STRYCHNIA FOR EIGHT

Done Up in Long Pills and Given to Two Young Women in London.

THE MURDERER STILL AT LARGE.

And No Effort to Capture Him Is Likely to Be Made by the Police.

ACCUSED OF ANOTHER POISONING

IBY CABLE TO THE DISPATCH 1

LONDON, May 14 .- [Copyright.]-Just month ago Alice Marsh and Emma Shrivell, two young women of decent family and loose morals, were found dying in their lodgings in Stamford street, Blackfriars. They lived just long enough to state that a mysterious person, whom they knew as George Clifton, gave them "three long pills," and that they became ill immediately after taking them. A post mortem examination proved that each pill contained three grains of strychnine, so that the girls actually swallowed, between them, nine grains of deadly poison, or sufficient to kill at least seven or eight persons. There is no room for doubt that these young women were foully and deliberately murdered, and a mass of circumstantial evidence points to the conclusion that George Clifton was the murderer; but although this man, who is in apparently good social position, was seen in the girls' company upon more than one occasion and by quite half a dozen persons, and although the police have in their possession a letter written by him to Miss Marsh, dated from the Hotel at Chatham, he is still at large.

Accused of Another Murder. The probabilities are that he will never be arrested, except possibly in connection with some tresh crime. It is believed that he murdered a girl named Ellen Donworth, who was found dying in a tavera near Stamford street, last October, from the eifects of strychnine and morphine given to her in a glass of wine by a casual acquaint-ance answering the description.

London newspapers have reported, in perfunctory fashion, a frequently adjourned namest on the Stamford street victims, but they have quite failed to grasp the fact that there is at this moment at large in this big city another atrocious criminal, differing from the Whitechapel fiend only in his methods of work. London newspapers seem to require blood and mutilation to stimulate them into appreciation of a great crime.

From a Medical Point of View. The British Medical Journal to-day, commenting on the case from a medical point of

It has been suggested that the pills were really capsules, a supposition not improbable. If so, they must surely have been either prepared by the person himself or by some pharmaceutical chemist. If by a chemist, he would probably have been told that the strychnine was to poison a horse or some animal. Should a chemist have received such an order it is his bounden duty to come forward and assist in the discovery of the criminal. Capsules are difficult to prepare by amateurs. It takes a knowledge of pharmacy and some little skill. But whether the long pills were really capsules, or whether they were bulky pills prepared by hands unaccustemed to pill making and therefore deviating considerably from ordinary pills in shape, he who prepared them had a considerable store of strychnine and a knowledge of its effect. Such a knowledge argues no special medical strychnine and a knowledge of the calculation of the calculation, for arsenic, phosphorus, laudanum, carbolic acid, oxalic acid and strychnine.

name, carbolic acid, oxanic acid and stryon-nine are known by every one to be poisons. The very largeness—the unnecessary large-ness of the dose, indeed—rather argues against the doctor theory. A doctor knows very well that a dose of over a grain is fatal, and would not be likely to give nine times that amount.

COMMON SENSE.

This Is Plain, Practical, Tangible Common Sense, Not Written for Advertising Purposes Simply,

But Directed to the Reason and Reflection of Thinking, Intelligent Readers-See if This Has Not Been Your Experience, and if It Has, Profit by the Lesson It Conveys-A Little Frank and Straightforward Talk.

The following are a few words to sensible, thinking people. They are addressed to those who have been troubled more or less for years with catarrhal affections of the head, throat or They are words of sound counsel and disinterested advice, quite apart from any question of the space they occupy as an ad-ertisement. In 99 cases out of 100 catarrh is directly or In 99 cases out of 100 catarrh is directly or indirectly the result of colds, which are more than liable to cause the original trouble to be converted into consumption.

The season of the year most favorable for the successful treatment of catarrh is the season when the patient is less liable to take cold. That season is the early spring and summer.

Nature then lends her aid to the work of the physician. Nature then assists the progress of the patient, withholds the influences which cause and increase the disease, and affords a fair opportunity for complete recovery.

This is simple, sound, stneere and straight-

This is simple, south, sincer and stagger forward advice.

The time for you to take treatment for any catarrhal difficulty is now.

Now you may obtain a result in two or three months that you might not obtain in nine months, by a treatment continued through the severe weather of trying winters.

Climatic conditions favorable for a com-Climatic conditions favorable for a complete and absolute cure are now present.

Time and time again we have advised patients in desperate stages of extarrh to wait until the spring and summer before taking treatment. Time and again we have urged the necessity of taking regular and systematic treatment, and obtaining relief while the favorable temperature and while the favorable temperature and the stage of taking regular and the stage of taking regular and systematic treatment, and obtaining relief while the favorable temperature and weather render such a result possible and comparatively easy.

In presenting this matter to sensible, thinking men and women we cannot speak too strongly.

This is without doubt the proper time to place yourself under treatment and obtain a cure.

