TOO MUCH MARRIED,

Widow Walker, of Mansfield, Objects to Boing One of Sixty Wives of

A ONE-ARMED ENCHANTER.

She Proposes to Start a Fund for the Protection of Women From

THE WILES OF JAMES C. TAYLOR.

Very Riotous Times on Sunday in Lower St. Clair Township.

WHAT THE POLICE DID YESTERDAY

There is a much-married man in hoc in New York, James C. Taylor by name, who has been furnishing the metropolitan reporters with columns of matter for several weeks. He has one arm chopped off a short distance above the wrist, a baid head and a sanctimonious face.

Well, Mr. Taylor had one experience in Pittsburg last November that will probably keep him in prison for some time. He is supposed to have 60 wives, but that fact did not deter him from giving one of his aliases to Mrs. Walker, a Mansfield widow. He was married to her at the St. James Hotel under the name of Benton, claimed to be wealthy ranchman from Texas. His engaging manners and fluent conversation completely captivated Mrs. Walker, and when he asked her to become his wife she consented. Shortly after the ceremony he crossed over to the Union station with $250 of her money estensibly to buy tickets to California and that was the last she saw of him. Since then he has had several victims, but the last one landed him in the clutches of the law.

Widow Walker Bars the Way. Taylor has offered wife No. (unknown) $630 if she will absent herself from the next hearing, and allow him to escape. If she may be willing, Mrs. Walker, of Mansfield, is not. She has written a letter to Taylor's lawyer, stating that she would be on hand at the hearing next Thursday, and could swear that she married him on a certain date. She is a strongminded women, with a female suffrage style of thinking. In her letter she says: "I don't know how we poor women are to defend ourselves against a monster like Tavlor. He is really a charming man to speak to, and would captivate any female heart. What I am about to do is to advertise all over the country for the villain's wives and form them into a protective association. I know this may seem absurd, but I have the means and will put down $5,000 for the day Mrs. Walker appeared at the St. James, and told Mr. Newell that the Suspension Bridge man was surely her husband, His capture resulted since then.

Taylor is now a prisoner in the Jefferson Market Police Court Jail in New York. He is not unhappy, but refuses to speak to reporters. He talks freely, however, to his jailers, and he thinks the marriage laws are all wrong. "Why, for instance," he asks,

Letters about Taylor are constantly being ent to the New York police authorities. has his case in hand, receives letters almost every day going to show that James C. Taylor is a man who has taken up marriage as his calling in life. But all that the deactives are able to find out up to this is that a man answering the description of Taylor is to be found in many places as having married women with reputations for wealth. The last complaint comes from Ohio, and runs in this way:

SANDUSKY, March 24. Colonel Tryon, No. 137 Broadway, New York: DEAN SIE—Your favor of March 19 to hand and contents noted. Miss Amelia II., of our city married on November 9 a man of the same description as the one you give, but under the name of Charles T. Benton. * *

* Miss II. is now in California, but would, I think, come forward were she required, and although she loved old Taylor very much when they were married, she is highly much when they were married, she is highly Yours truly,

A. H. RUFMERLE,

Fow Taylor Lost His Arm. As regards the loss of his arm, he tells some lurid stories. It was torn off in va-rions places, a few of which are here given: Battle of Five Forks, shot off by rebel can-non ball; Pennsylvania Iron Works, taken off by buzzy saw; broken off by Third aveet car; eaten off by shark on coast of Brazil; bitten and poisoned by his wife; cut in pieces by St. Louis ferry boat. Tay-lor mentions in a memoranda he keeps for reference several other ways in which the arm had been taken off, but in most intances tells the woman he is proposing to hat he is an ex-United States Colonel, and that if he dies his widow will be entitled to a pension of $45 per month. This, with the pile of bills he shows and his sanctimoous appearance, captures the female heart, and accounts for his 60 wives.

J. B. Dean, President of the White Star Sand Company, of Cheshire, Mass., is the latest person to take a hand in the discussion. He writes a long letter telling of a one-armed man who beat him out of $100 in

