

FIGHT OVER A GRAVE.

Enjoining a Woman From Choosing Her Last Resting Place.

AN INTEREST IN THE MONUMENT

Involved in What Promises to Be a Costly Legal Contest.

THE NEWS OF THE COUNTY COURTS

The novelty of having the courts asked to grant an injunction restraining a cemetery from receiving the body of a certain woman yesterday, James C. Lewis filed a bill against Rachel Walker and the Allegheny Cemetery. It is a lengthy document containing several pages of printed allegations, setting forth the facts upon which the plea for an injunction is based.

The plaintiff is one of four brothers who purchased a lot in the Allegheny Cemetery about March 15, 1890, and the bodies of the dead members of the Lewis family, including George Lewis, Sr., the father, and Joseph, Eliza, Martha E. and W. W. Lewis, brothers and sisters of the plaintiff, were removed from the old graveyard at the corner of Grant and Liberty streets and interred in the new lot in the cemetery, which was designated as Section U, No. 52.

Buried in the Family Lot. From that time until within a few years ago, several members of the family, including George, one of the four brothers, and his wife, died and all were buried in the family lot, which in the meantime had had a large and costly monument erected on it, bearing the names of those already dead with appropriate inscriptions corresponding with each.

But previous to her death Mrs. George Lewis sold an interest in the lot and monument to Rachel Walker, an outsider, for the sum of $200, although it had always been held by and in the names of the four brothers, the parents and children to occupy, when it might be required, so far as practicable positions in the lot opposite their respective names.

Taking Possession of the Monument. Along about the last of October of last year, the plaintiff learned that Rachel Walker proposed to cut and deface the monument, and performing other acts of ownership, such as inserting the bodies of her friends and kindred in the lot. She gave her notice not to carry out such a plan and she promised not to do so. But on October 25, 1891, she had the name "George" cut from the one side of the monument and had her surname "Walker" substituted. She further threatens, according to the bill, to have all her friends and relatives, as well as herself, buried in the lot and the names of herself and such others as she may desire cut on the monument.

The plaintiff objects to her exercising such rights of ownership and asks the court to compel her to restore the monument to its former condition and to restrain the cemetery from permitting her to be buried there when she dies.

THE WIDOW WANTS HER MITE.

Mrs. McIntosh Refuses to Accept Under Her Husband's Will.

Margaret B. McIntosh, widow of the late Laughlin McIntosh, of Pine Creek, filed a paper in the Register's office yesterday, which she declined to take under the will of her husband, and claims her interest under the intestate law. By this she is entitled to one-third of his personal property absolutely, and a life interest in one-third of his real estate.

Mr. McIntosh died in Shaler township July 24, 1891, worth from $50,000 to $60,000, of which $30,000 of his real estate she now gets $84,000 cash, absolutely and about $6,000 a year from the real estate for life. She also has a life interest in the real estate of her late husband, which she valued at $40,000, and enough personal property to make her share equal to any of the other three heirs. The executor of the will is the late Elizabeth G. McIntosh, and the heirs of Elizabeth G. McIntosh. To the family of the former she gave a real estate to the amount of $35,000, and to the son, James T., and family, property valued at $2,000, to the daughter, Mrs. M. B. McIntosh, $2,000, and to the daughter, Mrs. M. B. McIntosh, $2,000. In reference to the surviving son of Elizabeth G. McIntosh, she should be at an expense to establish a character for sobriety and industry by pursuing some lawful calling for five years continuously he shall receive $10,000.

THAT SOUTHIDE BRIDGE.

Considerable Difficulty in Reaching an Agreement as to the Location.

THE NEWS OF THE COUNTY COURTS

Mayor Gourley favors locating the proposed free bridge to the Southside between South Twentieth and South Twenty-fifth streets, to connect with this side of the river near Schenley Park, because, he says, after the Carnegie Libraries are built the park will be the great pleasure ground of the city, no matter what counter attractions may be desired, and as time passes the people will flock there more and more every year.

Chief Bigelow will express no preference as to the location of the bridge, but says it will cost $300,000 to build a three-track and $400,000 for a four-track bridge of the kind required. It is opposed to anything but first-class structure, and says while building the city might as well follow the example of the old bridge companies by putting up a substantial concrete bridge. He thinks work on the new bridge arrangements should be commenced within the next two months, and they probably will be.

A Charming Bouquet of Flowers.

