GROVER IS KIRST-CHOICE.

A Lively, Enthusiastic Convention, and a Number of Surprises.

SENATOR TURPIE'S BOLD SPEECH,

EVEN RECIPROCITY IS DENOUNCED

INDIANAPOLIS, April 21.-The con promise agreed upon at the series of conferences of Democratic hodies of Indiana was carried out to the letter in the State Convention to-day. Grover Cleveland is in-dersed as the logical candidate of the Democratic party, and in the event that the National Convention deems the nomination of Mr. Cleveland inexpedient, the delegation is instructed to use every honorable effort to secure the nomination of Governor Isaac P. Gray for the Presidency.

The delegation which goes to the National Convention is understood to be about equally composed of personal followers of Cleveland and Gray, although each faction naturally claims to have a majority of the 30 delegates. The understanding seems to be cordial and sincere that the delegation shall cast its solid vote for Grover Cleveland on the first ballots, but that the minute the convention turns its attention to "dark horses" Isaac Pusey Gray is to receive the entire vote of the delegation as the favorite son of Indiana.

The Great Surprise of the Day. The surprise of the day was the defeat of John G. Shanklin, of Evansville, for the nomination for Governor. He had been steadily in the lead until yesterday, and as he was pronounced emphatic in favor of Cleveland, his friends hoped the great Cleveland sentiment in the convention would carry him through. The result, how-ever, showed that each of the other candi-dates, all neutral on the Presidental question, drew away many of the Cleveland delegates, while the Gray people, on account of Shanklin's hostility to their candidates, were against him to a man. Every county in the State was repre-sented by a full delegation, and 3,000 enthusiastic Democrats crowded the galleries and aisles. The convention was held in Tomlinson Hall, a magnificently decorated structure, in which the Stars and Stripes played a prominent part in the elaborate adornments. Overhanging the Chairman's desk were half a dozen mammoth American flags, bearing the portraits of Cleveland, Gray and Hendricks.

There were loud cheers when the Committee on Permanent Organization reported United States Senator Turpie Chairman of the convention and Senator Voorhees, Hugh Dougherty, Charles L. Jewett and Samuel E. Morss as delegates at large to the National Convention.

Turple Scores the Administration.

Tremendous applause greeted the introuction of Senator Turple as Chairman of the convention. He cordially thanked the convention for the honor. The Committee which was adopted with great cheering. Chairman Turpie's remarks were also heart-ily applanded. The most striking part of speech, judging from the cheers, was the

The flesh and the blood and embodiment, the completest personification of the errors, faisehoods and failedes of the Republican party is now an incumbent of the Presidental chair. At the opening of the present session, tast December, he sent a message to the people through their representatives in Congress assemble 1. This message was sent in a period of much depressure, when thousands of workmen were waiting for an increase of wages, as promised after the passage of the McKinley law, when other thousands were waiting and are still waiting in vain for work or employment at any wares, which had also been promised as the result of that measure. It was a period, also, of great depression in the price of agricultural products. The great staples of the farmer—cotton, grain and wheat—were at prices much below those obtained years ago, before the adoption of what is known as the protective tariff policy. Yet in this message, so delivered, under such circumstances, there is no mention of wages; there is no offer of additional advantages for work or employment; nothing is said of the broken pledges and violated promises under which his party had obtained power.

There are very voluminous utterances in the message concerning Bering Sea and Balmaceda. [Laughter.] There are some verbose and misty predictions, mysterious prophecies, about the benefits to be contered upon this portion of mankind by that very attenuated and shadowy sham, miscalled reciprocity. [Applause.] Really, to read this message carefully, one would think that the people of the United States had no methods of escape, or release from the executions and extortions of Mc-Kirlettesters. The flesh and the blood and embodiment methods of escape, of refuge, or release from the executions and extortions of Mc-Kinleyism, except in some favor which might be shown them and conferred on them by the special grace of the Brazilian ministry or some other good-hearted diplo-matists of foreign powers. [Laughter.] But it will be seen next November, by many un-answerable proofs, that the people have the means of escape in their hands.