Looking Up His Relatives. He claims to have been a cousin of Mr. Dean, as he traveled under that name, and he lost his arm in the battle of Lookout Mountain. Later, Mr. Dean discovered his alleged cousin was an impostor. He fol-lowed up the record of his quasi relative, and boiling down his long story he says he commenced his career to his knowledge in 865. Then he married a woman, fleeced ang broken that off, was detected in a plot to clope with five seminary girls, fleeced a business man and a hotel keeper in Springeld, wrote his own obituary as having been drowned, and, resurrecting himself, turns up as a prodigal son in Pennsylvania, afterward going out West and disappearing with a watch and money belonging to supposed cousins there. Then there blank space of many years. Two record of the one-armed man again. He married six women in this State. Mr. Dean Pittsburg may wear its cloak of Sunday godliness and Allegheny be as calm as an evening hymn, but just beyond the limits all "should I be presecuted as I am now for marrying old women if they desire to be in the state of marrimony." I simply accede the state of marrimony. I simply accede while the Law and Order agent, restraint ceases. In Lower St. Clair townin his hope of clutching part of the fine, tracks the newspaper carrier who is trying to support a family, every law written and to support a family, every law written and unwritten is broken just beyond the city line. No place in the county is more wide open, and "Over the Rhine" at Cincinnati, Eagle Hill street and the lower end of Broadway in Cleveland or Canal street in Buffalo are but as June breezes to storm at sea when compared with this place. Even a mining camp is a Sanday school plenic compared with it. Yet it is beyond the city limits, and the municipal police are powerless to stop it.

pared with it. Yet it is beyond the city limits, and the municipal police are power-less to stop it.

Yesterday three of the rioters from that spot were gathered in by Officers Sheets and Cochrane on Arlington avenue, which divides the city from the township. Their names were Samuel Hahn, Charles Flack and Albert Finck. Down in this township everything is free as if no law existed. Here the gamblers run all kinds of games and in a dozen places the festive "tiger" can be fought over the faro bank board, roulette or the wheel of fortune. Sports in the good old style hold sway and despite the rain when officer Sheets looked down from his beat on Arlington avenue to the township below yesterday he saw four regular, prize fights in properly drawn rings in progress.

Among the most notable of yesterday's depredations was the conduct of a girl who was not over 19 years old. The girl, with three or four male friends, had spent the day among the speak-easies that are as thick out there as flies about a molasses bowl in summer. The girl had been induced by her companions to drink until she was hopelessly drunk and reeled about the streets. After a time the girl's friends managed to get a carriage and took her home.

In one row of eight houses six are speak-easies. Another man has a big dance hall with a wine cellar underneath. Saturday night there are always dances there and they keep it up until Sunday morning and then start in again Sunday afternoon.

a wine cellar underneath. Saturday night there are always dances there and they keep it up until Sunday morning and then start in again Sunday afternoon. The result is drunken young girls and men are pouring into the city at all hours from Saturday night until Monday morning and the Twenty-second Street Incline officers, however, cannot refuse to haut them.

Acting Inspector Kelley, of the Third district, has increased the patrol on the hill and has decided hereafter to arrest all persons who come into the city intoxicated. He said yesterday: "If they get drunk outside the city, they must stay out until they get seber or get locked up as soon as they cross the line."

Yesterday Officer Sheets noticed one man in a drunken condition attempt to cross a narrow plank on a muddy street. His jag threw him down and he took a plunge into the sort mud. He was covered with mud and his companious hurried him off to a house where he got a change of clothing.

For some time the Southside police have been receiving complaints about the disc been receiving complaints about the disor-derly actions of a lot of men who gather in the house 1122 Mary Ann street on Sundays. The complaints were that the men got drunk and then fought. Yesterday Acting In-spector Kelly and Captain Stewart paid a visit to the place and arrested Andy Beltz, Daniel Pfarfer and Peter Martin, who were locked up in the Twenty-eighth ward sta-tion.

Controller Morrow Will To-Day Score Councils for Failing to MAKE APPROPRIATIONS EARLIER.

Statement of the Total Receipts of the City for the Last Year.

MONEY TURNED IN BY THE BUREAUS

City Controller Morrow has complete his annual report, showing the city's financial condition at the close of the past fiscal year, and the document will be submitted to Councils to-day. The Controller declines to allow the report for publication until it has been officially presented, but it is understood that in it he again demands of Councils that some provision be made to have the appropriation ordinance passed earlier the year, or that they provide a sum in such ordinances to cover the salaries and other expenses from the end of each fiscal year until such time as the appropriation ordinances are put into effect. The Controller has been demanding a proper adjustment of this matter for several years, but his communications on the subject have been persistently ignored, and each year the city officers are compelled to secure money on their personal accounts to pay the employes of the various departments their wages for the first month of the fiscal year, a thing not done in any other city in the

A detailed statement of the city's rev enues for the year has been prepared and will probably form a part of the Controller's report. It shows that the total of city taxes collected was $2,711,430 57, of which $2,561,690 47 were the taxes of 1891 and the balance delinquent taxes of former years, including the old city, Birmingham, Temperanceville and Mt. Washington special taxes. The total business tax collections were $245,663 67, of which $4,100 32 was delinquent from 1890. Water rents yielded a total of $682,158 55, and of this amount 5561,101 74 were for 1891, the balance being for previous years back to 1887. The sub-district school taxes paid in amounted to $292,324 90.

