GOSSIP OF THE GUARD.

EX-ADJUTANT GENERAL HASTINGS, is spending a few days in the city. He still takes an active interest in the guard all over the State.

A MEETING of the officers of the Fourteenth Regiment is called for Monday evening, April 18, for the purpose of organizing an of-ficers' school. BRIGADE QUARTERNASTER A. J. LOGAN, IS still rusticating in the South seeking an improvement in health. He lately made a trip over to Cuba and was considerably benefited by the journey. He will remain in the South until late in the spring.

THE warrants for the armory rents and rifle practice appropriations were issued from the brigade headquarters last week. Each company sets $200 for rent purposes, and those qualifying the requisite number of men get $50 for range purposes.

A BILL was reported favorably in Congress last week authorizing the Secretary of War to issue for the use of the national guard any 33-inch muzzle-loading rifle field guns, wrought from or any breech-loading steel Hotchkiss or Gatling guns which may be on hand and not needed for the service of the regular forces.

The commissions of two of the Captains of the Eighteenth Regiment expire before the next encampment, that of Captain John P. Penny, of Company G, May 7, and that of Captain O. C. Coon, of McKeesport, July 9. Neither of the gentlemen will have any trouble being commissioned for another five years, as both are enthusiastic guardsmen, and are at the head of good companies.

THE probabilities are that the Ninth Regiment will shortly have an entirely new lot of field officers. Colonel Keck and his Lieu-tenant Colonel are interested in mining speculation in the West, and are compelled to be away from the regiment most of their time, while Major Price has been ill for quite a while past and intends to resign shortly. Colonel Keck has succeeded in making the Ninth one of the best regiments in the State, and his leaving the organization will be felt severally.

THE line officers of the Fifth Regiment met at the Logan House, Altoons, last Friday night and elected Captain Rufus Elder of Company G. Lewistown, Major of the regi-ment. There were several other candidates in the field for the position, but Major Elder's election was made unanimous. The number of officers present was remarkably large, and after the election considerable business of importance was transacted. The new tactics were discussed pretty freely and it was decided to hold the next encampment of the regiment at Alcons. providing and it was declined to hold the next endamp-ment of the regiment at Altoona, providing suitable arrangements could be made. The officers of the regiment were congratulated on the successful manner in which the spring inspections were passed.

GENERAL WILEY announced the appointment of two new names on his personal staff last week. They were those of J. J. Miller as Judge Advocate and William singer as Brigade Commissary. Major Miller is a well-known attorney of this city, and his ppointment will prove most acceptable, it is to be hoped that the affairs in the law lepartment of the Second Brigade will now be given some attention, and that it will be cossible to get a court martial when it is re-Major Singer, the new Chief of the Commis-sary Department is well known to the Second Brigade, having been a member of General Wiley's non-commissioned staff for a number of years. He has a thorough knowledge of his duties from being associ-ated with Major Curtain, his predecessor. CAPTAIN HUNT is diligenty, at work in structing the members of Battery B in the foot movements of the new tactics. The new drill regulations for the batteries have not yet been printed although requisitions have been in for some time, so the best the battery can do is to go through the parts applicable from the infantry tactics and applicable from the infantry tactics and considerable time is being lost as a consequence. It has been decided that the batteries of the State will go to camp dismounted this year, as was done-six years ago, in order to save as much as possible of the State appropriation. This decision is halled with joy by the members of Captain Hunt's command, as it means much less hard work in the field and as a consequence more time for pleasure. A number of the members of the battery participated in the performances of the "Drummer Boy" last week, and have received a vote of thanks from Post 3, G. A. R., for their services.

An important meeting was held at the An important meeting was held at the Seventh Avenue Hotel last Monday. It was called by Adjutant General Greenland, and there were present besides himself General Wiley and the commandants of the several organizations of the brigade. One of the questions discussed was the new tactics and the possibility of electing an extra major in each regiment as contemplated by the tac tics in the division of the regi tics in the division of the regiments into two battalions each. It was decided that while the State code as it now stands would admit of an additional Major to each regiment it would be better to hold off such elections until there was a reorganization in some of the regiments, and for the present the senior captains will command the second buttalions. The subject of the regular encampments next summer was also brought up at the meeting, and while General Wiley very strongly favored a brigade encampment similar to the one held last year, General Greenland stated that there was not enough money available for the purpose, and the camps would have to be held by regiment. All the colonels present at the meeting favored regimental encampments anyhow. A number of other matters concerning the brigade were discussed.

