ENTHUSIASM OF NEW ORLEANS PEOPLE

"SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH." NEW ORLEANS, April 9.- The reunion of the United Contederate Veterans wound up to-day in a parade. The veterans were escorted by the State militia and consisted of four divisions. The first, including the Louisiana Voterans, was commanded by Col. Eschelman: the second, embracing the Mississippi, Florida, Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina veterans was under the command of General J. W. Stone: the third, from Tennessee, Kentucky, Maryland, Georgia and Alabama, was under General W. H. Jackson, and the fourth. under General W. L. Cabell, consisted of the men from Texas, Arkansas, Missouri, Arizona, New Mexico and Indian Terri-

There were 8,000 vets in line on foot, besides a large number of the disabled and crippled in carriages. Every camp carried number of old Contederate war flags, while a the houses throughout the line of march were profusely decorated with bunting. The Confederate and United States flags were in about equal proportions. They Used the Rebel Yell,

The march was about two miles long, and from the beginning to the end the men were greeted with such enthusiastic cheers and shouts, including the old rebel yell, that it was almost impossible to hear the bands that were playing "Dixie," "The Bonnie Blue Flag," "My Maryland" and other Confederate airs.

The parade stopped in front of the City Hall, where the vets were reviewed and The review of the veterans was memorable sight. General W. J. Behan and his staff were the marshals, while General Gordon and his staff and General Kirby Smith and his staff rode at the head of the column and afterward reviewed it. General Longstreet, General Marcus J. Wright and Senator Daniel Worth were the honored guests of the evening, and Mrs. Davis and her daughter, the families of the Generals, and other prominent visitors occupied seats on the reviewing stand in front of the City Hall. Mrs. Davis was much touched by the Texan devotion and kissed the flag carried by the Lone Star vet-erans. She will give the wives and daughters of the Texans a special reception at Washington Artillery Arsenal to-night. Rebel Flags at the Expo.

The convention finished its business today. All the old officers were elected, General J. B. Gordon as commander in chiet, General W. L. Cahill commanding the division west of the Mississippi and General Kirby Smith that east of the river. It was decided to hold the next convention at Birmingham, Ala., some time next year, the date to be fixed by the commander in chief. The convention recommended the several Southern State Legislatures to provide for needy Confederate veterans. Although the mat-ter of the Jefferson Davis Monument was suggested, no action was taken in regard

A resolution was offered that the veterans attend the Chicago Exposition in a body, but one of the delegates suggested that they did not care to go anywhere that they could not march under the Confederate battle flag, and thereupon the proposition was voted down unanimously. All the veterans agree that the reunion was by far the most successful yet held.

Brazilian Army Officers in Trouble for Signing a Manifesto-It Condemns the Deposition of Governors and Commends the Fallen Dictatorship-New Election Wanted.

RIO JANEIRO, April 9 .- A document, signed by 13 superior army officers, which was recently put in circulation here, has caused considerable comment in official circles. In this document the deposition of several Governors of provinces was severely censured, the dictatorship assumed by General da Fonseca was highly commended and an immediate Presidental election was strongly requested. The Government has taken action in the matter, and, after a thorough consideration, has dearmy officers whose signatures are affixed to the document have, in the composition and subsequent circulation of the paper in question, arrogated to themselves a power belonging only to properly constituted authorities, and have committed a grave breach of discipline. The Government has ordered that all be dismissed from the service.

It is only a few days ago that a number of officers here signed a petition, urging upon the Vice President the advisability of an immediate Presidental election. The Vice President thereupon issued a manifesto protesting against this action of the officers, and they, too, fere punished for interfering in political matters, the entire number being placed on the retired list. The garrisons everywhere throughout the Republic remain loyal to the existing Gov-

PARDRIDGE A NAPOLEON. HE DOWNS THE BULL COALITION TO THE EXTENT OF 3 CENTS.