An Outline of the Platform The platform is exactly as outlined in these dispatches last night. Local self-gov-ernment and home rule are demanded. nomy in governmental expenditures is ised. "Public office is a solemn public trust," is declared. The Harrison administration is arraigned "for its brazen violation of its solemn pledges to the country," and Judge Woods' elevation is condemned. Tariff reform is favored and reciprocity ridiculed. Voorhees and Turpie are indorsed. The currency plank reads thus: "We be-lieve that there should be kept in constant circulation a full and sufficient volume o money, consisting of gold, silver and legal paper currency at par with each "The election of United States Senators by the people is favored. Raum and the Pension Bureau are denounced. Cleveland is the recognized logical candi-date and Gray his legatee, the final resolu-tions say, and the delegates are instructed to vote that way at Chicago.

Continued Cheers for Cleveland. The financial plank and the declaration in favor of the election of United States Sena-tors by direct vote of the people were loudly applauded, but the greatest enthusiasm of the occasion was reserved for the Presidental resolutions declaring for ex-Presi-dent Cleveland but indorsing ex-Governor Gray as the choice of Indiana should the ex-President's nomination become impossible. At the mention of Grover Cleveland a thousand people arose simultaneously. and one mighty cheer came from their throats, and handkerchiefs were waved en-

Another greeted the declaration of Cleveland as the logical candidate, and this mani-festation inspired the Gray people to at-tempt to rival the Cleveland followers in expressions of enthusiasm. When the name of Gray was mentioned another thousand enthusiasts sprang to their feet and cheers rent the air, and handkerchiefs and hats were waved wildly in the air.

Gray's Picture Turned to the Wall. Appellate judges were then nominated, during which the most amusing incident of the day occurred. Large-sized portraits of Gray, Cleveland and Hendricks had been ded in a row above the stage. Suddenly the portrait of Gray began to swing, probably impelled by slight draughts of probably impelled by slight draughts of air, and finally turning, with the face to the wall, rested in that position. Instantly for Craig, and the remainder uninstructed.

there was a wild yell of applause from the Cleveland men, who regarded this as an omen of the retirement of Isaac Pusey Gray from the Presidental arens. Frantic attempts were made by the Gray men on attempts were made by the Gray men on the stage to restore the picture to its original position, but it persisted repeatedly in swinging back with the face to the wall, and each unsuccessful attempt to readjust it was only the signal for jeers of hilarity from the Cleveland men and cries of "They turned his picture to the wall."

The Gray men finally desisted, and the ex-Governor's portrait remained for an hour with his face to the wall, until some thoughtful genius finally inserted guy cords to keep it steady.

thoughtful gentus finally inserted guy cords to keep it steady.

While these wild attempts were being made to keep the Gray portrait in a dignified position, another draught of air caught Cleveland's portrait, and it, too, began to swing to one side.

Deference to the Fair Sex. Immediately there were destening jeers of delight from the Gray men, but their enthusiasm was short-lived. The portrait only swung half way round, when it stopped, facing the ladies' galleries, and the fair admirers of the ex-President applauded this unconscious deference to their sex, the Cleveland men caught it up, and the late mishap was made the occasion for another enthusiastic Cleveland demonstration. The State ticket was then nominated, as

tions Now Beporting Daily. WASHINGTON, April 21 .- [Special.]-There is to be a meeting of the general committee of the National Association of Democratic Clubs in Chicago June 21. Secretary Lawrence Gardner to-day received a letter from the officers of the Cook County Democratic Association of Chicago, tendering the use of their headquarters for the meeting. All the prominent mem-bers of the Association will probably go to Chicago to attend the National Convention, and as a matter of convenience it was thought best to call the meeting of the general committee for that date. The principal business to be transacted is the selection of a place for holding the annual convention of the asso-ciation. St. Paul, Des Moines, and Indianapolis are applicants for the privilege of en-tertaining the association, which has a membership of nearly 5,000 clubs. Many of these clubs retain their organization from one year to another, while others reorganize for every new campaign. Secretary Gardner says the association is now engaged in the distribution of campaign literature in all sections of the cou try, and it will work in conjunction with the National Committee. The greatest intest in the association appears to be in the West, where new clubs are being organized every day. There is also a healthy growth in the South and East. From 10 to 12 new organizations are enrolled on the list of

PERFIDIOUS LOV Was Robinson to Lieut Hetherington's Wife, According to

COMMANDER BARTLETT'S STORY.

The Englishman Broke His Promise Not to Pursue the Woman.

