MILLIONS AND BEAUTY IN IT. The Pretty Bride's Life Full of Romance and

Tinged With Tragedy.

COURT SCENES IN A GOTHAM MANSION

NEW YORK. April 21.-Mme. Francisco De Barrios, the young and beautiful widow of the late President of the Republic of justemals, was married this evening to senor Jose Martinez De Roda, a Spanish pobleman, at the magnificent residence of he bride, 855 Fifth avenue. The ceremoies, both civil and religious, were only witessed by a few of the more intimate friends of the bride and groom and yet it was one if the most brilliant weddings that has ocsurred in New York in recent years. In he afternoon the civil ceremony was performed by Mayor Grant and witnessed by only a few friends. In the evening the eligious ceremony took place. The ballroom recently the scene of so many gaieties had been turned into a verimble temple by the erection of an altar resplendent in white satin and white flowers, spiendent in white satin and white flowers, and the house had been transformed into a foral bower. Shortly after 8 o'clock Archbishop Corrigan, in full Episcopal robes, entered the room, followed by Mme. De Barrios, attended by Mme. Aparico, who acted as godmother by proxy for the Queen of Spain. Next came the groom attired in the brilliant costume of the court of Spain. He was attended by his best man, Senor Bethancourt.

An Impressive Religious Ceremony.

The Archbishop, standing before a small improvised altar, greeted the couple, who knelt before him. Back of them stood the witnesses, Senor Baldesano, Senor Savedra, George Kidd, Senor Yznagann Yznaga and Arthur Leary, and beside them was Senor Segario, Secretary of the Spanish Legation, his official dress representing the Prime Minister of Spain.

When the kneeling couple had arisen the Archbishop began the celebration of the solemn nuptial mass of the Romish Church, followed by the reading of the marriage services. When this was completed and Mme. De Barrios became Senora De Roda, the guests crowded around them and tendered them congratulations.

Among the guests present were ex-Mayor and Mrs. W. R. Grace, Mayor Grant, General and Mrs. Butterfield, Mrs. U.S. Grant, Mrs. U.S. Grant, Mrs. L.S. Grant, Mrs. L. Mrs. U. S. Grant, Mr. and Mrs. Butterneid, Mr. aud Mrs. Cooper, Mr. aud Mrs. Kernochan, Mr. and Mrs. Kidd, Mr. and Mrs. Emmons, Mr. and Mrs. Bryce, Mr. and Mrs. Navarro, General Sickles, Mr. and Mrs. Del Valle, Mr. and Mrs. J. Aparico and Miss Inesada.

A Woman Who Has Seen Life, Francisca De Barrios is a native of Cenin 1860. During the 32 years of her life she has passed through varied experiences.
When 14 or 15 years of age she began to go out in society. It was at a ball at the house of a member of the Guatemalan Government that she met General De Barrios. He was immediately struck with her great beauty, for which she was famed throughout Guatemida. He expressed a wish to marry her.
The overtures were rejected by the father.
Within a few months the couple were married without the consent of the bride's father. There are two versions of the manner in which the father was outwitted. One is that the General abducted his wife the other that they ran away together. Whichever be true, they were married in 1875. The two men became reconciled, and the marriage received the paternal blessing. General DeBarrios was very proud of his beautiful wife. He traveled with her through the United States and Europe. The best masters were secured to instruct her in every accomplishment. As a result Mme. DeBarrios is to-day one of the best educated women in the world. A Very Interesting Family, Eight children were born to the couple during the ten years of their married life, five boys. The oldest is now 15 years of age, the youngest 8. In 1885 Barrios was killed, his mortal enemy, De Soto, having now the house on Fifth avenue next to that the widow of Barrios has occupied since her husband's taking off.

Recognizing the instability of the Central American Governments, General De Bar-rios had invested his immense wealth chiefly in America. A great deal of it was in San Francisco. After her husband's death in 1885 Mme. De Barrios went to San Francisco and took possession of his property. The entire amount was in the neighborhood of 58,000,000. She remained in San Francisco only a few months. Soon she moved to New York, and bought a house on Fifth avenue. Senor Martinez De Roda is a Spaniard by birth. He is 37 years of age. He is en-titled to style himself Marquis, but he does not avail himself of the privilege because of his democratic tendencies. Senor De Roda is a member of the Spanish Chamber of Deputies, and is prominent in the counlarge estates near Barcelons, which district he represents in the Cortes. He has property in Madrid also, and is said to be very

The bride and bridegroom will remain in the city until May 7, when they will leave for Paris on the Gascogne. After a brief stay in that city they will go to Spain and will live in Madrid for a greater part of each year. The bride's eight children will probably be educated here.

