The Cleveland and Cincinnati Teams Play an Exciting Game

GENERAL SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

ST. Louis,

ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.?

April 15 .-Mark Baldwin and his team were complete ly knocked out here by the Browns to-day. It was universally understood that Mr Baldwin was going to wipe up the earth with Captain Glasscock's men, but he will go away disappointed. His curves did not seem to have any effect at all on the batting in this longitude, and the Browns hammered him unmercifully. The poor "Pirates" were not in it. They tore up the ground, but it was get settled down they will be winners right along. The Browns commenced their change in the team. Ehret expects to be tally making in the second inning, and kept it up almost at pleasure. Mark got hot, but that did not count. At the beginning of the game he was quite sanguine, but when seen at the end he was decidedly immeasur-

An Off Day for Our Sluggers. It must have been an off day with him, for he was just knocked clean out of the bex, and the $10,000 beauty is not used to such things. As concerns the Browns, they played well at nearly every point and put up a game that was a happy contrast to that which they lost to Chicago on Tuesday. Their team work was all that could be desired, and separately each man did his play with much honor. Glasscock is back in his old form again and he got in some more of his phenomenal work at short. Crooks was to everything in his territory and never let anything slip. Werden veritable basilica on first and played to everything that came. Pinckney covered the bag at third in most creditable style and his corner was always interesting. Breit enstein was the man that made the mildew that dampened the ardor of the Pirates and their gallant skipper, Mark.

Some Puzz'ing Curves. His curves were simply unsizable, and he had the Pittsburg boys guessing every way they might. For Pittsburg, Bierbauer's playing at second and Miller's work behind but were noteworthy. Mack covered first in the absence of Beckley, who left for Hannibal, Mo., this morning to attend the funeral of a relative. Mack accepted every chance offered him in commendable style. The victory belonged to St. Louis simply on account of the frequent hitting done by them throughout the nine innings.

The scoring commenced in the second, when Pinckney led off with a single and scored on Glasscock's long safe drive to left and Vandyke's single to center. Buckley sac-rificed, bringing in Glasscock. In the fifth Breitenstein went to first on balls, was advanced to second on Crook's sacrifice and crossed the plate on Carroll's double to left

Our Three Runs. After going to third on a wild pitch, Carroll scored on Werden's single past second. Pittsburg's three runs in the seventh were scored on Shugart's double, Smith's base on balls, Corkhill's single, Miller's double and a couple of steals. Crooks' base on balls, a steal to second and Carroll's hit to center for a base scored one for the Browns in the seventh. Vandyke knocked a fly to Smith in the ninth, which was muffed, enabling the runner to reach second. After going to third on Buckley's sacrifice. Vandyke scored on Brestenstein's single to left. Crooks singled and Carroll smashed one out against the right field scats for three base scoring Breitenstein and Crooks. Corkhill

Cleveland, 2; Cincinnati, 0. CINCINNATI, April 15 .- Halligan's error of CINCINNATI, April 15.—Halligan's error of comission and actual error helped largely toward giving Cleveland the two runs to its credit. McKean's two-bagger fell just within the edge of the crowd in right field, and it Halligan had not halted he could easily have taken the ball. McKean, Tebeau and Child's were the only Cleveland men who could hit Mullane, and McKean took the lion's share of the hits. The visitors played the first errorless game of the senson here. THE CITY ASSESSORS' LIST. It Must Be Printed, Costs the City $7,000 and Yields Practically Nothing - Controller Morrow Wants It Cheapened or Wined Out of Existence, The Board of Assessors are making preparations for the printing of a descriptive list of all the taxable real estate in the city according to the act of 1887, under which the board was created, although no pro-vision was made for such a list in this year's appropriations. Where the money is to come from no one seems to know, but the law requires the list and it will be printed.

There is a general sentiment among city officials that this list is a waste of money, and is of no benefit to anyone except to real estate agents. The list of three years ago cost $7,000, and although some of the print-ed copies were sold the city only received $150 for them, and the bulk of the edition is still on the City Treasurer's hands. The price first fixed for the books was $2 per set, but for the past year they have been "marked down" by a resolution of Councils to 25 cents a set.

