FROM FUN TO FURY

Wilkinson's Widows Make Things Very Lively While

THE FIRE PATROL IS REALISTIC. Clemencean Case and the Other

Attractions Offered Here.

HOW ALL WERE RECEIVED LAST NIGHT

Mr. Wilkinson was a bigamist, but neither wife knew of the other's existence till after his death, till in fact they had married again. How he kept up the two establishments and provided for two young and pretty wives is not explained very definitely, but such things have been done in real life and the complications resulting from such a dual existence have been used before with good effect in farcical comedy. Last night at the Alvin Theater "Mr. Wilkinson's Widows," as they were after they had exchanged the funereal crepe for bridal colors, made two hours fly very quick-ly amid rears of laughter. The story of this amusing trifle, which is an adaptation from the French of Alexander Bisson by William Gillette, is not to be told off-hand or in less ly amid rears of laughter. The story of this amusing trifle, which is an adaptation from the French of Alexander Bisson by William Gillette, is not to be told off-hand or in less than a column, so that the merest outline must suffice here. The widows of Mr. Wilkinson have married again and by a strange chance are living in the same apartment house in London when the play begins. They are Mrs. Perrin and Mrs. Dickerson. Major Mallery, an English officer, returns from China and drops in to see his friend Perrin, and to him confides the story of his flirtation with a certain Mrs. Wilkinson, who he hears is now a widow. Perrin jumps to the conclusion at once that this is his wife, and becomes desperately jealous. Mrs. Perrin discovering a billi contracted by the wicked Wilkinson, whom she revered as a saint, for jewelry, the bill being made out to Perrin, also grows jealous. The entanglement and confusion which follows is most ingeniously contrived, so that gross impossibilities seem for the moment almost probable. Unlike most farces of this sort it is weakest not at the end, in the unraveling but in the middle, where the plct should reach a crisis, it is flabby and flat. The first and last acts contain a good deal of pure comedy, and are bright and sparkling for the most part. The center is weak chiefly because the play degenerates into slap-stick clowning there. Yet the play, in spite of the tiresome repetition of burlesque business around the dinner table, is full of laughter, and like "Jane," which it resembles greatly in style, it is not too long.

But the acting makes after all about two-thirds of the fun. It is a capital company that Charles Frohman has got together. Joseph Holland is a comedian of the best school—the school that can make more laughter with the lifting of an eyebrow or the accenting of a word that your clown can cause with a double somersault and a bag of flour. So good was Mr. Holland at depicting a husband distracted by his first Jealous pangs that one wished he had a more sincerely human riors. A large audience laughed at most of the play heartily.

The Fire Patrol. Another new drama of the sensational order was produced at the Grand Opera House last night. As a melodrama of the old "true blue" Bowery style, it fills the bill completely. A big audience enjoyed it thoroughly, indeed the upper part of the house was almost carried away with enthusias. it thoroughly, indeed the upper part of the house was almost carried away with enthusiasm. There are quite a number of thrilling scenes. In the first act one of the duo of heroes with which the drama has been provided is shot. In the second there is a murder and startling rescue from under the ore crushers in the mine. By the way, this is quite a realistic scene, and it was quite generously applauded last night. In the third act there are at the very least a dozen exciting climaxes; the villian is arrested by the fire patrol, the police and a deputy sherrif, but as there are still two acts remaining it is discovered in the next that he escapes them all. And so it goes. To tell the story in detail would require several columns. Suffice it to say that everything pertaining to the out and out melodrama is introduced excepting Indians. There is some slight allusions to redskins during the evenng, but it is only as an aside. There are a number of good players in "The Fire Patrol," notably W. W. Bittner, and J. W. Harkins, Jr., who play the heroes, and Margaret Hatch and Alice Endress, the heroines. Idella Macdonnell and Messrs. George Scott and George Rose gave general satisfaction and the balance of the large cast were acceptable.

The Bijou Theater. "The Clemenceau Case" was reproduced at the Bijou last night before a moderate sized audience. This play was condemned without reservation in these columns a year ago, and there is nothing more to be said, Miss Laura Biggar as ha, and Gus Levick and Willard Newell are the chief people in the East.

The Academy of Music. Although the season is about over, the Academy of Music continues to be patro-nized by crowded houses. Last evening nized by crowded houses. Last evening "Kennedy's Kings of Fun" attracted just as large and enthusiastic an audience to the Academy as has been seen for a long time. The company are almost all extremely entertaining. J. E. Kennedy is very droll. Prof. J. F. Flynn is a good mesmerist and Gordon and Lick are entertaining as musicians. The plantation sketches of Hughes and Farron were well received. Frye and Hamilton are excellent singers and comedians and worth seeing. The Barrett Bros. are also good arrists and the balance of the company command attention.

