BURROWS' BACK IS UP

And He Gets Even With Speaker Crisp by Filibustering for

THE FIRST TIME THIS SESSION.

A Vote on the Springer Free Wool Bill Thereby Postponed

UNTIL AFTER RHODE ISLAND'S ELECTION

WASHINGTON, April 5 .- The Republicans of the House of Representatives, for the first time this session, to-day resorted to filibustering, and the enormous Democratic majority of two-thirds tound it impossible to overcome the skillful tactics of Representatives Burrows and Payne and force the free wool bill to a vote. For some days it has been rumored that the Democratic leaders would endeavor to pass the Springer bill before the close of this legislative day, in order that it might have a political effect in aiding the Democrats to carry the State of Rhode Island at to-morrow's election. Whatever intentions there may have been some days ago of thus rushing the bill through the House, there is no doubt the plan was finally abandoned before the departure of Chairman Springer yesterday for Virginia Beach.

Whether or not the Republicans understood that the contemplated programme of the Democrats was no longer seriously considered, there was prompt objection this morning when Representative McMillin endeavored to have the debate on the first section of the bill limited to one hour. It had been generally understood by members that it had been agreed by the Committee on Ways and Means (Democrats and Republicans alike) that immediately after the House went into the committee of the whole a vote should be taken without debate on Mr. Burrows' amendment, which was pending, to strike out the word "wools"

Burrows Gets His Back Up. The effect of this amendment is of course to strike out the essence of the bill. But when McMillin moved that the debate on the first section be limited to one hour, the Republicans rose in revolt and demanded that two hours be accorded. Pending a dethat two hours be accorded. Pending a decision of the question Speaker Crisp spoke sharply to Mr. Burrows, in a manner which that gentleman resented and which impelled the Republicans to resort to filibustering methods to accomplish their end. Under the rules the Democrats were powerless, and the House finally adjourned with the day wasted. There is no intention on the part of the Committee on Rules to bring in a cloture rule, and the fight will continue to morrow, with both sides ranged as they were when the flag of truce was raised this evening.

were when the flag of truce was raised this evening.

After preliminary business in the House, Mr. McMillin moved that the House go into committee of the whole on the free wool oill, and pending that, moved all debate on the first section be limited to one hour. This met with opposition from the Republicans, who, while they were willing to take a vote immediately on the pending amendment, thought that no limitation should be pinced upon debate. Mr. McMillin was willing to extend the time somewhat, but insisted that the debate must be limited. The Republicans, under the lead of Mr. Burrows, of Michigan, then began to fight for delay.

Where the Hich Came In.

Where the Hi ch Came In. A slight disagreement between Burrows and the Speaker caused the latter to sur pend business until the former should take his seat. Mr. Burrows reluctantly but gracefully obeyed the Speaker's bidding, and then, Mr. McMillin withdrawing his modification, renewed his motion limiting the debate to one hour. Mr. Burrows was imme cation, relewed ins motion infining the debate to one hour. Mr. Burrows was immediately on his feet to make an amendment, but the Speaker recognized Mr. McMillin to demand the previous question. Then Mr.

Burrows moved a recess until 4 o'clock, which was supplemented by Mr. Payne, of New York, with an amendment for a recess until 5 o'clock.

Thus the regime of filibustering was inaugurated. The Republicans refrained from voting—both on a division and by tellers—thereby breaking a quorum and compelling the Democrats to order the yeas and navs.
Mr. Payne's amendment was rejected, yeas, Il; nays, 183; but Mr. Payne, was not idle, and interjected another amendment for a recess until 4.30. Mr. Burrows was doubtful whether this recess would prove to be long enough, and moved another amendment extending the time until 3.50.

The tellers on the latter motion reported that there were two gentlemen in favor of the hour of 5.50 while there was 125 who opposed it. But as this did not constitute a quorum, and as Mr. Burrows appeared unwilling that his amendment should not draw a full vore, he made this point, and the yeas and mays were ordered, but the yeas and a full vote, he made this point, and the yeas and nays were ordered, but the yeas and nays did not disclose a quorum, the vote standing yeas 2, nays 162.

The Way Time Is Eaten Up, Mr. Miller, of Wisconsin, rose to move a call of the House, but he was waived down by Messrs. Burrows and Dingley, and the duty of making this motion devolved upon Mr. McMillin. The call was ordered-yeas, 166; mays, 4. The call showed that there were 230 members in attendance; and further proceedings under the call having been dispensed with, the vote recurred on Mr. Burrows' amendment for a recess until 5:30. It was defeated yeas, none; nays, 178—and the Speaker stated that the vote would be taken on Mr.

Payne's amendment for a recess until 4:30.

McMillin—Mr. Speaker, I wish—
Mr. Burrows, or Michigan, (interrupting)—
The pending question is one for a recess. Is that debatable?

The Speaker—It is not. The gentleman

Mr. Barrows—I do not.
The Spenker—The Chair understands the entleman's remark to be equivalent to an blaction. objection. Mr. Barrows—I did not intend it to be an objection.
The Speaker—The motion is on the am ment to the gentleman from New York (Mr. Payne) to take a recess until 4:39.