When Senor de Roda arrived here early in February with his friend Senor Francisco de Bethencourt, he came to marry Madame de Barrios. They met first at a ball at the Austrian legation in Madrid, and the meeting was followed by a wooling begun on the Continent, and kept up since February on this side of the Atlantic.

NEED OF THE DAILY BATH.

Functions of the Skin and How It Is Ofter Tampered With.

Little and big should have the inestima ble privilege, the preservation of the health and preventitive of disease-the complete daily bath. Consider the matter! Under ordinary circumstances the myriad tiny glands under the skin secrete and throw off through the pores about two pounds of perspiration daily, Beside this, the skin is constantly casting off its minute powdery scales; the clothes are shedding particles of lint, of wool; the dust is flying, penetrating everywhere, everywhere; mixing with the exudations of the skin and working itself into a thin dirty paste, which covers the skin and chokes the pores. Shall a housekeeper who would hold up her hands in horror at sight of a badly washed plate of glass, let her child's skin, this exquisite erasible tablet, the most washable and most worthy thing in the world, go dirty for days

"Beauty will fade and perish, but per-sonal cleanliness is practically undying, for it can be renewed whenever it discovers symptoms of decay." Never was a truer word spoken in jest, Mr. Gilbert! Granted the daily bath, the question arises as to the best time for giving it. Some physicians advise bathing the child at night rather than in the morning; and with sickly or delicate children this may often be advisable. But where a child is strong and well, surely the morning is the natural time for the bath. In the morning the hotel on the charge of forgery. CHICAGO, April 21.-After an evening of the wildest excitement and commotion i detail of police was left on guard at the Shelter House of the Society in Aid of the Russian Befugees to-night. The events leading up to the commotion have to do with the work of the society, and their culmination, which amounted to a riot, was in spite of all that the officers in charge of the place could do.

Twenty-five or 30 Russian refugees who have been charitably housed, fed and cared for for the past four weeks insisted upon a continuance of these privileges. Having continuance of these privileges. Having extended to these persons every inducement and opportunity to make a living for them selves, the management had decided that they must abandon their free quarters and make room for new arrivals. This they refused to do and trouble arose. Messra Lowin and Goldstein, who have charge of the Shelter, determined on this move this morning and ejected the refractory refugees without violence. Shortly afterward the most of them returned and demanded reinstatement. Denial increased their persistence, and Denial increased their persistence, and their clamoring increased until this after-noon, when the police were called on to

Before the officers could arrive the attack was made upon both the front and back doors of the Shelter, the latter being torn off its hinges. When the officers arrived Lowin determined to make an example of Lowin determined to make an example of at least one of the men, and selected the one who appeared to be the leader—a broadshouldered able bodied fellow named Alper. Alper had with him his father and mother each over 60 years of age. When the officers started away with Alper, his parents evince such extreme sorrow and helplessness that Lowin relented and told the officers to release Alper, thinking the settion would have a good effect on the action would have a good effect on the crowd. In this he was mistaken, for as soon as it grew dark the physical demonstrations of protest were begun anew by Alper and his comrades. Their ranks were swelled by a crowd of street rabble such as is always ready to participate in such affairs. The demand of the refugees that they be given shelter for the night being refused, an instantaneous attack was made against the gates of the Shelter. Again the police were called, and at their appearance the crowd, except the refugees, immediately dispersed. The situation was then patiently explained through an interpreter to those who incited through an interpreter to those who incited the riot, but they immediately set up the cry that they were sick and unable to work, but after an hour's wrangling the discontented Russians were forced to move away. They threatened to return, however, and a detail of police remains on guard at the Shelter to-night.

An Order by Secretary Noble in Regard to Furnishing Information-Claim Their Attorneys to Be Advised of the Status of Their Claims Direct.

WASHINGTON, April 21 .- Pension Commissioner Raum has written a letter to Secretary Noble calling attention to the interruption of office work by the calls for information about cases. The Secretary in his reply directs that hereafter claimants or heir attorneys shall be advised of the status of their claims direct, as far as the force of the bureau will permit, and that such information will be given direct to claimants on Congressional call slips, thereby obviat-ing the necessity of furnishing the same inormation may times.

