PEPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. TORONTO, April 3 .- Ernest Albert Macdonald, who gained some distinction here as an Alderman for several years, was a mayoralty candidate in this city a year ago, and has announced himself as an annexationist candidate for Parliamentary honors in a coming bye-election, has been actively engaged for several months in a series of meetings in Western Ontario, in the interest of political union with the United States. In reply to a question as to what was the cause of a revival of interest in the question of annexation Mr. Macdonald to-day said:

"The commercial depression that now prevails in the country, and the disappoint-ing consus returns are largely the cause of the attention that is being devoted to the question at present. But we do not care to call it a movement for annexation, we prefer to call it political union." "What is the objection to the term an-

"Well, it implies something which we do not wish to be confounded with the intentions of our movement. The word annexation implies force and a loss of dignity. What we want is honorable union."
"How do you find the movement received in the western part of this province?" Many Are Wild for Annexation.

"The people in some parts are wild for the proposed change, especially in the agri-cultural districts. We take a vote on the question wherever it is possible, and in Paris, an inland town of 4,006 where we Paris, an inland town of 4,005 where we held a meeting recently, we submitted five different motions on the political destiny of Canada, and the voting was as follows: Remain as we are, 69: independent monarchy, 2; independent republic, 6; imperial federation, 1; political union with the United Sintes, 163."

"How is the annexation question viewed in the Canadian border towns?"

"I have make a careful investigation in a number of the border settlements, and I find a very strong feeling in favor of political union. But, of course, that is only natural in those places, where the advantages to be derived from such a policy are constantly before the eyes of Canadians who live in such close proximity to the United States. These people see that their natural markets are in the United States and even now they patronize them to a considerable extent. partonize them to a considerable extent. Take Wisdsor, for instance. The people of that town are unable to supply many of their wants there, and the nearest cities are London and Detroit. The former is 19 miles distant. The latter is so convenient that Windsor receive can go over to the city and return at The latter is so convenient that windor people can go over to the city and return at a cost, by buying tickets on the ferry, for 3 certs for the round trin. If they are known residents of Windsor they have little or no trouble with the Canadam customs officers.

Not Much Need of Annexation, "In fact, I believe these officers wink at ple who make their purchases in Detroit, and I think it is done with the object of not engendering a greater feeling of opposition ngainst the custom laws than now exist.

If the custom laws in these border towns to the more rigorously enforced I believe it would increase the popular feeling for political towns.

"Is it your purpose, and that of your friends, to make a vigorous campaign in favor of political union."

"Yes, we intend to contest every Parliamentary constituency open after this. We regard the opening of this constituency—the city of Toronto—at the present time as almost providential, because Toronto is the only constituency that returns three members by a cumulative your. Thus, in electing one to fill the vacancy in the Ontario Legislature, we will get a vote from an electorate of $2,000. I am sure there are thousands upon thousands of sure there are thousands upon thousands of political Unionists in Toronto, and if we only have 25 per cent of the electorate with us it will show the feeling of the people in this city on the question of political union. The customs regulations are so oppressive that I believe most of the Importers in To-ronto are political unionists."

Every Border Place to Be Contested. "Will you offer a political Unionist candi date in Welland for the House of Com

"Yes, we will contest Welland; and, as that is a border constituency, we hope to make a good showing there. If we succeed in get-ting a candidate elected in Welland we shall have him introduce a motion in favor of political union in the Dominion Parliament at Ottawa our opponents say we could not get the terms we propose as a basis for political union. We cannot approach the United States Government in any way to ascertain it these terms would be received, but we feel there is no reason why we cannot confeel there is no reason why we cannot consult the American popular leeling on the matter, as well as that of the Canadian people. We propose holding meetings in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, Buffalo and other Northern cities, with a view of laying our plans before the people in those cities and getting an expression of opinion on the question. If it be received is voxably by the pre-s and public men, it can be assumed that we would be lairly dealt with in asking for union."

A Soho Man Locked Up to Keep Him Away From Ilis Wife's Funeral,

Michael Sweeney, a Soho laborer, whose ome is at 93 Tustin street, spent yesterday in Central station, in order that his faithful wife, who has borne him eight children an who died Friday morning at the birth of the minth child, could be decently and quietly

Ugly stories are told of Sweeney by his beighbors, and his actions in the present case fully corroborate them. Sweeney has four children living, a boy of 14, a girl of 12 and two little ones, almost babies.

Mrs. Sweeney took very sick Thursday evening. Drs. Moyer and Miller were called in and spent the night trying to relieve her. in and spent the night trying to relieve her, but in spite of their efforts, after eight hours of terrible suffering, she died on Sat-arday morning. Her child never saw the

While the poor woman was struggling with death Thursday night, it is alleged that her husband went out and got drunk, and returning, spent the night abusing the suffering woman and the attending physicians. After the death he returned to the saloon for a fresh supply of liquor, and spent most of the day there using the money which his son had earned in a Southside glass works, and which had been intended for food, of which there was none in the house. Several times Friday the neighbors were compelled to interfere to save the boy from the drunken in there's abuse.

