FREE FOOTWAYS OVER THE RIVERS

An Ex-Councilman Talks on the Subject and Compares

THE TAXES PAID FOR SUCH PURPOSES

The work of rebuilding the Sixth Street bridge, between Pittsburg and Allegheny, was formally begun vesterday.

For several months work has been going on in the construction of the new piers, but yesterday one side of the old structure was closed to travel. It was securely boarded up and will be torn up. A tunnel or arch is being constructed under the bridge to be used probably by some railroad in the future. The proposed new bridge is to be wide enough for four railroad tracks with a passageway on either side. The new bridge will be built under the old one and the structure will not be closed during its construction. It is expected that the new bridge will be completed within three months. It will be, it is said, a magnificent specimen of engineering.

Free Bridge Advocates Agitating.

The construction of the new bridge across the Allegheny has revived the talk of free bridges, and the free bridge advocates in Pittsburg are just now devoting considerable attention to having Allegheny county take a hand in any or all of the free bridge enterprises. It is argued by the free bridge advocates that the county is abundantly able to assume the financial responsibility for sale by druggists. of at least one free bridge within the limits of Pittsburg and Allegheny, and that a free bridge across the Monongahela or Allegheny rivers is as much the duty of the county as is the construction of a bridge across any creek or stream within the county's limits

While Pittsburg Councils and many peo-ple throughout the city have discussed in all its many phases the free bridge question, all its many phases the free bridge question, and while the city Councils have appropri-ated more or less money for such an under-taking, the proposition that the county as-sume the responsibility of such an enter-prise has only recently been suggested. The proposition, although entirely new, is not without earnest advocates.

The Tendency Toward Free Bridges.

Councilman Walls, who has for years been earnest and industrious in his efforts to secure a free bridge across the Monongato secure a free bridge across the Mononga-hela river to the Southside, is now just as earnest advocating that the county free some of the Pittsburg bridges. "The ten-dency all over the county is toward free bridges," Mr. Walls said vesterday. "Pitts-burg is really behind the age in this im-portant matter, but free bridges in Pitts-burg is only a question of time, and a short time at that. I contend that Allegheny county has more right to build free bridges over our two rivers than either Pittsburg or over our two rivers than either Pittsburg or Allegheny has. Look at the Brooklyn bridge, the greatest structure of its kind in this country. It is not only free, but it was built, not by New York and Brooklyn, b t built, not by New York and Brooklyn, b't by Kings county. In other cities where they have bridges they are free. The county in which the city is located has built those tree bridges just as Allegheny county should build them out of money paid into the county treasury in the way of taxes by the cities.

People Who Pay the Taxes.

"The country people in Allegheny county of course will be opposed to the county building free bridges for us city folks, but there will be neither good sense in nor good ground for such opposition. Look at the tax figures in this county and then determine whether the county or the city should make the bridges free. The tax levy of filegheny county is based on a valuation of $480,000,000. On this vast amount Pittsburg city pays taxes on a valu-

Advance Pienies at Aliquipps. Although early for the resular season at the famous old pienie grounds, excursion parties have been going to the P. & L. E. R. R. every Saturday for over a month, and in inct for every day of the week. Have they enjoyed it? Well, rather, for the pieniekers have been composed of shrewd investors, and these have been a pienie that put money in their pockets. Instead of enjoying the wooded grove they have gone just beyond it to that broad, elegant expanse of gently slop-ing ground where the sight of the wonderful growth of the new town of Aliquipna in the past month has given them more foy than woodland breezes. Everywhere homes have been started or preparations for building are manifest. The factories are well night completed and the whole scene is one that pleases the enterprising man. Then, too, the lots are so cheap that he knows there will never be a backward tendency in values, so often the result in towns of quick growth. The successful sale of Saturday and the stoady flow of interested visitors and in-vestors have vindicated the faith of its pro-jectors that Aliquippa would be a thriving form action at the office of the Aliquippa steel Company, room 30, Westinghouse building. stion of about $240,000,000, Alleghen city pays taxes on a valuation of about $110,000,000, and the boronglis and townships of the county pay taxes on a valuation of about $80,000,000. These figures, and of about $80,000,000. These figures, and they are about correct, prove my position. They show that Pittsburg as a ciry pays the bulk of the county taxes. When the County Commissioners, the County En-gineer and the courts determine among them that a bridge is necessary across Chartiers creek, it is built not out of the money contributed to the county in the way of taxes by the township or borough in which that bridge is located, but by money raised by taxation throughout the whole county, including both Pittslurg and Allegneny.

Pittsburg Paying for Rural Bridges, "Pittsburg people rarely, if ever, use the free bridges in the rural districts in the county, but they contribute the bulk of the money that pays for them, just the same. The country people will seldom use the free bridges in Pittsburg and Allegheny, but the increase in their taxes to build free bridges in the city will not pay their fare over the toll bridge a half dozen times when they do happen to be in the city." "What amount of money is spent annually by Allegheny county in building free bridges?" was asked.

"I do not know exactly. It is an enor-mous sum, however. The amount each year "The question of the entitle Pittsburg to at least a part of it just as an experiment." "The question of free bridges in Pitts-burg is a most important one," Mr. Walls continued. "It is not much of a burden for the farmer in the country or the merchant or momentum one in the other a mark or property-owner in the city to pay a penny every time he crosses one of our bridges, but it is a positive injustice and a wrong to com-pel the workingman to pay toll in the heart of a city every time he goes to or from his work.

A Tax Upon Poor People.

"The working people getting anywhere from 90 cents to $1 50 per day are com-pelled to watch their pennics, and it is out-rageous that they are forced to pay a penny when they find it necessary to go from one part of the city to another. Pittsburg and Allechary have no more right to pay for Allegheny have no more right to pay for the bridge that connects them than two townships in the county have to pay for the bridge that connects them, and the agitation to have the whole county assume the re-sponsibility for free bridges in the cities and between the cities is in dead earnest and between the cities is in dead earnest and will not stop until the courts, the grand jury and the proper officials have been tested on the question." Some of the free bridge advocates are in some of the free bridge advocates are in favor of the county building a bridge across the Monongabela river from Stevenson street, which, it is argued, would be advan-tageous to the resident portion of the city on both sides of the river; others are favor-able to the construction of a free bridge by the county comparing Bittaches and Ally the county connecting Pittsburg and Allegheny.