"I further direct that you cause all claim pending in your bureau not on the com-pleted files to be examined as rapidly as possible, taking them up in the order in which they were filed, and whenever a claim is found complete it shall be placed on the completed files and claimant when his case will probably be reached. Where cases are not complete claimants shall be notified what further evidence is necessary to complete their claims. "In view of the great number of claims now pending it must be evident to all that your bureau cannot take up claims for in crease recently filed without manifest in justice to those whose claims were filed prior to theirs. The magnitude of the work pending before your bureau caused in part by the act of June 27, 1890, and that which is being accomplished in the granting of 28,000 to 30,000 claims each month, can be better understood when it is remembered that during the last fiscal year of Commis sioner Black's administration of the Pension Office but 113,173 claims were allowed, of which 51,896 were original claims."

GRAND FORKS, N. D., April 21 .- The gregate amount of Union National Bank oney embezzled by Karl Nelson, bookkeeper, as shown by books and cknowledged by him, is $11,500. Nelson waived examination before United States Commissioner Carothers and was held for the grand jury. The cases against Murray and Dahl, gamblers, as accessories were dismissed by the Commissioner and the men were rearrested on an order from Judge Templeton, of the District Court, on a petition of the bank's attorney, Judge Cochran, asking for judgment against Dahl for $8,000, and against Murray for $2,000, the amount they claimed they won by poker from Nelson, and asked that they be held under arrest until judgment is settled.

The question as to whether they can be The question as to whether they can be thus held, will be argued before Judge Templeton Monday. If the decision is in the affirmative, the gamblers will be obliged to return all the money won from Nelson. Nelson makes an efficient today charging that the affidavit to-day charging that the gamblers knew he was using the bank's money and encouraged him to do so. He also tells when they played and what he lost. Nelson succeeded in escaping detection for a time by altering entries in the books to correspond with the amounts of money abstracted from the safe.

The chief discussion was not particularly on the advisability of requesting the extension of the rebate system. It seemed to be the general impression that arrangements could easily be made with the trust. A committee was appointed to wait upon the Sugar Trust and obtain the best terms possible. They were not instructed to request either one-eighth or one-quarter cents per pound, but the understanding seemed to be that they were to get one-quarter cent, if possible. Later, the committee called on the Ameri-san Sugar Refineries' Company. The Sugar Trust people would not agree to extend the rebate system in operation in New York and vicinity and in certain parts of New England, and they declined to consider at all a rebate of 1/2 cent per pound. The committee were informed that the present is not considered by the trust an opportune time to make such a general arrangement as the grocers desire. The sugar people asked that the further consideration of the matter on their part be postponed for the present. Most of the grocers left town, therefore, feeling that their mission had been a fail-

The last Australian mail brings a thrilling shark story from Melbourne. A Mrs. French and a Mrs. Macmeikan were bathing with several ladies and children in the Melbourne Sea Baths, when Mrs. French's little boy, who was not bathing, noticed a large shark rapidly approaching the party, and immediately told Mrs. Durrant. The boy then called out to Mrs. Macmeikan that there was a shark in the water. She glanced round and with horror saw a

She glanced round and with horror saw a shark turning over within a foot of her. She kicked and splashed and nearly fainted away. The shark made for the children, going between the rope and the shore.

Mrs. Mackmeikan speedily recovered her presence of mind, and darted to the rescue of the children. Quickly securing Roy, this brave lady placed the child in about one foot of water. Then she turned to secure Mrs. French's child. She was just in time to effect the rescue. Is the Record Piled Up Against & Russian Tailor of Flatbush.

HOW HIS FIRST WIFE CAUGHT HIM

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.) NEW YORK, April 21 .- Jacob Goldberg, tailor of Flatbush, was arrested last night on a charge of bigamy brought against him by Rebecca Frank, of Warsaw, Russia, and Amelia Zimmer, a Brooklyn girl; who say they are respectively his first and thirteenth wives. Besides the 13 women whom Mrs. Frank says Goldberg married, she declares that there are ten girls to her own knowledge in Russia to whom Goldberg is Goldberg and the alleged Mrs. Goldbergs Nos. 1 and 13 came before Police Justice Connolly in the Gates Avenue Police Court, Brooklyn, this morning. A formal charge of bigamy was then made out against Goldberg by Amelia Zimmer, his latest wife. Justice Connolly held the prisoner in $2,000 bail for further examination on April 28, at 10 o'clock.

If the story that Rebecca Frank tells be true—and there is very little reason to doubt its truth, as the woman has come on post haste from Warsaw to substantiate it—Goldberg can give points to Taylor, the one-armed veteran, whose many wives (one of them a Mansfield, Pa., woman), recently made it warm for him.

