

WITHOUT A WARNING

Death Calls on Senator Barbour and Claims Him for His Own.

SICK LESS THAN TEN MINUTES.

General Raun's Side of the Pension Office Scandal to Come Next.

A VERY FAULTY CENSUS SYSTEM, OURS

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Without any apparent suffering and after a brief illness of only 10 minutes Senator John S. Barbour, Virginia's junior representative in the United States Senate, passed quietly away at his residence in this city at a little after 6 o'clock this morning.

The only person present at his bedside when he died were his sister-in-law, Miss Dangerfield, Colonel Sheard, of Virginia, a guest at the house and the domestics, the doctor, who had been hastily summoned when the Senator first aroused the household and told them of his illness, arriving after the doctor's arrival.

When the death became known it caused widespread sorrow, for there were few men better known than General Rowley. He was born in the town of Liberty in 1807, and all his life was spent here.

He enlisted during the Mexican War and was made Second Lieutenant of Company A, known as the "Jackson Blues."

After dinner some callers dropped in, among them the Justices of the Supreme Court, and after that the Senate adjourned.

Death Comes in Great Haste. This morning shortly before 6 o'clock Miss Dangerfield, who slept in a room across the hall from the one occupied by the Senator, was awakened by the Senator knocking at her door and requesting her to send for the doctor at once, as he felt an oppression in his throat and chest, as if he was going to have the croup.

The Senator's Political Power. Senator Barbour was at one time Chairman of the Democratic State Committee of Virginia, and was known to be a man of great political genius and an organizer of rare ability.

His funeral services will be held in the Senate chamber Monday afternoon, after which the remains will be removed to Poplar Hill, Va., for interment.

A FAULTY CENSUS SYSTEM. Members of Congress kept far too many incompetents in office.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The Census Office investigation was resumed today by James A. Collins, of the farms, loans and mortgage division of the Census Office, was asked if he knew of any mismanagement or waste of funds of the division.

Another Investigation Called For. WASHINGTON, May 14.—A resolution was introduced in the House today by Representative Stone, of Kentucky, providing for the appointment of a special committee of five to investigate the affairs of the Freedman's Bank and the Freedman's Trust Company.

Millions for Sugar Bonanza. WASHINGTON, May 14.—The testimony on the part of the prosecution in the Raun investigation was practically closed this morning, when the committee adjourned to meet Monday, May 23.

DEATH

BULL.—On Friday, May 13, 1892, at 11:30 p. m. GEORGE WILSON, infant son of George H. Wilson, Carrie Bell, aged 1 year 1 month 12 days.

DOUGLASS.—On Saturday, May 14, 1892, at 6:30 a. m. Mrs. MARY M. DOUGLASS, in the 23d year of her age.

ANOTHER GENERAL GONE. Thomas A. Rowley Dies Suddenly at His Webster Avenue Home—Heart Failure the Cause—Record of One of America's Most Brilliant Generals.

Shortly before 5 o'clock yesterday morning General Thomas Algeo Rowley died from heart failure, at the home of his son, 383 Webster avenue. He died alone and just at dawn his son found the general sitting dead at the side of his bed.

When the death became known it caused widespread sorrow, for there were few men better known than General Rowley. He was born in the town of Liberty in 1807, and all his life was spent here.

He enlisted during the Mexican War and was made Second Lieutenant of Company A, known as the "Jackson Blues."
