fineries of Royalty.

COPYRIGHT, 1802, BY N. T. ASSOCIATED PRESS. LONDON, April 1.-The meager official report given to the press after yesterday's private caucus of the Unionists of Ulster cave no idea of the warlike tone of the speakers at that meeting. Knowing that their days are numbered as belonging to Government majority, and seeing that the Irish Parliament is the dominant fact of the near future, these advocates of constituional order under the Tory regime met to declare civil war in the event of a Liberal majority altering the Constitution. The war drum throbbing throughout the speeches was, however, only faintly heard in the resolutions adopted. The meeting was held at Dawnshine House, the residence of Lord Arthur Hill. Comptroller of the Queen's Household. All the Ulster members were present except three. Some pery spirits urged a plain leclaration of an immediate resort to arms when Ulster is placed under the Dublin Parliament. But these rough menaces were often used publicly by Colonel Suanderson and others during the home rule crisis of 886, and the leaders of the group now find prudent to weil their threats in more oderate language.

Gindstonlans Consider It Bluster,

The Liberal papers treat the proceedings s buncombe and the prediction of rebelion as mere vaporing. Interviews with several Ulster delegates in lobby gave the upression of an intense hostility to home rule, even keeper than at the time when the movement was organized. Money was of the country waited upon Prince Bispartly subscribed to arm 300,000 men, and marck and congratulated him. In thank-Colonel Saunderson boasted that he would respond to the call of a revolt. As shrewd an observer as Lord Randolph Churchill still professes to believe that Ulster will fight, but no fear of this nature in the slightest deters or alters the Liberal policy. In the meantime the Ulsterite's plan of campairn will be a vigorous agitation in Ireland and Great Britain, working up the constituencies to believe in their menaces. An abundance of money enables the Chief Committee, composed of Colonel Saunder-on, Sir H. T. Harland and T. W. Russell, to reanize provincial committees, the first velopment of whose action will be dis-osed at a convention in Belfast about

A Cabinet Member Taken to Task. Although National Irish members consider the matter only a subject for derision, Mr. Sexton to-night called Mr. Balfour's attention to the fact that a Crown Minister, he Comptroller of the Queen's Household reposed a resolution inciting a section of he Irish to disorder. Mr. Balfour declin-ing to commit himself by any statement in oly, Mr. Sexton intimated that he would cur to the subject.

He declared that he did not remember a dissolution occurring in the latter months of the ear upon an old register.

Going for the Palace Rat-Catcher.

Mr. Balfour fenced the demand. Unable to refute Mr. Gladstone, he simply asserted that the Crown had full discretion to deal with the matter. His response put the opgainst every vote of supply, especially at-Mr. Morton sarcastically protested against the vote for the Buckingham Palace ratcatcher. Mr. Labouchere advised that the rat-catcher be brought to Parliament, where he could catch something, and he wanted Kensington Palace to be used as an art gallery and Hampton Court as a public reserve. Pat O'Brien arged that Kew palace be turned into a poor. Mr. Storey held that it was uncommonly shabby for royal personages to take palaces rent free, and also to sponge the public to keep them in repair. There was a series of similar short, sharp, democratic atterances, indicating bad times for royal ties in the coming radical Parliamont. The Government members maintained discreet silence, carrying the votes with the usual

Peers generally, he continued, were not guilty of making long speeches. Perhaps Lord Denman simed at im. He might as well bring in a bill to House of Commons might take it as a covert criticism of their long speeches, and might retaliate somehow. As he desired perfect barmony between the two Houses, he must oppose the proposal. Lord Denman joined in the laughter at Lord Salisbury's wit and tried to continue the debate, but was checked by cries of order.

ONE MORE PEARL CASE Another English Scandal Resembling That of Mrs. Osborne.

LONDON, April 1.-Society in London has hardly recovered from Mrs. Florence Ethel Osborne's trial and conviction than another "pearl case" is threatened. Thus far those who discuss the affair are very chary about names. A well-known society lady, the wife of an officer in the army, some time ago missed a very valuable brooch. Just prior to missing it she was pecking a trunk or handbag, and she thought for a time that the brooch had been misplaced. Some little time later she was visiting a jewelry store and saw displayed for sale a brooch that resembled hers in every respect. She asked to be allowed t examine the brooch, and soon found beyond a doubt that it was the one she had lost. She asked the jewelers where they got it, nd they told her it had been sold to them by a certain lady, mentioning the name of her bosom friend. Then the officer's wife recalled that this friend had helped her at the time she was packing, and she was left no other option than to believe that her friend had stolen the brooch. The officer's wife at once wrote her friend charging her with the theft. The bosom friend at once communicated with her solicitors, laid the letter before them and instructed them to immediately begin action for libel.

The Former Iron Chancellor Congratulated

Everywhere on His 77th Birthday. BERLIN, April 1. - Prince Bismarck is 77 years old to-day. The day has been marked by the attendance at Friedrichschue, where the Prince resides, of a much larger number of persons than usual. The Prince is celebrating the day in his usual manner. He held a reception in the park and had a hearty word for all who called on him. He looked remarkably well. An immense number of floral gifts were sent to him from all parts of the Empire.

