The Arch Anarchist of Paris Is Behind the Iron Bars at Last.

HE TRIES TO DRAW HIS REVOLVER

And When He Is Overpowered He Still Exclaims Vive Anarchy.

NEWS FROM THE EUROPEAN CAPITALS

PARIS, March 30 .- It has been learned that a police commissary and six gendarmes, who were in search of Ravachol, found him in a cafe at the corner of Rue Lancey and the Boulevard Magenta, which is frequented by workingmen. When Ravachol saw the police enter the place he sprang to his feet and, putting his hand inside the breast of his coat, half drew a pistol from his pocket. Before he had time to use the weapon the police rushed upon him and seized him. He made a sharp struggle, but was soon overcome and his hands tied be-

He was in no way cowed by his arrest, but shouted as loud as he could, "Vive Anarchy." At the prison he was searched, and it was found that he was armed with two loaded revolvers, and that his walking cane was a sword-stick. The officials an-thropometrically examined him, and the measurements taken identified him with the notorious Anarchist criminal, Konigstein.

The Arch Anarchist is Identified. Ravachol denied his identity when arraigned before a magistrate for examina-tion after his arrest. He was then suddenly confronted by a supposed accomplice named Chanmartin, who, as soon as he caught sight of the prisoner, exclarmed: "Ravachol, I recognize you, though your beard is off." To this the noted Anarchist replied.

"If I am Ravachol, that does not prove that I blow up house."

The police have seized quantities of sulphurie and nitric acids and a number of re-torts. Foreign Minister Ribot says no special precautions had been taken against dynamite outrages, except that the Foreign offices and the Chamber of Deputies are watched by guards.

The hotel keepers here deny that there has been any decrease in the number of visitors they have entertained. They say that the panic caused by the recent exp sion has caused no appreciable falling off in the number of persons asking for accommo-dations. On the contrary, their hotels are fuller than before, being crowded with Men returning from their work last night discovered on the pavement opposite the Ministry of Finance, in the Palace Royal, an iron cylinder filled with some unknown substance. It was placed in the hands of the police. In all the fashionable quarters precautions have been taken to houses against explosives. Cellar gratings have been replaced by sheet iron shutters and front doors are kept closed. Servants employed by the legal officials are quitting

How Eavachol Was Detected.

Ravachol first appeared in the cafe where he was arrested about a week ago. He ex-cited suspicion by his anarchical tenets and his possession of prompt and precise details of the recent explosions. Ravachol's description appearing in a newspaper, a waiter in the cafe was struck by its resemblance to that of the then unknown visitor and waited for the man's next visit, when the waiter warned the police.

Ravachol is already under sentence of death by default for the murder of an old man. He is well dressed and dandyfied, with the long limbs and short trank characteristic of criminals.

ADELAIDE, SOUTH AUSTRALIA, March 30.-Deeming, the murderer, who is being taken from Perth, West Australia, where he was arrested, to Melbourne, has arrived here in charge of Melbourne officers. An immense crowd, in which a number of women were visible, waited for many hours to-day in the vicinity of the landing place of the steamer, hoping to catch a sight of the prisener as he was being conducted from the vessel to the shere. It was thought that Deeming would be landed here and that he and the officers having him in charge would proceed to Melbourne. Large crowds of anxious spectators were doomed to disappointment, however, as the murderer was not removed from the steamer, it having been determined by the authorities that he should be taken direct to his destination by the Ballerat. The prisoner was kept closely confined during the vessel's stay at this place, and the strictest watch was kept over him-to prevent any possible attempt he might make to escape. When it was learned that Deeming was not to be landed here, a large number pressed forward and attempted to go on board of the steamer, but the officers guarding the murderer, with the assistance of the officers and crew of the Ballerat, took immediate steps to prevent the threatened difficulty and after considerable difficulty succeeded in driving the crowd back and then kept them at a safe distance until the vessel was ready to depart. The prisener had not been seen by a single person outside of those whose duty it was to guard

CHURCH DISCIPLINE.