The books are printed in two volumes of The books are printed in two volumes of several hundred large pages each, and, owing to the rule and figure work required in their composition, are very expensive to prepare. After the last triennial assessment the courts decided unconstitutional a section of the law requiring taxable property to be assessed at the price of the "last recorded sale," in the absence of other information concise description of each piece of real estate as well as the price paid and the date of the last recorded sale. Controller Morrow says now that the last recorded sale is not required in the list it should not be inserted, and he proposes to offer an amendment simplifying the list, excluding that feature entirely and cheap-ening the cost of the books considerably. He will also ask that the books be either given away or sold at a trifling figure. He will ask the next Legislature to repeal the clause of the act requiring the list.

There are quite a number of baseball games scheduled with good amateur teams East and West. The association will have a first-class ball team. It will be made up f the best men in the Three A's, and there is somegood material to choose from.

The association is fully prepared for cricket, but has no team. However, there are a number of good cricketers in the club who will doubtless have games among themselves. In another season a cricket team will doubtless be added to the other feat-

The club will have a first-class place when it is finished, but it has been done only at a great expense. Having the arrangements for athletic meetings and races of all sorts, it is expected that the park will be sub-let for field days given by ass tions not so favored as to own good parks.

ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.1 BRADFORD, April 15 .- H. Clay Smith, ex-Deputy Sheriff, ex-pedagogue, forger, pseudo-preacher and criminal in general, is at fast behind the bars. About four months ago the Cumberland officers, anxious to prooure the reward which, it appears, had been offered for his arrest, began to search for him, and followed the trail through West Virginia, Ohio and Pennsylvania. As he traveled he would impersonate a minister and hold protracted meetings.

A few days ago Officer Keller, of Cumber land, learned that Smith was in Ellerslie visiting his wife. Accompanied by R. H. Willison, he entered the house in which Smith was staying at midnight and asked for him. The fugitive upstairs overheard the men and, becoming alarmed, ran to the front window and leaped through, falling 19 feet. As soon as he landed he made off toward the Pennsylvania line, which is only about 200 yards away. In order to prevent him getting over the border, Mr. Keller fired at the fleeing man. He darted behind a building and into an alley. After a few moments' search Smith was discovered and captured. He was taken to Cumberland, where he will remain until the necessary papers to bring him across the line are procured from the State Depart-ment. He will be brought here for trial Mon-day, and, as there are eight indictments against him for forgery, a salty sentence is in store for him.

Smith was a candidate for Sheriff before

While here Pritts was struck by the several photographs displayed on the streets, giving scenes of the murder and murderers. He examined his own photograph very carefully, and then remarked to the bystanders: "That picture of Pritts is a pretty good one, for I used to know him myself." There is no doubt felt here that Pritts is even now in the vicinity of Ore Mines, and can easily be found by his friends, but woe to the enemy who comes in sight.

CLEWS TO A CRIME

Bloody Garments Found on the Beave River, but No Body. New Castle, April 15 .- [Special]-A search is being made at Wampum, for the body of an unknown man, and the causes which led to the search are given by A. W. Lenard, a well-known citizen of Newport. Last Saturday night a man came to him from the coal banks on the Beaver river, near Chewton, and said that he believed a crime had been went with the miner, and after coming to a point near the coal shaft, found a bloody pair of trousers, and upon walking a short distance further, they found the vest and coat. Then shortly after they found a torn and bloody shirt, to which hung small shreds of human flesh.

Lenard says he believes there had been a struggle and the victim of the assault had managed to escape. He is also of the opinion that the man was killed, and that the body was placed in one of the deserted coal banks in that section. Men are now searching the locality. went with the miner, and after coming to a

HOW MUCH GOOD,

Not How Much Money--The Incentive to Professional Work Should Be the Pride of Achievement Against the Mere Substantial Reward.

How Much Good Can Be Done, Not How Much Money Can Be Made-Drs. Cope-land, Hall & Byers Yield to No Men in Point of Love for Their Work.