Numerous deputations from various parts ing a deputation, representing 10,000 miners in the Bochum district, the Prince said that coal and iron were closely associated with husbandry. He himself is a farmer, and he never credited aspersions upon the Boehum industry. To-night the place was brilliantly illuminated, and a torchlight procession was held. The Prince's birthday was celebrated in this city and other places throughout Germany. A telegram of congratulations was sent to the former Chancellor to-day on behalf of the members of the National Liberal party.

LONDON, April 1 .- Edith Sampson, wife of Carl Auguste Sampson, the American "Strong Man," now awaiting trial on the charge of larceny, last night made a deter mined attempt to commit suicide at a low hotel in Leicester Square. She took : quantity of laudanum. She was given an emetic before the poison had got into her system and she was soon out of danger.

Mrs. Sampson had a quarrel with her hus anger and started for Liverpool. This was the reason for her act. She was placed under arrest, and when arraigned before a police magistrate to-day she declared that she would again attempt to kill herself. The magistrate ordered that she be confined in the prison infirmary for a week.

A Couple of Them Worrying New York's Methodist Conference.

PINKERTON DETECTIVES AT WORK

And Some of the Ministers Themselves Running Down Clews.

ANONYMOUS LETTERS CAUSE TROUBLE

SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. NEW YORK, April 1 .- The scandal which has been brewing in the New York Metho dist conference for the last two days, and which a committee has been appointed to investigate, boiled up alarmingly to-day, and now involves the good name of Rev. James M. King, D. D., of this city, one of the most prominent clergymen in the Methodist Episcopal Church. It was brought out to-day that Pinkerton detectives had been hired by Methodist ministers to look up the origin of certain anonymous letters, and had been put on the track of their fellow ministers. When suspicion fell on Rev. Dr. King a man went to Dr. King's office, at 140 Nassau street, and rummaged through his papers and opened his desk, while he was at home ill in bed, for the purpose of obtaining evidence.

All this and much more was common talk among the members of the Conference in the Park Avenue Church to-day, although none of it came to the surface at the public session. The spectators who watched the proceedings from the galleries did not get the slightest inkling of the trouble from the proceedings, but in a private room the seven ministers who made up the Com-mittee of Investigation were busy all day taking testimony from elergymen and lay-

Two Scandals Being Investigated. Two distinct matters are occupying the attention of the committee. One is the anonymous circular which purported to ex-pose the log-rolling methods of the ministers who met at Poughkeepsie early in February for the ostensible purpose of denouncing log-rolling in general in conference politics. The other is a still more serious matter. Bowles Colgate, the President of the New York City Church Extension and Missionery Society received an sion and Missionary Society, received an anonymous letter, a week or two ago, pro-testing against the election of Rev. F. Mason North as Secretary of the society. The letter said that Dr. North was unfit for the secretaryship, and made direct charges against him. When the society met on Tuesday it showed its confidence in Dr. North by unanimously electing him Secretary in place of Rev. M. D. Crawford, who

Evidence was laid before the committee to-day designed to show that both the anonymous circular and the North letter came from the office of Dr. King, in the Morse building. This evidence was entirely circumstantial, and many of the ministers did not consider it was strong enough to put any responsibility upon Dr. King personally. Dr. King is pastor of the St. John's Methodist Church, in West Fifty-third street, and is also Secretary of the Society for the Protection of American Institutions, which has an office in the Morse building. There are two or three employes in the office, who are kept busy with the so-ciety's correspondence, which is very ex-There are two or three employes

When the Poughkeepsie circular came out, over a month ago, some of the friends of the men mentioned therein began a little detective work on their own hook. The circular was dated from Poughkeepsie, but Rev. Andrew Shriver, who lives in that town, went around among all the printing houses there and found that the circular had not been printed there. The circulars had all been mailed from Poughkeepsie, and it was found that the day before they had been put in the post-office a Methodist minister from Newburg. office a Methodist minister from Newburg had been in town. This was Rev. E. S. Osborn, who got up in the Conference on Wednesday and disclaimed any knowledge of the printing or mailing of the circular. The amateur detectives thought they had obtained good evidence against Mr. Osborn when they learned that a bundle had come p from New York for him, which he had taken over to Poughkeepsie. He explained to everybody's satisfaction afterward that this was a bundle of his wife's belongings. One of the ministers thought be detected a One of the ministers thought he deter semblance between the writing on the envelopes containing the anonymous circu-lars and the addresses on official documents sent out from the office of Dr. King's so-ciety. An expert was hired, and after a careful examination he gave it as his opin-ion that the addresses of the anonymous circulars were written by the same hand as the others, although there was an apparent effort to disguise the writing. A Minister in the Role of a Vidocq. One of the ministers went shortly after this to Dr. King's office, and began to question the young woman who works the typewriter there. This is the story of what happened, as told by several ministers

He laid before her an official envelope in which some official matter had been sent out and asked her if the writing upon it was hers. She replied, after looking at it closely, that it was. Then he laid beside it one of the envelopes in which an anonymous letter had been sert out and asked her if that was her writing too. The young woman hesitated, but just as she was about to answer a voice is said to have come from an inside room: "I command you not to answer any further questions." The minister could not get any more information then and he departed. Dr. King was not in his office at this time and the voice was said to belong to the Superintendent, John McLellan. This evidence, it was understood, was laid before the committee of ministers to-day for what it was worth.