Dr. Hodges Makes This the Subject of His Third Lecture—He Shows the Episcopal Church Is Not Out of Harmony With Re-

Rev. Dr. Hodges delivered the third of his course on the Episcopal Church at St. Andrew's last evening. His subject was "The Discipline of the Church." Mr. Hodges said: I propose to speak first of the arrangement of the ecclesiastical government of the Episcopal Church, as to which it is often wrongly said the Episcopal Church is out of wrongly said the Episcopal Church is out of harmony with the spirit of a republican country; second, of the attitude of the Episcopal Church toward the ministers and members of other Christian communions, as to which it is said the Church is unfraternally exclusive; third, of the relation of the Christian to the world as it is taught in the Episcopal Church, as to which it is said the Church is given over to worldiness.

The constitution of the Church in this country was arranged by the men who framed the Constitution of the United States. Two-thirds of the men who framed that instrument were members of the Episcopal Church. The parishes correspond to the boroughs, the dioceses to the State, and the whole Church to the central government. In the parishes the members select the vestry, who have entire charge of the temporal affairs, and call the rector, who has care of the spiritual. The parishes elect their representatives to the diocesan conventions, and the latter elect their delegates to the General Convention, which, subject to tions, and the latter elect their delegates to the General Convention, which, subject to the constitution, may legislate for the whole church. Its House of Bishops corresponds to the Senate; its House of Celerical and lay deputies to the House of Representatives. The church shows equally with the State in the spirit of free, popular, independent, and representative government. In one respect the church is further away from all appearance of monarchy than the State is, for we have no chief excutive.

The attitude of the Episcopal Church toward the ministers of other Christian communions is simply that no one who has not had Episcopal Church. The difference between the ministers of that church and others is that, while the authority of the former has come in unbroken continuity from the time of Christ, that of the others has not.

As to the members of other communions, the rubric of the baptismal services, that none are to be admitted to the communion until they have been confirmed, has reference to children who are baptized. ence to children who are baptized. As in-fants they are members of the church, but are not entitled to its full privileges until at years of discretion they receive the rite of confirmation. There is no doctrine of close communion. The invitation in the com-munion service ought to make that plain munion service ought to make that plain enough.

The relation between the Christian and the world: The Episcopal Church has never laid down any rule as to the indulgence of any particular form of amusement. One of Christ's reasons for not giving rules like the scrives, but setting great principles in the place of them, was that He wished His disciples to do, so far as possible, all their own thinking. So the Church sets before its members the great principle of unworldliness, and leaves to the individual to determine wherein that consists. Worldliness is the spirit of forgetfulness of Jesus Christ. Nobody who remembers him, loves Him and follows Him can, even in the midstor wealth, of success, of pleasure or of society, fall into the pit of that temptation.

Whisky Trust Officers Heard in Their Own Defense at Boston.

PROPERTY ITSELF IS MONOPOLY.

Three Big Safe Concerns Combining to Control the Market

FIRES. FAILURES AND RAILWAY NEWS

Boston, March 30 .- A hearing on a petition to quash the indictments against the members of the Whisky Trust was had to-day before Judge Nelson. District Attorney Allen, addressing the Court, said the counsel representing the defendants in the case of the United States against Joseph B. Greenhut were there prepared to present to the Court their position on the pleas they had filed. The Government was anxious to assist them in every way. He suggested that the matter be submitted principally upon briefs. Mr. Root declared they could not object to it in substance, in view of the condition in which the District Attorney found himself, but would simply like to know some thing of the position he takes. This being agreed to, the hearing proceeded on the mo-tien to quash. Mr. Root opened the argu-

He said that the indictment merely He said that the indictment merely charged, in substance, that the officers of a legally-incorporated institution had manufactured distilled spirits in a legal manner and sold them at prices which they fixed themselves; and that, having done this, they had made sales in Massachusetts and monopolized the trade in distilled spirits and exacted from the people large sums of money. Mr. Root was at a loss to know what crime had been committed. The law made it an offense to monopolize trade and commerce between the States, but the prescommerce between the States, but the pres-ent indictment did not allege that the de-fendant had done anything of the kind, and it merely charged a monopoly of trade in one State. Continuing, Mr. Root said:

The only thing in the indictment which can be conjectured as furnishing ground for such a charge as is made against the defendants, are the rebate contracts. Now the company merely made an offer to Mills, Gaffney and others to sell them spirits, and if the latter would purchase exclusively from the company they were to receive a rebate, the spirits at the time of sale being the lawful property of the company. Under the lawful property of the company. Under that offer the rebate was to be paid in six that offer the rebate was to be paid in six months. Boes that constitute a contract enrestraint of trade. The company was willing to sell to anybody on these terms.

