TOM REED'S ROOM IS GROWING FAST.

The Ex-Speaker Almost Persuaded That It Would Be Advisable for Him to ANNOUNCE HIS CANDIDACY

He May Prefer, Though, to Make a Still Hunt for the Presidency.

The Ex-Speaker Too Good a Republican to Wish to See Mr. Harrison Beaten After Nomination—Party Leaders Sounded to Ascertain the Chances for the Maine Man—More Than a Dozen States Against the President or Luke-Warm for Him—Dissatisfaction in the South—Quay, Cameron, Dudley, Foraker and Alger Heading the Combination Against the Second Term.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.)

WASHINGTON, April 23.—When the statement was made in a telegram to THE DISPATCH a few days ago that ex-speaker Thomas B. Reed was actively engaged, with a number of other eminent Republicans, in an effort to defeat the renomination of President Harrison, some foolish friends of the administration attempted to secure a denial of it. Mr. Reed, when he read the article, promptly admitted its truth, yet Colonel Elliot F. Shepard's newspaper faculty and maliciously misquoted Mr. Reed, after its reporter had talked with him in order to lessen the effect of the ex-speaker's anti-Harrison opinions.

A week ago Mr. Reed had joined the ranks of the President's opponents only to the extent of agreeing to assist them in every way in his power. During the past week, however, it has been made perfectly apparent to the Republican party members in Washington that Mr. Reed is an "all-in" as were Barlow and that he has come to the conclusion that there is a very fair chance for his friends to bring about his nomination.

Mr. Reed is a very shrewd man and a cold-blooded politician, and when he goes into a fight he does not do so as a matter of sentiment, but because he has made a calculation that shows him to have a fair chance of winning. He is a man of very strong convictions, and he was never in his life more earnest than he is in the present determination to help kill off Harrison.

Reed Tempted to Be a Candidate.

Mr. Reed is too good a Republican to wish to see Mr. Harrison beaten after his nomination, but his enmity is so bitter that it is not probable he might be pleased to see the Democrats win rather than have Harrison re-elected. During the past week Mr. Reed and some of his confidential friends in and out of Congress have been sounding the Republican leaders, and they have received much more encouragement than they had reason to hope for at the beginning, and things have come to that pass that Mr. Reed is almost tempted to announce his candidacy now. If he does not do so, however, it will be simply because he prefers to make a still hunt.

He Will Depend for Support in His Fight Chiefly upon his Friends in New England, and it is thought that if any large number of them could vote, anti-Harrison managers from the various States would rally to his standard and concentrate their combined strength upon Mr. Reed's friends.

Mr. Reed is not without friends in New England, and it is thought that if any large number of them could vote, anti-Harrison managers from the various States would rally to his standard and concentrate their combined strength upon Mr. Reed's friends.

Maine Not Back of the Ex-Speaker.

The enmity of Secretary Blaine and Senators Frye and Hale will, of course, prevent the Maine delegation from presenting Mr. Reed's name as a candidate of the State, but he is not without friends in the delegation already chosen, and at least one of the delegates at large is a warm personal and political friend who would be very glad to see Mr. Reed nominated as against all other candidates.

In Massachusetts, Vermont and New Hampshire Mr. Reed is particularly strong, and up to date the President has been able to capture very many delegates from these States.

New England is only negatively for Harrison, and it is thought its votes can be secured to Reed without much trouble. In New Hampshire the delegation will be almost entirely controlled by Senator Gallinger, who long ago was an enthusiastic Harrison man, but who has been given the cold shoulder by the President so completely, through the baleful influence of ex-Senator Blair, that he has become an ardent enemy. The three strong politicians in New Hampshire, whom Mr. Gallinger was required to whip before he could get the Republican nomination, are all given desirable Federal offices by the President, and Gallinger has sworn revenge. He is willing to secure it by helping along the Reed boom.

Size-Up of the Anti-Harrison Movement.

The statement previously made in THE DISPATCH, that the Rhode Island delegates had been pledged in advance not to vote for Harrison, is correct, and it is now thought that they can eventually be led to join forces. Within the past few days movements have been set on foot to sound the alarm to Thomas C. Platt and Senator Quay as to the advisability of making Reed the anti-Harrison candidate, and it is thought by some of the shrewder politicians that the reports will be entirely satisfactory to Mr. Reed's friends. Mr. Platt, indeed, has long had a friendly eye upon the big man from Maine, and although he is not making known his desires or intentions, there seems to be no reason why Mr. Reed should not be acceptable to him as a candidate.

But whether the ex-speaker is to be made the anti-Harrison candidate or not, the fact remains that the work of setting up delegates against the President, or at least keeping them unpledged to his support, goes merrily on, and as each day passes the President's opponents become more confident of success. They are fairly jubilant over Mr. Platt's work at the New York Convention.

Colorado's Senators Move Than Happy.

The Colorado Senators are, of course, very happy at the action of their State convention in absolutely annihilating ex-Senator Hill and other friends of the President, and defeating, by a vote of 623 to 28, the resolution indorsing the administration which some fearless statesman introduced. Colorado Senators, moreover, point out today that the strength of the anti-Harrison feeling, as expressed in the convention, was not properly reported. It is plain that the resolution so overwhelmingly defeated provided simply for an endorsement of the President's acts, with special exception of his course with regard to Blair, but the convention would not commend the President, or even a portion of him, and so it put its opposition on record in the most emphatic manner possible.