And the merry of several 4:39.

And the merry-go-round again started on its travels, to the melodious accompaniment of the reading clerk's voice.

The amendment was defeated—yeas none, nays 168—but a further amendment was of-fered by Mr. Barrows that the recess be until 6 o'clock.

Couldn't Be Hired to Adjourn. Mr. Payne thought that an adjournment would be more proper, and made a motion to that effect. The house, however, looked upon the motion to adjourn with disfavor, and voted it down-yeas 37, nays 171.

Then Mr. Payne, evidently thinking that the hour fixed by Mr. Burrows for a recess would not enable the members to obtain a satisfactory dinner, moved to extend it satisfactory difficer, moved to extend it until 8 o'clock, and one-fifth of a quorum again set the merry-go-round at work upon its circular journey.

Mr. Payne's amendment was rejected—yeas, 4; nays, 172—and then Mr. McMillin recognizing the fact that further persistence was useless, moved an adjournment, which was carried.

was useless, moved an adjournment, which was cartied.

In explanation of his position, Mr. Burrows this evening said: "When a motion is nude to limit delane it has been the invariable practice to allow parties representing the two sides, it possible, to come to some understanding in the House as to time without having a vote. With that view, and for no other purpose, I sought to obtain an understanding with Mr. McMillin, who is in charge of the bill, whereupon the Speaker assumed to say that debate was ont of order. Of course, I knew that debate was not in order, but it is the first time in my experience in the House of Representatives that a member has been denied that opportunity to bring about, if possible, an amicable understanding. The course of the Speaker was entirely indefensible and unbecoming the presiding officer of the House."

The Senate Is More Dignified,

In the Senate to-day Mr. Morgan offered an amendment to his silver resolution, whiel was ordered to be printed. It instructs the Finance Committee to report a bill supple mentary to the act of July 14, 1890, which shall provide for the coinage of gold and silver bullion on equal terms as to each metal, and for the issue of Treasury notes metal, and for the issue of Treasury notes in denominations not to exceed $500, upon the same terms and conditions as in the act of 1990, upon all gold and silver bullion that the United States may acquire by purchase, and that any depositor who shall deposit in the Treasury gold or silver bullion in quantities of not less than $100 in value, the product of mines in the United States, which has not been previously coined, shall at his option receive coin certificates for the same at the mint value of such bullion.

The Indian appropriation bill was then

The Indian appropriation bill was then taken up, the question being on Mr. Dawes' motion to strike out the provision for the assignment of army officers to the duties of Indian agents, with the amendment attached to it (as offered by Mr. Hawley) that whenever the President shall be of opinion that the good of the service specially requires it he may appoint a civilian.

Mr. Palmer argued against the policy of the House provision. In the course of his argument, and of interruptions of it by other Senators, he appeared to be startled and surprised at learning that there were Indians who were United States citizens and voters.

Indians who were United States citizens and voters.

"What!" said he "Indians vote?"

He was informed by Mr. Pettigrew that the Sisseton Indians, in South Dakota, were citizens of the United States and voters, having taken their lands in severalty, and yet they had agents over them.

"With them, I hope; not over them," Mr. Palmer exclaimed.

Bad Bacon the Cause of Trouble. Mr. Manderson alluded to the charge that rancid bacon had been supplied one of the Indian reservations, and complained of being misrepresented in the Chicago papers. He had been charged with saying in the dis-cussion last week that the Sioux outbreak of cussion last week that the Sioux outbreak of 1890-91 was caused by the fact that 120,000 pounds of bad bacon had been furnished by Armour, of Chicago. Of course that was very absurd, because the contract with Armour & Co. was made subsequent to that Sioux outbreak. But these newspaper articles, he said, had produced one very excellent result—the writing of a letter by General Miles to him attributing the trouble at the Sioux reservation at Rosebud and Pine Ridge to insufficient food and to the bad food issued to the Indians; and commending the action of Captain Penny in rejecting bad bacon.

Air. Manderson also read from the official report of the Board of Survey on the bacon in question; showing that the first lot (125,000 pounds) was not of first-class quality; that the second lot (27,000 pounds) could not be issued in its entirety because of its moldy and rancid condition; and that the third lot (121,000 pounds) was totally unfit for use.

Controversy Over the Chinese Bill, After Mr. Manderson concluded his speech Mr. Dolph moved that the House bill "To absolutely prohibit the coming of Chinese persons into the United States be inid before the Senate and referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations. He said that the House, instead of acting on the Senate bill on the instead of acting on the Senate bill on the subject, had passed an independent measure, as if it was the intention of the House to prevent any legislation on the subject. If it had amended the Senate bill the whole matter could have gone to a conference committee. The bill was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

The discussion of the question as to the assignment of army officers to perform the duties of Indian agents was then resumed, and Mr. Cultom argued against the proposition.

Mr. Proctor argued briefly in support of the House proposition.

Mr. Dawes, having charge of the bill, made an earnest appeal to the Senate to agree to his motion to strike the army officer provision out of the bill. Before he concluded his address the Senate adjourned.
