General when he visits Pittsburg. If the local team are playing in good form, as they are doing now, something interferes to throw the balance on Harry's side. That interference was there sure enough vesterday in the person of that very goodooking young man known as "Red" Ehret. Red was in no shape to pitch, no matte what he or anybody else thought about it He was just as wild as the wild man Borneo could ever be. Now and again h gave symptoms of pitching good ball, bu his mistakes were so great and so numerou that the little good work he did perfor was entirely lost sight of.

A Very Important If.

If Ehret could steady down he would be a winning pitcher and no mistake. He cool and has remarkable speed, and it is great pity that he cannot master his defec He may do so. Yesterday he stated that h hart his arm in the first inning and could not control the ball subsequently. If this was so it may account for his remarkable

The local team, of course excepting the plicher, played a good game, and if that exeption had not existed they would have won. Weybing pitches a very good ball, but he was hit hard enough to be beaten. The Phillies as a team are quite a good lot, but that old warhorse, Manager Wright, al-ways has some good men with him. When his team get thoroughly settled down they will defeat lots of people, because they are good fielders and good hitters.

One of the features of yesterday's contest was a remarkable running catch by Pop Corkhill. It is safe to say that a more brilliant effort has not been seen on the local grounds since basebull was known here. The ball was knocked out by Roger Connor nearly to the right field fence. The hit was a terrific line drive and Corkhill plunging in among the mud ran and leaped in the air and nabbed the ball. He deerved the tremendous cheers that greeted

An Extinguished Hope.

There was a slight hope of a victory in the ninth, but even that was soon extinguished by two decisions of Umpire Gaffney. One was a decision at first base and in this he may have been right. The other was on a ball knocked to right field by Beckley. The ball landed near the tence about a foot inside the foul line and the umpire called it foul. These decisions altered things considerably, If Miller had been declared safe at first, which many good judges claim he should have been, and Beckley's hit had counted, there would have been three runs in and only one man out with Beckley on third. Out of the 1,700 people present very few, indeed, came away satis-fied with the two decisions referred to.

In the first inning the visitors led off and Hamiiton got his base on balls. Thompson knocked a grounder into Beckley's hands and Jake hadn't much trouble in retiring Thompson, and by the sid of Bierbauer doubling Hamilton up at second. next got his base on bails and so did Connor. Clements made a single and Hallman scored. Connor stole third and scored on a

In the fourth inning Mulvey started off first and got his base on balls. Cross made a single and that with two sacrifice hits, another wild patch and a dropped throw by Earle scored two more runs. A Rattling Inning.

The sixth inning came and it was a disastrous one. During the inning Ehret made two wild pitches, hit Allen with a pitched ball and gave Thompson his base on balls. Hallman and Clements each made a single. Weyling made a double and Corkhill failed to get a fair hold of a very difficult fly from Connor's bat. All this display netted

Then Ehret retired and Camp took a turn. The first ball he pitched was knocked to the left field tence for a home run by Cross. Three more singles were made in the inning and a sacrifice hit, yielding altogether three carned runs, the only earned runs made by

The home players had to make their runs by sound hitting. In the fourth inning Farrell's triple to left and a sacrifice by Beckley earned a run. In the sixth, after Farrell was out, Beckley and Shugart each made a single, and Corkhill's triple to left ored them. Earle got his base on balls, but was forced out at second by Ehret. Miller knocked out a good single, scoring Corkhill and sending Ehret to third. A passed ball scored Ehret and that ended the run-getting on the part of the home play-

In the second inning an unlucky circumstance occurred for the home team. There were three men on bases and nobody out. Corkhill went to but and knocked a grounder to Allen, who threw Farrell out at the plate, and Clements threw Corkhill out at first, making a double play. Earle knocked out a fly and not a run was scored.