A leading Republican, a man of national reputation, said today that the Harrison men themselves do not believe their confident prediction that the President will be re-elected, by acclamation, even that there will be no considerable fight at Minneapolis. He says that the anti-Harrison men are surprised at the success they are meeting with in keeping favorite sons in the race and preventing the pledging of delegates.

A Dozen Other States Against Harrison.

It was at first thought that the main hope of defeating Harrison lay in the States of Pennsylvania and New York which are opposed to him. It is perfectly evident now that there are at least a dozen other States which will either support him, or at least wholly or in part of anti-Harrison delegates, and the number of States in which no pledges or instructions are being given is so large that it is almost certain that it is stated to-day, on the very best authority, that at least one-half of the California delegation will be ready to vote against Harrison, as the President's administration on the Pacific coast have been conspicuously unsuccessful in their attempt to control the election of the delegates.

In the South, also, there is much dissatisfaction with the President's course, and this field is being very carefully and systematically worked by Messrs. Clark, Dudley, Alger, Foraker and other anti-Harrison men.

Alger's Help for Other Candidates.

There is no doubt whatever that the Michigan millionaire has already decided, although he does not admit it, that he cannot possibly force himself on the convention, and he has therefore turned in, with the President's approval, to the defeat him. Alger and Governor Foraker are working in complete harmony with Dudley and Clark, and the result of their efforts will be shown in the opposition of several Southern States to the President's renomination.

General Mahone, who spent the winter in Washington, has done for the purpose of having headquarters where he could receive reports as to what was being done in Virginia without exciting suspicion. Mahone is a perfect master of disguise, and he started 12 years ago, say only this, that his chances of finding another man to back him with his name and credit, as Grant backed him, are very slim.

Ward's last day in jail was the longest that he ever spent. He said this much to a keeper. This is saying a great deal, for the man who has spent 12 years in jail, and who has been there for more than four years, and yet the time has passed so quickly, and he has not felt a moment's weariness, and he has not felt a moment's weariness, and he has not felt a moment's weariness.

Judge King Acknowledges the Alliance Manufacturer Now Has the Edge.

MANASSAS, Va., April 23.—[Special.]—Judge Lewis W. King, of Young's Bay, came here on his way home from the Cleveland convention, and talked unreservedly with THE DISPATCH correspondent this evening on the situation in regard to the nomination for Congress in the Eighteenth District. Judge King has instructed for the last 48 hours of his own life, and 24 of the Columbia county delegates, and he says his friends at home assure him that he will eventually receive the eight-vote majority in the election of Judge John H. Morgan. He also expects the nine votes of William Monaghan in Columbia, making a total of 89 votes. It will require 112 to nominate.

T. R. Morgan, Sr., the Alliance manufacturer, expects the solid vote of Stark county, 35 votes, and Judge King says he is not here to state his own delegation, but to help in the event of the failure of Morgan to reach the goal to secure enough from this county to capture the nomination.

ROOM ENOUGH FOR HUNDREDS.

The Accommodations at Minneapolis Thought to Be Sufficient.

NEW YORK, April 23.—Mr. C. F. Meek, a member of the Republican National sub-committee on the nomination of Minneapolis yesterday, returned from Minneapolis yesterday, and says preparations for the convention are excellent. The hotel accommodations are ample and will meet the requirements fully. He further says the statements widely made that accommodations would be insufficient and that extra hotels would be needed are entirely unfounded and very unjust to the great Western city and her enterprising and hospitable citizens.

Every application so far has been taken care of, and the local committee has not yet drawn upon half of its own resources nor upon the great hotels at Lake Minnetonka and St. Paul, which are easily accessible.

Resolutions were also adopted favoring the incorporation of a plank in the national platform in favor of an eight-hour day and the creation of a Secretary of Labor, to have a position in the President's Cabinet.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.) NEW YORK, April 23.—Ferdinand Ward, the wrecker of many fortunes, who ruined General Grant and helped Fish in his work of ruining the Marine Bank, the "Napoleon of Finance," will be set free to-morrow. His cell door will be unlocked at 10 o'clock, and he will take his place in a line with his fellow convicts, and will shuffle the lock step with them to the river, and then back to the big dining room.

Corn beef hash, the dish that he has breakfasted upon daily for six years and five months, will be placed before him.

A LIGHT DRINK AT A HOUSEWARMING CAUSES TROUBLE.

The Maryland Club Treats Its Friends to a Lively Time—A Set-to in the Presence of Ladies—Hard Fall From a Bedroom Window.

BALTIMORE, April 23.—[Special.]—The Maryland Club had a housewarming last night to celebrate the completion of its building. It was decided to give the ladies a peep at club life. Because of their presence heavy liquors, including champagne, were not served.

A light punch was the only stimulant.

This punch was favored heavily, judging from the effect on some of the members, for one fell out of his bedroom window after the reception, and another boxed the ears of one of the Board of Governors because there was champagne.

Edward Winslow Wyatt became ill at the reception, and leaning out of a window in the Mt. Vernon Hotel after he had gone to his lodgings, he fell. He was found on the cobblestones soon after suffering with a battered nose, a broken wrist and a fractured leg.

The regular in the set-to in the clubhouse spring the reception were General R. S. Snowden Andrews, Secretary Bayard's brother-in-law, and ex-Senator C. Ridgely of Ohio. Pennsylvania Company and J. P. Crane, General Manager of the Tri-State Exposition Company, all of Toledo.