Everything Works Against the Great Spec ulator, but Still He Comes Out on Top-He Declares He Has Not Lost a Nickel-

CHICAGO, April 9.-A bolder plunge was probably never witnessed in the Chicago wheat trade than that made by Edward Pardridge to-day. Last night, with the stimulated short sales of 10,000,000 chalked up against him, and with the quotations shooting skyward, the odd little speculator was believed to be about ready to throw up his hands in desnair. Pardridge was again a conqueror. A regiment of brokers at his orders had dashed into the pit at the very outset of the day and fought his enemies to

Before the day ended he pulled down the price over 3 cents a bushel from the highest point reached. The close was within 1/8 cent of the lowest price of the day. Pard-ridge, in person, was on the floor bright and The galleries and pits were crowded to suffocation in expectation of seeing cyclone, when, losing his nerve, he should attempt to buy instead of sell.

The noted plunger was earnestly rushing from one friend to another and making his remarks jerky and emphatic, but that was all the emotion he displayed. He wore a dark, natty frock coat and light spring trousers, and a small, black derby jauntily poised on the back of his head gave him a crisp business air. His keen, gray eyes were now fully alive to what was going on. Now and then his friends would eagerly swarm around him to ask how things were going, but Pardridge was too basy rushing from pit to pit to talk with them long, and would vouchsafe a tew hurrird words and tear himself away. He denied that he had lost or would lose a nickel, and declared, "When I lose, I lose for keeps; but I am not worrying about loss just now. I'm feeling all right." And with that he again dove for the pit. When approached at an-other opportunity, he emphatically asserted that nothing could drive him to cover unless the market went to $1 a bushel.

The day's trade was spasmodic, and at times the market was very excited. Far from showing evidence of weakening, Pardridge was bustling about denouncing the scare as idiotic, and had his brokers selling incessantly. The price did not appear to make any difference, as all spots seemed good selling spots for him. There was a good deal of realizing on long wheat, but these offerings, with those by Pardridge, were readily absorbed.

It was reported that George Haines, who traded in a small way, had failed. The bears remarked that the bulls went gunning for Pardridge and caught Haines. A Pardridge broker retorted that this was better than they usually did, as they have been gunning for Pardridge and caught the

UPS AND DOWNS OF THE INVENTOR OF PHOTO-ENGRAVING.

For Eight Years He and His Wife Fought With Poverty Because His Great Secret Wasn't Appreciated-Their First Job Brought Forty Dollars-His Death.

NEW YORK, April 9 .- [Special.]-John Calvin Moss, who died yesterday at his home in Brooklyn, at the age of 56, was notable as the inventor of the first practical hoto-engraving process. He was born in Washington county, Pa., in 1836. Early in life he learned the printer's trade. He thought he had a chance as an artist because of a talent he had for drawing and painting. and he therefore devoted a good deal of time to the study of fine arts. Their first order was for a printing plate which, if satisfactory was to bring them $40. Encouraged by this success they went to New York in 1863 and struggled along for eight years, getting a few orders, but encountering suspicion and timidity and active opposition from the wood engravers, who thought the new process would destroy their livelihood. In 1872, with the aid of a clergyman he established the Photo-Engraving Company, which was successful. In 1880 Mr. Moss left this company and formed the Moss Engraving Company, of which he was the head. Before Moss made his successful experiments, wood engraving, etching and steel engraving were the then methods of reproduction for illustrating magazines and the like.

FREED AND JAILED AGAIN.

James Taylor, the Man of Many Wives, Discharged by a New York Judge, but at Once Rearrested-Money Business Involved in the Case,

NEW YORK, April 9.-[Special.]-James Taylor, the one-armed ranchman, who, in his 49th year, last fall wedded two women within three weeks, was discharged by Judge Truax to-day in habeas corpus proceedings on the warrants of arrest for bigamy, procured from a police court by Hattie Gevinn, of Boston, and Mrs. Henrietta M. Taylor, formerly Coster. He was, however, immediately rearrested on a requisition from Boston, where he was indicted on April 6 for polygamy on the complaint of Miss Gevinn.

The papers allege that Taylor married Miss Coster, a hair dresser, 38 years old, of 51 West Twenty-first street, on November 21 last, deserted her ten days later, and or December 10 married Miss Gevinn, a house keeper, 25 year old, in Boston, abandoning her a week later. He got $850 from Miss Coster, it is alleged, but nothing from Miss Gevinn.