HANLON FOR BALTIMORE. The Popular Local Player May Sign to Man

age the Orioles, It may be that Ed Hanlon, the popular player, of this city, may agree to manage the Baltimore team to-day. Yesterday Von der Horst by wire obtained the permission of the local club to negotiate with Hanlon, and the latter last evening received a dispatch from Von der Horst stating the terms offered. Nothing definite was done last evening and terms may be agreed upon to-day. The Baltimore team needs a manager who is a practical man, and none better than Hanlon could be obtained. Of course, he is reluctant to leave Pittsburg, as his home and family are here, but he has much to gain and nothing to lose by taking hold of the Baltimore team. They are as low as they can get, and if he improves their position he will get the credit. He will not be able to play for some time yet, and when he is able nobody is a better judge on the ball field than Ed Hanlon. His many friends in this city will rezret to see him go, but the changes in baseball life are many and strange. He is an able player and as earnest as any man in the country.

There will also be a change or two in today's game. Elmer Smith will be given a rest and Raymond employed. Manager Buckenberger thinks that Smith may be useful as a pitcher. The team to-day, therefore, will be as follows: Miller, m; Bierbauer 2b; Raymond, 3h; Farrell, l; Beckiey, h; Shugart, s; Corkhill, r; Mack, c; Baldwin, p. is a practical man, and none better than

and Western Tracks.

The shooting tourney was continued at Homewood Park yesterday afternoon in presence of a very large attendance. The shooting was excellent, particularly in the amateur class. In the latter class it will be pleasing to local patrons of the gun to know that W. S. King, of this city, was first with the splendid average of 95.1 per cent, and George Cochrane and C. A. Young tied for second place with each an. average of 93.1 per cent. This shooting surprised the talent.

In the expert class William Wolstencroft was again first with an average of 87.5 per cent, and N. Apgar was second with an average of 85.5 per cent. In the semi-expert class William R. Friles was first with an average of 80 per cent and G. Fulford was second with 77.2 per cent. The entries were numerous and the purse and added money made big prizes for the winners. The tourney will conclude today. Some of the best shots in the country are contesting, and yesterday all contest-ants were extremely pleased with the man-agement of Messra Shaner and Crow. Following were the scores:

FLASHED UP A STORM.

From Sunshine to a Destructive Tempest in a Moment at Marietta.

MARIETTA, May 4.-[Special.]-This city was visited about 5 o'clock this evening by one of the most destructive storms of wind and rain in its history. Shortly before that hour, while the sun was shining brightly and there were no indications of a storm, the community was startled by a blinding flash of lightning followed in an instant by a ter-rific peal of thunder. Immediately the sky became overcast, and in a few moments it was so dark that lights were necessary in-doors, and then the wind began to blow a was so dark that lights were necessary indoors, and then the wind began to blow a gale and the rain came down in sheets.

In the midst of the storm the business section was startled by a second crash. The wind lifted the heavy iron roof of the big plant of the Leidecker Tool Company and landed it in the street, trusses and all. The side wall of the building was cracked by the violence of the wrench, and the roof broke the steam pipe and damaged the machinery materially. None of the many men employed in the establishment were injured. Several other buildings in course of erection were more or less badly wrecked, and incalculable damage was done to shade trees. The steamer Iron Queen was just making a landing as the storm struck the city, and was blown out into mid-stream. She was unable to get to the wharf for an hour, panic meanwhile prevailing on board. No injury was done to the boat, however, and she proceeded on her trip.

Evidence in the Waynesburg Murder Trial

Contradicts the Prisoner's Story. WAYNESBURG, May 4 .- [Special.]-The inter est in the Pipes-Hoffman murder case to-day was intense. The physicians who made the post-mortem examination of the body of Hoffman testified that the wounds showed that the man had his back turned toward Pipes when the fatal shot was fired. This Pipes when the fatal shot was fired. This dispreves Pipes' statement that the deed was committed in self-defense. Several persons who had visited the scene of the murder immediately after the shooting stated that the stable doors were closed and locked. Pipes, however, had said that the man Hoffman was inside the stable.

It was proven, too, that young Hoffman was accustomed to hitching his horse while in town in the alley in the rear of Pipes' residence, and when he did so on this occasion he was whistling a merry tane. Joseph Stickles testified he had seen Pipes and Hoffman quarreling a month before the crime was committed. Mrs. William Berrynill, a near neighbor to the Pipes, had gone into the latter's home shortly after the shooting. She said Pipes was covered with blood, and that he made several apparently contradictory statements in her presence concerning the affair. The Commonwealth will close its case to morrow morning. The defense, it is claimed, will introduce some startling evidence.