Soon after Mr. Colgate received the anonymous letter about Rev. Mr. North he called at Dr. King's office, in company with Mr. North, so one of the ministers of the onference said to-day, and the two made an extensive search there.

Betrayed by His Letter Paper, "At another time," said this minister, "a man acting as a detective (I won't say he was a detective, because it is too much to say that one minister is using a detective to track down a fellow minister), came to Dr. King's office and borrowed a sheet of paper to write a note on. He took that piece of paper away with him, and it was compared with the sheet of which the anonymous letter had been written, and the same watermark was found on both. Now, that's as far as that evidence goes, mind you, and, of course, it only indicates that the letter started from that office. It does not connect Dr. King with it. Some outside person may have used the clerks in the office for his hefarious purposes. But the committee must get to the bottom of this whole affair now, for the reputation of every minister in the New York Conference will be involved. If it is fastened on any minister in the conference, the committee can do nothing but recommend his trial on the charge of conduct unbecoming a minister of the conference of the confer he same watermark was found on both. any minister in the conference, the commit-tee can do nothing but recommend his trial on the charge of conduct unbecoming a min-

Dr. King was summoned to-day to appear before the committee. He was seen by a reporter as he was waiting to be called in.
"I know absolutely nothing about the authorship of either the circular or the letter," he said earnestly, "and I have not had anything to do with sending them out. That is all I can say at present." Dr. King has a strong personal following in the Conference, and his friends say it is absurd to consider for a moment that he is the guilty person. Dr. King has three times led the New York delegation to the Quadrennial General Conference, and four years ago he was elected a delegate by the largest vote ever given by the Conference for a candidate. A diver arrived this afternoon fire department is inadequate to fight the lames, great alarm prevails. The fire broke out in the upholstering room on the third floor in the Downing baby carriage works. The works were running night and day. The girls and workmen escaped. The building was filled with stock ready for market and new stock. The loss is $75,000 and the insurance $50,000. Hon. J. F. Downing is the President of the company.

A number of dwellings are on fire. The fire has broken out in the Merchant Flouring Mill, and is beyond the control of the department. The mills are elevator form, and are the largest in this section of the country. They are owned by Phineas & O. E. Crouch. The loss will not be less than $125,000 on building and stocks. The mill stands close by the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Railroad, and all traffic is suspended, as the tracks are in the shadow of the tottering walls.

Women Slaves to Their Nerves?

Women are great sufferers from nervous ess, weakness, nervous prostration and de bility. Thousands droop and languish in the close, confined shops, factories or offices, and hundred of thousands wear out their nerve power in household cares and work. This is especially true during the spring months, when Spring Debility makes them much worse.

It is a fact also that no disease in the world has ever left such a train of invalids in its track-invalids who suffer from both nerv ous and physical weakness and prostration nerve and vital power, and have great weak ness, exhaustion, pain in back and limbs, malaria, and the distressing female com-plaints which are always caused by loss of rital strength!

The great nerve invigorator and female restorative is Dr. Greene's Nervura. No remedy in the world is so sure to bring back the blo and color to the cheek, the brilliancy to the eyes, the elasticity to the step, the strength and vitality to the unstrung, shattered and worn out nerves. It is the greatest of all uterine tonics and regulators, and cures all female weakness and disease. Use it this spring and get back your strength and vigor. Purely vegetable and harmless. Druggists, lays. A loss of memory, would have to stop and think what I had to do, and was bothered very much. I had inward spasms, was very hysterical; would cry all day for nothing. I would drop anything out of my hand, and my speech was affected. I took greatest blessing to me and my husband, who, before, never knew if he should find me alive when he returned each night. I feel so thankful for what Dr. Greene's Nervura has done for me that I should need a whole page praising it. Mrs. LUCY SOUYA, 855 Ninth av., New York City.'

PDr. Greene, the successful specialist, liseases, 35 W. Fourteenth street, New York, can be consulted free, personally or by let ter. Call or write to him about your case, or send for symptom blank to fill out, and a letter fully explaining your disease, giving advice, etc., will be returned free.

We Lead, Others Follow

IF there is any pace to be set, we set it ourselves. We let nobody do it for us.

IF you are original in your ideas and dexterous in executing them, you are certain to be imitated. As a rule, however, the trouble with imitators is that they copy the deficiencies.

ONE thing we have a sure thing on, and that is our repair guarantee is not yet imitated by anyone-"They don't want to." Of course they don't.

IN this respect we are alone the only house making and selling clothing. Any suit or Spring Overcoat costing $10 or more is by us kept in repair free of charge for one year from date of purchase.

IMITATE IF YOU DARE.
