gentlemen patronizing our popular establishment is growing. The magnet that causes this great attraction is our superb new derby, "The Pennsy," which is fast becoming the password for the stylish dressers who recognize and appreciate a truly nobby hat. The merits of our "latest in headgear" are manifold. It is decidedly new, of splendid proportions, and in appearance combines elegance with style. Our four new shades, Gold Leaf, Cinnamon, Almond and Amber, have taken immensely.

best recommendation that can be presented to them.

When these facts are understood, and it is considered, further, that every case is given the most particular attention, the most sympathetic hearing and the closest investigation personally by these physicians, that only the purest and simplest of medicines are given and that good results are shown almost immediately, it can be seen why Drs. Copeland, Hall and Byers sprang at once into the commanding position they now occupy. To such proportions has their practice grown and so exacting are its details that each physician retires from his particular session in the consultation room in an utterly worn-out and exhausted condition.

Old style physicians have suddenly awakened to the fact that old, crude and barbarous methods they employ have been made odious and that the people will have nothing to do with those who practice them.

Drs. Copeland, Hall and Byers present today another budget of testimonials from grateful patients, who have enabled them to point with pride to the substantial results of their work.

These statements, with the brief sketches of the patients' sufferings, their portraits and expressions of gratitude, are the most eloquent testimony of the virtue and efficacy of the treatment of Drs. Copeland, Hall and Byers.

Read them. If you suffer as they have, desiring to consult them should write for question blank. The following evidence is in point:

MR. C. C. SCOTT, Hopedale, Mass., writes:

"Dr. Copeland's home treatment cured me of an aggravated case of catarrh after two doctors failed. I had severe chest pains, heart fluttering, indigestion and all the disagreeable features of a bad case of nasal and brouchial catarrh. I am cured."

JOHN HEFFERMAN, Blackstone, Mass., writes: "Your medicine has done me more good than anything I ever used in my life. The pains in my head and chest have almost entirely disappeared. I am happy to say that I am cetting along so well."

MRS. HELEN E. KILCOLLIN, Sewall's Depot, W. Va., writes: "Doctor, I wish you could see me, and know what a wreck you have saved from the grave. My husband says sometimes he wonders if I can be the little half-dead wife he once lelt so much for when suffering: now my complexion is clear, cheeks red and eyes bright. I can meet him with smiles instead of tears and pains. What a change! All from being a reader of the papers and finding a healer of puins and suffering."

MR. D. F. BARNES, New Castle, Pa.; writes: "I have had catarrh ever since 1861. I commenced Drs. Copeland, Hall and Byers' home treatment January 5. On February 5 I weighed seven pounds heavier. I think if I think if you can help me so much in one month you can certainly cure me, and if a case of so long standing as mine can be cured, I do not see why anybody cannot be."

Mr. C. P. FULTON, Greenville, Tex., writes: "I suffered from catarrh of the head, throat and stomach for I'years. Dr. Copeland's mail treatment relieved me after all else failed. I feel better and stronger today than I have in vears."

MR. JAMES GILL, Vandalla, Ill., says: "Dr. Copeland and associates cured me of chronic catarrh that was gradually eating my life away. I am strong and hearty today, although 83 years of age. I take great pleasure in recommending them to my friends."

MRS. ELIZA INGRAM, Hartwell, O., writes: "I am still improving in flesh and strength. I am surprised to see that I have improved so much in such a short space of time. I have doctored for nine years with different doctors and none of them did me any good, and some of them said I would never be able to do my own housework, and I had almost given up all hopes myself."

MR. D. I. MeVAY, Franklin, Fa., writes: "I have used Dr. Copeland, Hall and Byers' treatment for two mouths and am a great deal better, and am satisfied you will cure me. I am fully satisfied your treatment is the right kind for chronic catarrh, and can freely recommend its use to anyone suffering with that dreadful disease."

MRS. KATE S. WALKER, Waco, Texas, writes: "I suffered constantly from catarrh of the head, throat and stomach. My lungs were also affected. My constitution was broked down. A DISGRACEFUL ROW

St. Louis Doctors Quarreling Over a Questionable Surgical Operation.

The Grave of the Victim Opened by Rival Factions and the Body Mutilated-What May and May Not Be Done by Doctors. Dispatches recently received from St. Louis, Mo., tell of a disgraceful row in medical circles in that city.

A politician named McGroarty had his A politician named McGroarty had his right leg crushed by the cars and was taken to the City Hospital. The superintendent of the hospital decided to amputate the leg at the knee. The operation was performed, and a few days later the man died. An inquest was held upon the remains by Dr. W. M. Brennah. Dr. Brennah declared that the death was caused by blood poisoning, resulting from unskillful surgery, and not from charge of pocketpicking at the Auteuil race course, a week ago Sunday, and locked up until the following Thursday.

The excuses of the French police are weak and shuffling and also untruthful. They say that the Englishmen were shabbily dressed, that they only had a few francs in their possession, and that their luggage at the Grand Hotel consisted only of a small handbag containing a few paper collars.