VANCOUVER, B. C., April 21,-By mail, per steamer Empress of Japan, come details of the defense submitted in the trial of Lieutenant Hetherington before the United States Consular Court in Yokohams, but the case had not been concluded at the date of the steamer's sailing. Mr. Tison, for the accused, on March 31, made a presentation of facts and produced numerous witnesses.

He said evidence would be produced to show the relations between Robinson, the murdered man, and Mrs. Hetherington, his dishonorable conduct and the justification Lieutenant Hetherington had in taking stringent measures to protect the honor of his family; also, that the feelings of the accused were so wrought up by the deceased's onduct that the act was unpremeditated. Evidence was produced to show that Mrs. Hetherington was introduced to Captain Gamble in October last in the Grand Hotel, Yokohama. Robinson previously had been very frequently at the hotel for dinner. Notes had passed by regular hotel messen-gers from Mrs. Hetherington to Robinson in November, but there was no secrecy about them. Mice Play When the Cat Is Away. Hetherington returned from a cruise in December, and, owing to what he had learned of Robinson's conduct toward his wife in his absence, he went to Mrs. Bartlett, wife of Commander Bartlett, in a state of great excitement, asking her to take charge of his child, as he considered his wife was no proper person for that purpose. The accused later in the day told Mrs. Bartlett he had agreed to live with his wife the same as ever on account of his child.

At a ball on January 23 Robinson took up Mrs. Hetherington's dance card and wrote in it, and shortly afterward left the ballroom alone. It was also shown that he entered the hotel by the back door that night and went to Mrs. Hetherington's

The evidence of Commander Bartlett, of the Marion, showed that Hetherington made a confidant of him, and on the same day that he asked Mrs. Bartlett to take charge of his child he told Bartlett he wanted to horsewhip Robinson. Bartlett said he would not allow such a scandal, and then Hetherington agreed that if Robinson left Yokohama he would be satisfied, but if he would not go he would have to take the consequences. Bartlett went to ask Robinson to leave Yokohama. The interview was an animated one. The evidence of Commander Bartlett, of Commander Bartlett's Inter Robinson said he was going to leave January 9, and had made arrangements to sell out on Mrs. Hetherington's account, and had even refused to attend a ball because Mrs. Hetherington would be there. Commander Bartlett gave the following account mander Bartlett gave the following account of the ensuing conversation:

I asked Robinson to explain his attentions to and persecution of a married woman, and why he followed her when he knew that Mr. Hetherington was away from his wife. I said, "Robinson, Hetherington wrote you early in December in an honorable and gentlemanly way. You wrote a letter in answer, also, in an honorable and gentlemanly manner, and in which you said you would give him no more cause for anxiety, and yet after dying your word of anxiety; and yet, after giving your word of honor as a gentleman to leave Mrs. Rether-ington alone, no sconer is her husband's ship out of the harbor than you go to the formed Hotel."

To this Robinson replied, "But she wrote me a letter that morning, asking me to come and see her. She is always setting her cap for me, Every day she persecutes me. She has followed me, trying to get me to pay her attention."

attention."
I said, "Would it not have been easy for I said, "Would it not have been easy for you to have sent some of these notes to her husband, and then things could have been settled at once. You blame this woman? You, a man who knows that woman can never be blamed since the time of Eve?" For the first time I lost my temper, called him a — coward to try to fix this blame upon the woman.

The Naval Commander Swears. It was trying, and I continued, "D-you, you scoundrel, villain, if I had been in Hetherington's place I would have put a bullet through you at sight." I do not usually speak in that way. None of my officers ever heard me swear. He turned to me and said:

"I believe Lieutenant Hetherington is justified in his conduct. I deserve shooting. I deserve anything. I have been expecting Lieutenant Hetherington to shoot me."

I said, "I will not allow any shooting here or horsewhipping if you behave yourself, but you must behave, or I shail be present and see you horsewhipped." I said that it was my belief now that instead of the woman setting her cap for him he had deliberately laid siege to her from the first day that she landed. Robinson promised not to attend any ball or dinner to which Mrs. Hetherington was invited. and if by chance he met her to feign filness and leave; but at that time I learned Robinson had made arrangements to follow Mrs. Hetherington should her husband take her with him.

Commander Bartlett's evidence further fled in his conduct. I deserve shooting. I Commander Bartlett's evidence further showed that Robinson had expected that Hetherington, accompanied by Bartlett, were going to horsewhip him, and his friends assembled to protect him. They afterward persuaded him to go to Kobe, but he returned.