On learning of the arrest of his client today, James W. McLaughlin immediately procured a writ of habeas corpus from Jus-tice Lawrence, of the Supreme Court, directing the warden of the Tombs to produce Taylor in court to-morrow. The writ was precured on the alleged insufficiency of the requisition papers. When Taylor was arrested, $670 which he had was taken in charge by the property clerk at police headquarters. Mrs. Henrietta M. Taylor has begun an action to recover this money, alleging that it is part of what Taylor ob-tained from her. One of Taylor's many victims lives at Mansfield Pa.

Over One-Fifth of the Lots at Allquippa

Reserved in Three Days.

The wonderful confidence the new town of Aliquippa has gained with the people can be no better demonstrated than by the evidence of the intense interest taken in the prospects of the new town. Although the plan of lots has been advertised for less than three weeks, and no lots are to be sold until the day of the sale, April 14, the domand became so strong that the company broke over their rule last week so far as to allow the public to choose their lots, which are held in reservation for them until the day of sale, when they will be sold, if not claimed, at the company's office, on April 14. In the past three days 125 lots have been so reserved, or one-fifth of the whole number in the plan. A visit to the office has convinced them that the new town lacks all suspicion of speculation, and that at the prices set by the company the lots are a gilt-adged investment, either as a place of location, or to turn over at a profit. The Aliquippa Steel Company, to avoid the tricks of sharpers at public sales, have decided to designate their salesmen at the sale by a badge. Everyone can secure a price list of lots, either at the sale or by applying at the office, Room 30, Westinghouse building, so that they may go to the sale secure from the possibility of having any advantage taken of them. Plans for a new 45-room hotel are now being prepared. Another factory, employing 500 men, is negotiating for a factory site with every prospect of locating. Aliquippa offers a safer, surer, more honest investment for your money than any other. Investigate it. Reserved in Three Days.

Canton Tragedy. NEWSY NOTES FROM NEARBY TOWNS

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.) Untontown, April 9.-Nearly everybody in Dunbar believes that at least one more of the Hill Farm mine victims has been recovered, and it is rumored that four of the six bodies have been found. THE DISPATCH correspondent has it from the nost reliable authority that one body has been found, and only one. This body, my informant states, was found by Mine Boss Doran and his assistants several days ago, lying in the main slope. By the clothing and the coal check in the pocket it was identified as that of Barney Maust.

The mine officials deny that any more bodies have been found, but the pe Dunbar, almost without exception, believe that the body of Barney Maust is boxed up in the mine pending the recovery of the other bodies. This is how the story of the find is said to have leaked out. The mine officials notified Maust's widow at Dunbar of the finding of the body of her husband and said they would have the remains placed in a box and kept in the mine until the other bodies were recovered. This was to avoid any unnecessary excitement and delay. Mrs. Maust gave her consent to this arrangement, and it was expected that the matter would be kept secret. Mrs. Maust, however, found the secret too heavy to bear alone, and she confided it to several of her neighbors, two or three of whom have husbands still hidden in the depths of Hill Farm mine. The body of Maust was found in the main slope not far from the fatal bore hole. It is said to have been in the worst condition of any of the bodies yet recovered. When the men attempted to lift it the head rolled away from the trunk, and the ghastly sight was almost too much for the courageous and nervy men who have conducted the long and trying search,

Nine out of ten reply yes, and he is immediately advised to stop smoking and chewing at once. In speaking of the matter a well-known physician said persons taking baths should not use tobacco in any form, as it produced nervousness and makes the user dyspeptic. It is a hard matter, how-ever, for old tobacco users to break off im-mediately, so they "sneak" a chew or a smoke and then tell the doctor that they have not seen tobacco in any shape, but the doctor in a moment can tell different by feeling the pulse, which is not normal, owing to the vast amount of nicotine in the highly-flavored eigars and tobacco. PARTIES SHAKEN UP.

An Entire Rearrangement of Fatherland Factions Probable.

CONSERVATIVES ARE BROKEN UP.

A Hitch Among European Socialists About

May Day Parades. INROADS ON GERMAN SUGAR TRADE

COPYRIGHT 1892 BY THE N. Y. ASSOCIA'D PRESS. BERLIN, April 9 .- When the Landtag eassembles April 28, an important regroup ing of the parties will be effected. The negotiations for a rearrangement that are now proceeding point to a coalition of the Moderate Conservative faction, led by Herren, Helldorf and Rauchaupt, with the National Liberals, which will result in the formation of a Cartel party, having some of the best elements of the old Cartellers.

