Homestead, April 30.—[Special.] — Three thousand people witnessed the initial game of the Homestead club with the colored Keystones at the grounds at West Run today. Considering that it was the first gam of the home club and that they had no pre-vious practice the game was a good one from start to fluish. The leatures of the game was the superb battery work of both teams, and also the fine playing of Bennett of the Homesteads at first base. The Keystones were well pleased with the treatment they received at the hands of both the club and the spectators. Joe Brice, the catcher of the "Our Boys," umpired the game. Score:

It seems as if the visitors of yesterday are determined not to lose their cognomen, 'The Bum Baltimores." Why players like Shoch should be retained in a big League when there are so many good men out of work is a problem that only the Baltimore management can answer. The truth is the team must be improved or else every other club will be losers, as people will soon tire of putting up 50 and 75 cents a crack to see the Baltimores play. McMahon, who is a good pitcher, started off all right, but he soon became disgusted because of two things. One was the bad support accorded him and the hitting of the home players. They had their eye on the ball, and banged it right and left with a vengeance. But still the score should not have been as one-sided as it was if the fielding of the visitors had been even up to our local amateur standard. The home players put up a fine game, there not being a fielding error recorded against them. The umpire gave them the benefit of almost all the close decisions, and this caused any amount of kicking on the part of the men from Baltimore.

ple awfully. He pitched a splendid game although he was wild in his delivery a few times. Outside of that he pitched as he can pitch and the alleged players from the city of monuments could do nothing with him when he got the ball across the plate. It is only fair to say that Baldwin has had luck dead against him in his games this year. He is an effective pitcher and when everything is going all right, batters who face him know the fact. The only run scored against him was of his own making by giving a base on balls. Had it not been for that shortcoming on his part he would have shut them out without a run. The second inning was reached before a run was made. McMahon was in good form and runs were hard to get. Beckley started the inning by knocking out a lucky two-bagger to left field. In making a double of it dake gave a wonderful exhibition of an exciting one, as the first six clubs are sliging to the base. Shugart knocked out a very close to each other. Boston is still in short infield hit and Beckley was put out between second and third. Corkhill made

sacrifice scored Shugart. The Expert Mr. Shoch. In the fourth inning Beckley again started off and reached first on a tumble by the expert error-maker, Mr. Shoch. Shugart made a safe hit and errors by Robinson and Welch scored Beckley. In the fifth inning another run was made and the team were glad to get them one at a time at this stage. Miller knocked a single to left field and Wood allowed the ball to roll past him and George rounded the bases before the ball

The sixth inning came, and the visitors simply went all to pieces. Beckley again led off, and Shoch was so determined that Jake should reach first that he (Shoch) ran in front of Pickett to fumble Jake's grounder. Beckley stole second, and was put out at third on Shugart's grounder to McMahon. A wild pitch by Gilbert sent Shugart to second and third. Corkbill knocked the ball to the infield, and the time Shugart was dodging the fielders between third and home Corkhill got to first. Shugart dodged successfully, and got back to third all right. Then Mack scored both men by a three-bagger. Baldwin followed with a hit, scoring Mack, and George the Defends the Schedule. The Sporting Life has the following to say about the schedule: A great deal has been written about the early opening of the present senson, and considerable fault has been found with it. Just as a matter of curiosity, a weather clerk was consuited the other day. He went to his library, picked out the files and demonstrated that two-thirds of the ball games postponed this season on account of the inclement weather might easily have been nineed lest year or thirds of the ball games postponed this sea-son on account of the inclement weather might easily have been played last year or the year before. Upon the whole, it doesn't do much good to kick at the weather. It is one of the few things that baseball magnates cannot regulate. It is an easy matter to make a game schedule, but quite out of the question to fit in a weather schedule so that the joints will dovetail.

A story got out yesterday that Captain Hanion had telegraphed Meekin's signs to Pittsburg the day before Meekin pitched there, baving studied them out while watching the Chicago games in a box at Eclipse Park. THE BROOKLYN HANDICAP

A Few Pointers About the Big Turf Event in the East, New York, April 30 .- Things have been remarkabl quiet this week as regards the Brooklyn Handicap, but it is the quiet be-fore the storm. By this time next week all the horses that will go to the post in the big race will be well under way in their training. The only noticeable change this week has been in the betting. Longstreet has been backed down to 40 to 1 in the winter books, and in some instances the bookmakers would not lay more than 3 to 1 against his chances. The backing does not come from the Dwyers, but the public. Longstreet's owner makes it a rule never to Longstreet's owner makes it a rule never to bet on a borse until he goes to the post and his chances can be judged in the field with which he is to compete. This is a little bit of wisdom that could be emulated with profit by some of the plungers who are making the rounds of the bookmaking establishments and beiting on horses that will, in all probability, be scratched. Longstreet is getting on in his preliminary training. He has been going miles in 1:42 about, and has covered the handicap distance easily several times in 2:08.

Tenny appears to be getting better, although he is by no means in anything like fit condition for racing. "Snift" Donevan, his trainer, says Tenny trains late, but that the little swayback will be in the ring when the gong sounds.

SIR JOHN IS PARALYZED. The famous Racer of the Dwyer Stable Is Done For. New York, April 30 .- A deep gloom overshadowed the stable of Messrs. Phillip J. Dwyer & Sons this morning when 'it was found that their great 5-year-old horse Sir John, by Sir Modred, out of Marion, was lying in a state of paralysis.

The horse threw outs, spavin and was let nn in his work last week. On Wednesday he was operated upon for snavin, but this morning he was found at full length in the stall with paralysis of the hindquarters. A physician pronounced the case hopeless. CHICAGO, April 30 .- So much has been written about the queen of the Western turf, Marion C, and her prospects for racing the coming season that her owner's opinion of the great mare. Jim Young has expressed himself in a most effective way on that point. The mare is entered in the Oakwood and Great Western handicaps at Washington Park, the declarations for which are due mark. She has not and will not be declared. May 1. She has not and will not be declared may I. She has not and will not be declared out of either. The Great Western is at a mile and a half, and if she was touched in the wind her owner would not have the folly to have her in races over such a distance of ground. That she has not been declared out of the Great Western would seem to indicate that she is, or will be, fit and good.