RUNNING COUNTY SCHOOLS.

Superintendent Hamilton Has a Rival for the Job-An Important Wedding-Free Text Books-Fresh Talk in Educational Circles. The term of office of Superintendent Hamilton, of the Allegheny county schools, expires in May, 1893. He has opposition for the next term. Prof. Dewar, Principal of the Springfield School, Twelfth ward, has announced himself a candidate. Prof. Dewar, previous to his coming to the city, presided over the Milivale schools. Superintendent Hamilton has been supervising the county schools some six years, having first filled the unexpired term of the late Superintendent Johnston. He has since been returned to office for two terms. At his first regular election the contest was a very warm one, but in 1890 the field was left clear to himself. Prof. T. T. Taylor has also been mentioned as a candidate, but this Mr. Taylor denies.

Superintendent Hamilton has just finished holding his section institute meetings throughout the county. He attended, personally, 50 of them, and reports the most flattering success and interest maintained by the teachers in this auxiliary method to benefit the county when Mr. Hamilton was asked. The term of office of Superintendent Ham by the teachers in this auxiliary method to benefit the county schools.

Yesterday when Mr. Hamilton was asked what disnosition is likely to be made of the increased school appropriation which the schools get in June he replied that some districts seemed to favor having free text books for the schools. All year this plan has been in vogue in South Versailles township with such success that the Secretary reports a saving of 30 per cent to the district. The growth of the schoolhouses in the past six years were 30 annually, or 180 in all Edgewood will have ready for occupancy in September the handsomest four-roomed building in the State, and Brushton and Braddock will each have new eight-roomed structures.

Booming Through Extra Offices. At a meeting of the Teachers' Academy yesterday the following were initiated: Prof. Joseph Jennings, of the South School; Maggie Clancy, O'Hara; Alberta Torley, Maggie Clancy, O'Hara; Alberta Torley, O'Hara; Sadie Johns, Peebles; Louisa Seif, Howard; Mamie Erskine, Minersville; M. C. Ludwig, Liberty, and Clara E. Riddle. The Academy does not intend to return to its chrysalis state, to judge by the business transacted yesterday. Several amendments were passed providing extra offices and other additions for the good of the body. The academy choir, under the supervision of Prof. E. E. Rinehart, gave several musical selections.

A Very Interesting Marriage. A marriage has been announced between Miss Edith Spaulding, of the Peebles School, and Mr. J. Kacrober. The bride is to have a settlement portion of $50,000 from her hus-band, who is wealthy. The bride's mother is also a teacher. The marriage is likely to yet resigned from her position as teacher. She is 24 and the groom-to-be is over three-

Soldiers Were Killed, NEW YORK, April 16 .- Carlos Brun, who is familiar with Venezuelan affairs, arrived this morning. He reports business almost at a standstill at Caracas on account of the disturbed condition of the country. A fierce battle took place between the Government forces and the rebels March 29 at Trujillo, in which 150 men were killed and a large number wounded.

The Government forces were under com-mand of General Ciprious Costri, and were G. A. R.. was instituted by Mrs. Charles W. Gerwig, who is a member of the National Council of Administration instead of National Counsellor. The latter title is held by Mrs. C. E. Hirst, of Louisville, Ky.. and has never been given to any other than Past National Presidents.

The semi-annual encampment will begin at Gettysburg Saturday, July 2, and continue till Friday, July 8. Arrangements are now being made. The Grand Army Band of Gettysburg has been engaged as a headquarters' hand. It is officially stated that the rate of transportation will be less this year for the round trip than at any previous time.

Comrade W. H. Graham will lecture on his travels in Europe at Post 88's hall, Sandusky street, Allegheny, on Friday evening, April 29, for the benefit of the relief und of the Ladies' Auxiliary to Post 88. The ladies deserve great credit for the good work they have done in a beneficial way in aiding worthy soldiers, widows and orphans.

