REDUCTIONS IN THE APPROPRIATIONS

WASHINGTON, May 19.-The free silver men were greatly disappointed to-day, when the Chairman of the committee of the whole sustained the point of order against Mr. Bland's amendment, and their disappointment was renewed when the Chairman also decided a modified amendment out of order. The decision left many of the silver men in an angry mood.

The third party received recognition this morning, and Mr. Watson, of Georgia, sent up to the clerk's desk and had read the terse resolution "That the Committee on Ways and Means be requested to report the sub-Treasury bill." He asked unanimous consent for its consideration, but Mr. Beltzhoover's demand for the "regular order" operated as an objection. After a fruitless call of committees the House went into committee of the whole, Mr. Lester, of Georgia, in the chair, on the sundry civil bill. The Chair delivered his decision on the point of order made against the amend-ment offered by Mr. Bland yesterday, for the coinage of all silver bullion purchased and now in the Treasury into standard silver dollars, the cost of coinage to be paid out of the seigniorage or gain to the Government, the remainder of the seigniorage to be covered into the Treasury.

The Amendment Euled Out,

It was conceded, said the Chair, that the amendment changed existing law, and therefore it would not be in order unless, being germane, it reduced the amount covered by the bill. The clause in the bill related to the recoinners of shraded minor coins: the amendment to the coinage of the standard silver dollar.

The Chair was unable to see how the amendment was germane to the subject mat-ter of the clause. Did it reduce the amounts covered by the bill? The mere fact that it struck from the bill the appropriation of $100,000 for the recoinage of minor coins did not reduce the amounts, because it appropriated the seigniorage, which might amount to $2,000,000. It did not reduce the amounts covered by the bill, and might increase ex-penditures. He sustained the point of order and ruled out the amendment. Mr. Bland then reoffered his amendment, with the proviso attached to it "that the cost of this coinage shall not exceed $95,000, $5,000 of which shall be for the coinage subsidiary silver and $90,000 for standard silver dollars." Mr. Bland said that he attached the proviso to the amendment in order to remove the objection of the Chair that it did not reduce the amounts covered by the bill.

A Curtain Lecture for the Dems.

Considerable discussion followed, finally Mr. Pierce, of Tennessee, led the debate away from the dry point of order and proceeded to read a lecture to his Demo-cratic colleagues. What, he asked, had come over the spirit of the dream of the Democratic party? Was it going to back down and go back on its record? A similar amendment to the one now presented had been offered by Mr. Bland to a similar clause in the sundry civil bill of last year. It had been ruled out, and an appeal had been taken. On sustaining the Chair, the vote stood-yens, 134; nays, 127. Of the 127 negative votes, but 9 were cast by Republi-cans. Many of the Democrats who had voted nay then were on the floor to-day, and he had seen them stand up and vote the other way. What had broncht about the other way. What had brought about the great change? Was this consistency? The people could not be deceived by any

The Chair said that he had heard nothing to change his opinion that the amendment was not germane, and he therefore ruled the mendment, as modified, out of order. Mr. Bland appealed from the decision, but the committee sustained the decision of the Chair by a vote of 120 to 75.

Not Free Silver, but Brass. Mr. Johnson, of Indiana, in speaking to a verbal amendment, ridiculed the Demo-cratic party for its action on the silver question. He was several times interrupted by points of order that his remarks, were not relavent to the pending question, but he managed to make himself heard, and stated that he wanted to give the Democrats free silver.

Mr. Cooper, of Indiana, who had just en-tered the hall, suggested that the metal that the gentleman was presenting was not sil-ver, but brass. [Laughter.] Mr. Johnson replied that he had supposed that he gentleman was built of that his colleague was hunting General Raum around the Pension Office with his little hatchet. [Laughter.] Continuing, Mr. Johnson said that the Democrats had let pass four occasions on which they might have redeemed their free silver pledge. The last occasion was to-day, when they might have reversed the decision of the Chair. True, to do so they would have to reverse what they knew to be technically party scrupling as to the means it used to attain an end?

Mr. Porter Needs Some Spare Cash. Mr. Cogswell, of Massachusetts, offered an amendment appropriating $1,016,455 for continuing the work of the eleventh CENSUS.

Mr. Sayers, of Texas, raised the point of order that this appropriation belonged to the general deficiency bill; but Mr. Ding-ley argued that it was in no respect a de-folorer ficiency. The Chair (Mr. Hatch) overruled the point of order. On a standing vote the amendment was defeated by a large ma-jority-Mr. Revburn, of Pennsylvania, voting with the Democrats against it. Tellers were ordered, and the Republicans, having refrained from voting, left the committee without a quorum.

The roll was called and 182 members re-sponded to their names. When the tellers resumed their places the quorum vanished and another roll call was ordered, but before its completion an amicable arrange-ment was effected, the further call was dispensed with, the amendment was rejected, the committee rose, and the House adiourned.

To Cut River and Harbor Appropriations, In the Senate to-day Mr. McPherson gave notice that when the river and harbor appropriation bill should be brought before the Senate for consideration he would move to recommit it to the Committee on Comwith such amendments as will exclude from it all authorization for new contracts for

It all authorization for new contracts for material and work; and as well, also, pro-portionately reduce by 50 per cent the en-tire amount appropriated. The officers so detailed are not to be subject to loss of pay or rank on account of such de-tail. The bill exempting American coast-wise vessels piloted by their licensed masters or by a United States pilot from the obligation to pay State pilots for services not rendered was taken up. Mr. Butler offered an amendment repealing such parts of the navigation laws as prevent the pur-chase by citizens of the United States of ships in foreign countries and their right to American registry and to fly the American

Important Navigation Legislation. Mr. Frye moved to lay the amendment on the table, and Mr. Butler asked the yeas and nays on that motion. The motion was