The Murdered Man's Treachery.

The Murdered Man's Treachery.

Though Robinson had promised never again to meet Mrs. Hetherington, on New Year's Day, while driving past the Grand Hotel, he looked up at a window in which Mrs. Hetherington was, and smiled. He kept smiling till his carriage got out of sight. Lieutenant Hetherington was in a pression over this and passion over this and was going to horse-whip Robinson that evening, but his friends whip Robinson that evening, but his friends persuaded him not to. Robinson was shown to have proposed a scheme of flight to Denver and to have sent a note to Mrs. Hetherington's room by a friend. He told the bearer that he had asked Mrs. Hetherington not to send any more letters to him.

The evidence for the defense showed many acts in the past of Robinson, tending to compromise Mrs. Hetherington in spite of his promises to pay her no attentions. He had spoken sneeringly of her to his friends, and said she was forcing her attentions on him. He also showed her letters to his friends. It was also shown that durant his time. Polyages continued against ing this time Robinson continued sending many letters to Mrs. Hetherington, which other witnesses testified to the accused being in a highly excited state for several days before the shooting.

HIGHEST WATER EVER KNOWN

Threatened for the Lower Mississippi by a Special Bulletin From Washington-The Ohlo River Even New Beginning Boom-From Various Points.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Recent heavy rains are causing the rivers to rise rapidly in the Ohio and Upper Mississippi valleys. The stage of water in the Lower Mississipp river, also high and rising, will be added greatly in the next two weeks. The situation as regards the possibility of an over-flow of the Lower Mississippi is critical. The following is the outlook as matters stand at present:

The river at St. Louis has risen 3.7 feet in the last three days, and is now at a stage of 25.5 feet. It is likely to continue rising for two days, and will reach 28 feet. At Cincinnati, there has been a rise of 20.4 feet in cinnati, there has been a rise of 20.4 feet in the past three days, carrying the stage to 40.9 feet to-day, April 21. It seems likely from present indications that the river at Cincinnati will rise at least to the 45 feet stage by April 23. From the rises in the Ohio at places above Cairo, it is estimated that the river at Cairo will rise 5.5 feet in that the river at Cairo will rise 0.0 leet in the next seven days, making the stage ap-proximate 50 feet by April 28, or within 2 feet of the highest that occurs there. The principal factors in the rise are the consid-erable rise at St. Louis and the great rise at Cincinnati, the crest time of water from which latter place to Cairo is about six

The Lower Mississippi river at Memphis The Lower Mississippi river at Memphis will rise to the highest known stage, 35.6 feet, or even higher by May 6. At Helena, Ark., the stage to-day is 43.3 feet. There has been a rise of 3 feet in the past ten days. By May 10 the stage will rise to about 47 feet or more. At Arkansas City the river, which to-day is 45.6 feet, will continue to rise until May 15, when the stage will approximate the highest water known, about 49.5 feet. At Greenville, Miss., the stage of river, which to-day is 40.2 feet, will reach a stage of about 43 feet by May 15. At Vicksburg, Miss., the stage of water to-day is 44.5 feet. It will reach by May 15 about 48 feet.

THE MEETING A FIZZLE.

But Few Colored Representatives tended the Reorganization of Avery College Last Night-The Object Was to Formulate Plans to Utilize $50,000. A meeting of the colored citizens of Pittsburg and Allegheny was held in the Avery Church, on Avery street, Allegheny, last night. The object of the call was to take action in regard to the utilization of the $50,000 fund left by Rev. Charles Avery to the colored people of the two cities for the education of their race and establishment of an educational institution. This bequest was made a number of years ago, but has lain dormant and the interest has ocumulated. Rev. J. A. Boyden presided. He stated the reason of the call. After some discussion as to what disposition should be made of the fund, whether there should be a college, an industrial or a mechanical school, Rev. Dr. Low made a motion that the old Avery College be again put in operation, In offering this resolution he made a lengthy address about the condition of the them and the white people. He then moved, as the general sentiment of those present was against the taking of positive action while such a slim representation was had, that action be postponed until May 2.

BOOMERS RUSHING BACK. There'll Be More Than Enough Claim Filer to Take Their Places.