It being evident that Sweeney would make no arrangements for burying his wite, his neighbors and Father Corcopan, of St. Endget's Courch, raised a collection on Sat-Bridget's Church, raised a collection on Saturday and arranged for the funeral. Sweeney still being drunk and disorderly Saturday night, Officer Hilderbrecht arrested him, and at the hearing yesterday morning Magistrate Gripp was requested to bold him until the Juneral was over to avoid his creating a disturbance during the services. This was done, and Sweeney will get his hearing to-

The neighbors are making arrangements to have the children properly cared for, and the Anti-Cruelty Society will be notified.

Mrs. Sweeney was only 25 years of age, and the children was not as years of and anti-children was not as the same manner and made her kind and pleasant manner had made her many sympathizing friends in Soho.

A Baby Eas Both Legs Broken,

James Kehoe, of Dravosburg, brought his year-old son to Mercy Hospital last even ing with both legs broken above the knees. The father doesn't know how the accident happened. The little fellow was playing mappened. The little lellow was playing with other children, and about noon he was found with both limbs fractured. It is supposed he fell, or some heavy object dropped on him. The haby is a patient sufferer, and never uttered a cry, not even a mean. At the Union depot, while waiting for the ambulance, he was the object of much symmathy from the massengers. pathy from the passengers.

MORE MARKED MEN.

Continued From First Page spirit making—in fact they might be called mountain spiritualists. The only difference between this class and the ones more civilized is that they prefer to operate on the living rather than the dead. Jonathan Hochstetler was the only educated man among them. He had once taught a district school and was well read. He had about 50 books by the standard authors and would with pride point out to visitors his library.

Suspects Given No Quarter. The feud that has existed between the Millers and Hochtetlers the latters' still was burned and some of his cattle shot down in the field. Others who have talked have suffered the same. A horse or a colt would be shot down or a hay stack burned. This has always been warning enough to the mountainers and there is no record of any murder save this one and the others that are liable to result from it.

In one case an undertaker near Mt. Pleasant saw a mountaineer come down one night with a load of mountain dew, and was indiscreet enough to talk about it. The mountaineer simply stole his hearse, hauled it across the mountains and sold it. As soon as they commit any depredation they retreat to the mountains and are practically lest. In nearly every cave and gully they have had a still, and as the officers approach they simply load up the stills on sieds and start through the woods. Last winter one man was followed for ten miles. He drove over failen legs and through places the officers were afraid to follow, and they finally gave up. These mountains extend clear down into Tennessee, so that unless the fugitives are out off they can, under the cover of the forests, escape detection and be among friends the whole way. In this case, however, Miller and Pritts are old men and have families and will not go far away from home.

The only redeeming feature of this wild. with a load of mountain dew, and was indis-

The only redeeming feature of this wild country are the mountain women. Unlike the men they are short and wiry, and some the men they are short and wiry, and some of the young girls are extremely pretty. Pritts' wife, if clad in good clothes, would be considered a handsome woman, and her daughter is pretty as a peach. They all have fresh, rosy complexions and are as hardy as the men. They have neat, trim ankles, and whether it is from vanity on this point or from the scarcity of clothes, they nearly all are dressed a in ballet and are finely formed. CHRISTY.

OFFICERS ARE CONFIDENT.

All Arranged for a Fresh Hunt-Too Much Brass Band So Far-What the Sheriff and the Chief of Police Have to Say.

"SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. SOMERSET. April 3 .- Your correspondent this evening visited Sheriff Good at the jail. "You cannot understand or He said: imagine the condition of that moonshine district without going down there yourself. The whole mountain side is unquestionably canded together in the boldest of moonshine operations, and during the present excite-ment any stranger who goes there takes his life in his hands. The better class of citizens there are horrified at the murder, and there are horrified at the murder, and will not assist the murderers to escape. They will stand by the moonshiners, however, in their fight against the revenue officers, and it is hard to get any information whatever regarding their operations. We will have a big job in bagging those fellows, but unless our plans miscarry we will have them in jail within the next 48 hours. The one thing I am afraid of is that a couple more murders may be committed before they are captured."

