GENERAL SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

ISPECIAL TELEGRAN TO THE DISPATCH. Sr. Louis, April 27.-The Cincinnati defeated the St. Louis Browns to-day in the presence of 15,200 people. The game was sharply contested and Cincinnati was given the benefit of every close decision by Umpire Sheridan, several of whose breaks were so palpable as to arouse the condemnation of the immense gathering. Caruthers up to the eighth inning pitched a great game, but the bunching of several bad base decisions and calling of balls seemed to unnerve him. The Cincinnatis received an ovation, Comiskey coming in for a large share of it. The Browns accepted every one but one of 49 fielding chances, and both teams put up a generally excellent game. It was the great-

Both teams were in exquisite form and any number of brilliant plays were consum-mated. Werden carried off the honors for the Browns and McPhee for the Reds. It was either side's game to the eighth, when Latham hit for a double and Halligan and Holliday followed up with home run drives, clinching the contest for Cincinnati Antonio Mullane, the Count of Cincinnati never pitched a better game in his life. He had the Browns at his mercy. Von der Ahe was delighted with the immense crowd, but very mad about the defeat. The score

"His but cut no little figure in Pittsburg whis here. There is so much uncertainty about baseball that it is absurd for the cranks to prematurely rejoice at any stage of the game. The gods of the bleachers who gaves the Hannibal giant for striking out guved the Hanwood giant for striking out when two men were on bases were destined to mourn inter when his terrific drive won the game. That incident was very much like a little affair of a year ago when Tommy Barns, who had been chaffed for striking out, responded later on with a crack that gave Brooklyn the game."

"Beckley can't sacrifice," asserted Secretary Scandrett. "He has that long swing of his drilled into him. He got the hang of it while wielding a big hammer in a boiler factory."

Big Crowds Expected.

When Secretary Scandrett, of the local club, was in Cincinnati he said to a reporter: "In giving the population of the League cities, both Cincinnati and Pittsburg suffer. Here you have the three cities and many opulous suburbs to draw on while at Pitts-arg we really have 600,000 people in our tritory. When Baltimore plays us on econtion bay I'll wager we have over 20,000 people out. That figure has been beaten there on that day when we were in the As-sociation's Eastern division. Starting out to play 500 points with McComb, he made 3, followed it up with 107 and 74, and ran out with an unbroken run of 316—an average of 125. Keeping on he ran 322 before he let go, an average of 134 for 536 points. This performance will furnish George F. Slosson food for reflection.

Western College Athletics. Prof. Young, of the Northwestern University, is the League's temporary Chairman. Football, baseball and track athletics will be included in the list of sports, and a field day in Chicago in June is one of the probabilities.

OPENS TOO EARLY.

An Eastern baseball writer has the follow ing to say regarding the early opening of the

"The absurdity of beginning the season so early in the North has already been forcibly illustrated. On Tuesday, in most of the illustrated. On Tuesday, in most of the cities, it was too cold for anything like comfortable work and the spectators were in misery. There can be no excuse for arranging games so early and extending the season into the middle of October. The few warm days that generally break up the winter, and are followed by weather too inclement for any outdoor sport, ought not to have deceived the magnates. In the past the League has always delayed the opening games and laughed at the Association for rushing the season. Once or twice the younger rival succeeded in getting a few dollars out of early opening games, but the League lost little. This season the League men fell into the Association's way of thinking, and the results may be felt all the rest of the season. "For this mistake the Schedule Committee is not to blame, for it only followed instructions in preparing the 1M game schedule. In fact it prepared two schedules, the rejected one containing 182 games and the one adopted 1M. Before the season is over, it is likely that some of the clubs will be prevented from playing about 20 games, and the receipts will not warrant the elongation of the season. Had the opening games been delayed ten days, the chances are that the army of 36,200 spectators would have been increased, as most of the Eastern cities showed a falling off in attendance rather than an increase over former year. To have only 4500 persons at the opening game in cities, it was too cold for anything like com than an increase over former year. To have only 4500 persons at the opening game in Philadelphia shows what an influence the