We know positively that year after year, as winter comes on, and colds and sore throats bring on an argravated condition of your malady, you begin to fear pneumonia and consumption, and hurriedly place yourself under medical treatment. You struggle through the severe winter storms and trying weather of the winter continually under a doctor's care continually graphling.

ing weather of the winter continually under a doctor's care—continually grumbling about doctor's bills.

Then, when summer comes on and your trouble grows less aggravated you straightway neglect it completely and enjoy such comfort as your condition will permit.

You grumble over the doctor's bills you had to pay during the winter.

Of course you do!

You blame the doctor for not having entirely cured you.

Of course you do!
You blame the dector for not having entirely cursed you.
Of course you do!
You never stop to think for a moment of the fact that, beyond all peradventure, he has not been more than fortunate in keeping you alive to enjoy the spring once more.
You never stop to think how you have made him work during the long dreary months under conditions most difficult and discouraging to him.
No! Now that the spring is here, with its sunshine upon you, and the disease does not cause you serious trouble, you immediately neglect yourself utterly and wait for another winter to come with its same old round of colds, sore throats, aggravated extarrh, wearisome and discouraging treatment and nasatisfactory results.
Now, be fair! Be reasonable! Be sensible! One month's treatment now is worth three months in winter. Two or three months now will in all probability completely cure your trouble, make you sound and well and leave you in such a condition that when next winter does come no treatment will be necessary: the doctor's bill will not be an oft recurring incident; grip, pneumonia, consumption and similar lils will have no opportunity to obtain a foothold, and you will enjoy that greatest of all tolessings ever yet given to man—good health.

A BE TER'S STORY.

For Seventeen Years He Never Experienced the Enjoyment Derived From Breathing

Through His Nostrills. Mr. John G. McDonald, a heater at Clark's Solar Iron Works, and who resides at No. 1093 Forty-fourth street, says: "For seventeen long years I never knew what it was to draw a breath of air through either nostril, although I had consulted many doctors and paid enormous doctor bills. No doctor o tell me what ailed me until I consulted Drs. tell me what ailed me until I consulted Dra-Copeland, Hail and Byers. After a thorough examination they informed me that my nostrils were filled with gelatinous polypil, which clogged up the channels to such an extent that breathing was impossible—that this was the cause of all the distressing head, throat and stomach symptoms of which I also complained.

Mr. John G. McDonald, 1095 Forty-Fourth street Mr. John G. McDonald, 1995 Forty-Fourth street.

"I had suffered so many years, and had applied in valu for relief to so many doctors, that I doubted their diagnosis, until they removed from my nostrils 18 little tumors, after which I could breathe as well as anyone. No one can appreciate the relief I felt and the gratitude I owe these skillful gentlemen, and every night I pray God to bless them and prosper them for the relief they are affording suffering humanity.

"I could not sleep at night, could not eat for my stomach trouble, was sick all the time with pain in my head, ringing in my ears, watering and burning of my eyes, pains through my shoulders and stomach, so you may know what I passed through. Since undergoing a course of treatment with Drs. Copeland, Hall and Byers, all these distressing symptoms have left me, and I have gained 29 pounds in fless. I heartily recommend them to my friends and the public, and will be pleased to see and talk with anyone who doubts the truthfulness of this statement."

Copeland, Hall and Byers.
Only one of these writers had a personal examination, and all were treated by means of our home treatment. All three cases were of marked severity. The former, Mrs. John Shore, had a marked case of Bronchial Asthma, with a tendency to bronchial con-sumption, with all its distressing symptoms. Mr. J. P. Growall's principal aliment was a continual and annoving ringing noise in his ears, while Mr. Williamson suffered in-ensely from agonizing neuralgic aches and Persons who are afflicted with catarrh in any torm or with any chronic malady would do well to profit by the lesson conveyed in

Mrs. John Shore, No. 774 Presqueisle St. Youngstown, Ohio, Suffered for Years With Bronchial Asthma, Which Was Fast Developing Into Consumption, "I take pleasure," writes Mrs. Shore's husband, "in informing you that my wife has improved wonderfully since she began your reatment. She has been able to eat her FURNISHED FREE.

meals regularly, her cough has improved, and she has gained about ten pounds in weight. She is able to sleep all night now, without coughing, where before she had to be propped up to get her breath. Her general health is greatly improved, and she is able to take a walk every day. I do not know how to thank you for your skill in doing her so much good in so short a time."

RINGING NOISES IN EARS. Mr. J. P. Growall, of A. Growall & Co., Carpenters and Builders, Rockwood, Pa.,

Writes the Following Letter to Drs. Copeland, Hall and Byers. "I am happy to say to you that I feel 100 per cent better than I did last fall. The ringing in my left ear is about gone; by spells I do not notice it at all. My head is spells I do not notice it at all. My head is clear, memory good, and the dizziness all gone. My whole system is again in good health. Am breathing once more through my nostrils, which I could not do last fall, and realize that of all God's blessings there is none like good health. I thank you for the interest manifested in my case, and have recommended a gentleman, whose case is similar to mine, to try a course of your treatment."