Receipts of Departments

The Department of Public Works is credited with $85,115 07, of which the Bureau of Water Supply furnished $122; highways and sewers, $302; ierrules, $5,500; City Engineer, $45; wharves, $968 25; markets $51,239 11; city weigh scales, $2,639 86; switch licenses, $3,056 25; rents, $1,602 50; water assessor, $9,595 90 (for water furnished for erection of buildings). For some reason the income from wharves fell nearly 50 per cent below the receipts for 1890. The Adams market, for which a special account is kept, yielded $544, an increase of $100 over the previous

The Bureau of Police is credited with $17,022 04, an increase of 300 per cent over the previous year, resulting from the dog tax and the transfer of the amusement and peddling licenses to that department. The Bureau of Fire is credited with $619.22, from the sale of old horses. The Building Inspector's fees amounted to $13,016.35. The City Gauger turned in $1,409.12 in fees.

The interest on the money received for the Poor Farm was $18,545.33, which, under the appropriation ordinance, becomes part the Poor Farm was $18,545 30, which, under the appropriation ordinance, becomes part of the Poor Farm fund. The Department of Charities turned in $10,148 17, which was received for board of patients, insane account, transportation, etc. The city's share of the license fees under the Brooks law was $78, 592 35. The Mayor's office turned in $64,07 45, about $9,000 less than the nrevious year. Vehicle licenses yielded $43,328 17; venders' licenses, $9,167 70; magistrates' fines, $81 90; State warrant for schools, $77,245 31; advertising tax lists, $9,557; miscellaneous receipts, $908 65.

The City Attorney turned in $50,000 on account of the Penn avenue compromise, the acts of 1857 and 1869 were so, 535 31. The property benefited by the Grandview arenue wall paid in $25,000 on account. The interest on investments amounted to $106,505 23, about $12,000 nore than in 1890.

The total receipts from street railway companies were $200, which came from the West End Company. The Pleasant Valley paid $530 in 1890 and the Manchester Company $200, but since the reorganization of these companies they refuse to pay anything. The Controller is preparing a statement against them which he will take in court and make them pay. He claims that while there is no general law in this city to collect from street railway companies, the companies mentioned secured their rights under special laws which contain provisions exacting from them an annual tax, and which their reorganization under new names does not wipe out.

Salances in Reserve and Sinking Funds. In addition to the above points the Controller's report will show in detail the bal-ances in the various reserve and sinking funds, the investments held by sinking funds, statements of the taxes outstanding and the bonded debt and much other infor-funds, statements of the taxes outstanding and the bonded debt and much other information interesting to every taxpayer. In the statement of purchases made during the year of city bonds for investment by her sinking fund, he will show in detail the purchase of $892.403 72 worth of bonds, being nearly $150,000 more than was purchased during the three previous years.

In a conversation the other day the Controller seemed to derive great satisfaction from the fact that on April 1, 1893, the day his present term of office expires, $423,800 of the city's bonds will mature and be erased from the municipal debt. Of this amount $200,000 represents the last of the fire department bonds, and $95,300 exchanged registered water loan bonds. All these bear interest at 7 per cent, and their removal from the list will appreciably reduce the amount required for interest on city loans. These 7 per cent bonds were issued at a time when the city's debt was large and her credit so bad that investors would not touch her paper unless the highest rates of interest were offered. Since that time most of her bonds have been floated at 4, 5 and 6 per cent; about half a million at the latter rate, But there is still a large number of the 7 per cents to be redeemed, and they will be falling due every year hereafter until 1912. All the bonds the city has issued will have matured by December 1, 1915, but during the next four years the amount to be redeemed will reduce the bonded debt to such an extent that it will be agreeably felt by the taxpayers, and provided other debts are not contracted in the meantime, the expenses of the city government should be considerably decreased.

The Great Removal Feat Proves a Drawing Card in Lawrenceville. Besides, the wonderful feat of moving was the general talk all through Lawrenceville yesterday. Though the credit of the mechanical work is due to John Eichlay, Jr., and Hulings Bros., the credit of conceiving this ingenious plan belongs to F. H. Bucking, fruit dealer at Liberty and Sixth streets, who is one of the owners of the buildings.