The assignment of the players by the Eastern League does not satisfy all the clubs, and the enterprising ones are instilling to strengthen their teams. Mutrie, formerly of the New Yorks, has his eyes on a number of old League players, who will make the Elmira club a formidable foe, and "Old Joe" Gerhardt is also gathering in players for the Albany club. This is made bossible through the salary limit established by the Eastern League.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.) Los Angeles, April 17 .- From facts that we come to light within a few days, there s little doubt that the wife murderer Deem ing, of Australia, spent a portion of 1887 Los Angeles, married a widow here, and decamped with her savings, amounting to $2,000. From 1886, when Deeming absconded from Sydney, to 1888, when he was known in South Africa, there is no trace of the eriminal's whereabouts.

A Los Angeles lawyer who saw Deeming's picture in a newspaper recently was struck with the great resemblance of the face to that of a man who went by the name of Williams, and flourished in Los Angeles five years ago. He found that Charles H. Williams, in January, 1888, married Mrs. Catithsing, despite remonstrances made to that lady by several friends who had sized that lady by several friends who had sized up the character of the man. Shortly after the marriage Mrs. Catthsing gave her husband authority to draw against $2,000 she had on deposit in bank, her savings of years. Williams drew all the money and decamped. He has not been heard of since.

Williams came from Australia. He would frequently tell of large sums he had made in the mines in Australia. He professed to have been a great sporting man. There are many small points in common between Williams and the Australian murderer. Williams had a good voice and frequently

Williams and the Australian murderer. Williams had a good voice and frequently went to singing parties. He was a handy man, with a smattering of mechanics and engineering. Like Deeming, Williams was a Freemason. He was also a member of the St. George Society, and after he left a withdrawal card from the Odd Fellows was found in his effects bearing the name of Mitchell.

Like Deeming, Williams refused to have his picture taken. Mrs. Catithsing has no pictures of him. It is only by accident that a picture of the man is in existence here. The Shooter family went to a photograph gallery, and Williams was one of the party. When a proposal to photograph the group When a proposal to photograph the group was made he could not well avoid being taken with the rest, and he is shown in two different views, which Shooter has in his possession, representing the party groupe in front of the falls.

The California Man a Desperado. Williams, who has a revolver strapped around his waist, looks in his outing costume much of a desperado. In one of the views his face bears a striking resemblance to the published picture of the Australian murderer. Williams confided to Mrs. Catithsing that he had been married in Australia and had a child. He referred in a brutal manner to his previous wife, telling how he had once left her sticking in a

Williams was a man who had great power over women, who were attracted toward him without any apparent reason. He was always talking about marrying somebody with money, and seeking introductions to women of means. Once, when a lawyer was telling how he had convicted a man in Iowa who made a practice of marrying women who made a practice of marrying women for their money and deserting them, Williams became strangely excited, and from his actions the attorney then formed the idea that Williams was a criminal with a dark was Several persons who knew Williams have been struck with the resemblance of Deem-

PARIS, April 17 .- A pastoral letter from the Archbishop and Bishops of the province of Nimes was read in the churches in that province to-day. The Pope expressely declares that respect shall be observed only as long as required by the exigencies of the Commonwealth. The duty of submission cases when the right to command it ceases. All that the Pope requires is that the people shall not become rebels and conspirators, prepared to engage in insurrection.

"It is the duty of Catholics to speak, write and act against laws that strike at the beliefs and interests of the faith. They will most effectively fulfill this duty by electing men who respect religion." In regard to education, the pastoral declares that religion has been suppressed and that practical atheism has taken its place, destroying faith and morality.

HER SPOUSE CAN'T MARRY TOO OFTEN TO BE TAKEN BACK.

Seven Times He Offended-His Affection Led Him Twice Into Prison and Will Land Him There Again-His Last a Salvation Lass.