With reference to my luggage, the statements are ridiculously false. I had three ordinary traveling bags, filled with all articles necessary for a six weeks' absence from home, and a large bundle of rugs and pillows, etc. I never possessed a paper collar in my life. My portfolio, which they removed, contained in one-half which they examined, materials for writing; in the other, which they did not take the trouble to open, a large bundle of letters, checks payable to me, a check book, which, together with the one in my pocket at the time of my arrest proved that I had a banking account in London, and several hundred pounds and printed papers, all conclusively proving my respectability and identity, but which were never even read. As to our being very plainly dressed, we were dressed as English gentlemen usually are. I had on a large and handsome bearskin coat, and, of course, had a gold watch and chain, rings, studs, pencil case, with silver cigarette and match cases.

quest was held upon the remains by Dr. W.

M. Brennah. Dr. Brennan declared that the death was caused by blood poisoning, resulting from unskillful surgery, and not from the accident. The superintendent of the hospital replied through the press of the city, denying the charge. Dr. Brennan's finding was indersed by two surgeons of high standing. In the meantime the family of the deceased interred the body. The superintendent, to prove his position, resurrected the body and discovered, to his amazement and chargin, that the stump of the amputated limb had been severed from the thigh. In a meeting of the Medical Society he made a statement of the facts in the case; and charged Brennan and his followers with robbing the grave of McGroarty and mutilating the body. There was much discussion of the subject; columns of newspaper matter were printed, and the public were given a feast of horror over the doings of doctors, decidedly gruesome.

Physicians who boast about the code of ethics have impressed a great many people with the belief that the doctor who advertises is to be considered little better than a quack. The foregoing ghastly facts are related for the purpose of showing that while some of those doctors affect to look with horror upon physicians who advertise, they have no compunction about robbing a grave or mutilating the dead. Thus, it may be seen by the laity, what an absurd pretense it is on the part of some physicians to attempt to underrate the standing or the ability of members of their profession who adopt business methods in establishing their practice.

Drs. Copeland, Hall and Byers are regularby graduated physicians. They have had years of practical experience in the treatment of their specialities, and by their system the patient is assured of better care, more scientific methods, and more intelligent treatment than under any of the general practitioners who have to treat all kinds of diseases with supposed equal facility.

Drs. Copeland, Hall and Byers have had remarkable s The Paris newspapers express no opinion in the matter, and the probability is that pardon of Lieutenant Bartenieff, young Russian officer in a crack regiment, who last year

[The mucous membrane is the peculiar home of catarrh. The mucous lining of the masal passages is most frequently attacked first, because that part is most exposed to atmospheric changes. Having obtained a lodging here, the disease easily and naturally follows the mucous membrane, which leads to throat, custachian tubes, inner ears, bronchia, lungs, stomach, bowels, setting up inflammation in all these parts, and producing a diseased condition which takes different names according to the part affected, as bronchitis in the bronchial tubes, dyspepsia in the stomach, laryngitis in the larynx, enteritis in the bowels, etc.] Copeland, Hall and Byers. allowed to refer to the subject. Bartenieff's father petitioned the Czar for the murderer's pardon, and the latter's sister, who is maid of honor in the Empress' household, succeeded in getting the petition direct to the Czar. It is believed that the Czarina herself took charge of the petition and pre-sented it one day when the Czar was in exceptionally good humor.

At any rate, the petition was successful, for it was returned to the father with these for it was returned to the father with these words written on the margin, in the Czar's handwriting: "Unfortunate parent, your son is not lost. "The rapidity with which the catarrhal process extended to ears, throat, bronchia and stomach," said Mr. Jerry Garvey, "was in my case not only remarkable, but extremely alarming." Mr. Garvey is a steel worker in the large plant of Spang, Chalfant & Co., and resides at No. 9 Fifth street, Sharpsburg. His description of his trouble and its cure is extremely interesting.

"In the morning," he continued, "I arose, weary and fatigued, overcome with lassitude, and disinclined to work.

"I seemed always to have a cold, nose stopped up, and constant formation of mucus, dropping into my throat and causing continual hawking and spitting to expel it. I suffered continually from a dull, heavy headache over the eyes, and often had a feeling of tightness or pressure across the bridge of the nose; also vertigo or dizziness, until I would nearly fall.

I Had Consumption.

"I had a constant cough, raising large quantities of phlegm, weakening and exhausting me greatly and unfitting me for manual labor. The pains in my chest were very severe, and they cut through to my back and shoulders very sharply.

"The published evidence of the skill of Drs. Copeland, Hall and Byers was so convincing that I determed to go to them. I hesitated considerably before starting, because I had.

Tried So Many Patent Medicines Tried So Many Patent Medicines without ever deriving the slightest benefit that I was badly discouraged, but I was agreeably disappointed. Their treatment of my case was intelligent and scientific from the start, and I was satisfied from the thorougness of the examination they gave me that they understood their business. I can only say that I am wastly improved in every respect. The dropping of mucus is practically stopped; my headaches have almost entirely ceased; my stomach is now in excellent condition, taking all proper food without pain or inconvenience.
"My chest pains are gone and my cough is entirely well. The

In fact, I feel as well as I ever did in my life, have regained all my wonted strength, energy and vigor, pursue my labors with sest and enthusiasm, and I feel that I am discharging an obligation when I say publicly that I owe all this wonderful change in my condition to the skillful and intelligent treatment of Drs. Copeland, Hall and Byers. I heartily and earnestly recommend them."