If there is one thing more than another that women admire it is flowers. The beauty of color, the sweet odor of the blossom is a part of their nature. The wealthy can revel in rare exotics, but the poor and as much comfort in a pretty bouquet of home-raised flowers. The most successful raisers of flowers in the East is the Marshall Kennedy Milling Co., of this city. They are the kings among the culinary horticulturalists of the land. For those whose wealth can allow a reveling among the richest flowers they present a bouquet of Camellia the Queen of Flowers. To those who love good food, but do not care to indulge in the most expensive, they offer a bouquet of Bayard Amber flour. Cheaper than Camellia, but the best flour at the price that you can buy. It is especially made to meet the demand for cheaper flour. It is made with scrupulous care, and will be the king flour of its price, as Camellia is the queen.

HUTCHINSON'S CANCER CURE.

Mrs. T. A. Ballou, a Prominent Resident of Ohio, Tells of Her Wonderful Cure When All Other Remedies Had Failed—Why Suffer From Cancer When You Can Be Speedily Cured by a Remedy That Physicians Pronounce the Wonder of the Age.

After suffering two years with a growing cancer on my left breast I was advised by my physician (Dr. J. A. Roach, of Alliance, O.) to use Hutchinson's Cancer Cure for treatment. Acting upon this advice I went to the hospital about November 25, 1891. I was treated by Dr. J. A. Roach, and a permanent cure would be effected; but owing to the malignant type of cancer that I was afflicted with it would require probably two months to heal the sore. At the expiration of seven weeks I was discharged by the resident physician, Dr. I. B. Chittenden, as cured. My family physician, Dr. Roach, after a thorough examination, concurred with the resident physician, and the sore is entirely healed, not leaving even a scar to mar the beauty of my former breast, and I now feel as though a new life had been given me. The success of the Hutchinson Cancer Cure is the most sanguine expectation. I can only say it is wonderful. To those afflicted as I was I want to say a word for the hospital and its management. The hospital is located at Sewickley, Allegheny county, Pa., one of the prettiest and most beautiful locations in the State. It is a first-class physician and a corps of trained nurses are in constant attendance day and night and patients are assured of the best care and treatment. To those afflicted with this terrible disease (cancer) if I could strongly urge them to go to the Hutchinson Cancer Hospital for treatment, that they may not be troubled with the cancer, removed without the operation by the knife, but be cured permanently as I realize I have been.

LOUISVILLE, O., February 17, 1892.

Hutchinson's remedy is compounded from vegetable matter and is absolutely harmless to any but the diseased flesh. No cutting or operation of any kind resorted to. For terms, etc., address HUTCHINSON'S CANCER HOSPITAL, Sewickley, Allegheny county, Pa.

CANADIANS TAX BINDING TWINE.

Fishermen May Have All They Want Free of Duty, but Not So the Farmer.

OTTAWA, Ont., April 28.—In the House of Commons last night, on motion to go into committee of supply, Mr. Watson moved that binding twine be placed on the free list. He said it is computed that 14,000,000 pounds of binding twine were annually consumed by the farmers of Canada in harvesting their crops. They are subjected, under the present tariff, to a duty of 25 per cent ad valorem, having thereby inflicted upon them a tax of $400,000 and upward per annum, while at the same time the fishermen are allowed to import twine for use in their business free of duty, under which exemption twine to the value of $224,025 is imported free of duty.

IN GENERAL TAYLOR'S PAPER.

Overwhelmed With Inquiries as the Result of an Advertisement.

The following letter, says the Boston Globe, is self-explanatory: To THE EDITOR:—I enclose you a sample of the many letters I am receiving from all over the country, asking as to the truth of an advertisement printed in the Globe, giving my experience with Paine's celery compound.

I wish to state that I am the person who gave that recommendation to the proprietors of this compound, and that when I said it cured me of acute and chronic rheumatism, which had afflicted me for years, I wrote simply the facts of the case. Before I used this medicine my future looked dark, and hopeless, for I had tried in vain all kinds of treatment. Yet before I had taken four bottles of Paine's celery compound I was jumping around like a two-year-old colt. I have cured some twenty of my friends with this same medicine.

Nothing gives me greater pleasure than to answer inquiries concerning the authenticity of my letter and the invaluable medicinal and curative properties of this compound, but I hope this public statement will suffice, for if my correspondence increases I will have to employ a typewriter. Yours truly, G. J. O'BRIEN, 793 Washington Street, Boston.