Mr. Bucking said yesterday that the work of moving the transported houses to their foundations would be commenced to-day. They will also commence this morning the moving of four large eight-roomed houses from Pittsburg to Allegheny. The houses are semi-detached and altogether have a frontage of 80 teet and a depth of 40 They will be moved the same as the others.

An attempt was made to hold him but was unsuccessful and he escaped and made his way to Allegheny, where his actions were so peculiar that he was arrested and sent to the station. During his stay there he became violent and on Saturday he was sent to the Poor Farm. Saturday evening he became insane and yesterday morning he died of convulsions.

ents to Be Made on the Great East End Traction Roads Next Month-The Wilkinsburg Route Shortened-New Branches to Be Opened.

During April a large number of changes are to be made in the Fifth avenue and Duquesne Traction roads in order to accommo late a rapidly increasing travel. The Fifth avenue route to Wilkinsburg will be used, and the time on this trip reduced ten minutes. The trouble over this part of the road is said to be about settled. When the company uses Fifth avenue two cars will be put on to run from Fifth avenue down Penn avenue to the Pennsylvania Railroad bridge to transfer passengers to and from East Liberty. No charge will be made for this trans-

Two new lines will be opened this spring One will be an extension of the Lincoln avenue line out Deary street and Larimer avenue and crossing the Larimer street bridge. This will doaway with the Shetland avenue and crossing the Larimer street bridge. This will doaway with the Shetland avenue branch. The other branch will start at the junction of Fifth and Penn avenues, go out Fifth avenue under the Pennsylvania Railroad, then out Hamilton avenue (old Grazier street), and take in the district around Homewood Park, Brushton and lower Wilkinsburg. Hamilton avenue will be opened to a width of sixty feet and paved to the city line.

Thirty new summer cars will be placed on the Duquesne line. They will be four feet longer than the present cars, with closed front and back and with the seats back to back. On the Fifth avenue line a double decked car, with a seating capacity of 100 passengers, will be tried. Both lines are short of cars and can't accommodate the traffic. Superintendent McDowell can't account for the preference shown the Daquesne. The schedules are exactly the same, but people walk several squares to get the Duquesne cars in preference to taking the others.

There is some talk of increasing the power of the cable road. If more cars are put on the engines of the Oakland power house will scarcely be able to operate the road. At present they have two engines of 500 horse-power each. Last week measurements were made for an engine of 1,500 horse-power and a report on the matter will be laid before the directors at their next meeting.

At present the average number of passengers carried on the two lines is 25,000 per day. Or this traffic fully one-third comes through the Wilkinsburg branch.

With this arrangement he got along very well for a while. He was driving the pig past the Lucky school in the Thirty-fifth ward, when the animal became frightened and started to run. The boy tried in vain to stop it, but lost his balance and fell. The pig ran down the steep embankment dragging the beipless youth. Some of the workmen at Fox's stone ome of the workmen at Fox's st quarry saw the boy's predicament and ran to his aid. He was picked up and carried to his home. Dr. Whalen was called and dressed the boy's injuries, which consisted of a broken arm and a bad scalp wound.

What the Opening of the Pittsburg and Shenango Means to This City.

Printers Preparing for Their Annual

Delegate Election. NOTES FROM THE INDUSTRIAL WORLD

The people of Conneaut, O., are feeling jubilant over their future prospects as a lake port and railroad town. On May 1 the Pittsburg and Shenango Railroad, which has its terminus at Conneaut, will be opened with much ceremony. Yesterday George J., Record, of Conneaut, was in Pittsburg making arrangements for the occasion. He said:

"The opening of this road will be the largest thing the town has ever had. It was at first intended to just have a small celebration, but the people are so enthused over it, we will have to spread out. "As it is now Conneaut has a pretty good lake trade, but it cannot help but be better when the road is completed. A new country will be opened. This town is also a terminus of the proposed Lake Eric Canal. In case it should be built our town promises to be of great note. Another Outlet for Pittsburg's Product.

"The Pittsburg and Shenango is owned by a private company and starts up above Butler. 1 am told the Baltimore and Ohio are trying to get control of it. If that comare trying to get control of it. If that company does, the traffic of the road will be brought into Pittsburg on the Pittsburg and Western Railroad. This road will be quite a benefit to Pittsburg as it opens up an entirely new country, abounding with coal and fron. The trade will be pretty evenly divided, I think, between Pittsburg and the lake. "For all these reasons and from the fact that there has just been a tin plate plant started there, we intend to make the celebration as large as possible. Governor Mction as large as possible. Governor Mc Kinley and Senator Sherman will both be there. I am trying to secure the services of Hon. John Dalzell, also, as he is such a warm friend of the canal scheme and such an able speaker. The adjacent towns are all giving us aid, and already $25,000 has been subscribed to make the event a success."