The question is whether, in the dealing of the corporation in its own property manufactured by it, they have been guilty of monopolizing trade or commerce. The essential idea of property is monopoly. The right to property is the right to monopolize. The exercise of the rights of the defendants does not interfere with the rights of others. District Attorney Allen said the Govern-nent would submit its case in about a week.

THE LEGAL LIMIT IN MINES.

A Test Case of Interest in the Coke Region Is Just Decided.

Uniontown, March 30.—[Special.]—A most peculiar case was decided in the courts here o-day. It was that of Judge Ewing sustaining Mine Inspector William Duncan in his decision that the Oliver Brothers Coke and Furnace Company must not employ more than 20 men in their mines here until the econd shaft, which is now being put down, has been completed.

The case was taken to court as a test, and Judge Ewing decided that the inspector was not clothed with any discretion, but must act in strict compliance with the law in regard to the number of men that may be employed in the mine before the second opening is made. The appeal was dismissed and the cost put on the appellants.

output and the market in this country. The officers of the three concerns have had several conferences, and definite plans may be agreed upon within a month or so. Mr. Ruston, of Herring & Co., admitted yesterday there was such a scheme ou foot, but said it was too early to talk about it.

The three companies have a capital stock of nearly $2,000,000, the Hall Company having the largest stock issue, said to be about $1,000,000. The Herring Company has outstanding, it is said, between $300,000 and $400,000 in stock. The Marvin Company's stock is much more than the Herring Company. The projectors believe that such a union would introduce stability in the trade, and that there would be more money for all, the smaller companies included.

A WONDERFUL ADVANCE.

The Most Remarkable Improv Which Have Taken Place in the Past Few Years.

[Medical Journal.]

The great Dr. Richardson, of London, has just been talking about leeches. He declares that the principal practice of the past, even within his memory, was blood-letting. He says: "The lancet, in frequent use, was supplemented by the leech and the cuppling glass. It may seem incredible, but it is the fact, that I knew of one practice in which the leech bill alone reached the sum of £150 a year. I also know a practice in which a man, who had learned to apply leeches akilifully, was attached to the firm as the regular leechman." He—dear old fellow!—was too good and devoted to his work ever to be forgotten; he could make leeches bits when no one else could, "they loved him so;" he was known to fame the country round, and many a countryman was ready to swear that he owed his life to 'Old Josh,' the 'Leechman.'"

This seems absurd to you, does it not, but is it any more absurd than some things which are done at the present day? You are told that you must purify your blood, and then are left free to injure and rack your nerves to pieces. Do you not know that the blood can never be pure while the nerves are weak or shaken? Whoever saw or heard of a healthy man or woman with trembling nerves? Is it not as absurd as the old blood-letting practice to cry "purify the blood" and then neglect the nerves? Be consistent. [Medical Journal, 1

the nerves without injuring them. It remained for a discovery to come to the world that could and would accomplish this. It was no ordinary acci-dental discovery, but was the result of patient and scientific experimenting. It came to Prof. Phelps, of Dartmouth College, and after years of experimenting it resulted in the discovery of Paine's Celery Compound. Note what is said regarding this great discovery. this great discovery.

COSTS MORE to make Royal Baking Powder than any other, because its ingredients are more highly refined and expensive. But the Royal is correspondingly purer and higher in leavening strength, and of greater money value to the consumer. The difference in cost of Royal over the best of the others does not equal the difference in leavening strength, nor make good the inferior work of the cheaper powders, nor remove the impurities which such powders leave in the food.

Where the best food is required, the Royal Baking Powder only can be used.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS

IF there is any pace to be set, we set it ourselves. We let nobody do it for us.

IF you are original in your ideas and dexterous in executing them, you are certain to be imitated. As a rule, however, the trouble with imitators is that they copy the deficiencies.

ONE thing we have a sure thing on, and that is our repair guarantee is not yet imitated by anyone-"They don't want to." Of course they don't.

this respect we are alone the only house making and selling clothing. Any suit or Spring Overcoat costing $10 or more is by us kept in repair free of charge for one year from date of purchase.