There is a sense of satisfaction in work well done with which no substantial reward that may accrue can compare. This is the secret of the sweetness of pro essional triumph, and it explains why a lawyer will take an important case without a fee, why an artist paints a picture which he knows he cannot sell, and why a physician will make the most extraordinary cian will make the most extraordinary efforts to save a case that is intrusted to his hands by a patient who seeks his help as the last means of saving life before giving himself up to utter despair.

This sense of satisfaction is the balm that soothes all the irritations, perplexities, anneyances and trials of professional life.

In the breast of every man who loves his profession and his art or science there is a constantly burning flame of enthusiasm that fires him to the most supreme effort as it sustains him in the most arduous labor. The thought of duty well done is resily his greatest reward, since all others are secondary. The pride that a physician takes in his Professional Triumphs Is, therefore, pardonable. Having the en-thusiasm of the true workers in their field of science, Drs. Copeland, Hall and Byers point with pride to the results of their work. Since their establishment in Pittsburg they have each week presented in these columns the simple, candid, sincere, and, withal, enthe simple, candid, sincere, and, withal, enthusiastic statements of patients who have been restored to health under their care.

These statements have come from men and women well known in the community (with names and addresses given in full, so that those who desired to do so could verify them) and not from unknown or obscure sources, from people in small towns in Maine, Florida, Minnesota or Orezon as one sees them in the average testimonials.

The statements of this week are full of interest to those suffering with entarrh, that terrible disease that, beginning with a sight cold, leads the victim through tortures unspeakable to that fatal malady, consumption.

Another thing should be understood: Drs. Another thing should be understood: Drs. Copeiand, Hall and Byers yield to no men in point of love for their work or enthusiasm in their practice. Medical Science is their creed, to do good their religion. If unanimated by these instincts there would be little left to stimulate them in their work. To take up a case abandoned by other physicians and to accomplish in its treatment the highest possible results is what they aim to accommish; and, this done, they are satisfied with the returns made, however meager, substantially, they may be.

A PLAIN STATEMENT, In Which the Truth Is Told Without Fear or Favor.

Treating as many patients as Drs. Cope-land, Hall and Byers do, it is but natural that they should be subject to some adverse criticism on the part of a few dissatisfied ones; but investigation of such cases alones; but investigation of such cases al-ways reveals the fact that these disgruntled ones have been careless and negligent in the use of their medicine. In some cases during the cold season a patient will take a severe cold immediately after beginning treatment and for a few weeks feel worse than before, and thus grow discouraged and discontinue.

Drs. Copeland, Hall and Byers work no miracles and perform no sorveries. They

Drs. Copeland, Hall and Byers work no miracles and perform no sorceries. They cure catarrh, but it is by patient, regular, systematic and methodical treatment. Those who put their medicine on the mantel piece and let it remain there day after day without using it will undoubtedly fail to get a cure, and this is the class of patients who claim they have not been benefited.

Another thing Drs. Coneland, Hall and Byers have to contend against is the weather. During the severe and frequent changes of the weather, as the season passes from winter into spring, the high winds which carry pneumonia and other pulmonary troubles into every family, make it almost impossible to cause any headway in the treatment of catarrhal troubles. If one can only hold his own during such time he is doing remarkably well. Given favorable weather, the co-operation of the patient and a reasonable period of time they can cure any case of catarrh, no matter of how long

I owe all this to the careful and conscientious treatment received at the hands of Drs. Copeland, Hall and Byers, and cheerfully make this statement in their praise."

Treatment by Mail,

Almost every mail brings letters asking

Drs. Copeland, Hall & Byers: "Is it necessary for us to live in Pittsburg in order to sary for us to live in Pittsburg in order to take your treatment?" "Can you treat patients at their homes by mail?" and other questions of similar import.

Drs. Copeland, Hall & Byers desire to state, therefore, for the benefit of those who may be hesitating about writing to them, that by their question blanks and other systematic arrangements, a sufficient knowledge of each case can be obtained to make treatment an easy matter. Thus patients can be treated at their homes as well as in Pittsburg. Medicines are sent by express, a regular correspondence is required and maintained, and the physician and patient are thus in constant touch. Prompt replies are made by Drs. Copeland, Hall & Byers, modifications in treatment prescribed with the proper medicines, and in every detail each case is worked out until a cure is effected.