Davis Museum Theater. Large audiences filled Harry Davis' Large audiences filled Harry Davis' Fifth Avenue Museum-Theater yesterday when the County Circus commenced its second run. The show this week has been materially strengthened by the acquisition of a number of very clever performers. Major Decker and Bobby Rolfe do a side-splitting burlesque boxing act, Eldorado, the ventrilioquist and his wooden-headed family, afford a fund of amusement, while Jerome, late of the Barnum show, does a contortion act that is positively astonishing.

World's Museum Theater. The two wrestling bears, "Jumbo" and "Bismarck," were the attractions that drew big houses to the World's Museum-Theater big houses to the world's aluseum-Theater all yesterday and last evening. The cleverness of the trained animals amused and interested the large body of patrons mightly. In the theater an exceptionally good vandeville company, Stanley's Palace Varieties, furnished an excellent and refined performance. The same programme will continue throughout the week.

The Harris Theater. "Dr. Jekyll" and his wicked side partner, "Mr. Hyde," interested and somewhat amused two large audiences at this house yesterday. The management promises a better rendition of the play hereafter, and an improvement upon it from Thursday to Saturday evening, when "The Bells" will be

OBSTRUCTED BY A FORM.

Jacobs Roasted for Standing Up to Pray-Necessity for a Bishop in Pittsburg-Qualifications That Fit Holliday for the Bishop Petty presided yesterday at the A. M. E. Zion Grand Conference. The Bishop made a plea for more careful work. The result was that nearly the whole morning was taken up in a discussion over whether it was right for a man to stand up and pray, though the usual form is to kneel. The discussion was provoked by the reading of the minutes in which Rev. F. Jacobs, of the Tennessee Conference, was reported to have "stood up" and prayed and imme-diately the choir sang, "He Is Risen." An attempt was made to have the words "stood up" stricken out, but up to the noon ad-journment the matter had not been decided and there is a doubt as to whether posterity will ever be told that he "stood up." Rev. J. T. Riley, Dr. M. J. Sleppy and several other Methodist Episcopal ministers were introduced to the Conference.

Rev. J. E. Wilson, fraternal messenger from the M. E. General Conference delivered his greeting. He said his branch of the church had increased 408,000 in the past four years and that the membership of the M. E. Church is 2,385,916.

M. E. Church is 2,385,316.

*The afternoon session was devoted almost exclusively to the strictest routine business. Prof. W. C. Goler, D. D., of Livingston College, responded to the fraternal greetings of Dr. Wilson of the M. E. Conference in Omaha, Nebraska. Devotional exercises occupied nearly two hours of the afternoon session.

In the evening a few short addresses were made, but no business appertaining to the Conference was transacted. In the conference the election of bishops, which has beet fixed for Thursday, is the all-important topic of conversation. It has been definitely decided to elect two bishops. Rev. George, B. Young, of the M. E. Church, explained the situation vesterday as follows: "The whole fight is on whether Pittsburg or New York gets a bishop. New York has a bishop now and wants another in the person of Rev. Mr. Walton, who is a young man. At present there is no bishop in Pittsburg and St. Louis, and there is great need of one here. Elder J. Holliday, of Pittsburg, a preacher al-ready famous all over the country, is being pushed for the place. We need a bishop here to look after the great colored popula tion in the Ohio Valley, and the election of a New York man will not make any change

"Elder Holliday became famous in 1870, when he saved the Zion Conference of Kentucky from going into the A. M. E. Church. He made a great record in Indianapolis, where he took hold of the followers of Dixon in their great exodus from North Carolina, and took care of them. He is a great financier and a church builder. Every church he ever took hold of he has placed in good condition, and he has built churches in this city and in Johnstown. Within the next eight years I believe all branches of Methodism will be united, and he would be au able man to take part in making such a union. Four out of the six Bishops are in

SMALLPOX IN LAWRENCEVILLE.

John Chalwick Has a Mild Case, but Will Go to the Pest-House, Another case of smallpox has been discovered in Lawrenceville. Yesterday morning John Chalwick, who lives on Lafayette alley, near Thirty-seventh street, sent for a neighboring physician to treat what he supposed was an extremely malignant case of chickenpox, but which the doctor pronounced a mild case of varioloid.

City Physician Dr. J. Guy McCandless was notified, and last night visited the patient and confirmed the doctor's diagnosis. Chalwick was vaccinated, as were other members of the household, this probably accounting for the mild form of the disease. To be on the safe side, however, Dr. McCaudless ordered that the man be removed to the pest-house, and he will be taken there to-day. None of the other members of the household show symptoms of the disease.