Wives and Sweethearts by Dozens Thirteen wives and 10 fiances is a pretty fair record for a man of 36 who did not go into the business until after he attained his majority. Rebecca, his first venture, is dark, stout, and 40 now, while Amelia, his latest, is a small blonde and scarcely 20 years of are years of age.

According to Rebecca Frank's description, the 11 other Russiau wives who have reigned over Goldberg's fickle heart in the reigned over Goldberg's nake neart in the interim are of varying degrees of prettiness, age, and general excellence. Rebecca herself must have been a fine figure of a woman when first Goldberg came a-wooing. In fact, even now she is rather good looking. To-day, in court, she towered head and shoulders above Goldberg, who is a rather insignificant man.

Little Amelia Zimmer sobbed like a baby as signed an affidavit, but Rebecca as she signed an affidavit, but Rebecca patted her on the shoulder and told her to pick up heart. He wasn't worth a cent, she said. She had proved that from her own experience. A Long Search for a Villain. All Rebecca's evidence was given in Rus sian. She had not yet acquired the English language, as she had only been here 36 hours. Goldberg avoided the eyes of both women. Rebecca stalked about the room with an air of triumph.

"For 14 years and a half," she explained through her interpreter, "I've been on this villain's trail. And now I've got him. Ah, this is bliss!"

The two Mrs. Goldbergs left the court to gether. Rebecca is stopping with an old friend of hers, Leon Parmer, a Brooklyn contractor, who put her on Goldberg's trail. Amelia Zimmer has returned to her trail. Amelia Zimmer has returned to her father's house on Watkin street, near Eastern Park. She will remain there until Goldberg's trial comes off. He, in the meantime, will probably have to stay in prison, as he is a comparative stranger in Flatbush, and public opinion there runs so high against him that it was said this morning that he would find it almost impossible to raise the necessary $2,000 hail.

to raise the necessary $2,000 bail. Goldberg went to Flatbush about six months ago, where he opened a small tailor shop. Scarcely anything is known in Flat-bush of his previous life, but when, about four months ago, he began to pay attentions to Amelia Zimmer her parents smiled or the courtship.

How the Recreant Was Trapped. February 15 Amelia and Goldberg b came engaged. The wedding was set for March 13. Leon Parmer, a friend of old Mr. Zimmer's, was among the invited guests. He had never seen Goldberg until the night the wedding took place. The instant he set eyes on the man, however, he recognized him as the husband of his old friend, Rebecca Frank. He had been a guest at her wedding in Warsaw, Russis, 15 years ago. Six months after the mar-riage Goldberg deserted her. As soon as the wedding was over Parmer sent a message to Russia. It ran like this:

Have found Goldberg. He has just mar-ried again. Bring evidence and come im-mediately.

Parmer. This message Parmer sent from Brooklyn at midnight, March 13. The answer came Tuesday evening in the shape of Rebecca herself. It was nearly midnight when she arrived at Parmer's house. Although fagged out by her long journey, she insisted upon going to Goldberg's house without an instant's delay. Surprised in His Night Dres Parmer and Rebecca reached the Gold bergs' apartment a few minutes before o'clock. Rebecca thundered on the door with her umbrella. After a long delay with her umbrella. After a long delay Goldberg came to the door in his night dress. He opened the door an inch or so and peeped out. Rebecca slipped her foot judiciously inside the door and pushed it open. When Goldberg saw her he fell back with an oath and a cry ot dismay.

Amelia, the other wife, hastily throwing on her wrapper, rushed out into the passage. She found her husband and a strong, tall woman disputing in a foreign language. She woman disputing in a foreign lauguage. She turned to Parmer for an explanation. Parmer explained the situation. Amelia burst into tears, dressed herself, and after calling Goldberg a villain of the deepest dye, left at once for her father's house. Parmer and Rebecca escorted her home. A man was hired to watch Goldberg, and to follow him if he tried to escape. Goldberg re-mained quietly at his shop until he was ar-rested by Detective Sergeant Kortwright yesterday afternoon.

THE CARE OF BABY ANTS.

Human Mothers Not More Solicitous as Their Offspring's Welfare.

One of the penalties attendant on the high social development of the ant is the extreme care that has to be taken of the babies of the community. No human baby is treated with more solicitude than the helpless larva of the ant. From the day it enters the world as an egg to the time it sheds its last skin it is constantly attended by its nurses, fed several times a day, and carried about from room to room in search of fresh air, and to change their quarters ac-cording to weather or time of day or night. So delicate are the baby ants that a very short exposure to wet or cold or the missing of a meal or two would prove fatal to them