Post 3's presentation of the "Drummer Boy" last week was a big success. The response to the relief of the report of the repo to their superior discipline and arms were able to scatter the rebels. The latter fied in all directions and left the troops under Cos-

Fitzhugh Lee's Dissipated Nephew, of Wheeling, Ends fils Own Life, Sr. Louis, April 16 .- Harry Lee, son of prominent banker at Wheeling, W. Va. and nephew of General Fitzhugh Lee, of Virginia, attempted suicide here last evening, at the Hotel Barnum, swallowing three ounces of laudanum. He is expected to die. He is a graduate of two Keeley cure institutes, at Blair, Neb., and Leavenworth, Kan., and has been heard to say that he would give much if he had never tried the cure. He is 23 years old, and has been a hard drinker, and for that reason sought the tions as to Bad Breath, Persp and Enlarged Finger Joints. Among the queries sent to Shirley Dar by readers of THE DISPATCH, she has und time to answer the following:

Mrs. C.-K .- (1) I wish you would tell me what to take for an offensive breath. I think, perhaps, it is from my teeth. Very likely. The cheapest and readlest antiseptio is borex, which figures in standard tooth washes. A half-pound box, which costs 20 cents, will last a year. Dissolve one-eighth of a teaspoonful, i. e. a good pinch, in half a glass of warm water, and brush the teeth and rinse the mouth with it several times a day. It will prevent decay of the teeth. A very little may be swallowed with good effect. A pinch of borax dissolved in the mouth slowly, but not swallowed, heals canker speedily.

(2) My daughter is troubled with perspiration under the arms since she was a child, and it ruins her dresses. What is to be done?

Wash under the arms night and morning with a strong, hot solution of common salt, 1 tablespoonful in 25 of water. This is said to keep all parts of the body which secrete freely in the sweetest and healthiest condition. Cold sage tea drauk at night on going to bed prevents night sweats, and may be of use in this case. Where one set of glands do overwork, as in excessive sweating, it is plain that others don't do enough.

M. E. F.—What would you prescribe for M. E. F.—What would you prescribe for something like pimples on the forehead and breast—not exactly pimples, as they form no head, but are little hard substances under the skin?

These are a sort of bliad acne which resolves and are absorbed at the base, instead of the surface, and are so noticed in medical books. Try cream of tartar, which is a valued remedy in inflammatory skin diseases, even to smallpox and erysipelas. Pour a pint of water on two tablespoonfuls of cream of tartar from the druggist's, and drink it, sweetened with some essence of lemon or the zest of lemon rind. It is a pleasant drink, and should be taken as agreeable, one glass before breakfast if possible. Take this three days every month, when perfectly well, and use a pleasant weaker solution between times. The first doses are best taken hot to obtain full effect, but they may be taken cold or hot as desired. The cream of tartar taken of the strength prethe skin? may be taken cold or hot as desired. The cream of tartar taken of the strength prescribed has great repute as a cure for smallpox, and is good in erysipelas. It is barely possible that these kernels under a very fair skin may be of a scrofulous nature, when lemons and acid grape juice, with the best diet and sea air possible, are preventives of more serious consequences. If we only learn to meet trifling initial symptoms, we can afford to laugh at grave disorders. If people would take the care to preserve health that they do to cure disease, it would be but a name. Really there is no occasion for disease now, for railroads and electric accidents keep up the mortality without it.

KITTY M.—My hands are roughened and out of shape from hard work, particularly my right hand, the knuckles of which are stiff and large. Can you suggest any means stiff and large. Can you suggest any means of making them presentable.