KINGFISHER, O. T., April 21 .- As the Rock Island train went north to-day the depot platform was crowded with homeward bound boomers, so anxious to eats that they made a fush open windows of the cars and were helped aboard by the parties on the inside for fear they would be lett another day. Yet the crowd in town to-night is undiminished, and sleeping apartments are at a premium. This is owing to the fact that the homesteaders are coming in to make their filings. About 1,400 have numbers in line. It will take 15 days for the filing of all now waiting, and the number is increasing.

The new county seats have been settled city and county governments organized peacefully, and all is quiet to-day. The peacefully, and all is quiet to-day. The settlers are already breaking prairie and planting corn, and boomers are get-ting in their work on selling claims. Resident lots in some of the new towns are now offered at $1 each. Many of the home-steaders are suffering from the want of water. Unless rain comes soon the settle-ment of large sections of the new country must be delayed.

WAR METHODS OF DAHOMEYANS.

All of the European Powers Are Eegging for New Cardinals.

NEWS FROM THE EUROPEAN CAPITALS

PARIS, April 21.-The Cabinet has inally decided upon extensive operations in Dahomey, which will be intrusted to the Minister of Marine. La France to-day pubishes a strong article in which it accuses England of encouraging King Behanzin to resist the French.

A dispatch from Kotonou states that s gunboat has arrived there to protect the own should the Dahomevans make an attack upon it. A most welcome addition has been made to the garrison at Kotonou by the arrival on the gunboat of a number of Senegalese troops. The Dahomeyan force near Kotonou are building intrenchments, and are making a road for the purpose of bringing supplies from the interior.

French Protectorate in Prospect. The newspapers here demand that th present campaign against Dahomey be directed to effect the complete subjugation of that country and thus render further action by the French unnecessary. King Behanzin, they say, having been educated in Paris, knows the resources of France; but this fact has not deterred him from acting in a most arrogant manner and indulging in many threats against the French. It is udged by the tone of the articles that it is leaired that a French Protectorate be established in Dahomey.

M. Albecca, ex-President of Porto Novo, who is thoroughly acquainted with Da-homey, declares that although the Da-homeyans are a dangerous enemy, the army of the King is quite disorganized. In fact, he says that the so-called army is nothing more than a horde of bandits, whom the French troops will annihilate when decisive ction is taken. The Gruesome Side of the Picture. This is, however, rather an optimistic view of the condition of affairs. The method of warefare followed by the Dahomeyans is one that does not promise well for their annihilation. It is the custom of their army to never follow the roads or beaten army to never follow the roads or beaten tracks. They cut a new road with incredible swiftness through the forests and jungles, and swoop down on an enemy when least expected. They are thoroughly acquainted with the jungle, and a pursuit of them would be an almost hopeless task.

To conduct a guerilla warfare of this character would see the second of the second of acter would result in great loss of life, not alone from the enemy, but from fever and miasmatic diseases. Those acquainted with the Dahomeyans and the country, and who are not carried away by the idea of an African campaign, know that to completely subdue Dahomey will be an expensive un-dertaking, both in life and money.

ALL WANT CARDINALS.

The European Powers Are Scrambling for Red Hat Appointments.

ROME. April 21.-The negotiations for Rome, April 21.—The negotiations for the creation of future Cardinals proceed slowly. The contracting powers of the Triple Alliance are doing their utmost to secure the appointment of their nominees with a view to the next conclave. It is now safe to say that the Pope has decided to of Madrid and the Nuncio of Vienna are certain to be of this number. The latter grunts of dissatisfaction started off for the certain that eight foreign Cardinals will be created, among whom will be two-Spaniards. The Pope has twice offered the purple to Monsignor Egger, Bishop of St. Gall, Switzerland, but the latter has refused from reciand, but the latter has refused from feelings of modesty.

The request of the Emperor Francis Joseph, of Austria-Hungary, that three Austrian Cardinals be appointed has been refused. It is not yet certain whether there will be a new German Cardinal. Emperor William recently asked, through Minister Schloezer, that Bishop Kopp be honored with a Cardinal's hat, but the Pope refused to entertain the idea, much to the surprise, it is said, of Germany. Several groups of American Catholics have been making great efforts to obtain the creation of an American Cardinal. An Irish Cardinal will probably be ordained, and at least one French Cardinal, if not two.