The split between the ultra-Conservatives and the Moderates has practically destroyed the Conservative majority in the Landtag and also places the party at a tremendous disadvantage of having disorgan ized events at the approach of the general election. There is no hope of mending the breach, the declared divergence in principles being too pronounced. Partisan virulence is already keen. If a coalition is effected in promising strength, the Government throwing its influence on its side. will follow its policy on a distinct National Liberal bias.

Conservatives Stick to the Education Bill. The Freisinnige party rejoice at seeing the powerful reactionary party disintegrated. The Moderates who support Herr Helldorf are numerically weak. The bulk of the Conservatives continue in consonance with the Centerists on the primary education bill, and await a chance to avenge themselves on the Government for abandoning that measure. After the Easter holidays the leaders will announce a new programme which is now being elaborated, the spirit of which is shown in an address to Minister Von Zedlitz, signed by 85 members of the Right in the Upper House of the Prussian Diet, ex pressing their gratitude for his defense of Conservative principles. The public take the political incertitude quietly, though the situation is pregnant with eventual issues Even the reports of Chancellor Von Caprivi's retiring after Easter in favor of Count Von Eulenburg, do not stir the general pulse.

Two Days Proposed for May Day. The preparations of the Socialists for the May Day celebration are keenly watched by the authorities. At a council of the Ministers, Chancellor von Caprivi proposed to influence the employers to refuse the men a holiday if the celebrations are organized for Monday, May 2, instead of Sunday. The Austrial Socialists, who have decided to hold their demonstration on the 2d, de-sired the Germans to hold a siultaneous celebration on that day. Dr. Miquel advised his colleagues to treat the day as a recognized labor holiday, and if the celebra-tion was held on Monday to close the Gov-ernment factories. Dr. Miquel even sug-gested that the prices at the theaters subsidized by the Government be reduced, and that the military bands be ordered to play in the public gardens. The other Ministers did not go as far as Dr. Miquel wanted them to, but they argued not to oppose the

The Austrian Socialists Are Disgruntled. The Socialist leaders have incurred the ill will of the Austrian Socialists by refusing to make Sunday and Monday holidays. May Day proper alone will be celebrated in Germany. In Berlin a number of meetings have been arranged, and the public gardens will be filled with and suburban resorts will be filled with great crowds of workingmen and their families celebrating the day. There will be no big party processions. If the small An-archist section attempt to create disorder, they will meet with instant and severe re

In Vienna Sunday will be celebrated by an assemblage in the prater to discuss the eight hour question. Another section proposes to hold a procession, the participants to be attired in blue blouses. Throughout Austria, with the exception of Vienna, the celebration will be held on Monday. The want of cohesion among the Austrian Socinlists will weaken the effect of the dem-onstration. In Pesth the police have been ordered to prevent all meetings and pro-cessions. The Socialists will, therefore, be compelled to hold their demonstration outside the city boundaries.

Germany's Sugar Trade Falling Off. Consular reports for the first quarter of 1892 show a decrease in trade compared with the same period in 1891. From Ber-lin the decrease is 8,000,000 marks and from Hamburg 5,000,000 marks in sugar ex-ports alone. This is alleged to be due to the reciprocity treaties of the United States affecting the German sugar trade to the West Indies and South America. About 1,000,000 marks of the Berlin decrease is in the cheapest kinds of fancy goods, which have hitherto been sent to the Southern States. The negroes now have no money to buy this trash.

A Newspaper Birthday Party. Charles Danziger entertained a party of newspaper reporters at Mashy's cafe last night. An elegant supper was served, and several short speeches were made. It was a birthday gathering, and was one of the supper was prepared with rare skill.

Cuticura Remedies

If the thousands of little babies who have been cured of agonizing, itching, burning, bleeding, scaly, and blotchy skin and scalp diseases could write, what a host of letters would be received by the proprietors of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. Few can appreciate the agony these little ones suffer, and when these great remedies relieve in a single application the most distressing exzemas and itening and burning skin diseases, and point to a speedy and permanant cure, it is positively inhuman not to use them without a moment's delay.