CATABRHAL DEAFNESS.

A Young Lady Who Formerly Could Not Hear the Screech of a Locomotive, Can Now Distinguish Ordinary Conversation.

Now Distinguish Ordinary Conversation.

"I want to tell you how greatly my hearing has improved, if you will not publish my name," said a young lady this week to Drs. Copeland, Hail and Byers. "You know I live out of town a few miles. Well, my hearing was so impaired I could not hear the locomotive when it blew for the station, and my mother would not let me visit the city alone, for fear I would be run over and killed. Now I can distinguish ordinary conversation, and I can not tell you how happy I am. You can refer any one to me for the truthfuiness of the above, but I do not want my name published."

The young lady's case was one of the most stubborn that ever came under our observation, and filustrates what can be done by continuous and persistent treatment in chronic ear trouble. The reason so few patients afflicted with ringing noises and partial deafness never fully recover, is because they grow tired and impatient, and will not give a physician sufficient time to benefit them. Of all catarrhal symptoms, the ear complications are the most difficult to relieve, but they can be oured if patients only have the pluck this young lady had.

PAINS ALL GONE,

PAINS ALL GONE, Mr. C. W. Williamson, Foxburg, Ps., Suffered From Pains in Head, Nose and

Mr. Williamson makes the following state ment by letter: "I had been troubled a long time with neuralgic pains shooting through my head, nose and chest, which caused at times the most intense suffering. caused at times the most intense suitering.

Besides this I had catarrh of the stomach, which, because of frequent bilious attacks it produced, kept me in an all-run-down condition. I am happy to inform you that my pains are all gone, and that I am gaining in strength, my appetite is restored, and I have no stitches through to my shoulder biade like I had."

COUGHED FOR SEVENTY YEARS.

Remarkable Statement of Mr. Thomas Carson, an Old Fayette County Farmer. Mr. Thomas Carson, a farmer near Layton station, B. & O. R. B., furnishes for publication the following remarkable statement "I am 74 years old," says Mr. Carson, "and have coughed all my life, until the present time, since taking a thorough course of catarrhal treatment from Drs. Copeland Hall and Byers. "Besides this annoying cough I had all the head symptoms I ever read of as accom-pan ving this catarrhal affection, viz.: dull heavy feeling and pain over eyes and through the temples, nostrils clogged up first one side and then the other, a constant kept the throat sore and raw all the time. My ears became involved, and I had a continual roaring and buzzing in them, with dizziness, spots before eyes, etc., etc.

"Through all this local trouble my general health kept reasonably good, which the doctors attributed to my healthful outdoors work and regularity of living.

"Since I have got rid of this annoying head trouble I feel as young as anybody, and can jump up and kick my heels together as many times as any young men in my neighborhood. Seriously, I feel that if Dra. Copland, Hall and Byers can work such a change in a man of my age, there is no limit to the possibilities of their treatment, and I heartily indorse them and their method of treatment to all my friends and the public. I have known their Dr. Byers ever since he was a baby, 40 years ago, and his father (Dr. Byers, of Monongaheia City) 30 years before that."

as it Affects the System and the General Health.

Those who have read the pro icles of Drs. Copeland, Hall and Byers week after week are aware how they have gradu ally educated intelligent readers to not only recognize their peculiar ailments, but the different phases of such allments. They have taught the people what they have never understood before—that catarrh means omething else besides a stopped-up condition of the nose and throat. That frontal headache, neuralgia, confusion of ideas, roaring in the ears, dizziness, etc., are due to catarrh of the head. That sore throat, cough, hoarseness or en-That sore throat, cough, hoarseness or en-tire loss of voice, bronchitis, asthma, chronic pneumonia, etc., are catarrhal con-ditions of those parts.

That dyspepsia, indigestion, heartburn, water brash, nausea, fetid breath, palpita-tion or fluttering of the heart, shortness of breath, vertigo, alternate diarrhœa and con-stipation, bloated-up condition, piles, etc., result from the catarrh of the stomach and bowels.

result from the catarrh of the stomach and bowels.

That diabetes, Bright's disease, retention, or incontinence, murky fluid, etc., follow catarrh of the kidneys and bladder. In fact, catarrh affects more or less all the nucous surfaces of the entire body, causing at times severe local neuralsic or rheumatic pains.

The success of Drs. Copeland, Hall and Byers has been simply marvelous. The wonderful increase in the number of patients is the strongest testimony to the ability of these physicians. They need noother. If these do not convince, nothing can.

Now that all can get out of doors and take a regular course of treatment there should be no one willing to suffer longer with Catarrh when a positive cure is insured through the skill, ability and experience of those noted specialists, combined with faithful compliance on the part of the patient.