JAEGER PERHAPS A SUICIDE. His Thefts From the Rothschilds Almo

Twice Those Reported. BERLIN, April 21.-It has been learned that the money stolen by Jaeger, the defaulting chief cashier of the Rothschilds at Frankfort, amounts to 1,700,000 marks. He had used the greater part of the proceeds of his robberies in speculation in fruit in Berlin and Odessa. These speculations turned out unremunerative, and when he thought there was a chance of his pecula-tions being discovered he fled. As yet the police have discovered no clue to his where-abouts, and the opinion gains strength that he has committed suicide. Search is being made for him in every direction.

Jaeger's frauds have extended over a series f years. He falsified his accounts, and as no regular examination of his books was ever made he escaped detection. He not only robbed the Rothschilds, but he also appropriated to his own use the money of two widows that had been intrusted to him. It is reported to-day that a letter written by Jaeger at Darmstadt has been received by the manager of the house. In this letter it is said that Jaeger admits the frauds and announces his intention to commit suicide The police are endeavoring to trace the em bezzler through this letter.

CARDINAL AGAINST PRIEST.

The End of a Sensational Libel Suit Roman Clerical Circles, ROME, April 21 .- The libel suit brought by the priest Amalfitano against Cardinal Oreglia, after a week's bearing, ended today in the acquittal of the Cardinal. Father Amalfitano was ordered to pay the expenses of the trial, which are very heavy. Father Amalfitano accused Cardinal Oreglia of libeling him at the Vatican by declaring that his management of a legacy entrusted to him for the benefit of the church, which he administered, was reckless and dishonest, thereby preventing the plaintiff from obtaining a lucrative benefice to which otherwise he would have suc-ceeded.

The Italian Cabinet Returns

ROME, April 21 .- Owing to the difficulties encountered in reconstructing the Cabinet, all the members of the Ministry, which just resigned, except Signor Colombo, Minister of Finance, met to-day and decided to withdraw their resignations and remain in office. Philadelphia Doctors Puzzled Over a Lad's Strange Affliction. PHILADELPHIA, April 21 .- Joseph Copeman, the 11-year-old deaf mute, whos strange habit of walking backward like a crab attracted the attention of the medical fraternity some months ago, now lies in the infirmary of the Deaf and Dumb Asylum, at Broad and Pine streets, completely paralyzed except for the right arm, as the result of a fit of convulsions which seized him about two weeks ago. A RESCUED MAN TELLS HIS STORY.

PROPER PRECAUTIONS WERE TAKEN

POTTSVILLE, April 21.-The work of rescuing the men, if they are alive, or of recovering their bodies, if dead, goes briskly on at the Lytle colliery, which was so disastrously flooded Wednesday evening. Duplex pumps, each lifting 1,000,000 gallons of water every 24 hours, were started late this afternoon in addition to the other machinery already busily at work in clearing the flooded parts of the mine. It will require another day at least of pumping before there is a chance of reaching any of the bodies. A Minersville undertaker has been authorized by the company to take charge of the bodies when recovered and give them a Christian burial. A reporter interviewed this morning the men who were rescued from the Lytle colliery, near Minersville, after being imprisoned seven hours. William Bell tells a thrilling story of his experience. Said he:

William Beil's Story of His Escape. Yesterday was my second day's work at the colliery. Thomas Buggy was my "butty." We were on our way out, having completed our day's work. I heard William Adams, the boss, call out that the water was coming. I then called to Buggy to throw away his cans and tools and run. The noise was so great that I did not know whether he was behind me or not, as both of our lights had been put out by the damp. When the ex-citement was over I found myself on the "saddle," several feet above the water. I thought that by remaining relief would come soon. It took me about three minutes to cover the distance from where I was when I first learned of the danger to my place of Washington, April 21.—[Special.]—At 4 o'clock this afternoon two stalwart Indians of the Washoe tribe stalked up the circular walk leading from Pennsylvania avenue to the door of the White House, deposited two large bundles that they had been carrying on their backs, and rang the front door bell. Both were typical red men, dressed in costume and half wild and half civilized. One of them was a very young man whose hair had recently been cut, apparently with a circular saw, and his companion, a man about 80 years of age, looked like a warior fresh from the plains.

When Captain Dinsmore opened the door the young man, who spoke English like a Bostonian, said they had just arrived from Nevada, and had come straight to the White House, being told they would find eating and sleeping accommodations there.