It is so notable and fine to hear of a weman who can own to being capable of hard work that one feels like bowing over that misshapen right hand with more re-spect than goes to a queen's salute. To put one's muscles to practical, strenuous use knits the mental fiber as no art can without knits the mental fiber as no art can without it; muscle reacts upon brain in a way which puts the latter very much under obligation. However, one may do a good deal of work without gaining "knuckles." The change from very hot water to cold air has more to do with thick, stiff joints than work. Once it would have been thought impossible to reduce unsightly bones, but nowadays doctors think very little of refining a clumsy joint and work away at a coarse bone with pentrating absorbents and bandages till it is molded into form. Given sufficient vigor, and one can grow bones and teeth to order. To improve hands, buy a quart of salad oil—that is cotton or peanut oil—to use for hand-baths; hegt it in a tin saucepan, have the hands delicately clean and dry, and soak them in the warm oil 10 or 15 minutes, keeping it hot as comfort will allow, utes, keeping it hot as comfort will allow, and working the joints gently to supple them. If they are at all sore, rub them many times a day with a cut lemon, letting the juice dry in. Paint them at night with warm Canada balsam, or warm extract of warm Canada balsam, or warm extract of witch hazel. One word to all the admirable women who do their own housekeeping. Spare, save in a good many things if needfal, but among the "must-haves," first of all write a good washing machine, one of the old simple rocking washers, if you have to buy it second hand. It is worth all the new inventions I have been able to find in the ways of the oradle washers can be ten years. The cradle-washers can be worked with less strain than the circular worked with less strain than the circular ones; they cleanse the clothes safely and thoroughly, and spare the hands this drudger? of "rubbing out" on the washboard, which hands were never made for. Rubbing and hot water distort hands worse than all other use. I am told that these easy rocking washers are not made now, but I mention them in hope some man will have sense to bring them out again. He will, if sense to bring them out again. He will, if women have the wit to ask for them and take no others, for I treely say that among the modern washers I do not know one which I would take as a gift.

WHY SHE WENT INTO MOURNING. Not Her Husband, Nor Brother, Nor Fati That Died, but Her Poodle, She sat half languid in a black Victoria in front of a Broadway establishment for fashionable mourning goods in New York. She was young and handsome and dressed in deep mourning. The coachman and the footman were also in solemn black and bore the facial appearance of professional undertakers. The horses were black, as was also every bit of harness. The poodle at the lady's feet was as black as the luxurious robe on which he reclined—so nearly like the robe was it, indeed, that but for the blinking eyes that nervously followed the blinking eyes that nervously followed the movement of the passing throng it would not have been seen. To say the sable outfit attracted attention is putting it mildly. The head of the mourning goods establishment was evidently keeping it there as long as possible. A gentleman paused and passed polite words of condolence with the lady in the carriage, who caressed the black poodle with her shapely foot.

"Poor fellow!" she sighed. "He took it very hard."

very hard." "Indeed? Did he then suffer so much?" "Oh, not much, perhaps; but, you know, it must have been very disagreeable."
"Well, yes, rather," said the gentleman, with a touch of satire in his voice.
"He kicked dreadfully at the last."

"'Kicked,' did he?" mused the gentle-man, with half a smile. "Well, well, well! I didn't think Jack would 'kick' at such a little thing as dying!"
"'Jack!' you horrible man! I'm talking about Fido! I don't believe you've noticed him since we had him dyed!" and she gathered the shivering poodle up in her arms indignantly. "Poor little fellow! Good morning, sir!"

Help for the Nerves.

Celery probably stands first as a nerve ood, and when eaten in quantities by those uffering from nervous exhaustion it proves of inestimable value. There are many medicines made chiefly out of this vegetable which cost considerable, but they are never so effective as the genuine article itself. The celery need not be eaten at the table, but the stalks should be kept handy so that they can be chewed at any time. Eaten in the morning they will nourish the nerves for the day's trouble.

A CURE FOR DRUNKENNESS.

The Formula Given Out Broadcast by a A propaganda for the cure of drunken ness has its headquarters in the office of Dr. Robert A. Kitto, of Racine, Wis. A few days ago a circular, addressed to "the leading paper" of Pittsburg, reached THE DIS-PATCH office, and from it the following is

"MR EDITOR-I ask you in the name of humanity to aid in lessening drunkenness by publishing my formula for the cure of the liquor habit. There is too much thunder and bombast in the W. C. T. U. and allied temperance societies; prayer cannot eradicate the appetite for strong drink. I am satisfied that the prescription used by me is an infallible cure. Hundreds of testimonials from the country are coming to me daily telling of its wonderful effect. Realizing the power of the press, I have decided to submit this circular to every editor in the country to be published at least once, so that every poor victim of strong drink may be saved.