Young Bob Miller Is Mum. In company with one of the officers who had been out with the Sheriff a call was made on young Bob Miller. He is a fine specimen of young manhood, straight as an arrow, well built and muscular. He inquired of the officer whether he had seen his wife and child and ask how they were, but would express no desire to know of the particulars of the attempt to capture his father and Pritts, and refused to express his opinion as to their probable whereabouts. United States Detective Schlosser, who was United States Detective Schlosser, who was with the Sheriff's party, left this evening for Washington in response to a telegram from Commissioner Mason. Before leaving he said the Commissioner had decided to take a hand in the hunt as Hochstetler had been murdered for testifying in behalf of the Government and that he expected to return within the next 24 hours with a few experienced detectives.

Chief of Police Gilbert was seen at a late hour this evening and from him it was learned that a small squad of resolute men will leave here to-night for Trent, and it is expected they will land Miller and Pritts in the county jail before this time to-morrow night. Mr. Gilbert is familiar with every foot of the monoshine country, and is well known to all mountaineers. He is a famous hunter and has spent days and weeks roaming over the mountains in that part of the country, and is looked upon as a friend and comrade by many of the moonshiners.

Too Much Brass Band. He said to your reporter to-night: "It is that this isn't the season of the year to hunt ers and murderers with a brass band. Bill Pritts and General Siegal Miller band. Bill Pritts and General Slegal Miller have never been three miles from the place of the murder since it was committed. They went straight to Abe Pletcher's house and spent the night with Pletcher. They spent Friday night with him at his shanty and they would have spent Saturday night there, too, had not a big brass band company from Somerset and Rockwood gone down there and made noise enough to let dead there and made noise enough to let dead men know they were coming. I am satisfied they will be at the shanty to-night or at the still back of Powell Miller's, and if we don't bag them within 20 hours I'll be a badly feeled man."

CRIME OF A YOUNG JESSE JAMES.

He Induces His Sweetheart to Elope With Bim in the Night.

THE ABDUCTOR MAY YET BE LYNCHED

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.) MACON, GA., April 3.-A curious story from Ft. Gaines is printed here to-day. It is of the abduction of Miss Laura Brooks. who was spirited to a swamp and kept there for weeks. The address of the outraged father and victimized daughter is Mr. R. W. Brooks and Miss Laura Brooks, Coleman, Ga. Miss Brooks had a sweetheart whose same is Archie Bigbie. The girl's father did not approve of their marriage, espe-cially as Bigbie had frequently expressed a determination to go West and follow in the footsteps of Jesse James. The young lady felt that her father's objections were too severe, but she refused to marry her lover and go West, agreeing only to link with him if he would settle down in this country. To this he con-sented, and an elopement was arranged, he promising to take her to Ft. Gaines, get married, and return home. did not approve of their marriage, espe married, and return home.

The night arrived and Bigbie with it.
The girl bade goodby to the home, and started, as she thought, to Ft. Gaines, to wed. They left the public highway and took through a plantation road until the rushing waters of the Chattahoochee began to dance before them. A campfire glimmered among the tangled wildwood, and a dirty, dilapidated tent stood in the background.

Rude Awakening From a Dream.

Bigbie drove up and assisted his helpless victim to alight, when they were met by two brigandish outlaws, Bill Carlisle and John Moore, and a "tough" female. Such was Bigbie's introduction of the girl to her future home and associates. She next implored her abductor to marry her, but he coolly told her that such a course was not necessary, and must be abandoned. She was placed under the closest espionage, and not allowed to absent herself at any time from the secluded swamp rendezvous. The following night they embarked in their bateau and skulked away down the river.

The grief-stricken father only succeeded the past week in securing information regarding their whereabouts, and in company with Allen White, left in pursuit. Just below the Florida line they heard of the fugitives and pushed ahead, but before they reached the camp Carlisle intercepted them. He said the arrest of any or all of the party was impossible, especially by only two, as they were heavily armed, but he would agree to carry one of them to camp in his boat, if he would go unarned, and also endeavor to induce Bigbie to give up the girl. They accepted the proposition and White embarked with him.

Rescued From Her Abductors. Rude Awakening From a Dream.

Rescued From Her Abductor He found the camp on an isolated island, in a dense jungle and completely hidden. in a dense jungle and completely hidden. The poor girl was rapturously glad to see White, and began begging him at once to rescue her from her wretched position. Bigbie then appeared on the scene with his Winchester, and had it not been for the interference of Carlisle and the prayers of the girl, he would have, as he said, "made catfish bait out of him." White exercised all the power of argument in attempting to get possession of the girl, but to no purpose, and finally, after remaining all night at the camp, came away with her under the protection of Carlisle and his Winchester.

Miss Brooks tells a startling story of cruelty, lawlessness and outlaw. She says they obtain all their supplies by stealing from residents along the river. A reward of $500 in Columbus hangs over Carlisle, and Mr. Brooks has put out one of $100 for Bigble. The sympathy of everyone goes out to the lady and her family, and if Bigble is caught, to stand in his shoes would be dear at any price.