"A feller out in Carson told us to come here," the young man said, while the old one sat on the big bundle and gased at the

Anxious to Rescue Fellow Workmen. Dolbin was not in the least dismayed by his experience. He was very auxious to join the rescuers in the search for his "butty" Buggy, whom he thinks was over-taken by the flood; and when taken from his perilous position last night, asked the privi-lege of going back at once. He was taken to his home, however, and after a few hours' rest set out for the mine, and is now one of the party working for the recovery of the bodies of the unfortunate men.

The exact number of men imprisoned by the Lytle mine flooded near Minersville, has been ascertained to be 12. The water broke in about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and after six hours of agonized imprisonment William Bell and James Dolbin, who had fled to a high portion of the mine, were rescued through the heroic efforts of their tellow workingmen. The unfortunate men who are still imprisoned are undoubtedly who are still imprisoned are undoubtedly drowned, as they have no chance of escaping like the two rescued. Two of the unfortunates are John Serbe, of Llewellyn, and Thomas Buggy, of Black Heath. The others were Italian laborers. At its highest point the water reached 200 feet up the slope, and it will take a day or two to re-move sufficient to reach the place where the nen are imprisoned. Proper Precautions Were Taken. Superintendent J. H. Hosie was in town, and, being interviewed, said that they had been taking the utmost precaution in open-ing newwork; and while the law requires drilling ahead a distance of only 20 feet, they bored, as in this instance, 211 feet, not only directly ahead, but also to the side, as the tunnel advanced. The chute where the water is supposed to have burst through was not for the purpose of mining coal, but to give a proper opening for carrying air to the face of the gangway. He says that until all water had been tapped from the workings they allowed only as few men as they could possibly get along with. Speaking of the risk run in working at this colliery, he said he would never all this colliery, he said he would never allow any of his men to work in any part of the mine in which he was afraid to enter him-self, or in which he had the least idea of danger. He made it a point to go to the different parts of the mine every hour or two in the day to see that his orders were carried out. In his inside boss, Mr. Adams, he places the utmost confidence. Had there here any suspicion of immediate danger, he been any suspicion of immediate danger, he surely would have done all in his power to avoid the calamity.

PREPARING FOR BUSINESS.

cratic Fociety Headquarters Opened and in Full Blast at Harrisburg.

HARRISBURG, April 21 .- [Special.]-Major John D. Worman, Secretary of the Democratic Societies of Pennsylvania, has opened headquarters in this city. . President Black to-day made these appointments: Treasurer, Elliot P. Kisner, of Luzerne; Vice Presidents, W. J. Brennen, Allegheny; S. S. Hoff, Berks; Watson F. Sheppard, Schuylkill; John A. Ward, Philadelphia; Levi Bird Duff, Allegheny; Edward T. Mc-Neelis, Cambria; Charles Robinson, Lacka-wanna; George Koehler, Allegheny. The following circular was sent out by Secretary Worman to-day:

Secretary Worman to-day:

Uniting with our Democratic fellow-citizens throughout the Union in the determination to relieve the masses from needless and oppressive taxes, which despoil labor and build up monopoly, and, believing with President Cleveland, that to that beneficent end the Democratic Society "is the most efficent agency ever devised," we hereby agreeably to instructions of the National Democratic State Committee, and of the Democratic State Committee of Pennsylvania, respectfully invite all Democrats and all persons desiring to co-operate with the Democratic party for tariff reform to join with us.

Recovered—sound health for every consumptive who hasn't delayed too long. There's a positive cure with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Just as it cures the worst of the many forms of scrofula, so it cures, and just as certainly, the scrofulous affection of the lungs that's called Consumption—through the Consumption—through the blood.

But, even with this remedy, it won't do to wait. It can't make new lungs, but it can make disaused ones healthy when nothing else will. As a blood-cleanser, strength-restorer, and flesh-builder, there's nothing like it known to medical science. For Scrofula in all its forms, Bronchial Throat, and Lung affections, Weak Lungs, Asthma, Severe Coughs, and every disease that can be reached through the blood, it's the only remedy so unfailing that it can be guaranteed.

If it doesn't benefit or cure, in every case, you have your money back.
On these terms, it's an insult to your intelligence to have something else offered as being "just as good."