NEWARK, N. J., April 17 .- James Abbott, alias James Stevenson, alias Charles Stevenson, accused of bigamy, has pleade guilty and been remanded for trial. Abbott as had a remarkable matrimonial career, having been married to seven wives. He has been twice convicted of bigamy and sentenced to terms of four and five years respectively in Sing Sing prison. Mrs. Abbott, his legal wife, who lives in Brooklyn, appears to have a most forgiving dis-position, as she took him back after each offense. She and Abbott were married 19 years ago. On March 20 Abbott married offense. She and Abbott were married 19 years ago. On March 20 Abbott married Mrs. Kate Ramp, a young widow with two children in this city. He met her four months ago, and represented himself to be a gentleman of leisure with a good income. After living with her ten days he took her jewelry and her brother's coat and returned to his first wife.

Mrs. Abbott told a strange story of her marital experience. When she married Abbott, 19 vears ago, she was a widow with one son. Prior to her marriage with Abbott he was married to Emily Havermeyer, a livear-old girl, who soon died of heart disease. Abbott's first bigamy was committed in marrying Hannah Roach in New York in 1876. She was about 19 years old at the time. Later she discovered that Abbott had a wife living and had him arrested.

Mrs. Abbott No. 1 testified against him, and he was sentenced to four years in Sing Sing. While he was in prison the deceived girl committed suicide by drowning. When released Abbott expressed penitence and was forgiven by his wife. A year later he met Mrs. Mary Moulton, of New York, who procured a divorce from her husband to marry Abbott. When she learned that he was a bizamist she had him arrested. Again Mrs. Abbott testified against her husband, and he was convicted. This time he was sentenced to five years in Sing Sing.

"Mrs. Abbott for ave him for the second time, and took him back when he was discharged from prison. Her son advised her against it, but she persisted. They then time, and took him back when he was discharged from prison. Her son advised her against it, but she persisted. They then moved to South Norwalk, Conn., where she procured work for her husband. Abbott worked steadily for seven months, and then married Mary Ann Bailey, with whom he lived for a short time. His deserted wife returned to Brooklyn. In a tew months Abbott followed her and was again forgiven. Soon after this Abbott joined the Salvation Army and met Lena Parks. Mrs. Abbott says he married Lena and introduced her as his wife among the Salvationists. Her husband began to absent himself from home two months ago. When he returned to her a week ago, after marrying the Newark woman, he told her he had been visiting friends in Brooklyn.

A remarkable case is reported by Dr. Vandenburgh in recent issues of the medical journals, and a simple but the most effect-Ive spring medicine is recommended. This pure remedy that cures the worst form of blood diseases is one, the physicians say, that will most quickly and

Mrs. L. S. Bailey. effectually restore the system to health, give strength to the muscles, and reate normal action in the physical organs. Dr. Vandenburgh's report, omitting its technical medical terms, is as follows: "Mrs. L. S. Bailey, of West Potsdam, N. Y., is woman who for the last 20 years has been afflicted with scrofuls. At first small blotches broke out on her head, and in a short time her whole body was overed. She faithfully tried the best of medical kill, consulting some ten physicians, but none of them helped her. At night her whole body itched so that she was often forced to walk the floor nearly all night. "The various patent medicines, such as sarsaparillas, ointments, etc., that are advertised for the cure of this disease, were tested. Still further discouragement was the only result.

"Acting upon the theory that blood diseases are aused by weakness of the nervous system, I precribed that standard nerve and brain food, Paine's celery compound. The result was almost miraculous, for the terrible disease that had so long registed all treatment, vielded to this compound, and Mrs. Bailey is now completely cured, with the exception of one spot on her arm, an that is fast going away." Many things have been recommended to give firm nerves. But it required something more scientific, more advanced, than the ordinary nerv ines, sarsaparillas, and cheap decoctions. A discovery was demanded. And a discovery vas made by the eminent Prof. Pheips, of Dart mouth. Paine's celery compound was the result, nd it is to-day the best "spring medicine" in the world, insuring health, happiness, and long life.