Forced to Start a Tin Plate Mill. Mr. Record manufactures butter tubs in Conneaut, For a great number of years he made them out of tin. When the Mc Kinley bill went into effect he found that he Kinley bill went into effect he found that he could not compete with other manufacturers, as they were using wood. He found the only thing left him to do was to start a tin plate plant and manufacture his own ware. On March 1 he made his first tin. Now his plant is down to work and by next week it will be turning out 2,000 boxes per week. He employs about 200 men. He only finishes the tin at his plant. He has a contract with a Cleveland iron company and it supplies him with the block plate.

"I find," said Mr. Record, "I can now manufacture the tubs just as cheaply as I could before. It is useless for anyone to tell me now that tin cannot be manufactured in America just as well as in Europe. My America just as well as in Europe. My plant had the honor of making the first bright tin in America. For this reason I am seiling it faster than I can make it."

THE PRINTERS' ELECTION.

Delegates to the National Convention and a Change of Constitution to Be Voted On-The Representative Fight Will Be a

Next Wednesday the printers will vote for delegates to the National Convention of the International Typographical Union. There are eight good men in the field, but only three to elect. The fight is growing very warm, and the whole eight candidat baye about equal chances. The election will be held on March 30 in Lemon alley in the rear of the Dispatch building.

This date is the one fixed for holding all the typographical elections. For this reason it was decided to vote on another question at the same time. The question is that of changing the constitution of the I. T. U.

tion at the same time. The question is that of changing the constitution of the I. T. U. At the election it will be voted on just to get the sentiment of the members, and if the feeling is in favor of a change it will be made at the coming election.

This idea came up at the Boston convention and a committee was appointed to formulate plans. This it did. It drew up two different plans and these have been submitted to the unions. When the printers vote for delegate ther will also vote for or against the change. The tickets are so arranged that a person can vote either for plan No. 1 or No. 2.

The general feeling in Pittsburg is that the present constitution is good enough, but if they do vote for a change they will favor plan No. 2. This is much after the cigarmakers' constitution. It requires each union to have a large reserve fund to use in case of strikes. There are also several other advantages about it.

CLEVELAND IS THE MAN.

J. Simpson Africa Thinks Hill's Chance for the Presidency Are Remote-The Free Silver Setback Has Helped Grover Immensely-Secret Societies Defended. J. Simpson Africa, ex-Secretary of Internal Affairs, registered at the Monongahela House last evening. Mr. Africa is a prominent Democrat of Huntingdon, where he still votes, but for several years he has been living in Philadelphia as the President of the Union Trust Company. He is Grand Master of the Pennsylvania Masons, and came here with Michael Nisbet and W. A. Sinn to institute a new lodge at Wilkinsburg. Mr. Africa says he is now out of politics, but Mr. Africa says he is now out of politics, but the time was when he was one of the Democratic wheel horses of the State. In 1832 he was the old man on the ticket with Pattison, and in that memorable revolt against Republican boss rule he walked under the wire a winner. After his term of office expired he eschewed politics for business. For this reason he had little to say on political matters hast evening.

he eschewed politics for business. For this reason he had little to say on political matters hast evening.

Mr. Africa said he had called upon Governor Pattison once since his inauguration. He thinks Grover Cleveland is the choice of the Democrats for President, with a possibility of Pattison getting the plum. He doesn't believe that David B. Bill stands a ghost of a show. He commends Cleveland's conduct, and says he acted wisely in the struggle for delegates. The ex-President occupied a very dignified position, and all over the country the feeling for him is spontaneous. Mr. Africa thinks the silver bill has been laid out in a shroud for this session of Congress. The people were led to believe that the measure would be passed with a large majority, but the unexpected setback it received has raised the stock of Cleveland. Mr. Africa discussed the free silver heresy very intelligently. He claims there is enough gold in the world for currency purposes. The standard remains the same, and he says the trouble with the silver men is that their product is constantly declining on account of the big increase in production. It would be as reasonable to stamp a bar of iron or a hide of leather and call it a dollar as make 100 cents out of 70.

Turning to the subject of secret societies, he remarked that he could see no reason why some churches should he opposed to them. He thought the opposition of the Catholic Church was due to the action of the French Masons, who struck out God from their constitution. For this reason they are not recognized by any of the Masons in the United States. They are repudiated.
